Miss Alcorn Becomes Bride Of Mr. Hardesty In August Ceremony

Eva Susan Alcorn and Kristofer Scott Hardesty, both of Greensboro, N.C., were united in marriage August 17.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy G. Alcorn of Greensboro, formerly of Brentwood, Tenn. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Hardesty, Greensboro, formerly of Grantsville.

The Rev. William D. Varker officiated at the 3:30 p.m. ceremony held at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Greensboro.

A musical program was presented by Mrs. Carol Burnett, organist. A vocal trio consisting of Carla, Mark and John Cornett of Appalachia, Va., cousins of the bride, sang "The Wedding Song" with Mark accompanying on the guitar; cellist Stefanie Vaughn played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," and soloist Christopher Begley of Hazard, Ky., cousin of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the wedding ceremony.

The church was decorated with candelabra, fern and greenery with floral decorations of white gladoli, snapdragons, Fuji mums and carnations in shades of lavender and pink with white.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white gown of organza enhanced with a Queen Anne neckline and fitted sleeves. The bodice of peau d'ange was accented with Venise lace, seed pearls and iridescents. The natural waistline led to a full bouffant skirt with flowing ruffles sweeping to a chapel train. Her fingertip, scalloped illusion veil caught in a tiara cap of lace and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, lavender freesia and baby's breath.

Miss Katherine Rogers, Appalachia, Va., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Laura Lee, Greensboro, and Kenlee Taylor, Kernersville, N.C., sister of the groom. The bridal attendants wore identical floor-length dresses of violet taffeta with tulip sleeves and sheer lace yoke rising to a mandarin collar of lace. The maid of honor carried a cascading floral banquet in lavender, pink and white, and the bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets in the same colors.

Lindsay Mabe, Appalachia, Va., cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Her dress was made of silk organza in blending shades of lavender. She carried a small white and lavender basket with white rose petals.

Geoffrey Bender, Accident, served as best man. Groomsmen were Jonathan Alcorn, Winston-Salem, N.C., brother of the bride, and Timothy Taylor, Kernersville, N.C., brother-in-law of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Alcorn chose a tea-length dress of pink chiffon with long sleeves and full pleated skirt. Her flowers were pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Hardesty selected a blue taffeta tea-length dress with matching jacket. Her flowers were pink mini carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. The hall was decorated with summer flowers and tall palms. Finger foods were served along with the bridal cake and groom's cake.

For their wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the bride was attired in a white skirt and teal sweater complemented by a white rose corsage.

The bride attends the University of North Carolina in Greensboro, and the groom is employed by Mark Manufacturing Corporation of Greensboro.

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK is celebrated in many ways by Garrett County 4-H clubs. Some clubs attend church together as a way to begin the week, while other clubs make posters, put displays in store windows, or promote 4-H during Garrett County's Autumn Glory Festival. The Monte Vista 4-H Club does its part by selling funnel cakes during the festival. Pictured above getting their equipment together and going over the recipe are Monte Vista members (left to right) Pam Evans, club treasurer; Pam Gnegy, secretary; and Lori Dodge, president. The club has been selling funnel cakes during Autumn Glory for five years from their location in front of the Extension Office on Third Street in Oakland. Hillsman's Towne Restaurant in Oakland is just one area business establishment helping to promote National 4-H Week by using placemats with a 4-H message. Pictured below is George Hillsman, left, owner of the Towne Restaurant, accepting the placemats from 4-H members Tim Kepple, Pam Evans, and Lori Dodge. The Autumn Glory parade will include floats made by The Shepherds 4-H Club and The North Star 4-H Club, and 14 members representing three clubs, Grantsville, Monte Vista and Swanton, will also march in the parade carrying the maple leaves that announce the winning floats. Any youth between the ages of nine and 19, who are interested in joining a 4-H club, should call the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-2145 for information.

Yoder School Teacher Honored For Her Efforts In Literature

by Esther Bender

A Garrett County Teacher, Ada Schrock, was awarded the first Advocate of Children's Literature Award given by the Education Department of Frostburg State College in conjunction with their 1985 Children's Literature Conference on May 3-4.

When Ada Schrock was invited to sit with Maryland authors, Cynthia Voight and Nancy Patz, at the head table at the concluding luncheon of the conference, she did not know that she was to receive the award. After the surprise presentation, Ms. Schrock questioned, "What did I do to deserve this?"

Dr. William Bingman, who was responsible for arrangements for the conference said, "Ada Schrock was chosen because she uses literature every day in her classroom. She has had a lifelong love of literature. One can tell just by being around her."

Dr. Bingman further said that when poet and anthologist, Lee Bennett Hopkins, visited Ms. Schrock's classroom at Yoder School, he was amazed at the knowledgeable questions which her students asked.

Ada Schrock has been a teacher at Yoder School for 19 years. She teaches literature to her fourth-fifth-sixth grade homeroom and to the seventh and eighth grades. When Ada won the award, parents and friends from Yoder School contributed $80 to be used for library books in her honor. The selections Ada chose will be shown at P.T.A. this month.

Ada was a guest speaker at the annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English in Cincinnati, Ohio in 1980. Again, in 1982, she spoke on the subject of "Reading for Real in a Rural School" at Ohio State University's Festival of Children's Literature. Ms. Schrock studied under Dr. Charlotte Huck, author of "Children's Literature in the Elementary School," while on sabbatical from Garrett County schools in 1978. Her friendship with Dr. Huck led to the speaking engagements.

Ada's interest in literature has led her to become acquainted with a number of well-known authors and poets, among them Nancy Larrick, Madeleine L'Engle, Charlotte Zolotwo, and Myra Cohn Livingston, recipient of the 1980 Award for Excellence in Poetry for Children. Last summer, she visited Elizabeth Yates, Newberry Award Winner, in her New Hampshire home. Ms. Schrock had done some creative writing in response to Ms. Yate's book. When Ada gave it to her, this so pleased Ms. Yates that she had it placed in the library along with other related materials.

Ada received her B.A. degree in Goshen College, Goshen, Ind. She taught at Iowa Mennonite School for eight years before returning to this area where she grew up.

Now nearing retirement, Ada looks forward to someday doing volunteer work. "It would have to be working with people," she said. "I really like meeting people." Her warm smile proves it.

Ada is a member of Garrett County Teachers' Association and the National Council of Teachers of English.

Recognized As Fuel Safety Technician

Paul A. Buchanan, PAB home inspection and consultant, Cumberland, has been recognized as a Solid Fuel Safety Technician by the Wood Heating Education and Research Foundation (WHERF). The Solid Fuel Safety Technician program is designed to upgrade the skills of professionals who advise consumers on the proper method of installing, operating, and maintaining wood heaters.

The national program, under the auspices of the Wood Heating Education and Research Foundation, was designed by representatives from the fire safety community, the insurance industry, Goverment officials, and the solid fuel heating industry in 1982. To date, over 2,500 technicians have successfully completed the program.

Program applicants received a Solid Fuel Safety Technician Study Manual, a comprehensive text covering all aspects of wood-fuel appliance installation and maintenance. State of the art information is presented on how to avoid safety hazards in the installation and use of wood-fueled heaters including information on building codes and appliance standards. The emphasis is on understanding sources of problems and avoiding safety hazards.

After successfully passing the examination, proctored by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey, the technician receives a three-year certificate recognizing achievements.

WHERF was assisted in developing the program by specialists from the National Fire Protection Association, The National Bureau of Standards, the American Insurance Association, and representatives of the solid fuel heating industry.

Sarbanes Rep To Visit County

Senator Paul Sarbanes has announced that his Western Maryland representative will be in Oakland on Monday, October 21, and in Swanton and Friendsville on Tuesday, October 22, to seek citizens' views and assist with problems relating to the Federal Government.

"I have asked Mrs. Nina Conway, my Western Maryland representative to be available to meet with concerned citizens and report to me the views of Western Maryland residents about current national issues and the difficulties they may be having with Federal agencies," Senator Sarbanes said.

THE BEAUTY OF AUTUMN GLORY was not just in Garrett County's beautiful leaves, parades and displays, but on the faces of children like this young lady, who had an opportunity to ride a float in the Grand Feature Parade in Oakland on Saturday. Possibly the largest crowd ever, estimated to be several thousand, was on hand to enjoy the parade and sunny, fall weather. The four-day, 18th annual festival, which is coordinated by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, concluded on Sunday.

Board Accepts Three Proposals For Impasse

The Garrett County Board of Education has accepted three of the seven recommendations made by a mediator to resolve the impasse between the board and the Garrett County Federation of Teachers, which represents custodial supervisors and cafeteria managers.

Approximately 20 members of the GCFT were present at the board meeting last Thursday afternoon to support the recommendations of mediator Jerome H. Ross.

After an executive session, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County Superintendent of Schools, announced that the board had agreed to accept the following recommendations: a six percent salary increase, which would be retroactive to the beginning of the fiscal year where it is applicable; one additional holiday, which will be President's Day; and no change in the current level of benefits.

The four recommendations not accepted by the board, include the arbitration of grievances by a neutral third party, discipline and discharge only for just cause, bargaining unit vacancies to be offered to bargaining unit employees prior to seeking outside applicants, and involuntary transfers not to be used as discipline and not to be made without just cause.

Ryscavage said the last four recommendations were turned down in an "attempt to treat all personnel and staff fairly."

The superintendent stated that the three approved items would be included in the board's policies and regulations manual for classified employees, and would be the only changes in that manual for the year.

A spokesman for the Garrett County Federation of Teachers stated that the GCFT plans to appeal the action by the board to the State Board.

Another item on the agenda of the board meeting was a re-

Steep Slope Bill Comes Up In General Assembly Special Session

A special session of the Maryland General Assembly was called by Governor Harry Hughes, and began at 10 a.m. today. During the session both the House of Delegates and the Senate will vote on about 100 bills which were vetoed this spring by the governor, among them the controversial steep slope mining bill.

The steep slope bill (HB-466 and SB-230), which would permit coal to be mined on slopes of 20 degrees or more, passed in both the House of Delegates and the Senate by large margins last spring. The governor, however, vetoed the bill because of his concerns for the environment and because he was not convinced that steep slope mining would create increased employment in Western Maryland.

The bill was sponsored last January by five of the six Garrett and Allegany county lawmakers. But, one of the bill's co-sponsors in the Senate, Sen. Victor Cushwa (D-Allegany-Wash.), says that now he has changed his mind and will vote to retain the governor's veto.

"I was one of the original co-sponsors," Sen. Cushwa said. "I now think the governor's veto message made sense. We're asking everybody else to tighten up on soil erosion and clean up the streams. Why loosen up for coal companies? Everybody needs to bite the bullet.

"Now I know that there's not one mine in my district. But I think I made a mistake on my vote during session," the District 2-A senator said.

Until Cushwa's support of the governor's veto, the only local lawmaker to vote against the steep slope bill was Del. William B. Byrnes (D-Allegany).

Cushwa was one of the original co-sponsors for SB-230 along with Sen. John N. Bambacus (R-Garrett-Allegany) and Sen. John W. Deer (R-Wash.-Frederick). Bambacus said the senate bill was amended last winter to better protect residents and exclude from steep slope mining most of the George's Creek valley while helping the coal industry which is beset with a decreasing market.

Besides Sen. Bambacus, other local steep slope supporters are Del. Timothy Finan (D-Allegany), Del. Casper R. Taylor, (D-Allegany-Wash.), and Del. George C. Edwards (R-Garrett-Allegany).

If a total of three-fifths of the lawmakers in the General Assembly vote to override the governor's veto, the steep slope measure can become law.

Comptroller Says GCC's FTE Rate Up By Six Over Previous Year

The 1985 fall enrollment figures have been compiled at Garrett Community College and that institution is running six full-time equivalencies (FTE) above last year's, according to college comptroller, John Culp, who reported his findings at a meeting of the GCC Board of Trustees Tuesday evening.

Culp stated that the fall enrollment headcount showed 214 fulitime students and 342 part-time students, showing a total headcount of 556 students. He said that although the headcount was 13 less than last fall, it showed a decrease of only 2.3%. The average decrease in headcount in community college's statewide is 5%.

The FTE rate is based on a formula consisting of payable FTEs, West Virginia reciprocity and out-of-state enrollment. This year's total FTE rate stands at 213.56, while last year's stood at 207.58.

The comptroller also announced that GCC had only spent 22% of its total budget, running 3% lower than if it has been spent evenly as in the past. Culp contributed the lower percentage to more carefully monitored spending.

Chairman of the board, Katharine Smith reported that the audtiors would finish their annual report by November 1 and that their findings would be announced at the next board meeting.

Campus Security

Dr. David Puzzuoli, interim president, told the board Tuesday that for the purpose of safety and security, the total open-door policy at the college would be discontinued.

Puzzuoil stated that in the past the college doors were open seven days a week and noted the college's liability if an accident should occur while unauthorized persons were in the building at any time of the day or night.

The interim president stated that the new hours for the college would be 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and would remain closed from Friday at 6 p.m. until Monday morning. He said scheduling of activities during closed hours would have to go through the dean of academic affairs' office, Dr. Lillian Mitchell. Her office would then contact the maintenance supervisor, Bill Nedrow.

Puzzuoli said they still encouraged other groups to use the facility but that they must go through the proper channels to enjoy that privilege. He said it was also agreed that persons using the college after hours would be required to pay a $10 clean-up fee per hour, unless they cleaned the room they used themselves.

Philosophy, Goals

The GCC philosophy, mission and goals study committee is presently working on a refined edition of those statements, according to Puzzuoli.

"We hope to have the new edition of those statements

Evening High School Authorized By County Board Of Education

An evening high school program was authorized by action of the Garrett County Board of Education at its October 10 meeting.

The evening high school will provide the opportunity for persons, who have not completed their regular high school program, to take regular high school courses for credit. It will also enable them to work toward completing their graduation requirements and earn a regular Maryland High School diploma.

In recommending the evening high school to the Board for this action, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, pointed out that, although many counties in the state have evening school programs, this is a new expansion of educational opportunities for Garrett County. The evening high school provides an alternative for those persons who have found it necessary to seek employment before completing their high school requirements.

During this initial year, classes will be offered Mondays and Thursdays from 6 to 9:15 p.m. A person enrolled may earn from one to two and one-half credits this year. Classes will begin early in November and continue through June.

Courses will be selected based on student needs. Courses being considered at the present time are 12th grade English, a social studies elective or possibly U.S. history, a course in mathematics and Career/-Employability IV.

Career/Employability IV will be offered one hour each evening for one-half credit. In conjunction with this course eligible students may also earn up to one credit for supervised job training experience.

The courses are being offered without charge. A limited number of students enrolled in Career/Employability IV, who are certified by the Western Maryland Consortium for JTPA eligibility, may also be compensated for up to 20 hours per week for this job training experience at a private sector training site. This compensation would amount to $2.50 per hour. There will be no compensation for classroom instruction.

Persons interested in attending classes should contact the Evening High School Corrdinator, John Ledden, at the Central Office of the Board of Education by calling 334-8121 or 895-3163 or the principal of Northern High School at 895-8668 or of Southern High School at 334-9447.

Due to a special session of the Maryland General Assembly called by Governor Harry Hughes which began this morning, the meeting to discuss issues and problems concerning the Youghiogheny River, which was scheduled for 1 p.m. today, has been postponed until a later date.

Several of the officials who had been invited to the Yough meeting will be attending the special session of the legislature. Among those who had been invited were Senator John N. Bambacus, Delegate George Edwards, DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, Jan Nishida of the governor's office, members of the Youghiogheny River Association, and the Garrett County Commissioners.

A new date for the meeting will be announced by the commissioners in the near future.

County Officials Review, Revise DHMH Consent Order For Landfill

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners reviewed Tuesday the consent order mandated by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. Also present for the review were county attorney, Dwight W. Stover, roads administrator, Paul R. Shockey and county clerk, Robert J. Fousek.

The consent order, which should be given final approval within the week, has a two-fold purpose. The first is the continued operation and the eventual close-out of the county's Round Glade Landfill. The second purpose of the order is to locate, establish and develop operating procedures for a new landfill.

During Tuesday's review of the consent order, county officials noted points of clarification they felt the State Health Department needed to address. Stover also recommended an interpretation of ambiguous language used in the consent order.

In August, the State Health Department submitted to the county commissioners the first draft of the consent order. Then in September, the commissioners, in conjunction with Merchant McDonald, a consultant from the firm of Harris--Smariga Inc., submitted the county's proposal to the state. On October 7, the commissioners received the revised consent order from the state incorporating most of the changes the county officials proposed in September. At that time neither the county officials nor the engineering firm had sufficient time to review the revised consent order, so the commissioners requested an extension to give their approval of the order. The state granted the extension and were given until October 23 to return the order.

Fousek said he expects the order will be returned by next Wednesday. He also stated that once the commissioners sign the consent order it should be one and one-half to two years until the completion of the opening of the new landfill and the closing of the old one.

Consent Order Highlights

Early this week a copy of the consent order was released. Listed below are some of the highlights of the order.

-Within 90 calendar days of the execution of the consent order, the county must identify a site for a new landfill.

-Within the next 30 calendar days the county must acquire the option on the property identified for the new site. The county must exercise its option on the property within 90 days of approval of the site by the DHMH for construction of a landfill.

-Within the next 60 days the county must apply for a permit consistent with requirements of S9-210 of the Health-Environmental Article and COMAR 10.17.11.

-The permit application process must comply with the following schedule: (1) Submit the preliminary investigation and application within 60 days after acquiring an option on the property on which the refuse disposal facility will be installed. Additional time will be granted if inclement weather conditons prevail. (2) Submit a detailed geologic and hydrologic investigation draft report within 60 days of receiving DHMH approval of preliminary investigation. Additional time

"WHAT A GREAT PLACE to watch a parade!" might have been the thought of this youngster in downtown Oakland Saturday morning preceding the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade. Persons were lined ten-deep in some places along the streets, making the view for little people rather obstructed. It is unknown whether this young man remained on this perch for the parade, but at least he proved to himself he was a good pole climber.

The public hearing in Western Maryland on the Hospital Capacity Plan which was postponed in early October has been rescheduled for Thursday, October 24, at 7 p.m. at the Allegany Community College auditorium, according to a news release from Kery Hummel, executive director of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland.

Stanton, executive director of the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission, will be available to address concerns and answer questions for the press regarding the Hospital Capacity Plan.

Rabies Cases Reach Total Of 15 For Year

The confirmation on Tuesday by the Garrett County Health Department of another rabid raccoon brings the total of rabid animals in the county this year to 15.

The latest rabid raccoon was found fighting with a dog owned by Everett W. Brenneman at his home on Marsh Hill Road, near the Wisp ski area.

Brenneman heard the raccoon fighting with his dog at 4 a.m., Friday and was able to shoot the raccoon.

The animal was picked up by the health department that same day, and the positive confirmation from the lab was received by them on Tuesday.

Brenneman's dog had been vaccinated, and to be safe, the dog was re-vaccinated against rabies and will be observed for 90 days.

Health Officer Reminds Citizens Leaf Burning Causes Air Pollution

As leaves start drifting by windows, the thoughts of Garrett County residents generally turn to ways of getting rid of the red, yellow, and orange blanket that annually covers the area. However, the Garrett County Health Department warns that leaf burning is prohibited where public collection service is available. A public collection service consists of either a vacuum truck service or ordinary trash collecion service.

In presenting the case against leaf burning, Garrett County Health Officer, Dr. William W. Pope, emphasized that the smoke from burning leaves contains a high concentration (about one pound of air pollutant for every five pounds of leaves burned) of such pollutants as hydrocarbons, particulate matter, and carbon monoxide.

Because the leaf smoke is usually close to the ground, coupled with autumn weather patterns that prevent movement of the air, leaf smoke is more likely to be inhaled before it can dissipate, Pope said.

He noted that pollutants resulting from leaf burning can greatly aggravate the condition of persons suffering from respiratory disorders, and can cause eye and nose irritations, fever, coughing, and cramps in a healthy person. Additionally, the pollutants in the air can cause house paint to deteriorate, retard plant growth, injure shrubbery, and increase laundry and cleaning costs.

Other hazards of leaf burning include the increased risk of fires raging out of control, decreased visibility contributing to automobile accidents, and possible street and sidewalk damage, repairs for which are paid for by the tax dollars.

In areas where there are too many leaves to be collected, or where no collection is available, Dr. Pope suggests that citizens investigate using leaves for mulching, plowing, erosion control, and compost piles. These processes return needed nutrients to the soil, while efficiently eliminating the leaves.

Dr. Pope concluded his recommendations by stating that if collection services are not available, and other means of disposing of the leaves are ineffective, leaves originating on the premises can be burned by householders between the hours of 4 p.m. and midnight, if the fire is not closer than 200 feet to the nearest building, where people live, work, or congregate, and providing that no nuisance is created.

C&P Requests New 30¢ Charge

C&P Telephone Company of Maryland filed Tuesday with the Public Service Commission a tariff requesting a 30¢ charge, to be placed monthly on all business and residence dial tone line rates, effective November 1, 1985. The proposed charges may be reduced or refunded later by future regulatory action.

The filing was addressed by the Public Service Commission in its rate case decision on May 29, 1985. It is designed to generate $7.1 million in annual revenue which C&P says it will require due to an FCC-ordered shift in costs brought about by AT&T assuming responsibility for inquiries about customer long distance bills.

C&P has been handling such toll billing inquiries for AT&T, a function which has provided a subsidy for local telephone service. However, AT&T took over the toll inquiry function for business customers in Maryland on October 1, 1985, and will be assuming the function for residence customers by the end of the year. These actions will eliminate the subsidy.

While losing the subsidy from AT&T, C&P reports it still retains a large portion of the costs associated with performing account inquiry functions for its own services, and for other functions which customer service representatives perform. Through the separations process the federally-regulated process by which costs are allocated between the interstate and intrastate jurisdictions, certain costs allocated to interstate telephone service have now been shifted to intrastate, or local, telephone service.

In its rate request of August 29, 1984, C&P had proposed increasing rates to account for this anticipated shift in costs. However, in its May 29, 1985 decision, the PSC rejected the company's request and recommended, "At the time when the separations impact resulting from the loss of the (AT&T) account inquiry function is known and certain, the company may file with the Commission a proposal for a surcharge which reflects the revenue effect of the separations change."

The charge for Centrex will be 5¢ per line. This reflects the fact that Centrex network usage is about 1/6 of the average Dial Tone Line usage.

Bureau Of Mines Report For 1984 Shows Increase In Coal Production

The Maryland Bureau of Mines recently submitted its annual report to the office of Governor Harry Hughes of Maryland. This report, prepared by Director Anthony F. Abar, was for the calendar year 1984 and shows an increase in production of nearly one-million tons over the previous year.

The 1984 total of 3,993,299.82 tons of coal produced in Maryland represents an increase of 906,464.25 tons over 1983, and was mined in Garrett and Allegany counties, the only two coal-producing counties in the state.

Garrett County is the stronger producer of the two counties with a total of 1.14 million tons produced through strip mining, 2.12 million tons of coal from deep mines, and 3,105 tons through the auger mining method.

Allegany County, which has no deep mines, produced 729,522.35 tons of coal at strip mines, and 613 tons through auger mining, making the percentage of coal produced in Allegany County 18.3 percent of Maryland's coal, while Garrett County produced 81.7 percent.

The report shows that in 1984 Garrett County mines employed 728 workers and Allegany employed 230, making the total employed 958. Those figures do not include office personnel, supervisory personnel or independent truck haulers.

According to the report, the net production per man in Allegany County in 1984 was 3,174.50 tons, while the Garrett County production per man was 4,482.36 tons.

Coal produced in the two counties comes from six geographic basins. The report stated that the tonnage produced in each of those basins was: Lower Youghiogheny, 218,548.57; Upper Youghiogheny, 23,356.21; Casselman, 72,516.05; Casselman (Cherry Creek), 52,799.04; Potomac, 2,462,751.61; and George's Creek, 1,163,328.34.

The Land Reclamation Committee, which oversees land reclamation activities related to the surface mining of coal in Maryland, voted to release 491 acres of reclaimed strip-mined land from a total of 1,151 acres eligible for revegetation bond release during 1984. This action was taken after consideration of 71 planting reports that were filed by 32 coal companies.

One interesting aspect of the report was the standards used by the LRC and the Bureau of Mines for revegetation bond release and reduction of a revegetation bond. According to the standards, the reclaimed area must be 90 percent covered. The area must be covered by at least 10 percent permanent legume plants, well distributed.

Bare areas must not exceed 900 square feet at any particular location. However, the overall coverage of 90 percent must be obtained. There must not be any depressions or rills and gullies over nine inches in depth in the revegetated area.

There must not be any seeps discharging toxic water that causes degradation to the vegetation growing on the area. There must not be any permit suspension/revocation, bond forfeiture, or other enforcement action pending on the permit area.

A minimum of 450 living stems, well distributed per acre, is required when trees and shrubs are planted. Any special reclamation requirements approved in the mining permit must be met. Bond reductions are not considered before at least two growing seasons.

The report stated that the principal reason for disapproval of acres in 1984 was the need for more evaluation time after repair seeding, topdressing, reseeding or diversion ditch repair or deletion.

The number of acres released was 43 percent of the number of acres eligible for release, compared to an average of 62 percent in past years. These percentages reflect that poorer results are being obtained.

All reclaimed acres were planted with a grass and legume mixture to insure adequate erosion control protection. In addition, trees and/or shrubs were planted on 52 acres.

Youth Listed "Satisfactory" After Mishap

A Woodstock youth remains in "satisfactory" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a three-wheeler accident which occurred Saturday evening near the Rock Lodge Road.

Dale C. Smith, 11, was thrown from the vehicle when ruts in a field caused it to overturn, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

Tfc. R.M. Hershberger investigated the 7 p.m. incident.

A single vehicle accident occurred October 10 on the West Shale Road, near Jennings.

According to police reports, Virginia M. Shaffer, 39, Baltimore, was southbound in a 1971 Ford pickup truck when a deer ran onto the road from a wooded area.

Shaffer swerved to miss the deer and struck a large rock at the edge of the road.

Two passengers in the vehicle, Robert Shaffer, 41, and Richard Shaffer, 31, both of Baltimore, were transported to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland by the Northern Rescue Squad. Officials at that hospital were unable to confirm whether the two men were treated and released.

Tfc. Dale K. Williams investigated the 7:45 p.m. incident.

Jennifer A. Yearick, 15, Baltimore, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a three-wheeler accident on Saturday.

According to the police, Yearick was operating the vehicle in a yard near the Sand Flat Road and was unfamiliar with the controls. She hit the throttle instead of the brakes, and the vehicle continued through the yard and over an embankment, coming to rest on the road.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the incident.

Ronda K. Humberson, 15, McHenry, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a motorcycle accident October 8.

According to police reports, Humberson was operating the vehicle in an open field near the Elkins Oakland Road when it struck a hole and overturned on top of her.

Tfc. R.C. Resh investigated the incident.

PROVIDING SOME EXCITEMENT this morning, but fortunately no injuries, was this log truck which upset at the intersection of Oak and Third streets in Oakland. The vehicle, owned by Sisler Lumber Company, reportedly blew both right rear tires, causing the mishap. The driver was unidentified at press time.

Child Injured In Fall From SHS Bleachers

A two-year-old child was injured Saturday evening when she fell through the bleachers at the Southern High School football field during the annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands.

Megan Ruby, two-year-old daughter of Bonita Lynn Boyce, was reportedly cheering for the Southern High Band when she lost her balance and fell through the bleachers. She fell approximately 20 feet to the ground and struck some of the steel framework on her way down.

It was first believed that the child sustained a head injury and at least two broken bones. However, Mrs. Earl Boyce, Megan's grandmother, stated that she sustained only a broken arm and is now home "doing just fine."

The child was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, then transferred by the squad to the WVU Medical Center in Morgantown. She was treated there as an outpatient late Saturday night and then came home. She went back to Morgantown on Monday for further tests and x-rays.

Senator Sarbanes To Visit County

Senator Paul Sarbanes will be meeting with Garrett County constituents next month in Grantsville to discuss national and international events and assist with problems they may be having with the Federal Government.

"As part of my continuing efforts to keep in close touch with all Marylanders, I will be available to meet individually with Garrett County residents," Senator Sarbanes said. "Congress is working to solve the complex problems facing us today and I hope concerned citizens will let me have the benefit of their thinking on these critical matters. I also urge those who may be having problems in their dealings with the Federal government to attend so I may be of assistance."

Sarbanes' visit is scheduled for Saturday, November 2, 10 a.m., in the dining room of the Grantsville fire hall.

Dwight Snyder Serving Sentence On Tax Charges

James Dwight Snyder, Gortner, who was found guilty by a jury December 4, 1981 for two counts of tax evasion for 1974 and 1975, three counts of failure to file tax returns from 1973 through 1975, and one count of concealing assets during 1980, began serving his one-year sentence on September 27, at Allenwood Prison Camp, Montgomery, Pa., according to an informed source.

Snyder's sentence had been stayed until his appeal trial, which was held June 6 of this year. According to the source, Snyder was originally sentenced to serve three years, but due to some trial technicalities, Federal District Court Judge Norman Ramsey reduced his sentence to one year, fined him $5,000 and placed him on three years probation following his prison term. Snyder could be paroled after serving six months of his one-year term.

Reportedly, Snyder's lawyer from Georgia plans to file the case in the United States Supreme Court.

Charges against Snyder by the Internal Revenue Service were the result of a lengthy investigation by special agents of the IRS Criminal Investigation division in Baltimore.

Snyder always contended that he was not against "just taxation" and has been battling the IRS since 1967.

The IRS and the federal judge presiding at his 1981 trial, did not hold Snyder's viewpoint. At that trial, Judge Ramsey stated, "The taxpayer cannot take the law into his own hands."

Wealth vs. Quality . . .

It was reported last week that, out of 17 community and junior colleges in the state of Maryland, Garrett Community College ranked third in the proportion of transfer students who are now in good standing in Maryland four-year colleges. Eighty-three percent of former GCC students are maintaining at least a 2.0, or C, average, the level required for "good standing" status.

Upon examining these statistics for all 17 of the colleges, we noticed an interesting pattern. The top-ranked colleges—Cecil CC (100%), Allegany CC (88%), and three colleges, including Garrett, with 83% each—are all from rural, lower-income areas of the state, with the exception of Catonsville CC, one of the third place colleges. On the other hand, the percentages for many of the colleges in the wealthier areas of the state were at or near the bottom of the list. Montgomery CC was fourth from the bottom with 76%, Prince Georges CC was second from the bottom with 72%, and Baltimore CC had the lowest good-standing rating with 58%.

While we recognize there are many variables that should be considered when evaluating this data, there seem to be some general conclusions that one might draw. One is that, contrary to the belief of many, wealth is not in direct proportion to high quality of education. The faculty members at Montgomery, Prince Georges, and Baltimore CCs are paid the highest salaries in the state, while the reverse is true for Garrett and Allegany CC instructors. There was a recent advertisement stating that Prince Georges Community College was seeking an executive secretary for the president of the college. Starting salary was $31,000, which is higher than that of every single faculty member at Garrett Community College.

This does not mean that we believe the faculty of GCC is paid enough for their services. Indeed, we hope the finances will soon be available so the instructors can be paid more for their efforts.

Another conclusion we believe is justified is that persons can be confident that Garrett Community College, despite its recent difficulties, is a good school and one that should be strongly considered by every local high school graduate who plans to continue his or her education. The college was in turmoil the past year, yet the quality of education apparently did not suffer, which is a credit to faculty members and the administration. Things seem to be on the upswing at GCC right now, so who knows what plateaus might be reached in the next few years.

We also learned this week that, in the first quarter of GCC's fiscal year, the school is three percent under budget, which indicates sound financial management.

We encourage all local persons to visit the college this Sunday afternoon, October 20, during its open house and see what a fine resource we have at our fingertips.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Every little girl dreams of becoming a queen someday. She envisions what her crown would look like and imagines all the sweet remarks people would say about her. Well, my reign as the 18th Annual Autumn Glory Queen certainly surpassed all my dreams as a little girl.

This past weekend has been an eventful and exciting one for me. Every aspect of it was beautiful—from the crown to all the smiles, waves and hellos I received. I made many new friends and had many great experiences. Memories were made in those five days I'll never forget.

I'd like to say thank you to Diane Wolf and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for helping me prepare for this festival and Tom Butscher for crowning me. Also I thank my family, friends and all the people who supported me even if it was by means of something as small as a wave, smile or hello.

I was sorry to see this weekend come to a close, but I have many cherished memories to keep with me always!

Sincerely,
Michele L. Glotfelty

To the Editor:

There must be something done about the gross inequities in professional salaries of Garrett County public school employees. A teacher with an advanced certificate after 25 years teaching earns $24,770 while the lowest paid administrator makes $24,825 beginning salary. The starting salary for a teacher in the classroom is $14,520, more than $10,000 less.

To the Editor:

We would like to thank all the many people who have helped with the fund raising for the Garrett County Chapter of the American Cancer Society over the past months.

Our first project was Bingo and with the help of the Catholic Daughters, the members of the Southern Rescue Squad, the Stewart Funeral Home, the Oakland Coca-Cola Co., Miller's Market, the Oakland Radio Shack, Bausch & Lomb, Cancer Society volunteers and other helpers; it was a great success.

The second project was a bake sale which was operated by Cancer Society volunteers. The unique aspect was that members of the Bittinger, Deer Park, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, New Comers, Sunnyside, Swallow Falls and White Church Homemakers Clubs provided a vast assortment of baked goods for the sale. The baked goods were sold in front of Miller's Market during the Autumn Glory Feature Parade. A special thank you to the homemakers for their help and support.

To the many friends and supporters of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, who have helped in great and small ways, we say thank you.

Sincerely,
Patsy Stewart
Projects Chairman

To the Editor:

I am writing to tell you how much we appreciated the write-up in your paper about our son, Dwight. We appreciate the amount of space you used and the many phone calls which we have received from friends asking about our son.

A friend of ours has a grandson in the same condition. She told us she is sending a clipping to him to show him there is hope for people with multiple sclerosis.

Thanks for printing such a nice community paper. We feel it brings us all closer together. Keep up the good work.

To the Editor:

I feel that the recent hall decorating contest at Southern High School for Homecoming last week was really great. Everyone says that we are finally "getting with the spirit" and I agree with them.

There was one point, though, which made the hall decorations depressing. Each class worked really hard the night before, but I'm not really sure for what. The decorations were taken down the next day during first period. That only gave us the time we left the gym and the cafeteria to look at them and see what a good job each class had done.

This really makes me angry and I feel that something should be done to prevent this happening again. Ten minutes was not enough time for all the work that was spent in decorating. The students were willing and would have stayed after to clean up.

I feel that the next time we have any type of spirit day that they should give us time to enjoy it. This is my senior year and it would be nice to enjoy it since it is my last year at Southern High School.

Sincerely,
A Spirited Senior

-Within 30 days of the execution of this order, the county must submit a request for a vertical extension to the existing landfill to meet the short-term need of the citizens.

-Prior to the placement of any solid waste in any area outside the boundaries of the existing permitted landfill, the county must provide the following information to and receive written approval from DHMH: (1) The volume of waste to be received at the facility over the two-year interim period. (2) The volume and source of cover material needed to provide daily, intermediate and final cover at the site. (3) The total volume of waste and cover material. (4) An operating plan which details the filling sequence at the site. (5) Specifications and schedule for the construction of the surface water diversion ditch. (6) Sediment and erosion control plan approved by the Soil Conservation District.

The consent order goes on to outline the operating conditions which must be adhered to by the county. Those conditions include the operating hours, supervision of the site, personnel and equipment, access roads, equipment repair and replacement, landfill access control, pollution and other health hazards, measures to control fires, control of hazardous substances, handling and control of sewage sludge if permitted, solid waste unloading, solid waste spreading, clean earth layering, control of scattered wastes, continuous grading and leachate management.

The order also requires periodic reports on the status of the landfill and allows for DHMH officials to enter the landfill for inspections. Under the consent order, the county must also, within 90 days of the execution of the order, submit to DHMH a close-out plan for the existing landfill and its vertical extension that will minimize harm to surface and ground water.

Finally, the consent order allows DHMH the right to take any corrective action it deems necessary under state or federal statutes, regardless of the nature of the material deposited and the time at which it was deposited. DHMH further reserves the right to seek reimbursement from the county for such corrective action under state or federal statutes.

However, in exchange for the county's good faith efforts to comply with provisions of the consent order, DHMH will not seek penalties for violations occurring prior to the date the order becomes effective and for 180 days thereafter, provided the rate at which waste is accepted remains the same or declines, and provided that the nature of the waste accepted remains the same or presents less of a threat to the environment.

The order further states that the acceptance of any controlled hazardous substances, in other than exempt quantities or liquid waste, constitutes grounds for DHMH to seek penalties and corrective action, either administratively or judicially.

Board Accepts

districting report by a subcommittee which had been assigned to streamline bus routes, provide a more economical transportation system, eliminate overlapping attendance districts, and better utilize the capacity of Garrett County schools.

The committee reported that it became apparent that the Accident and Grantsville Schools shared a triangular shaped area which was served by both schools. In another small section, the boundary line between the Accident and Friendsville Schools made uneconomical transportation routes.

One proposal made by the committee was to draw the attendance lines between Accident and Grantsville Schools. Grantsville School would retain its present area and also receive all students from Legeer Road, Beachy Road, Fox Town Road, Orendorf Road, Route 495 North from Rock Lodge Road, Brenneman Road, and the Frank Brenneman Road.

Another proposal was that attendance lines be drawn between Accident and Friendsville Schools so that students from the Milt DeWitt Road, Route 42 south to and including the Hubert Friend residence, Gap Run Road, part of the Sang Run Road, and part of the Sang Run-Cranesville Road also attend Friendsville.

The committee also proposed that the board retain the present attendance districts for Broad Ford and Dennett Road School except that all of Mary Drive and any future side streets south of and off of Mary Drive would be incorporated into the Dennett Road district.

Other items of discussion included the improvement of the drafting programs in both high schools and the expansion of other vocational programs due to the renovation of Northern High School, and a proposed evening school to enable drop-outs to receive a diploma.

Dr. Ryscavage also discussed the Capital Improvements proposals which must be submitted to the IAC. He mentioned that the top priority will be equipment for Northern High School, which will include desks and chairs for both students and teachers. He stated that these items were not included in the renovation funds.

Ryscavage also mentioned that he is planning a request for the renovation of Southern High School. Several areas would need major work, and others would require only cosmetic renovation. He stated, however, that if all went well, the project would not begin until at least July of 1989.

Another topic would be the feasibilty of the Loch Lynn School project.

A report was also made on the progress of the Northern High School renovation project. According to Ryscavage, contractors are attempting to finish the vocational education building by the end of this calendar year.

Ryscavage also mentioned that, although a low bid was received for the reroofing on NHS, not enough money remains in state funds to complete the project. He stated that the board will discuss the situation further, and action will be taken at a later date.

ready in the very near future," he stated to the board.

The interim president also reported that a study will be done on student retentions (students reregistering at GCC) and that recommendations by that committee would be forthcoming.

Scholarships

Cissy VanSickle, director of the financial aid department at the college, gave an update on the status of the Board of Trustees scholarship fund which was begun 18 months ago.

She stated that $1,000 was given from that fund last year and she hopes to give $1,000 again this year. She recommended that the recipients be one senior from Northern High School and one senior from Southern High School who plan to attend GCC. The scholarships would be granted on the basis of ability, an essay by the student and three letters from the students' teachers and administrators. The recipients would be required to maintain a 3.0 average and take at least 15 credit hours per semester.

VanSickle said that $400 has already been donated by some board members and she encouraged others to follow suit.

The director reported that GCC's financial aid department already administers 26 scholarships per year and that there are now two additional ones which will be available.

Dr. Puzzuoli told the board he had met with Elizabeth Randol concerning the expansion of the scholarships provided in memory of her late husband, Glenn.

Puzzuoli said his meeting with Randol was very cordial. He said she expressed the wish that the scholarships aid in preparing elementary and secondary teachers in math, science and English.

Accreditation Reports

Dean Mitchell reported on the periodic review report required by the Middle States Accreditation Board and the accreditation visit scheduled by the State Board for Higher Education.

She said the periodic review report is completed every five years between a 10-year accreditation period and is an analytical document, divided into the following chapters: introduction, current general overview of the institution, significant developments and/or changes since the previous evaluation, evidence of continuous institutional self-study, indications of responses made, or action taken, with respect to recommendations resulting from the previous evaluation, a summary of fiscal and enrollment data for the previous five years and projections for the next five years and an outline of plans for the next five-year period.

The dean stated that by November 1, data would be collected and the draft reviewed by the faculty at which time the revisions would be collected. By December 20, the final draft would be completed and that by January 31, a final review would be completed, she reported. The review report is due by April 1, but Dr. Mitchell said her committee plans to have the final draft ready by February.

Dr. Mitchell also announced that an accreditation visit would be made by the State Board for Higher Education, February 23-26, 1986.

She stated that the focus of the SBHE team visit would be administration, finance and facilities and that they would then submit a report on the following principal survey areas: organization and administration, leadership, planning, human resources, evaluations, controls and corrective action, administration of academic/instructional programs and services, financial health, financial and business programs and services, manual and automated systems and supports and finally, facilities and equipment.

Policies

Also at Tuesday's board meeting, Dr. Puzzuoli outlined the formulation and adoption of policies at GCC.

An updated version of the policy statement was presented to board members for their consideration. Board members met at GCC for a work meeting on policies on September 28.

Th chairman of the board instructed the members to review the policy statement and be prepared to make recommendations and/or changes to the policy at the next board meeting.

Smith also appointed Gary Fratz and William Grant, board members, to establish an orientation process for new board members.

SGA Welcomed

Three members of the Student Government Association were welcomed to the board meeting Tuesday evening by Dr. Puzzuoli.

Those attending were Amy Tate vice-president; Kim Martin, secretary; and Lily Jeffries, treasurer. The president, Natalie Vetter was unable to attend the meeting. Tate stated that the SGA's main objective was to establish a working constitution for student government.

Structural Changes

Dr. Puzzuoil also outlined Tuesday the possibility of structural changes in the machine and vocational shops at the college.

He said for saftey reasons the area needed to be separated by walls and he is looking into the engineering aspect of it through a former student and adjunct professor at GCC, who carries a masters degree in engineering.

He also envisioned plans for the masonry and brick laying classes at the college to do the actual work if it is deemed feasible.

Open House

An open house will be held at the McHenry Campus of GCC this Sunday from 2-5 p.m. with activities scheduled throughout the campus during the afternoon and the opportunity to meet Dr. Puzzuoli, newly appointed interim president.

Various displays, presentations and exhibits will be conducted in the administration building, the Shaw learning center, the student center, the technology center, the mining center, maintenance and the gymnasium.

Guest Editorial

Garrett County Cannot Live On Tourism Alone . . .

by John G. Braskey
Garrett County Commissioner

I would like to criticize the Hughes Administration and the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development for what I feel is a total lack of support for a very important industry in Western Maryland, particularly in Garrett County; that being the coal industry.

There are many people laid off in the coal mining industry and within the last two weeks, Mettiki has had to furlough an additional 114 employees, which is approximately 1% of Garrett County's work force. I am sure that if a similar situation would have taken place in Baltimore County, Prince George's County or any of the larger counties, where 1% of the work force became suddenly unemployed, major steps would have been taken to see what could be done.

As an example, when Fairchild closed down in Washington County, the state began a major program to help that company and the county. Neither Mettiki nor Garrett County government has received any calls or letters of concern from the state.

The Hughes Administration and the state must begin to realize that we in Garrett County cannot live entirely on tourism. We do appreciate the tourism business but we need other viable industry to provide employment to our residents in order for them to survive.

The Department of Economic and Community Development created a separate marketing department for the seafood industry which benefits the Eastern and Western shores of Maryland. The coal is as important to the survival of Western Maryland and Garrett County as the seafood is to the Chesapeake Bay area counties. There is no separate marketing department for Western Maryland Coal. The coal industry needs help as does Garrett County!

I intend to let the Department of Economic and Community Development know how we feel in county government and ask them to look at the development of some sort of marketing program for the use of Western Maryland Coal.

Library Steering Committee Formed, Meeting Scheduled

A steering committee for the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library has been formed to aid in incorporating additional support and funding of the library.

The committee is hosting a public meeting at Garrett Community College, McHenry, on November 7, in order to inform the public of the importance of more pronounced backing of the library on a county level.

Maurice Travillian, chief of public libraries for the state of Maryland is the scheduled speaker for the November meeting and his topic will be, "The Function of Friends of the Library."

According to a spokesman from the committee, the library now receives state funding through an involved formula based on population and county wealth with the stipulation that the county also contributes a certain percentage based on the formula.

In the past 35 years the library has added a new wing to the library, purchased a new bookmobile and added five branch libraries. Many of those funds were received through donations by the public, rather than the yearly budget supplied by the county and state governments, said the spokesman.

In 1950, services at the library included the circulation of books and magazines and a reference service. Today the library does those things on a larger scale and also provides for the borrowing of books by interlibrary loan, borrowing of 16mm films by interlibrary loan and borrowing of VCR tapes by interlibrary loan. The library also has a photocopier and computer for use. They also loan projectors and screens and provide the space for arts and crafts exhibits, bulletin board items and shelving for the Garrett County Historical Society books. The library staff also provides special services to children and to institutions and the handicapped.

In the last four years circulation has increased 28% and in the past year alone, circulation has increased from 173,222 to 192,366. The cost of books though, has risen an average of 70% per volume in the past year.

General operating costs (utilities, building maintenance, gasoline, insurance, postage etc.) have increased from $44,709 five years ago to $50,437 this past year. The staff has increased from two full-time employees in 1950 to four full-time and 18 part-time employees in 1985.

"Given the fact that the library served 1,309 registered borrowers in 1950 and 10,237 in 1984-85, we can see growth of usage, facilities and equipment, but what many fail to see is the need for increased local funding" said the spokesman.

Autumn Glory 18

With the cooperation of the weather and the colorful leaves, most people attending the 18th Annual Autumn Glory Festival events this year agreed it was "one of the best ever."

Parades, craft and antique shows, square dancers, banjo players and fiddlers, field shows, the first Golden Ambassador honored at a reception, a queen crowned, a carnival, art exhibits, turkey dinners, and scores of other activities provided Garrett County and its many visitors with a memorable Autumn Glory Festival last week.

The icing on the cake was a visit from WTAE television station's Paul Long, who served as Grand Feature Parade Marshal on Saturday.

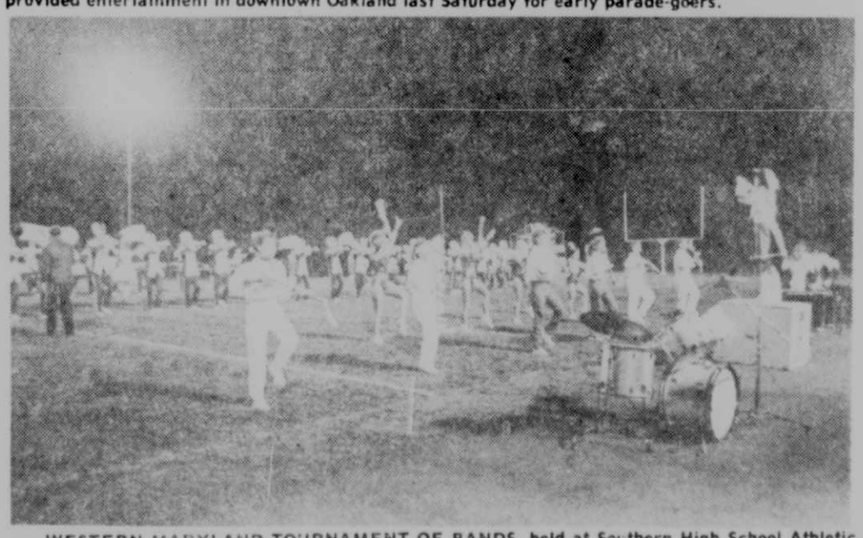
Photos by Craig Phillips

FORTY RUNNERS participated in the annual Autumn Glory 10-kilometer (6.2 mile) run on Sunday at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Steve Bell, Oakland, crossed the finish line first, below, with a time of 35 minutes, 48 seconds.

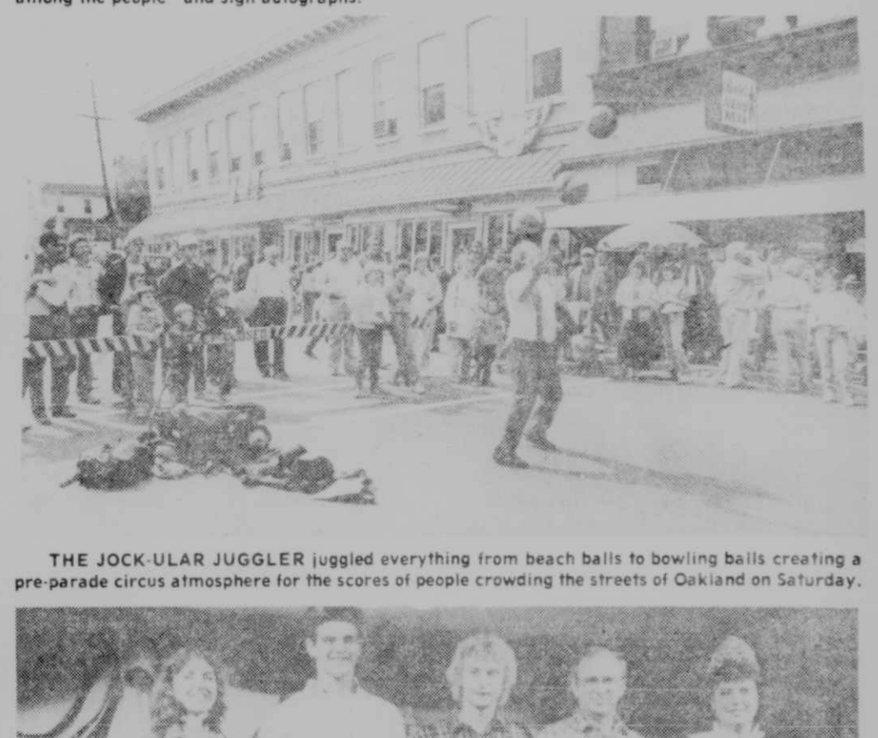
SPINNING YARNS — The old traditions will not be forgotten as is evidenced by a young child fascinated by watching the yarn-spinning demonstration at the Heritage Craft Festival at G.C.C., Oakland Campus.

FIDDLING AROUND for 11 years paid off for Michele Blizzard, the first female winner of the Autumn Glory Maryland State Fiddle Championship.

AUTUMN GLORY QUEEN MICHELE GLOTFELTY, flanked by princesses, Luann Hartley, left, and Daina Savage, right, reign over the Grand Feature Parade Saturday on the Grand Champion float, sponsored by the Garrett National Bank. The parade, which lasted nearly two hours, featured over 70 marching units.



THE GERMAN OOM-PAH BAND delighted hundreds of people attending the Oktoberfest Celebration at the Oakland fire hall last Thursday night. The band played for nearly four hours following the Firemen's Parade. The Fireman of the Year Award was also presented during Oktoberfest by Allen Murray, chairman of the FOY committee for the Garrett Firemen's Association. Pictured below, left, is James L. Baker, Eastern Garrett, Company 80, holding his treasured FOY trophy. Shown center, is Chief of Co. 80, Jim Raley, holding the company trophy, and shown right, is Murray.



DANCIN' IN THE STREETS . . . square dancing, that is. Several local square dancing groups provided entertainment in downtown Oakland last Saturday for early parade-goers.

WESTERN MARYLAND TOURNAMENT OF BANDS, held at Southern High School Athletic Field, drew a capacity crowd Saturday night as 15 high school bands from three states participated in the contest. The annual event is sponsored by the Southern Garrett Band Boosters and the Promotion Council.

A POPULAR FACE among the parade throngs was WTAE television station's Paul Long, Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade Marshal. Mr. Long took time before the parade to "get out among the people" and sign autographs.

THE JOCK-ULAR JUGGLER juggled everything from beach balls to bowling balls creating a pre-parade circus atmosphere for the scores of people crowding the streets of Oakland on Saturday.

The Southern Rams bounced back into the win column Friday evening by rolling over visiting Hampshire, 32-6, in their annual homecoming game. The Rams had opened the season with three straight wins, but then fell to Musselman and Keyser before rebounding against the Trojans.

Although the Rams dominated most of the game from the opening kickoff, the score remained close until the final five minutes, when Southern produced three quick touchdowns to turn the contest into a rout.

Quarterback Zack Gibson, who led all Southern rushers, opened the scoring in the second quarter on a 21-yard run, which gave the Rams a 6-0 halftime lead. Gibson finished with 65 yards on seven carries, leading five Ram backs who recorded over 50 yards on the ground.

Bruce Bosley reached paydirt in the third quarter for Southern's second touchdown, this time on a one-yard dive. The attempt for the two-point conversion again failed.

With just over five minutes remaining in the game sophomore running back J.R. Bosley broke loose on one of the finest runs this season, a 39-yard dash around, over and through numerous Trojan defenders for the Rams' third six-pointer.

After the ensuing kickoff, Hampshire quarterback Scott Shoemaker put the ball in the air on the first play from scrimmage, but Southern's Bruce Bosley intercepted the ball and raced 40 yards for another touchdown.

The Yardstick

Hampshire		Southern
3	First Down Rush	12
5	First Down Pass	0
0	First Down Penalty	0
8	Total First Downs	12
18	Passes Attempted	7
7	Passes Completed	2
0	Passes Intercepted By	4
71	Yards Passing	12
92	Net Yards Rushing	332
2-42.5	Punts—Average	1-27
5-35	Penalties—Yards	10-85
2-0	Fumbles—Lost	2-0
163	Total Offense	344

Shoemaker, who was tagged for four interceptions, was finally able to complete a drive, capped by his own 30-yard touchdown run against the second and third team Ram defense, which narrowed Southern's lead to 24-6.

But the Rams' second team offense proved that it could also put points on the board, as Tom Smith broke free on two long runs for 59 yards and a touchdown in the final minute of the game. Jamie Thomas, in his first game following a hand injury, ran for the final two points of the game.

Southern rolled up 344 yards of total offense, 332 of which was on the ground, while the Trojans managed only 163 yards.

Donnie Horner, Smith, Gibson, and the two Bosleys all gained over 50 yards rushing.

Pacing the Ram defense were Horner, Steve Schrock, and Warren Livengood.

"We played one of our better offensive games this season," Coach Tom Woods stated. "Of course, the calibre of competition was also not as high as we faced the previous two weeks."

Woods said he was pleased with the fact that so many of his running backs ran well. "This helped us keep our people fresh," he said. He also noted the running and blocking performances of fullbacks Scott Werdebaugh and John Lewis.

Defensively, Woods gave credit to his secondary for its four interceptions, two of which were by Gibson. "I think our overall defense is really beginning to solidify," he said. "It is becoming tougher and tougher for teams to move the ball against us."

Woods also stated that his team showed much improvement in the pre-game preparation. "Our intensity before the game was back up to the level that it should be," he said.

The Rams will attempt to keep their return to the win column intact this week when they travel to Lonaconing to meet Valley. Although going into the game as the favorite over the 1-5 Black Knights, Woods says that this team "has the potential to play well."

Dave Hawkins, a 5-11, 178-pound senior, who is in his fourth year as starting quarterback, is one of the leading passers in the area.

Junior split end Steve Bartlett, 5-8, 155, has good speed and is an elusive runner, who occasionally moves into the quarterback position while Hawkins moves to tailback.

The Knights' offensive and defensive line is anchored by an enormous junior tackle in 6-6, 270-pound Chris Winner; Kevin Llewellyn, a 6-0, 185-pound senior; and guard/defensive end, John Marty, 5-9, 170.

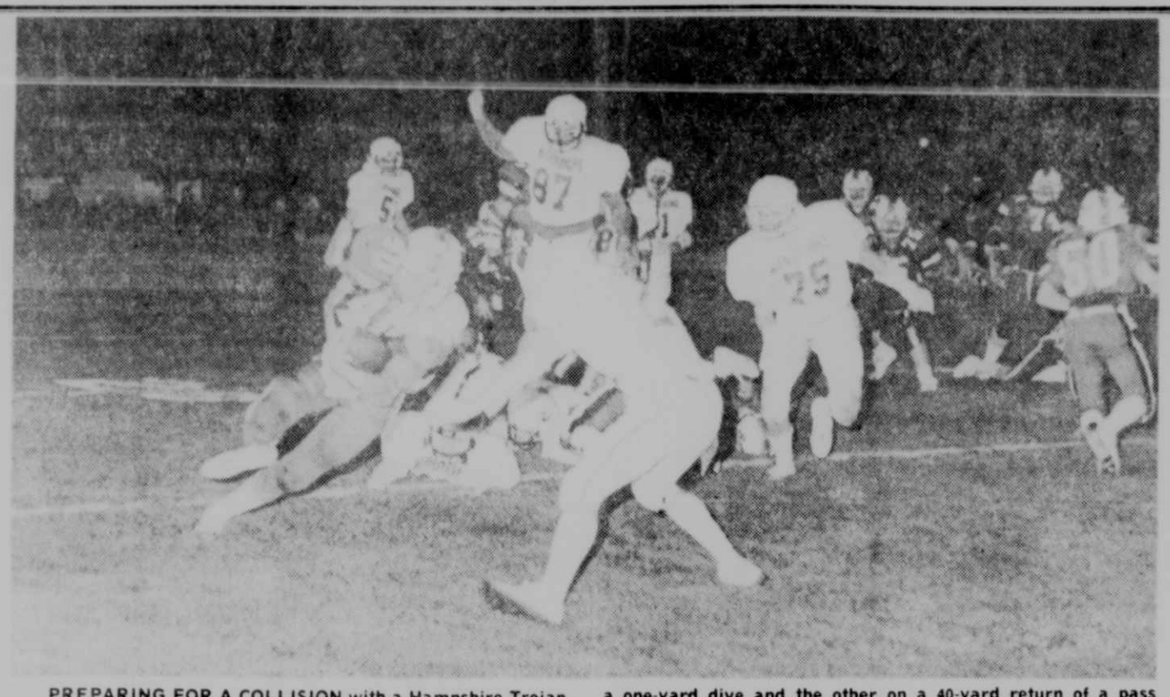
Valley is basically a passing team, utilizing multiple I-formations and the shotgun. Defensively, they use a 5-3.

"Valley is a senior dominated team, but young in experience," Woods said. "We are concerned about the game, though, because we often do not play well on their field and we are also trying to make sure our kids aren't looking ahead to Tucker County the following week."

The injury situation has been serious for the Rams all season long, and became even worse this week. Both fullbacks, Scott Werdebaugh and John Lewis, are injured, with Werdebaugh most likely lost for the season after tearing knee cartilege in practice this week. Lewis, who sustained a hip pointer and severe bruise in the Hampshire game, is listed as questionable for this week. Werdebaugh is also one of the Rams' strongest linebackers.

Also questionable for this week is Mike Smith, who separated some cartilege in his sternum during Monday's practice. Three other players, including Warren Livengood, have missed practice because of the flu.

Johnny Mayne, the starting center, was dismissed from the team this week because of disciplinary reasons.



Senior A.J. Murray is expected to start at center, Bruce Bosley will be moved to fullback and J.R. Bosley will start at tailback. Gary Wotring and Rick Layton, back after a series of injuries, will fill in at linebacker for Werdebaugh and Doug Evans is expected to take Lewis' spot at defensive end if he is unable to play.

"Our timing and continuity are really suffering," Woods lamented. "We have never faced such a problem with injuries before. Although it might appear that our kids are out of shape, we know they are not. It's really frustrating for us and certainly for the players, who have to be moved all over the place and learn new assignments almost every week."

Kickoff at Lonaconing is set for 8 p.m.

Hampshire	0	0	0	6-6
Southern	0	6	6	20-32

S—Zack Gibson, 21 run (pass failed)

PREPARING FOR A COLLISION with a Hampshire Trojan is Southern running back Bruce Bosley, No. 40, who was one of five Ram backs who gained over 50 yards in leading Southern to a 32-6 homecoming win. Bosley also scored two touchdowns, one on a one-yard dive and the other on a 40-yard return of a pass interception. The 4-2 Rams will travel to Valley this Friday. Other Southern players identifiable in the photo are Mike Smith, No. 50; Warren Livengood, No. 75; and Jay Stewart, No. 74.

Southern Jayvees Fall To Trojans

The Southern High jayvee football team fell to 4-2 on the season Monday evening in Romney by being edged by Hampshire, 14-6. It was the fourth win in five starts for the junior Trojans.

Don Haught raced for a 42-yard touchdown in the first quarter which gave Hampshire a 6-0 advantage at halftime.

Doug Reece scored on a three-yard run in the third period and Haught's pass to Eric Corbin gave the home team a 14-0 lead.

The Rams came back in the third period with a 60-yard touchdown run by Charlie Paugh, however several other Ram drives were stopped throughout the remainder of the contest. Hampshire finished with five interceptions.

Leading the Rams' defense were Gary Long, Chris Helbig, and Doug Nesselrodt.

Huskies Drop Sixth Game With Loss To Turkeyfoot

The struggling Northern Huskies continued to struggle Friday evening as they missed at least two golden scoring opportunities and fell to host Turkeyfoot, 27-6, for their sixth straight loss of the campaign.

The game remained close until the final quarter, when the Gobblers erupted for 15 points to seal their victory.

Brian Poye opened the scoring for Turkeyfoot in the first quarter when he hauled in a five-yard pass from Jim Bowers. The kick for the extra point failed.

The Huskies came back in the second period to knot the score at 6-6 when quarterback Kevin Sines crashed into the end zone from the one-yard line. The conversion kick was no good.

The Gobblers responded later in the same quarter with a five-yard scoring run by John Merschant, who finished the game with 203 yards on 31 carries.

Following a scoreless third period, the Huskies found themselves on their own three-yard line early in the fourth quarter. Husky Coach Jack Settle noticed that receiver Wayne Tabor was getting open and decided to have Sines go long. However, despite the fact that Tabor was open on the play, Sines was hit from the blind side by a Turkeyfoot defender, fumbled, and Jeff Conn jumped on the ball for a Gobbler touchdown. Bowers tossed for the two-point conversion.

Barry McCarty added an insurance touchdown late in the period on a 20-yard run, followed by Bowers' extra point kick.

Merschant, who is headed for Carnegie-Mellon University on a scholarship, also paced the Gobblers on defense as he led his team's tackling.

The Gobblers recorded 313 yards of total offense, compared to 211 by Northern.

On one occasion in the first half, the Huskies had the ball on Turkeyfoot's two-yard line. After a delay of game penalty, Sines' pass was picked off in the end zone, thus killing a probable scoring drive.

Then in the second half, the Huskies were again on the Gobblers' two. However, Sines' pass fell incomplete and the ball went over to Turkeyfoot on downs.

"While not taking anything away from Turkeyfoot's performance, this was one of the worst games we have played in a long time," Settle said. "Every phase of our game was off. We didn't tackle well, we moved in slow motion, we didn't break from the huddle. We were just lifeless. I was really disappointed."

Settle noted that the speed of a few Turkeyfoot players made a great difference. "They really don't have many excellent players," he said. "But the few they have really hurt us. Our receivers were getting open, but after catching the ball, they would get caught from behind. Our trapping game worked well most of the evening between the ten-yard lines. But once our ball carriers got past the line, they didn't have the speed to get by the secondary.

"Defensively, it was our poorest showing all year."

Dennis Hetrick, who finished with 66 yards on two receptions, was named the offensive player of the game by Settle's staff. Matt Eggleston, who was a leading tackler and accounted for a fumble recover and pass interception, received the defensive player of the game award, while Paul McClintock was named specialty team player of the game for his coverage on punts and kickoffs. "Mark Miller also provided excellent downfield coverage," Settle noted.

The Huskies, who have at least enjoyed a relatively injury-free season, are off this week and will spend the next several days preparing for an October 25 encounter against Valley. It will be Northern's homecoming contest.

"We are going to spend these extra days trying to regroup," Settle said. "We are going to re-evaluate our first six games, try to pick out those things that have worked well for us, and emphasize those things.

"I think what we really need is to play on a 90-yard field," he said. "If we could do that, I think we'd be about a 500 ball club right now."

Coach Settle, other members of his staff, and most of the Husky players will no doubt be in the stands at Valley this Friday evening watching the Black Knights take on another future Northern foe and fellow Garrett Countians, the Southern Rams.

Swim Meet Held At Alpine Pool

Twenty-four amateur swimmers, ranging in age from six to 33, participated in a "fun" swim meet on October 5 at the Alpine Lake pool, Alpine Lake Resort, near Terra Alta. The event was sponsored by the resort in an attempt to increase interest in swimming and swimming competition.

Marcia Glover, pool director at Alpine, Vickie Skipper, coach of Garrett County's Manta Ray swim team, and John McIntee, Oakland, world class pentathlete, organized the meet.

Daina Savage, Turkey Neck, was the top winner of the day, having captured first places in the 25-yard backstroke, 25 and 50 butterfly, 100 freestyle, and second places in the 25 and 50 free. She competed in the 15-19 age group.

Daina's brother, Preston, swimming in the age 6-9 category, took firsts in the 25 and 50 back, and seconds in the 25 free and 25 breast.

Other winners in the 15-19 class were Shawn Barger, with firsts in the 25 and 50 free, and Kim Warnick, with third places in the 25 and 50 free.

Top winner in the 10-14 age group was Erin Dabney, who won firsts in the 25 fly, 25 breast, and 50 breast. Alison Graybill won blue ribbons in the 25 free and 100 individual medley, and a second in the 25 back. Ashley Smith won second in the 50 free and 25 fly, and third in the 25 breast. Benji Glover captured first in the 50 free and second in the 25 free. Kim Fike won the 100 IM and placed second in the 25 breast, while Chip Glover took first in the 25 back and third in the 25 free. Corey Snelson won thirds in the 25 back and 50 free.

Other winners in the 6-9 class, besides Preston Savage, were Josie Coviello, with firsts in the 25 free and 25 breast; Shannon Dabney, with a second in the 25 back and thirds in the 25 free and 25 breast; and Amy Grimm, with a third in the 25 back.

Winners of the crescendo relay included Matthew Sincell, Allyson Graybill, Kim Warnick, and John McIntee.

Also assisting with the meet, at the registration desk, as judges, and as timekeepers, were Joann and Tom Graybill, Dayle Dabney, Jackie Snelson, and Suzie and Don Sincell.

Northern Girls Win Two More; Still Undefeated

The Northern girls varsity volleyball team added two more victories to their win column, to raise its season record to 9-0. Their latest victims were Beall and Meyersdale.

Beall fell to the Lady Huskies in three straight games, 15-5, 15-8, and 15-3. Leading the Husky attack were Amy Swauger with 20 service points and Missy Durst with 11. Julie Robeson led the offense with 18 killer spikes. Jenny Dailey added two kills.

"The key to our victory against Beall was the excellent performance turned in by all of our setters. They placed the ball in perfect position for our spiking attack," stated Coach Vonda Yunker.

Defensively, Robeson, Dailey and Amy Swauger led the Huskies with 10 blocks, while Durst, Tammy Swauger and Laura Sines recorded five digs and three saves to frustrate the Beall attack.

The Northern Jayvees defeated Beall in two straight games, 15-1 and 15-1. Leading scorers for the Little Huskies were Dee Dee Seaman with 16 service points, including eight ace serves, Lisa Swauger with nine service points and four aces and Sonny Yelovich with five points and one ace.

In the best-of-three contest against Meyersdale, the Northern Varsity defeated Red Raiders in two straight games, 15-4 and 15-7. Scoring leaders for the Huskies were Amy Swauger with 11 service points, including four ace serves, and Missy Durst with 10 points and three aces.

Meyersdale took away Northern's powerful spiking attack by limiting the Huskies to only three spikes, all recorded by Julie Robeson.

"We had to go away from our power game plan to one of more finesse," stated Yunker, "We made the adjustment well."

Robeson led the defense with seven blocks. Jenny Dailey recorded three while Amy Swauger provided excellent play around the net, forcing Meyersdale into numerous mistakes.

Northern's jayvees were defeated by the Red Raiders in two games, 15-3 and 15-7. JV Captain Shayne Couch led the Huskies with six points and two aces. The jayvee record now stands at 4-2.

Next opponents for the Huskies are the Valley Black Knights away and the Oldtown Indians at home on Tuesday, October 22, starting at 7 p.m.

Senior Olympics Said Successful: Local Man Wins

The 1985 Maryland Senior Olympics, the single, largest event in the state for seniors, came to a close when the ceremonial flame was extinguished following the awards ceremony. This year's games, sponsored by the Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland, represented the culmination of some 10 months of planning by the Senior Olympics Commission, a volunteer board established to organize and run the games.

"Each year the number of athletes has increased but, by far, this has been the most successful olympics we've ever held," said Bob Zeigler, Senior Olympics chairman.

Over the course of the two-day competion 571 gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded. Almost 800 athletes, an increase of nearly 200 over last year, exhibited their prowess in 29 events. Among the events were aquatics, basketball, billiards, horseshoes and track & field.

Garrett County resident Earl Wentz earned two gold medals by placing first in the 400-meter and one-mile runs in the men's age 65-69 division.

Garrett Women Win Four To Up Record To 8-8

The Garrett County College volleyball team upped its record to 8-8 this week by defeating Frederick, Wilson College and Penn State's Mont Alto and Fayette campuses, and by losing to Alderson-Broaddus and Salem.

Garrett swamped Fayette, 15-5 and 15-2, with Cheri Duncan and Dianna Walkling maintaining a 100% serving record and totaling 17 points. Rita Jackson and Kim Martin combined for 13 assists, while Martin and Amy Tate combined for eight kills. The team averaged an 85% serving record that day.

On the same day, Garrett topped Frederick, 15-9 and 15-3. Martin placed 90% of her serves and led the team with five assists and four kills. Stephanie Burks, Duncan and Jackson held a 100% serving record.

Coach Sue Mason remarked of her team's play, "One game we will hit well, and the next game we will serve and pass well. If we could put them all together in one game we would be tough to beat."

Although losing the match to Alderson-Broaddus, Garrett presented tough competition, losing the first game 5-15, coming back to win the second, 15-13, then losing the third game, 15-6. In this match, the Lakers averaged nearly 100% in their serves. Burks, Lisa Llewellyn, and Tate combined for four kills, with Llewellyn leading the team in digs.

On the same day, Salem college defeated the Lakers, who lost the first game 7-15, then came back for a strong win in the second one, 15-5, then lost the third game in a close match, 15-12. Llewellyn, Martin and Walkling put in 100% of their serves, while Burks, Clarissa Jordan, Llewellyn, and Walkling successfully received 28 serves. In this match, Burks spiked four winners and Martin assisted on nine plays.

On October 10, Garrett defeated Wilson, 15-10 and 15-12, with Llewellyn, Martin, Tate and Walkling combining for seven kills and Jackson and Martin combining for seven assists. Burks, Duncan, Jackson and Walkling placed 100% of their serves.

The same day, the Lakers crushed Mont Alto, 15-1 and 15-7, and maintained a near 100% serving record with 12 serve receptions.

Garrett hits the road Friday to play Frederick and Chesapeake Community Colleges, then Hagerstown and Frostburg on Monday. The Lakers will return home Saturday, October 19, to play Hood College and Fairmont State at 2 p.m.

Jets Roll Over Steelers, 40-0

The Oakland Jets recorded their fifth win of the season and fourth shutout Sunday afternoon by crushing the Northern Steelers, 40-0, in a Mt. Top Youth Football League contest. The Jets have lost only once this season, to their arch rivals the Oakland Raiders. They have allowed a total of only 12 points, while recording 100 of their own.

Billy Welch scored a pair of touchdowns plus an extra point, while quarterback Tommy Ritchey threw for two more touchdowns and two conversions as the Jets were never threatened by the frustrated Steelers.

Ritchey connected on a 10-yard strike to Marshall Pike in the opening quarter for the first touchdown, which was followed moments later by a 53-yard scoring run by Welch, who also tacked on the extra point.

The Jets reached the end zone three times in the second quarter, first on a 29-yard run by Welch, followed by a ten-yard run by Pike and a 21-yard aerial from Ritchey to Jamie Ashby. Ritchey threw to Pike for the first conversion of that quarter, he hit Shane Eyler for the second one, and Eric Jamison rushed for the third conversion, giving the Jets a 34-0 halftime lead.

The final six-points of the game came on a 77-yard sprint by Shane Skipper in the third quarter. The attempt for the extra point was no good.

Welch led the Jets' rushing with 100 yards on just six carries. The Oakland team finished with 318 yards total offense.

Bobby Mersing and Steve Eyler each had a fumble recovery for the Jets, Pike and Jeremy Lewis each had an interception, Garth Glotfelty recorded a quarterback sack, and Mike Tasker blocked one pass. Other defensive standouts were Welch, Rich DeWitt, Robbie Reckart, and Shane Skipper.

The League playoffs will get underway this Sunday afternoon, October 20, at the Southern High School field. The Thomas-Davis Rams will meet the Terra Alta Dolphins at 1:30 to determine the West Virginia champions, followed by a clash between the Jets and Raiders (6-0) at 3:00 for the Maryland title. The winners will meet for the League championship the following weekend.

Career Day Held At Grantsville Elementary School

Career Day was held at the Grantsville Elementary School Thursday, October 10. Eighty-four fifth grade students of Yoder, Route 40 and Grantsville schools participated in the study of the "World of Work." The students learned about skills and abilities needed, likes and dislikes of the job, and demonstrations by the worker.

Persons who volunteered to speak about their occupation were: Tfc. MacDonald, Maryland State Police; Enos Tice, dairy farmer; Carl Deal, nurse; Dr. David Rawe, veterinarian; Harold Swauger, electrician; Carol Miller, banker; and Ranger J. Rogers, Maryland Parks and Forests.

Principal Carolyn Tice accompanied the Yoder School students and Betty Smith, teacher, was with the Route 40 School students. Teachers Betty Kolb and Ruth Wilhelm of Grantsville School and career education resource teacher, Matt Novak, planned the event.

Evening School

Course selection will be determined within the next two weeks, Ledden said, so it is important that students, who may be interested, contact the school as soon as possible.

If there is sufficient enrollment, it is planned to hold classes at both Southern and Northern high schools.

In order to provide this evening high school opportunity, the Private Industry Council (PIC) through the Western Maryland Consortium has awarded a grant to the Garrett County Board of Education. This grant is part of the expanding Career & Employability Education program of the board of education, which Ledden coordinates, and is supervised under the Director of Secondary Education, Luther D. Parrack Jr.

PERSONAL USE OF VACATION HOME

Under today's tax laws, if you are claiming your vacation home as an investment property, you are restricted to personal use of no more than 14 days or 10% of the annual number of days the property is rented. If you exceed this number of "personal use days", you'll lose many of the important investment deductions, such as depreciation and utility and maintenance costs.

This 14 day limit of personal use can be extended if the visits are for the purpose of maintenace and upkeep. If this is your case, be sure you can document the fact that you actually did the maintenance work during that extra time period.

In the past, if you brought a relative or friend along, it was automatically considered personal. Now you can bring the whole family, as long as you can prove that you did maintenance work during the visit. Since the IRS is always looking for their share of taxes, you must be prudent about the number of visits and the timing. It is doubtful that they'll buy visits every weekend during the rental season.

Farm Bill Review

. . . . . A Garrett County Viewpoint

by Bernice Kepple

The House of Representatives version of the farm bill has been passed. No legislation can ever please everyone, but it seems that the House bill pleases almost no one. It angers many legislators along with farmers on both the market-oriented and production-control sides of the issue. The proponents of market orientation, such as Farm Bureau, stress gradual change, while production control advocates, such as the American Agricultural Movement, were disappointed when some amendments calling for stronger controls lost by large margins.

After the House passed an amendment which eliminated a referendum by wheat and feed grain farmers, Corky Jones, president of the American Agriculture Movement said, "What the House is saying, in effect, is that the 1981 farm bill has been a disaster, so we're going to experiment with it for another four years. They ought to call this thing the Farm Auctioneers Employment Act of 1985."

The House bill, though, is seen by others as perhaps the best way out of a difficult situation. Congresswoman Beverly B. Byron, who voted in favor of the bill's dairy amendment which calls for both diversions and assessments, along with whole herd buy-out and beef and pork checkoffs, said of the dairy amendment, "It's the part of the bill that I looked at most closely, because of the impact it will have on the more than 1,300 dairy farmers in my district. I voted for the dairy provisions contained in the original bill, because I think it most clearly addresses the problem of dairy surpluses, and it does so without imposing further economic hardship on our farmers or increasing federal spending."

As for the bill not increasing federal spending, doesn't unemployment and welfare increase federal spending? If she believes what she said in her statement, I hope she is right. As the House bill stands now with no limit on the assessments that farmers will pay and a probable strong involvement in the herd reduction and diversion programs, even though the base price will not be too far out of line, the assessments could bring the price of milk below what it was 20 years ago. So the farmers who try to stay in business will really pay. The Senate will begin to discuss its bill on Monday or Tuesday. As it looks now, the Senate bill may provide for mandatory production controls and referendums in the wheat portion. A referendum will be held on August 1, 1986, if 50 percent of the eligible wheat producers decide that they want it. If they do, 60 percent of eligible voters in favor of it will force the Secretary of Agriculture to establish allotments for each individual farm, and set a new loan rate at 75 percent of the national average cost of production but not less than $3.55 a bushel.

The current loan rate now is $3.30 a bushel, and the market price is below that, which means creating an artificial price. Jack Matthews of the Maryland Farm Bureau says that they have a lot of concerns about this, in that it would create additional bureaucracies to police and enforce the program, and if a farmer would fail to comply with his allotment, he would face a stiff penalty.

Such a referendum could cause other problems as well, like pricing farmers out of the export market, affecting livestock and poultry producers, affecting agri-businesses, and when establishing mandatory controls on production, it will decrease the need for farm equipment, machinery and related farm necessities like grease and oil.

More inflated prices, unrelated to market or demand, could be created by the four-year freeze on wheat and corn target prices called for in the bill.

To make it possible for some of us to keep on farming, the Senate bill must balance out the House bill. Let's keep our fingers crossed.

ASCS And Farm Bureau Combined Meeting Planned

A combination meeting of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and the Maryland Farm Bureau will be held Wednesday, October 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Old Swan Meadow School.

The purpose of the meeting is to inform area farmers of the functions of the two organizations. Any area farmer with an interest in/or questions about these organizations is welcome to attend.

Speakers for the evening will be G.P. Halterman of the ASCS office in Oakland; and Jack Matthews, Henry Holloway, and Jay Hoffman, all of the Maryland Farm Bureau office.

The Old Swan Meadow School is located at the intersection of the Mansfield Road and Route 219 south of Oakland.

More information may be obtained by calling Bill DeWitt at 334-4337 or G. P. Halterman at 334-9646.

Milk Production Statistics Reported

The number of milk cows on Maryland farms during August at 123,000 head was up 3,000 from a year ago. Milk per cow was up 110 pounds from a year earlier to 1,150 pounds. This was unchanged from the July level.

Total milk production for August was 141 million pounds, up less than 1 percent from July but 13 percent above the August total for 1984.

Nationally, milk production totaled 12.3 billion pounds, a record high for the month of August. The total was 10 percent above August 1984 and 5 percent above the previous August record which was set in 1983.

Production per cow averaged 1,107 pounds during August, 70 pounds above the average of a year ago but, 13 pounds below last month's average. The total number of milk cows averaged 11.1 million head during August, 3 percent more than a year earlier. This marked the eighth straight month in which milk cow numbers increased.

Sheep Growers Market 111,000 Pounds Of Wool

Maryland's sheep growers marketed 111,000 pounds of shorn wool and 479,000 pounds of unshorn lambs last year. For these marketings they earned incentive payments totaling $110,026 under the wool and mohair program, according to Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

The 1984 national average market price for shorn wool was 79.5 cents a pound, 85.5 cents less than the $1.65 per pound support price, Davis said. The 107.5 percent payment rate is the amount required to bring the national average market price up to the support price. For mohair, the average market price was $4.30 per pound and the support price $5.169, making the payment rate 20.2 percent.

To compensate growers for wool on live lambs marketed in 1984, ASCS authorized a $3.42 per hundredweight payment rate on unshorn lambs sold or slaughtered. Wool and mohair incentive payments are determined by multiplying the payment rates times the net dollar return. Davis said $5,395 were deducted for the total incentive payments to help finance advertising, sales promotion and market development. The money was sent to the American Sheep Producers Council and the Mohair Council of America.

According to a USDA report, 11.5 million head of sheep were on farms and ranches on January 1, 1984, about 5.0 percent less than the previous year.

Nationally, ASCS disbursed $91.4 million in shorn wool and unshorn lamb payments, 10.2 million in mohair payments for 1984 marketings of 93.0 million pounds of wool, 531.1 million hundredweight of unshorn lambs and 11.9 million pounds of mohair.

The wool and mohair programs are designed to improve the quality of fibers and to encourage sheep growers to do their best job of marketing.

Cristine Kepple Is Recipient Of SS Scholarship

Cristine A. Kepple, Route 1, Oakland, has been awarded an $800 Southern States Cooperative scholarship for the 1985-86 academic year at the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture.

Kepple, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kepple, Spring Glade Road, is a graduate of Southern High School.

Her High school activities included president of the Oakland FFA Chapter, vice president of the State 4-H, and president of the student council.

Farm Income For 1984 Set At $34.5 Billion

USDA's first estimates for 1984 indicate that net farm income reached $34.5 billion, while net cash income rose slightly to $39.1 billion. The September Agricultural Outlook report said production rebounded strongly from the payment-in-kind program and 1983's drought-reduced output.

Net farm income for 1985 is forecast at $23 to $27 billion, with net cash income expected to total $34 to $39 billion. This year's crop cash receipts should total near last year, as lower prices just offset increased production. Livestock receipts, however, are expected to fall well below the 1984 level.

According to the report, cash receipts from crop and livestock marketings in 1984 totaled $141.8 billion. Crop receipts rose 3 percent over the previous year, while livestock receipts increased 5 percent.

Off-farm income in 1984 was estimated at $40 billion, 2 percent below the revised $41 billion of 1983. About 80 percent of off-farm income went to farms with agricultural sales of less than $40,000, while more than 80 percent of farm income was concentrated in the classes above $100,000.

According to the USDA report, farmers are projected to purchase $6.4 to $6.6 billion worth of new and used machinery in 1985, down from $7.3 billion last year. The continued weakness of the farm economy has cut demand for new machinery, the report said, severely affecting the domestic farm machinery industry.

Farm Bureau Banquet Scheduled

The Garrett County Farm Bureau will hold its annual banquet on Friday, October 25, at 7 p.m. in the Grantsville Fire Hall.

Rankin Lusby will be the special guest speaker for the evening. Lusby is a former Garrett County extension agent who has worked at the state Farm Bureau office, and is now director of publications for AFBF Farm Bureau News in Washington, D.C.

President Clark Kolb reminds members that dues for the 1986 calendar year are due and may be mailed to Merrell Wilburn at Star Rt. 1, Box 186, Accident, Md. 21520. Banquet tickets may also be purchased from Wilburn for $2 per person.

Meat Production Statistics Noted

Maryland-Delaware red meat production in August, based on dressed weights, totaled 5.1 million pounds in Maryland and Delaware, one percent above the previous month, but two percent below August of 1984.

Changes in liveweight produced during August 1985 compared to a year earlier were cattle, down 3 percent; calves, down 32 percent; hogs, up 55 percent; sheep and lambs, down 55 percent.

Nationally, commercial red meat production in August, based on dressed weights, totaled 3.4 billion pounds, up one percent from August 1984 and 4 percent above the previous month.

Jackie Snelson Assumes Post With Hospice

Jackie Snelson, R.N., M.S.N., is the new nurse coordinator for Hospice of Garrett Co., Inc. She replaces Nancy Trimble, R.N., who recently stepped down from that position. She has been an employee of the Garrett County Health Department for approximately six years, serving in the areas of child health, family planning, and most recently, home health. For the past four years, she has served home health and has had close contact with terminally ill patients and their families.

Mrs. Snelson holds a B.S.N. degree from the University of Maryland and recently earned an M.S.N. degree from West Virginia University. She has had hospital experience in the emergency room, orthopedics, coronary care unit, and intensive care unit nursing.

According to Wayne Johnson, executive director of Hospice, Mrs. Snelson brings all of her experiences into her direct care of hospice patients. She works in conjunction with Hospice volunteers in an effort to make terminal patient's final days as comfortable as possible and to relieve the fears and apprehensions of the patient's family.

Mrs. Snelson resides in Sky Valley with her husband, Gerry, a teacher at Northern High School and Garrett Community College, and their two children, Corey and John.

Bittinger Parish Will Celebrate The Reformation

The Bittinger Lutheran Parish will be observing the Festival of the Reformation with a special joint parish service on Sunday evening, October 27, at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger. The service will be held at 7 p.m., and there will be no regular Sunday morning services of worship in any of the three churches that day. The Rev. Daniel Yeiser, who is serving as vice-pastor of the Bittinger Parish during the pastoral vacancy, will be the presiding minister, with Harry Fox as the assistant for the celebration of the Holy Eucharist.

Landon Reid Southerly, infant son of Dr. and Mrs. William T. Southerly, of Emmanuel, will receive the sacrament of Holy Baptism.

Questions, Concerns To Be Discussed By Dennett Road PTA

The Dennett Road School PTA will be meeting on Thursday, October 24, at 7 p.m. at the school.

This program will be a "Questions and Concerns" discussion. All parents and teachers are encouraged by PTA leaders to attend. All parents or teachers may express their views at the meeting. Persons who wish that a specific topic is discussed, but wish to remain anonymous, may mail a letter to the school and it will be discussed.

Free babysitting is provided during the meeting.

Local Church To Offer Family Film

"Time To Run," a film that is a mixture of problems and solutions, will be shown at the Crellin Community Building on Sunday, October 20, at 7 p.m.

Filmed on location in the Southern California area, "Time To Run" shows a hard driving success-oriented industrial and scientific engineer who, because of over involvement with his work, has failed to communicate with his wife and son.

The film allows the viewer to become involved on one or more of three different levels, entertainment, emotional and religious.

"Time To Run" will be sponsored by the New Life Christian Church in Mountain Lake Park. Pastor Harold Harman feels that the film can help strengthen love relationships between people and is a film that was made for families to attend together, and invites the public to do so. A freewill offering will be taken.

SHA Named In Lawsuit Filed In Cumberland

Mattingly Construction Company Inc., Cumberland, filed suit recently in Allegany Circuit Court against the State Highway Administration charging that they owe him over $160,000 for additional work which was required in the rebuilding of a bridge deck located on State Route 135 over the B & O Railroad tracks in the Swanton area.

The construction company said that in the contract, which was completed in July of 1981, it was required to perform additional work because materially the job had been changed from the original plans, specifications and bid documents provided initially by SHA.

The plaintiff stated that those changes required 2 additional days to completion of the contract for which the state was billed $78,429.11. Instead, the local company was allegedly paid only $20,555.53 additional monies.

Another complaint in the suit was that the contractor had reached an agreement to purchase concrete from Nichols' Company, which the suit says was approved by SHA in 1980. However, in June, SHA rejected Nichols as a supplier causing another delay.

Hiring two additional flagmen at either end of the project was another additional expense, said Mattingly. Specifications had indicated that an electronic device could have been used to control traffic.

Mattingly concluded that its additional cost in completing the project amounted to $160,547.50 over and above the original cost.

Those attending were Sara Butler, Almira Stanton, Janice Stockslager, Esther Stanton, Martha Beachy, Karin Durst, Norma Bowser, Betty Jo Wiley and son, Wade; Clara Wiley, Hilda Sturtz, Ruth Stanton, Marlene Beachy, Mary Kamp. The next meeting will be held November 12 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ruth Stanton. The demonstration will be "What is Your Favorite Quick Meal?"

"Parents of asthmatic children, as well as the child, can increase their knowledge about the asthmatic condition by attending the program," said a spokesman from the association.

The two-session program, co-sponsored by Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department, consists of parents' and children's sessions on respiratory infections, signals for attacks, breathing exercises, medications, breathing aids, social and emotional problems and other related subjects.

Mtn. Lake Council Schedules Leaf Pick Up, Halloween Trick Or Treat

A variety of subjects was discussed at the recent meeting of the mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park. Among the topics covered were utility franchise agreements, paving and patching of streets, speed limits, and scheduling of trash pick up, leaf pick up, and the annual Halloween celebration.

Morgan France of Franklin Associates, Inc. was present at the council meeting to explain several change orders pertaining to the sewer rehabilitation project in the town. Mayor Russell B. Alexander stated that he did not like to sign and approve the change orders before the state and EPA approved them, because if they should not approve them the town would be left "holding the bag."

The council approved several payment requests pertaining to the sewer rehabilitation, Step IV project. Two payment requests for Frank Arnold Contractors in the amounts of $30,117 and $27,719 were approved in addition to two invoices for Franklin Associates for $6,212.55 and $2,345.70.

Mayor Alexander discussed with the council correspondence regarding franchise agreements with Columbia Gas, C & P Telephone and Potomac Edison. The mayor and Robert Watson, the town's attorney, are continuing to negotiate these franchises.

The mayor informed the council that the paving and patching on several streets are near completion. He said there are two unfinished as of now. One block of Oakland Avenue is to be tar & chipped and if the weather permits Youghiogheny Drive will also be repaired. Wendell Keaton, county circuit rider, spoke with the State Highway Department regarding lowering the speed limit on town streets to 15 mph. They said it is alright to do this but they would prefer that it remain at 25 mph because radar cannot pick up a speed of 15 mph. The council decided to leave the speed limit at 25 mph and contact the sheriff's department and request additional police patrol.

The town has received several complaints from citizens regarding speeding on D Street. The mayor will talk to Sheriff Van Evans about this and try to get increased patrols on D Street, I Street, and Baltimore Avenue.

The council decided that trash pick up in the town will be October 14, 15, and 16; leaf pick up will be October 21 through 25; and Halloween will be celebrated October 31, between the hour of 6 and 7 p.m. for children up to age 12.

Several vehicles blocking an alley on Philadelphia Avenue between M and N Streets were the topic of much discussion. The council decided to send the property owner a letter stating that these vehicles must be removed from the street and if they are not removed, the complaint will be turned over to the town attorney.

The mayor informed the council that he had talked with Sheriff Evans regarding the plan that the late Sheriff Frank Finch had for getting the towns of Loch Lynn and Mtn. Lake Park a full time policeman. Sheriff Evans informed Mayor Alexander that he is going to try to continue with that plan.

The town is having difficulty in extending Wheeling Avenue from N Street to Q Street because one of the property owners feels that the town is encroaching on his property. The town has had this street surveyed and it is in the town property limits. The council decided to send a letter with a copy of the survey plat to the property owner and tell him if he has any questions he can contact Morgan France.

Building permits for Dennis Murray, Ruth Ryan and Joseph Wooddell were approved.

Council renewed a lease with the Vacationland CB Club for the Old Ticket House on G Street for a three-year period.

Gerald Wildesen and his son, David, were present at the meeting. David is working toward his Boy Scout merit badge and one of his requirements was to sit in on a town meeting.

The mayor said that Robert Ridder Excavation Company will be hauling street abrasives for the town this winter.

There has been no information from the Department of State Highways regarding the four-way stop sign on the corner of D Street and Oakland Drive (old Rt. 135), and the reduction of the speed limit on Rt. 135 in the corporation limits. In the last correspondence the mayor had with George Small, of that department, regarding these requests, Small said that they were going to do a study of these areas.

Adorable Adoptables

A SMALL ADDITION TO THE FAMILY — Either of these ten-week-old female Chihuahua puppies would take up little space in any household and give plenty of love and affection in return for a little food, care, and shelter. The puppies may be adopted by calling the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 334-3553. Last week's hound was adopted by Milinda Wright.

In Grateful Appreciation . . .

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so thoughtful and who helped us in many ways following the fire in our home.

A special thanks to the Oakland and Deer Park Volunteer Fire Companies and the Southern Rescue Squad. We feel that they were very efficient and did a wonderful job in keeping the fire from spreading throughout the house. May God bless you all.

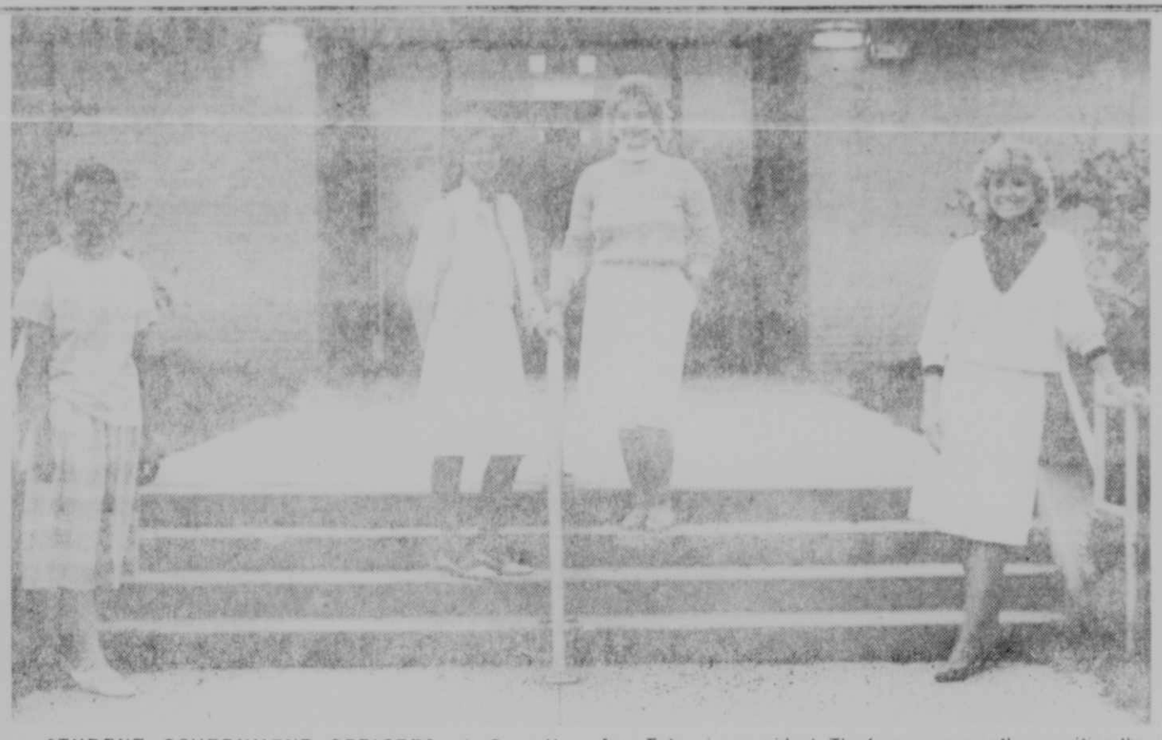
Female Athletes Hold SGA Posts At Garrett CC

As if to prove that the busiest persons are the ones who get things done, the new Student Government Association officers at Garrett Community College this year are four women athletes, members of the women's volleyball and basketball teams.



President Kim Martin, of Clendenin, W.Va., is on the volleyball team and a member of the Pep Club and Cultural Club. A sophomore studying Business Administration, Martin hopes to own her own business some day, possibly a health spa. For this year, she plans to see that SGA resolves the problems with its constitution and holds more student activities. She came to Garrett last year from Herbert Hoover High School where she played basketball, volleyball, and was a member of the Ski Club.

Another athlete from Herbert Hoover High School is Amy Tate, vice president of SGA, also from Clendenin. At Garrett, Tate plays both volleyball and basketball, and is a business administration major planning a career in fashion merchandising. Both Tate and Martin say they enjoy living in Garrett County and find the college "just like a big family."

Lillie Jeffries, treasurer of SGA, came to Garrett from Loudon County High School in Leesburg, Va., where she played basketball, volleyball and participated in track. She was also vice president and treasurer of the Loudon Association for Retarded Citizens, a student organization that helped special education students and planned Special Olympics. Jeffries plays basketball at Garrett and says she finds the people at the college "fantastic." Her goal for SGA this year is to get more students involved in activities.

A native Garrett Countian, Natalie Vetter, Oakland, is a basketball player and secretary of SGA. A graduate of Southern High School, Vetter says she enrolled at Garrett because it was close to home and a good place to start her education. As an officer in SGA she plans to help students recognize the many activities available to them, so that more of them participate.

Over $20,000 in awards are available to high school students. Twelve students will receive scholarships. Two grand award winners will receive a $5,000 check and an all-expense paid trip to Karlsruhe, West Germany, to participate in the Edison Science and Engineering Youth Day Program to be held there March 3-9, 1986, courtesy of the General Electric Company.

From the 12 finalists, each of whom receives a $1,000 scholarship upon graduation from high school, the five or six highest rated individuals will be brought together for personal interviews by a national panel of judges. This trip, at a site to be designated at a later date, will also feature a variety of educational and social activities.

Nominations should include: (1) a proposal which may be an abstract of an already completed experiment or a projected idea which deals with a practical application in the fields of science and/or engineering; and (2) a single letter of recommendation from the student's teacher/sponsor which indicates how the student best exemplifies the creativity and ingenuity demonstrated by the life and work in inventors Thomas Edison and Max McGraw.

THE BOTTOM LINE

The world of business and finance has helped us understand the spiritual challenge in life.

That remarkable idiom the bottom line reminds everyone that opportunity involves uncertainties, obligations, responsibilities. These must all be weighted against the ultimate REWARD.

A friend of ours went to Church last Sunday. That may change his whole life — and the life of his family.

But there are uncertainties. Largely up to him! Will worship become important in his life? Is he ready to accept the obligations serving God involves? How soon will he discover the joy of responsibility in sharing God's love?

As they say in business "It's worth all the effort when you realize the bottom line!"

FOOLING AROUND IS USUALLY FOOLISH

Especially when you don't feel well. That's when it makes no sense at all to fool around wasting time, trying to make excuses for not seeing—or at least phoning—your doctor. All too often, what may seem to be nothing more than just a "minor" stomach upset or a "mild" fever can actually be a signal that something is seriously wrong in your system.

The penalties for neglecting such signals can include prolonged confinement at home, lost time (and wages) from work, hospitalizations, etc. But these penalties can usually be avoided if you will remember to resist "fooling around" and will instead, seek the advice of your doctor whenever you aren't feeling well.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

LIFE THAT IS "LIFE INDEED"
October 20, 1985

Background Scripture: 1 Timothy 6:1-21.
Devotional Reading: 1 Timothy 4:11-16.

I am torn between the Gospel of Christ and the gospel of the world. The gospel of the world tells me that my salvation is in things. Success—which many mistake for salvation—is dependent upon money and power. My happiness is tied directly to what I can acquire for myself. But Christianity tells me that "things" do not last, that the essence of life is to be found in the immaterial, the intangible, the realm of the spirit.

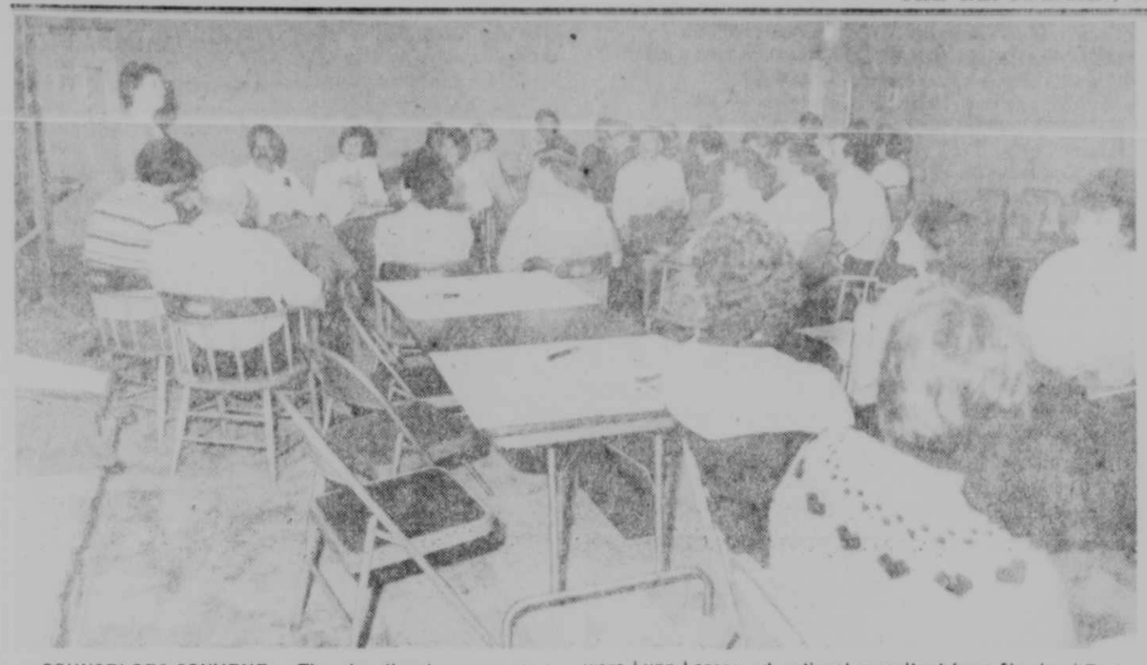
There is an area of my mind that says the world is correct; things are all that matter. But there is a deeper part of me that just as loudly and even more persuasively proclaims that the essence of life is not things but spirit.

NOTHING IN, NOTHING OUT

1 Timothy puts it in inescapable logic: "For we brought nothing into the world and we cannot take anything out of the world" (6:3). If this earthly life is all there is, then by all means, let us eat, drink and be merry and get our fill of things. Except that with things, there never seems to be a "getting our fill." No matter how much we get, we seem unable to ever get enough. Thus, even in this life, things do not have the power to satisfy us.

But, as followers of Jesus Christ, we do not believe this earthly existance is all there is. Although we may be uncertain as to the exact nature of what lies beyond death, we believe that that is our ultimate destiny. Earth is but our temporary home. And in that existance beyond death, the things of this world will be left behind.

TO BE CONTENT



There's a popular saying: "I've been poor and I've been rich—and 'rich' is better." But "rich" even though "better," is not necessarily satisfying. The secret, says 1 Timothy, is this: "if we have food and clothing, with these we shall be content" (6:8). To learn to be content with the necessities of life is one of life's greatest achievements. For it is contentment, not things, that satisfies us.

With our minds, we know this. Yet, we find it difficult to order our lives by this principle. Our society is afflicted with the short-range view of life. Still, there is a long range reality, an ultimate destiny, from which we cannot escape. "As for the rich of the world...They are to do good... thus laying up for themselves good foundations for the future, so that they may take hold of the life that is life indeed" (6:17-19).

The life you live, is it "life indeed"—real life—or something else?

COUNSELORS CONVENE — The educational component of the Western Maryland Guidance Counselors Conference was held recently at the Village Inn and sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College. Approximately 75 public school guidance counselors from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, and Carroll counties attended. The conference theme, "Counseling Matters," was highlighted by sessions on adolescent suicide, suicide prevention, individual counseling plans, crisis intervention, and future directions of public school counseling. Among the presentors at the conference were Lynn Lazear, educational consultant from Shepherd-Pratt Hospital in Towson, and Rowland L. Savage, supervisor of guidance with the Baltimore County Public Schools. Small group discussions were coordinated by other specialists in guidance and counseling. Garrett Community College recently received endorsement by the National Board of Certified Counselors as a provider agency, and will continue to offer courses throughout the year which will be approved for continuing education units. Information related to future plans and programs may be directed to Lowell Bender or Jeri Swartzentruber, Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College.

Something To Think About
R. Mark Durst
DIRECTOR

AFRAID TO SAY WRONG THING

Many quite close and caring friends avoid a family which has suffered a loss, or keep silent about their feelings, for fear "of saying the wrong thing." To begin with, this is not an unusual reaction. Often it is because individuals have not come to terms with their own sentiments about death. Because they are unsure of their feelings, they are afraid their words will come out all mixed-up.

Try not to worry. There is no one "right" attitude toward death and grief. Besides, many people are as confused and ambivalent about it as you may be. In fact, it would not be amiss to share your concerns. It might even open the door for family members to express their own doubts and feelings.

The important thing is to be with them, and to show that you care. It is very rare that an honest display of humanity will be resented and misunderstood. Absence or silence, on the other hand, might be.

A buckwheat cake and sausage supper is being planned for October 26 at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren near Eglon.

The third annual Christmas Festival is planned for Saturday, December 7, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. All who are interested in renting a table (or tables) at a fee of $5.00 are asked to contact 735-5768.

The Stemple Ridge Ladies Aid recently made applebutter and has an abundance of it for sale. Persons may contact Betty Moore at 735-5726 for further information or stop by the Moore home where the applebutter is stored.

On October 20, (note the change in date), the Stemple Ridge Ladies Aid and families will meet for a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the church. Meat will be provided.

At the October 8 meeting of the Aurora PTO, old business discussed was that there have not been many applicants to do baby sitting, that the UHF antenna will be installed this week by Allen's Radio and TV, and that the Hunter Safety Program held in September was attended by 15 adults and 17 children.

A yearbook committee is composed of Connie Nicklow, chairman and the following volunteers: Blanche Snyder, Linda Snyder, Bonnie Harsh, LaDeana Teets, Peggy Spaid, Juanita Michaels, Ressie Conrad, Peggy Jieman and Teresa Newberry.

No date has been set for the special meeting to be held concerning the length of the school day due to securing public officials. This will be publicized when affirmed. In the meanwhile the teachers' grievance has reached the level III status which is before the board of education.

The Band calendars are in and the members and auxiliary are selling candy bars in order to pay for the already-purchased uniforms.

There will be no Santa's Secret Workshop this year, due mainly to the quality of the goods secured in this manner.

Halloween Trick or Treat night has been set for October 31 and will be between the hours of 6 and 8 p.m. Persons should have their porch light burning if they wish to participate. The Halloween Festival is set for the night of November 2.

Report cards for grades one through six will be out October 18, for junior high in November and for kindergarten in January. There will be no home visits for kindergarten this year so parents may contact Mrs. Harsh for information about their children.

Concerning results of the county-wide testing last year, Mr. Henline said that he was informed that the eighth graders, now ninth graders at East Preston, had not received the results of those tests. Parents are asked to contact Mr. Henline if their child has not received these results.

Students who would like to serve their community, earn money and have free time are needed by the Aurora PTO. They would like for anyone 16 or over who would like to care for children, infant through sixth grade, during the PTO meetings (approximately two hours) to contact one of the following if they could help provide this service: Brenda Hartsell, 735-5777, Janelle Harsh, 735-3691, Mary Shaffer, 735-5124, or Jeanne Whitehair, 735-5145. Cost to the parents is 50¢ for one child, 75¢ for two, $1.00 for three. The money is to be shared by those providing the service that evening.

Union Ambulance Association has issued the following report for the last quarter: The ambulance was dispatched for 15 emergencies and 16 transports; were on stand by for two fires and at the Potato Festival where they took blood pressures and pulse counts during the day. In the afternoon they participated in a demonstration along with the Mt. Grove VFD showing the recently purchased tool belonging to the Mt. Grove VFD which is used to dismantle the vehicle and extract the patient entrapped. They also participated in the Labor Day Parade in Rowlesburg.

The Ambulance Association has purchased Mast trousers and have three members certified to use them: Jeffrey Harsh, Rose Ina Harsh and Joe Stemple. The Mast trousers are being used in the re-certification classes now in progress at the squad hall each Monday and Thursday evening.

Joe Stemple, David Martin, Florence Minnig, and Rose Ina Harsh are now certified cardiac rescue technicians (CRTs). They attended CRT classes at Garrett Community College for the past year and have passed the Maryland State Board of Medical Examiners CRT Certification examination.

The squad noted the donations of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooper and the Terra Alta Bank, who provided a hog and a quarter of beef, purchased at the Buckwheat Festival and given the squad.

Recent donations to the Union Ambulance Association have been made by Arthur and Patricia Selders in memory of Nellie Selders and by the Mt. Top neighbors in memory of Dewey Conrad.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Reish and their children of Harrisonburg, Va., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Teets and the children, Micah, Marilyn and Matthew, stayed with their grandparents at Eglon while their parents vacationed for a few days alone.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winters of Columbus, Ohio, visited last week in Amboy with Mrs. Winters' mother, Mrs. Lucy Wilt, and her sister and brother-in-law, Lois and Robert Strawser and family and also with other relatives in this area.

Brad and Robin Teets returned last Monday to their Budd Lake, N.J., home after a combined business and trip to Europe where they saw West Germany, Austria and other areas.

Mr. and Mrs. David Stemple of Aurora recently enjoyed a tour of Switzerland along with other farm families from the United States.

The Aurora MYF met Saturday morning, October 5, to haul in wood for their pastor, Rev. Annabelle Childers. Following their work meeting, they decided to reschedule the hayride which had been planned for Sunday, October 6, to Sunday, October 13. Everyone is invited to the hayride and picnic.

Those who attended the meeting and helped with the wood were leaders Julie Adams, Nancy Feather and Annie Johnson, David Martin, Greg Arnold and Alan Snyder. Jim Johnson was unable to attend due to his obligation with the East Preston band which appeared at the Forest Festival in Elkins.

Ruth Teets of Oakland visited Monday in Aurora with Martha Crowe.

Richard Edwards of Eglon, returned this week to his home. He had spent the past ten days in Long Island, N.Y., as a member of the Potomac Edison crew sent there to help in restoring power following the damage caused by hurricane Gloria.

Farewell Open House To Be Held For Rev. And Mrs. Gail K. Hixon

The Glendale Assembly of God announces a farewell open house honoring Pastor and Mrs. Gail K. Hixon on Sunday afternoon, October 20, at the Deer Park Fire Hall from 2 to 5 p.m.

After 23 years of service in this area, the Hixons are entering into a new phase of ministry. The congregation wishes to extend a special invitation to all of the Hixons' friends to come help show them how much they have been appreciated. A money tree will be available.

Rev. Hixon pastored in Princeton, Ky., from 1957 until 1961, and was the supply pastor for six months at Harper's Ferry, W.Va. He pastored at the Deer Park Assembly of God, later called the Mt. Top Christian Assembly, from 1962 until 1967. He served the Rocky Drean Assembly, near Swallow Falls, from 1968 until 1971.

While serving the Deer Park and Rocky Drean churches, he had taken charge of the mid-week service at Glendale Assembly of God by request of the Rev. J.C. Skipper, who had pastored at the Glendale church for 50 years.

He began to pastor full time at Glendale Assembly of God when the congregation averaged 22 members, and the services were held in a one-room school house. When the attendance reached 70 and 80, the members saw the need of a larger, more adequate, building and the present church was built in 1975. The new church has a seating capacity of 200 with nursery, office, library, and basement Sunday School rooms.

The Hixons plan to reside in their Oakland home for the present and in the near future, while doing supply work for area pastors and ministering for special services and revival crusades in several of the northeastern states.

The Hixons are the parents of three children, Mrs. Nancy Crochett of Tennessee, Galen Hixon, an assistant pastor in New York, and Darl Hixon of Long Island, N.Y.

If you were disabled and could not work—for a short time, or even permanently—what would you and your family live on?
First line of defense is Social Security; almost everyone is covered by that. But it won't pay for the first five months, and it won't pay much. Benefits average $900 for a family of four.
Some states offer short-term workers' compensation; some pension funds let you begin drawing benefits if you're disabled. And some companies provide disability insurance.
Determine what your family needs to live on. If there is a shortfall between the protection you have and what you need, the answer is disability insurance of your own.
As with other insurance, you can save considerably if you up the "deductible"—the time you have to wait before beginning benefit payments. It's most important that your policy be non-cancelable.

Balloon From Ohio Discovered In Friendsville

Air mail has always been one of the fastest ways to send messages, and this was proven again this past weekend when a yellow balloon which had been released from the St. Clairsville Elementary School in Ohio, Friday, was found in Friendsville late Saturday afternoon.

The balloon was found by 13-year old Chad Williams of Ranoke Rapids, N.C., who was visiting his uncle and aunt, Robert and Maxine Combs. The balloon was spotted high up in a walnut tree, and could only be retrieved after Mr. Combs shot the branch which was holding it.

The balloon was released by Courtney Tazar, a second-grade student at St. Clairsville Elementary, as part of the school's annual second-grade project. A note attached to the balloon asked the finder to write and let Courtney know how far the balloon traveled. Also included was a crayon picture made by Courtney showing a child and a flower next to a house, perhaps a self-portrait.

Mrs. Combs intends to write to Courtney and tell how they rescued the bright yellow balloon.

Teen Slave Days Planned By Church Of The Nazarene

The Church of The Nazarene in Oakland will sponsor "Teen Slave Days" Friday and Saturday, October 18 and 19. Bids will be taken by phone anytime before or during the weekend. The teens plan to use the money earned to help fund a ski trip this winter.

Bidders may bid on a particular teen or make a general bid for any one of the approximately 15 teens involved. The highest bidder will hire a teen to do yard work, cleaning, baby sitting, or any other job teens are capable of doing.

Persons wishing to place a bid may call Sue Harris at 334-9161 or Brenda Yommer at 334-1398.

HALLOWEEN COSTUME SAFETY

October brings thoughts of falling leaves, cool days and Halloween. As Halloween approaches, costume ideas are on the minds of many. When choosing a costume for yourself and your children, keep these safety tips in mind:

*Costumes should be madeof flame-retardant materials. They should be large enough so that warm clothing can be worn underneath if it's cold outside.

*Be certain that costumes allow children to walk easily without tripping and entangling their feet.

*Children should wear comfortable, well-fitted shoes or sneakers. Do not let them wear mother's high heels.

*Use light colors, reflective tape or decals so that children are visible at night to motorists.

*Masks should be properly ventilated, with holes for nose and/or mouth, and large eyeholes for good visibility.

*Elastic should be permanently attached to the mask, there should be no sharp points on either the ends of the elastic or the mask.

*Wear the mask on top of the head when walking; pull it over the face only when reaching the location.

*Adults should supervise the application of makeup on very young children.

*Children should carry light-colored or colorful trick or treat bags or use reflective tape design on treat bags.

*Children should carry flashlights or light sticks to see better and be seen more easily. Never allow children to walk using a flame for a light!

*Do not allow children to carry sharp objects. Be certain that knives, swords or other costume accessories are made from flexible materials.

*Wigs and beards should be properly attached so they don't get into children's eyes or otherwise obscure their vision.

These ideas were taken from a booklet entitled "13 Great Ways to Celebrate Halloween." You can obtain this booklet by sending 50¢, check or money order made payable to HALLOWEEN BOOKLET, along with your complete name and address printed clearly to:

STAR STYLE

Deidre Hall stays calm by meditating

By Renee Ross

Her award-winning TV role makes her beloved to millions of fans, but Deidre Hall admits that offscreen, she's just as human as everyone else.

Deidre Hall

"I've had moments when I've snapped at people and done all the things we all have done," says the actress, whose role as Dr. Marlena Evans on NBC's "Days of Our Lives" keeps her on top of soap opera viewers' popularity polls.

"Being a recognizable performer can sometimes put you in a stressful situation. Fortunately," she explains, "I've usually see it coming, and do whatever I must do to lay off stress."

Miss Hall also listens to her body when it comes to fitness needs.

"I don't have a regular exercise program," explains the 5-foot-7-inch, 125-pound actress. "I just do what needs to be done. I've been through a number of different phases. I've done aerobics on my lunch hour for about six months, and I've also gone to a body-building gym. Now, I bike ride, take jazz classes or simply run with my dogs. When I'm in New York City, I walk about six miles a day.

"Basically, I'm in tune with my body," adds the actress. "I'm aware when I haven't gotten enough sleep or when I've been so busy that I haven't taken the time to play. I eat the same way. I'm aware if I've eaten too much sugar or haven't had enough protein."

Miss Hall also practices meditation. "It's the best for stress," she says. "It helps you get centereed and grounded. For me, it works in both theory and practice."

The actress's sensible health attitude is summed up by her anti-smoking philosophy. "I quit smoking two-and-a-half years ago," she says, "and because of the metabolic change, I gained 15 pounds. The tendency to get crazy about it was pronounced, but I knew my body would rebalance itself in six to eight months. I knew the weight would fall off.

"It was a matter of taking better care of my other self — rather than my neurotic self — and saying, 'This is what temporarily happens.' I think a major part of being healthy is not to be neurotic about it."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Soap veterans return; Hastings are related

By Kimberly Redmond

Whatever happened to Don MacLaughlin and Helen Wagner, the actor and actress who portrayed Chris and Nancy Hughes on "As the World Turns"? They've been on the show since it began airing in April, 1956, then they were suddenly written off a few years ago. — V.R., Oshkosh, Wis.

Helen Wagner

Hope you're still watching the CBS soap, because MacLaughlin and Miss Wagner are back on the air. The only problem: Their appearances are infrequent, and they aren't involved in any front-burner story lines.

Help! I'm going crazy because I can't figure out the title of the song that's played whenever Pete Jannings (Michael Leon) and Melissa Anderson (Lisa Trusel) are together on "Days of Our Lives." — J.S., Indian Mills, N.J.

The name of the song is "The Way We Used to Be." It was recorded by Eric Carmen.

I've bet my allowance that "Days of Our Lives" stars Hope and Bo Brady (Kristian Alfonso and Peter Reckell) are not married in real life. My best friend says that they are. Who's right? D.S., Dartmouth, Canada.

You'll have more change jingling in your pockets this week, D.S., since you're right. Reckell (Bo) and Kristian Alfonso (Hope) aren't married to each other — or to anyone else. Off-screen, Reckell and Miss Alfonso are friends, but they don't date each other.

Are Don Hastings (Bob Hughes on "As the World Turns") and Bob Hastings (Capt. Bert Ramsey on "General Hospital") brothers? I detect a resemblance between them. — I.C., Detroit, Mich.

There is a resemblance between Don and Bob Hastings because they are siblings (Bob's the elder). The Brooklyn-born Hastings brothers have been performing professionally since their childhood days.

(Have a question about soap operas? Write Kimberly Redmond at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Those bad boys of magic, Penn Jillette (juggling) and his silent partner Teller, bring their comic hi-jinks to the small screen in "Penn & Teller Go Public," airing Wednesday, Oct. 23 on PBS. (Check local listings).

Susan Harris has a high-class problem

By Frank Lovece

Susan Harris isn't a golden girl. Unlike the four women who inhabit her new NBC series "The Golden Girls," the producer isn't a senior citizen living in Miami. She's a 44-year-old living in California. Still, when it comes to creating TV shows, Miss Harris is as golden as Fort Knox bullion.

Susan Harris

She created the hits "Soap" and "Benson." She also created the flops "It Takes Two," "I'm a Big Girl Now" and "Hail to the Chief." But look at it this way: How many people can strike out three times and still come up with the show all the pundits are touting as the next runaway hit?

"I've got a high-class problem," admits the earthy Miss Harris, "but I'd rather go in with positive press than negative. But yeah, it makes me a little nervous wondering if I can live up to the publicity."

Harris knows the pre-publicity jitters too well. Before "Soap" hit the air in 1977, people were condemning it for, among other reasons, featuring TV's first continuing gay character. Despite critical acclaim, four years of respectable ratings, a hit spinoff ("Benson") and the launching of several major careers, "'Soap,'" asserts Miss Harris, "was a victim of the advertising agencies who quickly succumbed to minority pressure groups."

Harris' new series, about four of a certain age sharing a home in Miami, doesn't look like it will be as sensitively outrageous as "Soap." For one thing, Harris is writing only a few of the show's episodes herself. But her stylistic touches will definitely be evident. As one of the show's three creators (along with her husband Paul Junger Witt and Tony Thomas), Miss Harris will be around to doctor scripts when she isn't off working on an upcoming Disney project.

"I've grown," she says, "but basically I'm the same person with the same sort of vision and the same slightly skewed way of looking at things. My view of the world has remained fairly consistent."

Does this mean "Soap's" Jessica Tate will someday visit "Golden Girls" as she spiritually visited "Benson"?

"No," laughs Miss Harris. "I have to assume Jessica lived because (actress) Katherine Helmond is in another show right now."

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Barbara Eden returns as dreamy 'Jeannie'

By Marc Minnelli

The belly-button is still the same. So is the twitching nose, wrinkling forehead and all the other accoutrements that make up a genie. And though Barbara Eden no longer pops out of a bottle every week, she's back again — whispy genie garb and all — in "I Dream of Jeannie — 15 Years Later." The made-for-TV movie, co-starring Wayne Rogers as Major Tony Nelson, airs Sunday, Oct. 20 on NBC.

Barbara Eden

The original "I Dream of Jeannie" series, which co-starred a pre-"Dallas" Larry Hagman, Bill Daily and Hayden Rorke, ran five years on NBC. It's been said that like that other favorite TV sitcom, "I Love Lucy," someone, somewhere is watching an episode of "I Dream of Jeannie" every minute of the day. Mention this to Miss Eden and the actress erupts into a toothy smile.

"Jeannie wasn't Lucy, but she had just as many situations and problems to which people related," she explains. "The show has become indelible because people relate to Jeannie's sense of power. Women wished they had her freedom, and men, well, I'm sure my skimpy outfits had something to do with the show's popularity."

It took Miss Eden, 51, two years to decide to return as the small-screen's magical wonder. "When I first heard about the idea, I wasn't happy with it," she admits. "The writers' Jeannie became a housewife who was tired of doing dishes; a housewife who becomes liberated. What no one seemed to understand was that my Jeannie has always been liberated. Why, she's known Marco Polo!"

The actress accepted the role "only after I read a decent script. Sidney Sheldon (the original 'Jeannie' writer) was writing another book, so we found Irma Kalish, who won an Emmy for 'All in the Family.' She also wrote some of the original 'Jeannie' scripts, and I think she wrote a winner."

Is the actress worried that the discerning public may not accept Rogers in Hagman's role as Jeannie's husband? She looks up, swallowing the last bite of crabmeat salad.

"I heard Larry wanted to do the role if it was a cameo, but it kept getting bigger and bigger. He had three weeks off from 'Dallas,' and he told me he didn't want to spend it working. It would have been nice having Larry, but I think Wayne brings a little more" — Miss Eden pauses, searching for the right word — "credibility to the role."

SHOW AND TELL

'Family' star basks in syndicated glory

By Gregory Garver

"Family" had a five-year run on ABC and was unceremoniously dumped in 1980. But now the primetime soap is having a syndicated rebirth, and the show's stars are, once again, basking in glory.

Sada Thompson

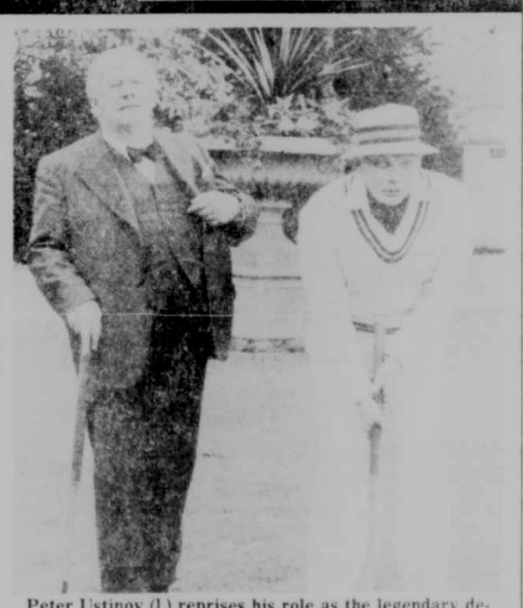
One of those stars is Sada Thompson, who played Kate Lawrence, the long-suffering mother/wife of the "Family" clan. She says that today, a new generation of viewers have discovered the show.

"I think we could have gone on the network longer," Miss Thompson explains. "I don't know why they dropped us. Perhaps it was politics, but I don't think we'll ever know the truth. All I know is that they dumped us suddenly in mid season, after we had done 12 or 13 shows.

"It was a bit of a shock," adds the actress. "They paid us for the whole year, but they simply didn't care to make any more episodes. That was that."

Still, the experience was pleasant enough for the Broadway veteran to consider another television series.

"But only if I liked it as well as I liked 'Family,'" she explains. "And a show like that is hard to find. I liked the idea of 'Family;' I liked the people; why, I liked everything about it."



In recent years, Miss Thompson has returned to theater, though she makes frequent guest TV appearances.

"But I have done much more theater than TV," she says. "It's not so much that I think the theater audience is more elite, but I prefer playing to fewer people."

Miss Thompson was born in Iowa, and moved to New Jersey as a youngster. She studied acting at Carnegie Tech, where she met Don Stewart, an acting student whom she eventually married. Miss Thompson and Stewart, a retired Pan Am computer administrator, live in Southbury, Conn.

Editor's note: Dick Kleiner interviewed Sada Thompson on a "Love Boat"-sponsored cruise.

SATURDAY

Peter Ustinov (l.) reprises his role as the legendary detective Hercule Poirot, while solving the mystery behind the murder of Lord Edgware, in "Agatha Christie's '13 At Dinner,'" Saturday, October 19. Ailan Cuthbertson co-stars as Sir Montagu.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

Wishes do come true. Barbara Eden reprises her role as TV's magical genie in "I Dream of Jeannie — 15 Years later," airing Sunday, Oct. 20 on NBC. Wayne Rogers co-stars as Major Tony Nelson.

CINDY SAYS

Patti Davis has a novel idea: a novel

By Cindy Adams

Patti Davis, poetry writer and offspring of Ronald Reagan, has just completed her first novel. It's called "Homefront," and it's set in the '60s. It's about a girl whose father is a state governor. You must admit Patti's creative.

Patti Davis

"Homefront" was Patti's idea. She personally submitted it. Crown Publishers thought it needed polishing and suggested novelist Maureen Strange Foster as a collaborator. When major bookstores heard that Reagan's daughter's name would be on the book, their normal sales tripled.

The president has been a bit busy, so he hasn't read the manuscript, and no, he hasn't interfered in any way.

A first novel often brings an advance of $5,000. Miss Davis's advance is a six-figure sum. Put it this way: She'll definitely do personal appearances with this book.

In case you didn't know it, Tuesday Weld and violinist Pinchas Zukerman are a big romance. She's divorced from Dudley Moore. He's separated from wife Eugenia. Tuesday and Pinchas live in separate apartments in the same Central Park West building. The elevator gets lots of action.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I think Gerald McRaney, the actor who plays Rick on "Simon & Simon," is gorgeous. Could you tell me something about him? — J.L.H., Glenwood, Iowa.

Gerald McRaney

The actor was born on Aug. 19 in Collins, Mississippi. In junior high school, he broke his leg during a football game. While he was recuperating, McRaney took the advice of his sister and auditioned for a play at a nearby school. He won the role, and his acting career began.

After studying drama at the University of Mississippi, McRaney moved to New Orleans and worked with a repertory company. Eventually he came to Los Angeles, where he studied with Jeff Corey. Within six months he was a guest star on the "Night Gallery" series. McRaney's other small-screen credits include "Roots II: The Next Generation," "The Jordan Chance," "Women in White," "The Haunting Passion" and "Stranger in the House."

McRaney has also starred in the fantasy film "The Never Ending Story." The actor and his "Simon & Simon" co-star, Jameson Parker, will be seen in the upcoming movie "Jackals."

The actor and his wife Pat live in Malibu, Calif., with their three children: Jessica (19); Angus (15); and Kate (3).

My friend and I have a bottle of very good champagne riding on the answer to our bet. I say Red Skelton has passed away, and my friend insists the comedian is still alive. What's the verdict? — D.M., Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Red Skelton, who recently turned 72, is still alive. He lives in the Palm Springs, Calif., area.

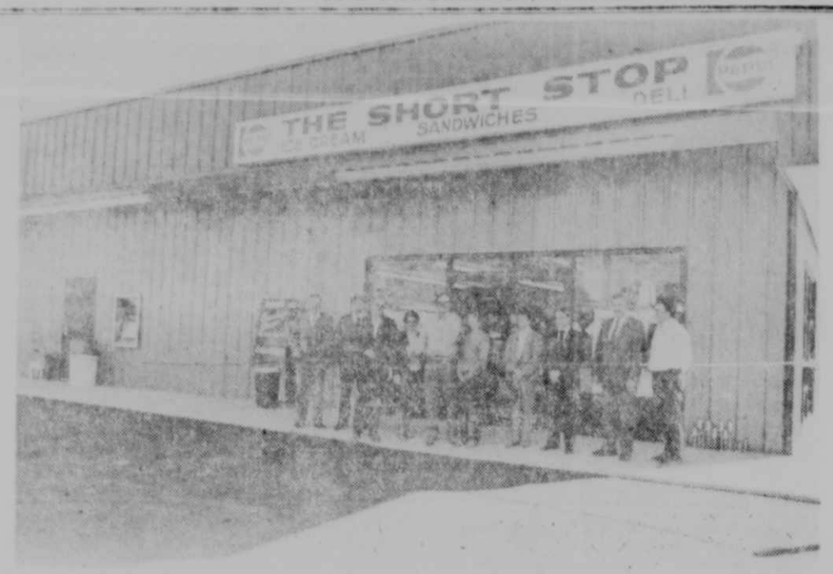
Accident Council Plans A Safe "Trick Or Treat"

"Trick or Treat Night" was among the items of business discussed by Accident Mayor Wayne Fratz and Councilmen Hobert Bowser, Richard Carlson, James Smith, and Charles Strauss at the October 7 town council meeting.



Thursday, October 31, was designated "Trick or Treat Night" by the mayor and council, with the hour from 6 to 7 p.m. chosen as the time for children, age 12 and under supervised by an adult, to take part in the activity. Town officials have requested that only neighborhood youngsters from the Accident area participate and that they visit only those homes which have a porch light on.

EDA Grant for Industrial Park

Town officials were informed through the county's Economic Development Department that the Economic Development Administration has approved the Garrett County Commissioners' application for federal grant assistance to provide for road, water, and sewer construction to further develop sites in the Central Garrett Industrial Park. The Economic Development Administration will provide $245,600 in federal funds and the county will provide $61,400 in local funds.

This project will extend the access road and water and sewer lines, opening the remaining 50 acres of the park for new industrial placement. Tom Jones, county development director, will be meeting with the town council in November to discuss the engineering design and the town's furnishing the water and sewer services. It is anticipated that construction will begin in the spring.

The Central Garrett Industrial Park is located within the town limits and has been designated as a state enterprise zone.

Energy Savings

The Allegany County Office of the Cooperative Extension Service recently notified the town that the Accident Municipal Building had been selected as one of the five buildings to be included in the Small Town Energy Education Project (STEEP). This is a pilot project for Allegany and Garrett Counties. The Allegany Extension Service, Allegany Energy Council, and Potomac Edison will be working with the five selectees to monitor their energy usage and make recommendations for savings.

Marjorie Fratz, Accident town clerk, attended an introductory meeting on October 3 in Cumberland where information was given on the program, including data participants will be asked to provide during the next two-year period.

Sometime during the month of November a representative from Potomac Edison will conduct a walk-through energy audit and make recommendations for low-cost improvements. Assistance will also be available for the development of an energy management program.

The town applied for participation in August and is specifically interested in recommendations for a new heating system and energy savings for the municipal building housing the town hall and garage and shop areas. The Garrett County Community Action Agency of Oakland is also participating from Garrett County in this pilot project.

Water and Wastewater Facilities

The town has contracted with Sturdi-Built Pole Buildings of Accident to construct a shelter building over the clarifiers at the sewage treatment plant. Since the plant was constructed, plant operators have experienced problems with freezing of the equipment during severe cold periods in the winter months. This project is high on the recommendation list of the State Office of Environmental Programs for correction by the town.

Approval was granted to purchase three new electric heaters to replace the old ones used in the chlorine rooms at the two water pumping stations and sewage treatment plant.

Cable Television

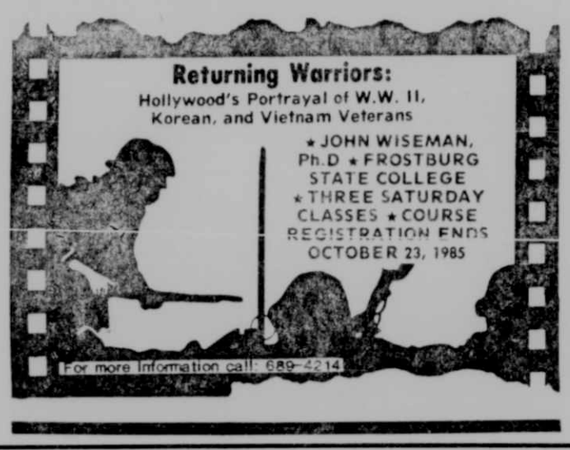
Representatives from Cable TV of Confluence, Pa., met with the council to discuss improvements they have made to the cable television system serving the town. Most of the old lines and metal posts have been removed and replaced with new lines on existing utility poles, providing more reliable service and a better appearance to the neighborhood.

Subscribers will be informed in the November billing of the offering of one additional new channel as well as an optional premium channel. A rate increase of 75 cents per month is scheduled to become effective January 1.

Work Order System

The council approved the institution of a work order system for maintaining town operations. Residents having routine general maintenance concerns or water and sewer service problems are requested to contact the town clerk at 826-8149, to report the problem. Written work orders will then be issued to the town maintenance supervisor. This system will not be applicable to emergency situations.

New Horizons To Administer Aptitude Test



The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College has made arrangements with the Department of Employment and Training to administer the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery) to interested persons on Wednesday, October 23, at the Oakland Center of GCC in Room 603. The GATB Test measures aptitudes in individuals' lives which can be used to direct them into new careers or can help to support career ideas that persons may already have. It can also help determine what classes to pursue in building or improving skills.

The test will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until noon, or until the testing is completed. A limited number of individuals can be tested at one time so spaces will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

This testing opportunity will be offered free of charge to the public. In order to assure registration, persons should call the New Horizons Program weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 334-9184 as soon as possible as adequate testing materials must be reserved ahead of the testing date.

Job Information Now Available Via Telephone

Persons seeking information about job openings, work training, unemployment insurance and the labor market in general can now get answers to their questions 24 hours a day.

Brent Johnson, Maryland secretary of employment and training, has announced the implementation of WORKLINE, a "dial-a-tape" system that provides 75 taped messages providing answers to those questions most often asked by persons interested in the services provided through the Department of Employment and Training.

"One of life's irritations is being put on hold by the person on the other end of a telephone call. Perhaps more annoying is having your call routed through various offices when seeking information. This is especially true when someone is trying to get service from a government agency," Johnson said.

In addition to information on unemployment insurance, job placement and training, and the labor market there are also tapes which provide new unemployment rates each month for the state as a whole and the various geographic regions within the State.

Department officials explained that callers with push button phones can use WORKLINE 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Callers with rotary or pulse phones can contact the system between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday by dialing 1-800-DET WORK at no cost.

Mr. Johnson said, "We want to make it clear that this system is not intended to inhibit those persons who want to discuss an issue directly with a department official.

"As a matter of fact," he pointed out, "each message ends with a number for an assistance operator if a caller wishes to talk to someone directly or needs further information."

Persons desiring a brochure which provides instructions on how to use WORKLINE and a listing of available message tapes should call or write: WORKLINE, Department of Employment and Training, 1100 N. Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201; telephone: 1-800-422-5627.

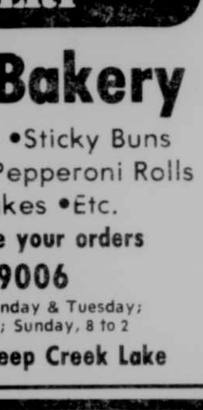
CLASS OF 65 — The 1965 graduating class of Southern High School met August 10 at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. A total of 64 classmates attended their twentieth reunion which also included a picnic the following day at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Prizes in various categories were awarded to many class members at the dinner and picnic. The class voted to have another reunion in five years and new officers were elected.

Sen. Bambacus Calls For Reform In Education

In an effort to improve Maryland's system of public education, State Senator John N. Bambacus has issued a call to arms among members of the educational and legislative communities.

"We are facing a crisis in education in Maryland," Bambacus stated, "and there are a number of issues which need to be addressed. Quality in education, remedial education, teacher preparation, and articulation between elementary, secondary, and higher education, are all areas of concern.

Bambacus, a member of the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee, cited a recent report from the city of Baltimore which indicated that 32 of the 158 new teachers hired over the summer failed to pass a required writing test. "Expenditures for education keep increasing, yet there continues to be evidence of a decline in performance," the senator said. "We must take action to ensure high standards leading to high academic performance.

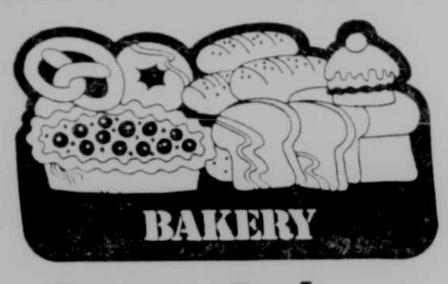


"Baltimore's experience, coupled with a Department of Education survey that showed Maryland schools will need 9,000 new teachers through 1987, tells me that we must initiate action immediately. We can't afford to wait until 1987, when there will be shortages in almost every field except physical education."

Bambacus recently returned from the Southern Regional Education Board's Legislative Work Conference, where he represented the state of Maryland at the request of Governor Harry Hughes. At the conference, it was reported that a poll of the nation's governors concluded that improving the schools was a number one priority in most state capitols.

"I believe that's how it should be," Bambacus continued. "However, as expenditures continue to rise, we must be able to assure the public that they can have confidence in their system of public education.

"This state committed $616 million over five years to Maryland schools through the Civiletti proposals in 1984. That was the greatest single dollar outlay for education in the state's history. In addition, Maryland this year will receive over $1.5 million from the federal government to carry out Title II of the Education for Economic Security Act (PL 98-377) which was designed to respond to the growing crisis in science and mathematics education, particularly to the growing shortages of qualified teachers in these areas.



"That's a lot of money. We need to be sure that we're getting a favorable return on the investment. Too many unanswered questions indicate that we are not," he concluded.

THE DELAWDER FAMILY will be presenting an evening of sacred music at the Deep Creek Baptist Church on Friday, October 18, at 7:30 p.m. The family will also speak on how they "lost their home, struggled with bitterness and came through victorious for Jesus," according to a spokesman for the group. The program is free to the public, although a freewill offering will be taken. Records and tapes produced by the DeLawder will also be available.

State's Low-Interest Mortgage Purchase Program To Be Reopened

Governor Harry Hughes announced Monday that the state's Mortgage Purchase Program, which provides below-market mortgage loans to qualified homebuyers, will reopen November 13.

The Community Development Administration, a division of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development, has sold more than $150 million in bonds to fund low-interest mortgages, the largest bond sale in the agency's history. Of that total, more than $50 million will be made available through the Mortgage Purchase Program in 18 jurisdictions on whose behalf bonds were sold.

Garrett County has been allocated $950,000.

"Maryland is one of a few states in which the state and local governments work closely together to provide affordable housing," said Governor Hughes. The balance of the available proceeds of the bond sale will be used to finance low-interest mortgage loans through CDA's Homeownership Development Program, which will reopen in December.

To qualify for low-interest mortgages through the Mortgage Purchase Program, family income must be $33,000 a year or less, and the income of single individuals cannot exceed $28,000 a year, except in Baltimore City. Borrowers must be first-time homebuyers, except in certain targeted areas, including Baltimore City, the city of Hagerstown, and Allegany, Caroline, Dorchester, Garrett, Kent, and Somerset counties.

To make homeownership more affordable for families with limited incomes, two interest rates have been established. Borrowers earning $20,000 a year or less will pay 9.50 percent interest; those with incomes of more than $20,000 a year will pay 10.25 percent interest.

To make it easier for people with limited incomes to obtain the low-interest mortgages, participating lenders will be required to set aside 35 percent of their mortgage allocations for borrowers with incomes of $20,000 or less per year.

"We are announcing this program a month before it opens in order to give people time to find a home to buy," said Governor Hughes. "In order to obtain a low-interest mortgage through the Mortgage Purchase Program, people must have a signed sales contract on a qualifying home before they apply for a mortgage."

"We advise borrowers to apply for a low-interest mortgage as soon as the money becomes available on November 13," said DECD Secretary Thomas H. Maddux. "This low-interest money will be loaned out very quickly, and those who apply first will have the best chance of obtaining mortgage money."

CDA officials advise borrowers to have a signed sales contract contingent on receiving CDA financing when they apply for a mortgage. If they do not receive CDA financing, they cannot be legally held to the contract.

When the funds become available on November 13, people interested in obtaining a loan should apply directly to the participating lending institutions. Information on participating lenders will be released on November 8, and advertised in major daily newspapers throughout the state on Sunday, November 10.

Newly constructed or existing single-family residences, including townhouses, detached or semi-detached homes and condominiums, are eligible for financing. Modular homes qualify for financing if they carry the state seal of approval for code compliance.

The maximum purchase price of a home in Garrett County is $66,000.

Since it began in 1980, the Mortgage Purchase Program has provided more than 6,300 mortgage loans to Maryland residents, for a total of more than $270.5 million.

For further information, persons may contact CDA's Single-Family Programs office at (301) 269-3524, or call toll-free 1-800-638-7781 outside the Baltimore metropolitan area.

Make sure your water measures up to the rest of your menu.

Spotty silverware or etched, streaked glasses can really turn off your valued restaurant customers. The same goes for poor-tasting water inside those glasses.

A water analysis from your Culligan dealer can help you change water from a liability into an asset with Culligan drinking water systems or water conditioners.

Culligan drinking water systems make water—and all the things you make from it, like coffee and tea—taste better.

Culligan water conditioners help prevent mineral deposits, so dishes, silverware and glassware are virtually spotless after washing. You'll save on soaps. And require fewer water-related service calls.

Make your water a daily special. Call your Culligan dealer.

Breathe Easy

by Sandy Blackbird
Director of Black Lung Program
Preston Medical Associates

Hello, everyone! I'm Sandy Blackbird, director of the Black Lung Program at Preston Medical Associates in Rowlesburg, W.Va. This is the first in a series of articles all about your lungs, diseases that affect them, and some hints to help you cope with the problems associated with breathing difficulties.

There are many reasons for breathing problems: cigarette smoking, air pollution, the common cold or flu, not to mention the serious diseases like emphysema, tuberculosis, bronchitis, lung cancer and coal miners' pneumoconiosis (black lung), just to name a few. I plan to address one subject a month and keep you informed on the activities of our Black Lung Program.

One of the biggest concerns is the coal miner who is either working or retired and is encountering problems with everyday activities at work or home that may be related to the disease of coal miners' pneumoconiosis, also called CWP, or coal workers' penumoconiosis.

Medical aspects of coal workers pneumoconiosis can be divided into two groups called "simple or complicated." Simple CWP is the earliest and commonest consequence of the continued inhalation of coal dust. The dust accumulates in the lungs and can be seen on x-rays; the heaviest deposits are around the respiratory bronchioles. Over the years, as more coal dust piles up, some of the respiratory bronchioles become dilated, a condition called focal emphysema.

Unless other lung conditions are also present, simple CWP causes virtually no symptoms and no respiratory difficulty. Different groups of workers have shown some slight changes in various respiratory mechanics, but no consistent pattern has emerged. Simple CWP alone doesn't shorten the life span, and comprehensive studies have shown that coal dust inhalation alone carries no increased risk of lung cancer.

In about three percent of all simple CWP victims, a more serious type of disease develops, one known as progressive massive fibrosis or PMF (fibrosis is defined as a toughening of the tissue in the lungs). This is known as complicated CWP. In this disease, fibrosis begins to develop in some of the dust accumulations. Each fibrotic area spreads and then merges with other fibrotic areas. Eventually, most of the lungs are filled with stiffened, useless tissue. This PMF considerably shortens the life of its victim, who may die from the respiratory failure, or severe infection.

Complicated CWP most often afflicts miners with heavy deposits of coal dust in their lungs, but from time to time it occurs in miners with less coal dust in their lungs. How and why progressive massive fibrosis gets started is a medical mystery and a research challenge. It may appear suddenly, years after a miner has left the mines. It does not necessarily strike those who have the heaviest deposits of coal in their lungs, and, perhaps most surprising of all, it sometimes stops suddenly for no discernible reason.

For a long time, fibrosis in coal miners was attributed primarily to silica in the lungs. Nowadays, silica is not considered the principal agent, but is thought to play some role in the fibrotic process—a process that still defies explanation, despite extensive international research.

Smoking has an adverse effect on the overall health of a miner's lungs, although it apparently has little effect on the development of CWP itself. Cigarettes cause chronic bronchitis and emphysema in miners, just as they do in nonminers. Sophisticated tests have shown that nonsmoking miners have a slight degree of lung obstruction and only minimal disturbance in the way their lungs fill with air; both of these changes are five to six times more marked in miners who smoke.

I hope this has shed some light on CWP (black lung) diesease. If you are a miner retired or working and have any questions on filing for black lung disability or have a case already filed and have any questions give me a call. If I can't answer your question immediately, I'll be happy to phone you back. And don't forget, if you have a medical problem be sure to contact your family doctor or give us a call at (304) 454-2421 or 454-2422.

Next month we'll talk about emphysema.

STOP HEAT LOSS

NATIONAL ENERGY AWARNESS WEEK is slated for October 20-27 and the Maryland Energy Council, along with the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, are encouraging local residents to take steps to increase conservation of energy in their homes. Pictured above right are members of the Energy Council planning for the annual home monitoring program. They are, left to right, Jim Stevenson, Joline Nelson, Bill McKenzie, Dave Dorsey, and Trisha Easterday. Not present for the photo were Owen Morris, Chuck Biedka, Tom Edwards, Wendell Keaton, Pam Nelson, and George Plitnik. At direct right, Nathan Paul shows one way his parents have controlled fuel costs in their 2,600 square foot home, by inserting these insulating window panels during the cold months, along with plenty of insulation, caulking, and weatherstripping. This has enabled them to keep their monthly fuel bill to under $60. Below right, caulking is one way to fill heat leaks in a home, which account for as much as one third of fuel costs. Above left, Wayne Hosselrode, of Potomac Edison, completes the energy audits for the home monitoring program. Residents can find out through an audit where their major heat loss areas are, and what the best method is to stop that loss. Below left, Jim Stevenson and Bill McKenzie check out a computer program for monitoring fuel costs.

October 20-27 is National Energy Awareness Week. The theme is "Energy Security for Peace and Prosperity." The Energy Council and the Extension Service challenge area residents to take some actions to improve their own energy future.

Over the past ten years, Americans have decreased their use of fossil fuels in their homes. It has been said that the western world now uses 16% less energy to produce $1.00 of economic output than it did in 1973. Ten years ago, no one imagined the idea that old, leaky houses could be retrofitted and achieve a 90 percent reduction in fuel use . . . much less, new houses that need virtually no outside fuel.

Despite all of the successes, the political instability of the Middle East makes it wise management for homeowners to continue to try to control their fuel usage. In a recent study by the National Bureau of Standards, the average home could save 41% more on their fuel bills. This can be done by lowering thermostats, caulking, weatherstripping and insulating.

Several area residents are well on their way to their energy self-sufficiency, through the help of the home monitoring program. The home monitoring program is available to any Allegany or Garrett County residents who own their own home and heat with gas or electricity. If offers a free energy audit from Potomac Edison, plus educational information from the Cooperative Extension Service, and monitoring of fuel costs over a two-year period on the computer.

This annual program is in its third year. Twelve selected households will be able to participate. The information gleaned from the program is used to show others how they can cut back on their fuel costs.

Area residents who have particiated in the past two years have saved an average of $389.00 off their fuel bills with recommendations from the energy audit. If you would like to participate, fill in the coupon below and mail to the Cooperative Extension Service, 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, by October 31.

Workshop On Wood Stoves Set In Cumberland

The cast iron "monster" sitting in many homes fills some folks with fear. The work and mess associated with burning wood causes some to wonder if it's really worth it. Moving the heat and keeping up with the wood stove can be a chore. Perhaps some of these fears and uncertainties can be relieved by attending the "Wood Burning Seminar" October 29 at the South Cumberland Library, Cumberland, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. To register for this seminar, persons may call 724-3320 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

John Grid from the University of Maryland, Agricultural Engineering Department, will conduct a session to help answer questions on:

- how to season wood in less than 8-10 months.
- how to store wood properly.
- simple ways to reduce creosote problems.
- how to control back-puffing chimneys.
- moving the heat to the rest of the house.
- solving problems in starting and operating a stove.

"WRAP" Program Offered By PE

Potomac Edison is now offering the "WRAP" Program-Weatherization Residential Assistance Program.

This program provides long-term weatherization assistance to low-income electric heat customers who meet state energy assistance guidelines. It provides for the installation of materials designed to reduce electricity consumption, including: hot water heater jackets, weatherstripping, electrical outlet seals, door sweeps, low shower heads, caulking, ceiling, wall and floor insulation and storm windows. The installation of the materials is based on an energy analysis conducted by the Potomac Edison Residential Service Representative.

Energy-Saving Windows Available

Although windows are necessary to let in light and sunshine during the day, at night they can counteract all of the insulating and weatherizing you have done. Even when tightly closed, windows conduct heat out during winter and in during summer. They affect comfort also; a person sitting by a cold window will be chilled by drafts and radiant heat loss.

Until now, common approaches to solving these problems have included a second or third pane of glass or buying insulating shutters or shades. But double glazing conducts six times more heat than a standard wall insulated to R-11 and fifteen times more heat than a wall insulated to R-20. And, unless you consistently shut moveable insulation each night and open it to admit daytime solar gain - and do the reverse in hot weather - you may have a hard time justifying the costs.

Recently a new type of window has been developed and marketed that cuts window heat loss, reduces condensation, and improves comfort. Heat reflecting, or low-emissivity (low-E) windows use special reflective coatings and suspended thin films. They can improve the R-value of double glazed windows from R-2 to as high as R-5.

These new windows depend on a metallized coating to upgrade their performance. Some manufacturers coat a thin film and suspend it between two layers of glass; others coat the glass itself. Of the two types of construction, the suspended-film windows have performed the best. They are also the highest cost.

Depending on the manufacturer, the suspended film performs different functions. One leading producer applies a heat-reflective coating, which reflects radiant heat back into the living space. A second type of film promotes the transmission of solar energy.

In the second type of low-E window, a heat-reflective metal coating is "sputtered" directly on one layer of glass facing into the air space of a double glazed unit. This type of window has an R-value better than that of triple glazing, with less weight and more effective transmission of solar energy.

In the near future, we will be seeing more innovations with windows. Scientists are predicting that windows with insulating values of R-9 to R-14 will be available within several years.

For more information, persons may contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, 724-3320.

Energy Tips

With all of the new products on the market, replacing an old furnace can be a complicated decision. However, if the right product is chosen the reward can be worth hundreds of dollars to the consumer. Replacing an old, 35 percent efficient furnace with an 85 percent efficient furnace can cut fuel bills by more than half and pay for itself within four years.

Furnaces and boilers are rated by what is called the Annual Fuel Utilization Efficiency (AFUE). This rating predicts the actual working efficiency of that unit on a typical winter day in a typical house. There are some rules of thumb as to what characterizes equipment in various efficiency ranges. Generally, a gas furnace with a pilot light and no vent damper will have an EFUE of 59-65 percent. Intermittent ignition instead of a pilot raises efficiency into the 65-71 percent range. The addition of an automatic vent damper will move that furnace into the 80 percent efficient range. Adding a power burner or an induced-draft system will make a furnace 80-86 percent efficient. To get above an 86 percent rating, a condensing system is needed. This system extracts enough heat from the flue gases to condense the water vapor in them and capture the latent heat.

Oil furnaces and boilers with AFUE's above 75 percent have a standard oil burner, from 75-80 percent they have a retention-head burner. In the 75-80 percent AFUE range they also have a derated burner (a smaller nozzle that feeds oil to the flame at a slower rate) and an improved heat exchanger. To get into the 80-87 percent range it will have an automatic vent damper. To be more than 87 percent efficient, burners must have a condensing system.

It should be noted that while established methods are used to test the efficiency of furnaces and boiler, the actual efficiency ratings can be affected by other factors, such as installation and maintenance.

To find a ball-park figure for what your savings would be for installing a new furnace a simple formula can be used. Using the total number of units of fuel used for one year's heating season with your old furnace (therms of gas or gallons of oil) multiply this by 0.8 if some of that fuel is used for heating hot water, or by 1.0 if none is used for hot water heating. Multiply that product by the AFUE of your present furnace. If you don't know what your AFUE is, use 55 for gas or 60 for oil. Divide that product by the AFUE of the new furnace you are considering purchasing. This product is the number of units of fuel you'll have to buy to heat your home with the new furnace for a year.

To calculate your annual savings, subtract the number of fuel units you'll need to buy with the new furnace from the number of fuel units you normally use for one year of heating with your old furnace. Multiply that answer by the cost you pay for a unit of fuel. That product is the approximate amount of money you will save per year by installing a new, more efficient furnace.

Garrett Branch Bank Robbed, Suspect Sought

The Mtn. Lake Park branch office of the Garrett National Bank was robbed Tuesday morning and members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are still searching for the suspect, according to Chief Deputy Harland Tichnell, who is conducting the investigation.

Tichnell said the robbery occurred at 11:43 a.m. when a white male entered the branch office, located on Route 135, and slipped a note to one of the three tellers on duty demanding money and claiming he had a bomb. Upon receiving an undetermined amount of cash, the suspect fled on foot leaving what he said was a bomb taped to the rear inside entrance of the bank.

The suspect is described as being five feet, six inches to five feet, eight inches tall, weighing between 150 and 160 pounds and wearing a green Army-type field jacket, according to reports filed with the chief deputy. Other sources reported that the suspect had a mustache and was wearing glasses.

Although details of what the package actually was have not been released, Robert Ramsey, an explosives technician with the state fire marshal's office in Hagerstown did confirm the device was not a bomb. Ramsey said the device has been sent to FBI headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Also dispatched to the scene were James Martin and Guy Carola of the local state fire marshal's office, several deputies from the sheriff's department and the Evidence Collection Unit of the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment.

A bad break came for police when the bank camera film was developed and found to be exposed at the beginning and end of the reel, one section of which happened to be the shots of the suspect.

Immediately following the robbery, police surrounded the area of the bank on foot and in police vehicles following possible leads on U.S. Route 219 South and on Rt. 135. They also conducted a door to door search in the vicinity of the bank.

Sheriff Van Evans said this morning they still have no firm leads in the case which continues to be investigated by the chief deputy.

THE SCENE OF THE CRIME — Pictured above are local police officials reopening the Mtn. Lake Park branch office of the Garrett National Bank following a bank robbery which occurred there Tuesday morning. An undetermined amount of cash was taken during the robbery when a white male, described as weighing between 150 and 160 pounds and being five feet, six inches to five feet, eight inches tall, entered the bank and slipped a note to a teller demanding cash and saying he had planted a bomb at the door. The suspect fled on foot and is still being sought by the Sheriff's Department. Photo by Craig Phillips

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners at a press conference Tuesday announced the names of 20 county citizens who will now be serving on the Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Committee.

Those appointed include: Lois Brenneman, Kitzmiller; Jean Coviello, Mtn. Lake Park; John Sines, Oakland; Donald Manning, Mtn. Lake Park; Karl Schwalm, M.D., Oakland; Mildred Crane, Oakland; Wilfred and Hazel Meyers, Friendsville; Rev. David Mahoney, Mtn. Lake Park; Philip Lauver, Oakland; Robert Ulino, Mtn. Lake Park; Ann Abrahamson, Oakland; Mary Jane Berry, Mtn. Lake Park; Suzanne Conger, Oakland; Constance Margison, Oakland; Jessie McCullough, Friendsville; Kathy Zender, Oakland; Mary I. Love, Oakland; Martha Jackowski, Sky Valley; Donald Quinn, Oakland; and Ernest Gregg Jr., Oakland.

Road Stays

Also Tuesday, the commissioners decided to keep the Smearman Road, located in the northern end of the county, in the county roads system.

That decison was prompted by a public hearing earlier in the day at which a petition containing 66 names was presented to the board to urge them to keep the road in the system, according to Commissioner John G. Braskey.

Previously, the roads department recommended the .06 of a mile road be excluded from the system due to the problem of maneuvering snow removal equipment on the dead-end road and due to the fact that only three or four families lived on the road.

"When that many people talk,

Lake Regulations To Be Topic Of Public Hearing

A public hearing will be held on Saturday, November 23, by the Department of Natural Resources on a draft of proposed regulations for the Deep Creek Lake Natural Resource Management Area.

Slated to begin at noon in the auditorium of Garrett Community College, the purpose of this hearing will be to provide the public with an opportunity to voice their opinions and concerns regarding the proposed regulations. Copies of these proposed regulations will be available for public review in the Lake Management Office beginning on Wednesday, October 30, 1985.

According to Michael R. Gregory, lake manager, it should be realized that these

Timely Reminder

Although legislators are trying to gain a month on Daylight Savings Time, local citizens are reminded to set their clocks back one hour before retiring Saturday night. That means one can watch the late show and still gain an extra hour of sleep. On the other hand, it means one will be ready to go to bed right after dinner Sunday due to the state of darkness.

Registration Now Open For Evening High Schools

Registrations are now being received for attending the Evening High School which was recently approved by the Garrett County Board of Education.

Students may register at the Board of Education Office, 40 South Fourth Street, Oakland, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., up to November 11. Registration will also be held two evenings, November 7 and 11, at each high school from 6 to 9 p.m. (Northern High School is located in the Northern Middle School building).

According to John Ledden, coordinator, the program is designed to provide regular high school courses for those who have not completed their high school requirements. Courses will be selected based on student needs. Some courses being considered are 12th grade English, U.S. history and Career & Employability IV. Students in Career & Employability IV may also earn up to one credit for supervised job training experience.

Evening high school classes will begin on Monday, November 11. Classes will meet each Monday and Thursday through June at both high schools from 6 to 9:15 p.m.

Students may register for one or two courses. "All students must begin at the beginning of the term so it is important to register now," Ledden said.

Interested students are encouraged to contact Ledden at the Board of Education Office.

Halloween Treat, Parade Slated For Oakland Children

A Halloween parade, followed by various games, prizes and a treat giveaway, will be held in Oakland next Thursday, October 31, in lieu of regular trick or treating for Oakland children.

The parade is slated to begin at 7 p.m. at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College and will end at the Oakland fire department via Second, Alder and Third Streets. Prizes will be awarded for various costumes and may be claimed at the fire hall following the parade. A treat will then be given to Oakland children, sponsored by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council.

A spokesman from the town hall said that donations are "way down" this year and urged all businessmen and citizens to donate money to ensure a treat for all Oakland children.

The parade and post-parade activities are sponsored by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. Proceeds go to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

The famous Autumn Glory German Oom-pah Band is slated to play for the cake walk at the fire hall following the parade.

Hearing Planned For Proposals On Re-Districting

The Garrett County Board of Education has scheduled a public meeting to gain input to making a decision on the proposals made by a committee assigned to study the various school districts in the county.

The meeting will be held in the Garrett Community College auditorium on November 5 at 8 p.m.

The proposals were developed as a result of the Board's interest in eliminating overlapping school attendance districts, improving the utilization of school building capacities, and providing for a more efficient and effective pupil transportation system. At this time, the Board of Education is interested in considering only three proposals relative to re-districting.

The first proposal would draw the school district lines between Accident and Grantsville elementary schools so that the Grantsville School would retain its present area, but also include all students living on the Legeer Road, Beachy Road, Foxtown Road, Orendorf Road, Route 495 North from Rock Lodge Road, Brenneman Road, and the Frank Brenneman Road. The Accident Elementary School would, therefore, retain its present drawing area exclusive of these roads.

The second proposal would draw the school district lines between Accident and Friendsville elementary schools so that the Friendsville School would retain its present area, but also include all students living on the Milt DeWitt Road, Route 42 South to and including the Hubert Friend residence, Gap Run Road, the Sang Run Road between Bishoff Road and White Rock Road, and the Sang Run-Cranesville Road from the eastern edge of Garrett State Forest to the White Rock Road. The Accident School would retain the remainder of its present area exclusive of these roads.

Lastly, it is proposed that the present attendance districts for Broad Ford and Dennett Road elementary schools be retained except that all of Mary Drive and any future streets south of and off of Mary Drive be included in the Dennett Road Elementary School district.

The committee consisted of Albert Coviello, Director of Pupil Services, Dr. Charleen Evans-Thomas, Director of Elementary Education, and Michael Sines, Supervisor of Transportation.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Schools, stated that all members of the public, and particularly those who might be affected by these proposals, are invited to attend the public meeting.

Steep Slope Veto Upheld

The governor's veto of the steep slope surface mining bill was sustained when a vote was taken during a session of the General Assembly last week.

"I thought we made some good arguments, but the votes just weren't there," said state Senator John N. Bambacus.

The bill had been passed in last winter's General Assembly session, but Governor Harry Hughes vetoed it, because he said the number of jobs relying on steep slope mining was not sufficient to warrant its enactment, and because he was concerned for the environmental impact the bill would have.

Both Sen. Bambacus and Delegate George Edwards voted in favor of overriding the veto, but the two-thirds vote necessary from both chambers to override the veto was not received.

The two legislators explained that it is very hard to override a veto, and out of the one hundred and some that had to be voted on, only two were overridden. Had the steep slope veto been overridden, the bill would have removed the state's prohibition on surface mining of coal at a slope of greater than 20 degrees.

Edwards says that he thought it was a good bill which had been amended to address the concerns people had. "A lot of people who were for the bill never spoke up publicly," he said. There were less people in Garrett County opposed to the bill than in Allegany County.

When asked if the bill would be reintroduced in this year's General Assembly, Edwards answered, "No way." He said, "We would be dealing with the same people we dealt with last year and nothing would be changed."

Edwards feels that a new approach must be taken with a redirection of how the issue is looked at. "It may be possible for the Bureau of Mines to sit down with maps and say that steep slope mining would be feasible in this area but not in that area. With that kind of a thought process going on, we might sometime be able to hook a map to a bill."

Drama Depts. Of GCC, NHS To Present "Dracula"

A giant bat hovers over the stage at Garrett Community College, ready to nestle a group of young actors from the college and Northern High School in its wings. The bat is the main attraction on the set of "Dracula," scheduled to open Wednesday, October 30, at the GCC auditorium.

A cooperative effort of the drama department of GCC and Northern High School, "Dracula" stars Steve Wilson, vice-principal of Mount Savage High School, in the title role of the vampire who can't sleep. Luann Hartley, a senior at NHS, plays the role of Lucy Stewart, his victim. Graham Rice, a freshman at GCC, plays the detective trying to unravel the strange doings and mysterious events that are turning the little village upside down.

Local Fire Fighters Kept Busy With Several Structure Blazes

Bulletin: A barn, located along the Dave Dixon Road near Friendsville, was destroyed by fire this morning. Fire fighters from Friendsville, Accident, and Deep Creek were called to the scene at 4:59 a.m. and found the structure fully involved in flame. It was reportedly owned by Barry Frazee.

According to a spokesman for the Deep Creek VFD, the livestock and equipment that were in the barn were saved. He stated that there was a large quantity of hay which fueled the blaze.

The cause of the fire is under investigation by Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett County. Friendsville firemen were still on the scene at press time this morning and further details were unavailable.

Also called to the scene was the Northern Rescue Squad, although there were apparently no injuries. Bittinger and Grantsville VFDs were placed on stand-by.

Local volunteer fire departments were kept busy this past week with a variety of structure fires, including one which leveled a large vacant building in downtown Friendsville and another which caused considerable damage in a Highview Apartment unit just east of Oakland. The origin of two blazes, including the Friendsville fire, are of a suspicious nature and are still under investigation by Guy Carola, investigator for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office.

Fire fighters from Friendsville, Accident, and Deep Creek were summoned Friday at 4:51 a.m. after fire was discovered in a two-story wood frame structure located at the corner of Maple and Morris streets in Friendsville. The building, which was estimated by Carola to be about 30 by 50 feet, was fully involved in flame upon the arrival of the firemen.

Carola said efforts were directed to protecting a two-story single family dwelling located just three feet from the east side of the burning building. Although the larger building was leveled, the house was saved, having sustained some fire damage to the rear and the attic and minor water and smoke damage inside.

Both structures were owned by Kenneth Friend and the house was occupied by Crystal Blake, who was not home at the time of the fire. Carola said Friend had insurance on the buildings.

Carola said at one time there was a store on the first floor of the building that was destroyed and there was a meeting room on the second floor.

The cause of the fire has been ruled suspicious by Carola, who stated that one witness first saw smoke coming from the structure and then a column of fire engulfed the building rapidly. Carola said that the building had been subject to vandalism in the past.

"They (the firemen) made a real good stop on this fire," Carola said.

Also damaged in the blaze were electric and telephone wires and several hundred residents were without these services for a number of hours. Leroy Fisher, director of public relations for C&P Telephone, stated that full service was restored by about 5 p.m. Friday.

Also responding to the scene was the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Grantsville firemen stood by at their station. Friendsville returned its last unit to the station at 12:08 p.m., but then had to be called out later in the afternoon when the fire rekindled.

Fire fighters from Oakland and Deer Park were called to the Highview Apartments just east of Oakland at 11:21 p.m. Saturday when fire broke out in the kitchen of one apartment in an eight-unit complex.

When fire personnel arrived they found heavy smoke coming from the two-bedroom unit, which was located on the lower level, second from the north end.

The fire was brought under control in about five minutes, however fire damage was extensive in the kitchen, while heat and smoke took a heavy toll on the remainder of the

Rankin Lusby To Speak At Banquet

Rankin Lusby will be the special guest speaker at the 48th annual Garrett County Farm Bureau Banquet on Friday, October 25, at 7 p.m. in the Grantsville Fire Hall.

Lusby was a farmer in the county at one time, and will be remembered by many as a former county extension agent under Jim McHenry, working with 4-H and youth.

He became an administrator in the Maryland Farm Bureau, and in 1972, he was promoted to director of publications for the American Farm Bureau Federation in Washington, D.C.

Lusby is the editor of Maryland Agriculture, a farm magazine published by AFBF that all Farm Bureau members receive each month. From his Washington office, he is also responsible for several other monthly state and regional publications.

Accompanying Lusby to the banquet will be his wife, Carole, and his son, Kyle.

Tickets for the banquet may be purchased for $2 from Merrell Wilburn. Persons may call 826-8239 for tickets or more information.

Friendsville Man Arrested, Charged Following Chase

A Friendsville man was arrested Monday near Cranesville after a three-and-a-half mile chase, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

David John Schroyer, 29, was charged with attempting to elude a police officer and reckless driving when he was apprehended by Deputy David Crossland.

The chase began on the Sang Run Road and continued to Schroyer's residence on the White Rock Road.

Dreama D. Lucas, Deer Park, reported that her purse was removed from a shopping cart in the store.

The purse was described as brown corduroy with a shoulder strap. It contained $80 in currency, a gold wallet with identification cards, and four keys on a gold chain.

Deputy L.E. Gnegy reported that no suspects are known at this time, and anyone locating the purse should contact the Sheriff's Department.

ERECTED IN ONE WEEKEND by the Gortner Amish community on a volunteer basis was this latest Garrett County Habitat for Humanity house, located along Foster Road. Construction of the floor system was donated by Jeff Bell and Dale Harvey, after which the Amish workers, led by Abe Kauffman, completed the walls, partitions, and roof. According to Sister Kathy Arata, representing the local Habitat group, another special event for Habitat occurred the same week this house was constructed. The organization's funds were totally depleted and the cost for materials for this house had not yet been covered. Then, as if a gift from heaven, a letter plus a check for $15,000 arrived in the mail from a foundation in Baltimore that wished to remain anonymous. The letter praised the local Habitat organization, and stated that the donation was given "in the name of Jesus Christ."

"WHAT ARE YOUR SYMPTOMS, MY DEAR?" asks Van Helsing, played by Graham Rice, of Lucy Stewart, the vampire victim, played by Luann Hartley, during a rehearsal of the play "Dracula." Helsing is a specialist in weird diseases and is trying to determine the cause of Lucy's malady as the mystery of Dracula unravels in the play of thrills, fun and special effects. The production is a joint effort of the drama departments of Garrett Community College and Northern High School. Performances are scheduled for October 30, 31, and November 1. A special midnight performance is slated for Halloween night where those arriving in costume will be admitted at half price. The part of Dracula is being played by Steve Wilson, vice-principal at Mount Savage High School. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Chase Manhattan Given Approval To Purchase S&L

After six long days of negotiations and a plea from Governor Harry Hughes, a plan for Chase Manhattan to purchase three ailing thrifts, Merritt, Chesapeake and Friendship savings and loans, was approved by the General Assembly.

Delegate George C. Edwards said that the "long emotional session" started last Thursday at 10 a.m. and ended, in the House, at approximately 3:15 a.m. on Tuesday, two grueling 18-hour days being included in that time span.

The legislature's efforts were to resolve a crisis that began last May with a run on some of the 102 S&Ls that were covered by a private insurance fund. In the words of Senator John N. Bambacus, "Garrett and Allegany County banks luckily were not affected by this; all our banks are federally insured."

In May the state had to take on the responsibility of insuring about $9 billion in deposits at the thrifts, and Gov. Hughes imposed a $1,000 monthly withdrawal limit at all 102 institutions. Those restrictions have been removed at all but about 20 thrifts, including six where there is a freeze on withdrawals.

The House and Senate did not agree on the course of action drawn up by the governor, which had to be approved to permit him to move ahead with other pressing problems in the savings and loan crisis.

House of Delegates Speaker Benjamin L. Cardin, D-Baltimore, said to the delegates after the final vote had been taken, "It was the House of Delegates that saved the depositors of this state. It was the House of Delegates that saved the taxpayers of Maryland. It was the House of Delegates that saved the integrity of Maryland, and I'm damned proud to be your speaker."

According to Del. Edwards, the House passed the bill on Thursday but the Senate did not concur at that time. He explained that the main difference between the two legislative bodies was the $25 million contribution to Chase Manhattan, taken out of the Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund.

"The Senate didn't want to give $25 million of the S&L insurance fund, which totals $172 million; the $25 million is coming from that fund, not coming from the taxpayers." Edwards stressed that his main concern was to make sure that taxpayers don't pay one penny of that amount.

Another amendment to the bill insures that the state, and not Chase, retains the legal right to pursue Merritt owner Gerald S. Klein for civil damages. Edwards feels that this amendment will allow those responsible for the problem to get punishment. "The owner, Mr. Klein, is not off the hook on this thing."

Edwards said, "I am not totally one hundred percent in agreement with the agreement that has been reached." But he feels that it is a good bill. "Our concern is to get out of this thing without costing the taxpayers any money."

Senator John Bambacus, on the other hand, was the only western Maryland member of the legislature to vote against the bill. "I personally believe that the General Assembly voted in favor of the depositors instead of the taxpayers," he said. "I feel very strongly that the legislature was talked into paying $25 million in ransom, and it will ultimately come out of taxpayers' money."

Bambacus said that his main concern was that the legislature was setting a precedent, and that he is sure that in the future Old Court will want the same treatment.

Bambacus was appalled that the legislature sanctioned a deal between Chase and Klein. "We were under tense pressure," he said. He also felt that Chase had no respect for the state and would not give an inch during negotiations.

That pressure showed up during a quickly called joint sessioin of the legislature by the governor just before midnight Monday when Gov. Hughes urged, "I really do implore you, ask you, beg you, plead with you to act on this legislation tonight."

The governor then dispatched more than a half-dozen members of his staff to personally lobby individual senators, Bambacus included, for passage, arguing that the deal would not only free up half a billion dollars in frozen deposits, but would protect the state from liability for potential Merritt losses estimated at between $60 and $80 million.

"I don't buy that," said Bambacus. "This will allow stockholders of Chesapeake and Friendship to make profits and this is outrageous. We have no obligation to people who made bad decisions and who were greedy."

The governor says that the deal will free up about $500 million in frozen deposits and relieve the state of millions of dollars in potential losses it would have faced if it had to liquidate the savings and loan associations.

The special session has not been adjourned, however, it has been recessed until next week so it will be able to deal with any potential objections from Chase or any other unexpected development in the situation.

Joint Meeting Held By GCC, Board Of Ed.

The Garrett County Board of Education and the board of trustees of Garrett Community College held a joint meeting on the campus of GCC on Tuesday, October 22.

According to GCC interim president, Dr. David Puzzuoli, the purpose of the meeting was to explore and discuss methods to reduce overlap any duplication of instruction and equipment in the respective educational programs, to improve the articulation of Garrett County students in their transition from secondary to post-secondary education, to share faculty members with exceptional skills or knowledge to enhance student learning at all levels, and to share facilities and laboratories.

Dr. Puzzuoli said the boards also reviewed and re-affirmed their support of the Board of Education's policies on waiving and/or modifying the programs of secondary students for the purpose of attending GCC on a released time basis. These policies are designed to assist students who meet the Board of Education's selection criteria to leave secondary educational facilities on a released time basis or to waive the senior year for the purpose of pursuing advanced study at Garrett Community College. The early release program provides for part-time, as well as full-time release for students who meet the criteria and desire to participate in the program at GCC.

In a joint statement, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Puzzuoli said, "This was a most productive meeting in terms of expanding educational opportunities for all Garrett Countians. The two boards are providing the leadership and direction for our students in this worthy endeavor. We are pleased to announce that the boards will meet again in January to hear a report on the progress of translating their concepts of articulation and sharing of resources into action."

Oakland Man Guilty Of Theft, Resisting Arrest

In Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings during the last two weeks, Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer found an Oakland man to be guilty of theft and resisting arrest.

Donald A. Warren, 30, was sentenced to five years in the Department of Corrections for the theft charge. For the other charge, he received a two-year sentence, which will run concurrently with the first sentence.

According to court documents, the theft charge was filed by Robert P. Thomas following a March 2 incident when Warren stole a four-wheeler worth $2,200.

Deputy Larry E. Gnegy, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, filed the charge of resisting arrest following an April 11 incident.

Charges of two counts of assault and battery, escape, destruction of property, and fleeing and eluding a uniformed police officer were not prosecuted by the court.

The judge ordered a presentence investigation for Michael Wayne Moon, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, who faced charges of breaking and entering, theft, and destruction of property.

The judge also revoked Moon's bond, and committed him to the Sheriff pending sentencing.

The charges were filed following incidents which occurred January 29 and February 21 at Flowers By Webers, Inc., Oakland Clothing Wear-House, and Helbig's Jewelry.

In another court case, Robert G. Tomkov, Pasadena, was found not guilty of driving while intoxicated, driving while under the influence of alcohol, and failing to dim the headlights of a motor vehicle.

Cancer Society Slates Special Prevention Week

The Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society has designated October 28-November 1 as Colarectal Cancer Prevention Week as part of a nationwide effort to reduce America's death toll from this disease.

As part of the observance, a film entitled "No Time for Privacy, Colarectal Cancer", narrated by Harry Belefonte, will be shown on October 29 and November 1 from 11 a.m. to noon at the Garrett County Health Department assembly room by Dorothy Rudy, public education chairman. Free colarectal cancer test kits will be available at that time.

Colarectal cancer, the second leading cause of cancer deaths in the country, will strike approximately 134,000 Americans, including an estimated 2,800 Maryland residents. It is estimated that in 1985, approximately 60,000 adults, 1,200 from Maryland, will die from the disease.

Although colarectal cancer is common, Cancer Society officials say that few people realize it is quite curable if detected early. The purpose of this special week is to make the public aware that there are measures that can be taken to detect colarectal cancer and, with early detection, the cure rate can be as high as 75 percent.

Organizations desiring an educational program on this form of cancer may contact Mrs. Rudy at 334-4602 for information. Persons who have colarectal cancer who desire assistance or information from the American Cancer Society may contact Pauline Faucett, service and rehabilitation chairman, at 334-8111

The Society advises anyone who has the warning signs of colarectal cancer, which are rectal bleeding, blood in the stool, constipation or diarrhea or both alternately, and/or abdominal discomfort, to see a physician immediately.

Kidney Transplant Offers New Lease On Life For Ken Reckart

by Brenda Beiler

Twenty-four hours a day, the internal organs of the human body work together to keep the structure in working order. Each component has a function, and is vital to survival. The complex routine occurs so frequently and effortlessly that one seldom gives a thought to this intricate system of life until something goes wrong.

For Ken Reckart, 51, of Spring Glade Road, Oakland, the knowledge of the internal system and how it functions has become a way of life, and a constant fight for survival.

Reckart recently received a kidney transplant at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and is well on the road to recovery and a "normal" life.

Reckart suffered from kidney failure in 1981, after having bad kidneys for seven years. After that, 20 hours every week were spent on a dialysis machine at Cumberland Memorial Hospital, averaging out to five hours a day, four days a week.

For the past year and a half, he has been on the home method, known as peritoneal dialysis. This type of dialysis must be completed five times every day, 45 minutes each time.

Reckart's wife, Jenny, said he has been on the kidney transplant list for the past four years, and they had almost given up hope. Reckart's health had deteriorated considerably, resulting in problems which included a crumbled bone, a lost eye, a hip replacement, and a thyroid operation.

Mrs. Reckart said that when the call came from Johns Hopkins on August 30, she was surprised. "It took me a while to realize what they were saying," she said.

She went on, "It was a kidney off the street—an accident victim, and we were placed on two-hour stand by, so I called the Rescue Squad and we waited."

Reckart said, "I didn't get very shook up when the call came. I had waited so long, and had just about given up hope, but I was ready to go, and was glad I could make the trip. That was the quickest trip I ever made to Baltimore."

Reckart had a police escort to Johns Hopkins, where he was in surgery for over eight hours.

After the surgery, he was hospitalized for two weeks. "The first week the kidney didn't work at all, then it snapped into place, and everything is working well. The poisons in his body have dropped, and the calcium and potassium supplies are leveling off," said Mrs. Reckart.

Reckart said, "While I was sick my wife looked after me totally. There was a time when I had to have my arms and hands wrapped up, and she took good care of me all the time."

Reckart is still required to visit the hospital for lab work on his blood. Three times a week, he goes to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, once a week he visits Cumberland Memorial Hospital, and once a month he travels to Johns Hopkins.

Mrs. Reckart said, "If his body doesn't reject the kidney—and there is still a chance that it might—Ken will be on a lot of medication for about a year, and then it will taper off."

One type of medication Reckart is taking has only been in use since 1981, and has been called the "wonder drug of the century." According to Mrs. Reckart, it kills the cells that work against the new kidney, which the body considers to be a foreign object. Although it gives the kidney a better chance of taking hold, it also kills the body's immunities to colds and other diseases.

"I appreciate the chance to have a new kidney, and I'm thankful that there are still donors. It's a real blessing to the man or woman who receives a donated kidney."

Reckart said, "I feel better than I have in eight or ten years, and I'm out doing things all the time. Before, I didn't have enough energy to do anything.

"It's just unreal," said Mrs. Reckart. "Someone else's kidney is prolonging Ken's life. He has a determination to live, and he now sees and sleeps better. He has a whole new lease on life."

Absolute Madness . . .

Over 9,000 Michigan physicians gathered this week in Lansing, the state capital, to protest the soaring cost of medical malpractice insurance. Many of them, especially those in obstetrics, are on the verge of closing their practices completely because they are unable to afford their malpractice insurance premiums. The premium for one OB physician has jumped from $18,000 to $46,000 per year. The problem is not isolated to Michigan, but is nationwide.

The reason malpractice insurance premiums have skyrocketed is because the number and size of malpractice lawsuits have followed a similar pattern. Multi-million dollar suits, which used to be the exception, are now the most common. Those patients and their attorneys who file the suits have a greater than 90 percent chance of winning the case.

In our opinion, this trend must stop, and stop now. Certainly there are incompetent doctors out there. And certainly there are cases of gross negligence where patients need and deserve compensation. That is the reason for malpractice insurance. It was never meant to be a means for people, especially attorneys, to become wealthy.

The fact is, doctors are human beings, and human beings are subject to error. Many people are of the opinion that with the awarding of a medical degree comes some form of instant divinity. The physician is placed upon a pedestal and suddenly is no longer allowed to be human. Granted, there are those physicians who also seem to believe they are right there next to God, but we have found the great majority to be concerned, caring, dedicated people.

It is also a fact that the finest physicians in the world have made mistakes. They have been wrong in some diagnoses and wrong in their prescribed treatment, just as the world's finest engineers, government leaders, pharmacists, plumbers, and Indian chiefs have made some errors in judgment. Should the career of an outstanding doctor be destroyed because of an error in judgment? In other words, should it be destroyed because he is a human being? While one person may have been injured by his error, should there not be consideration for the thousands who have benefited, and who will benefit, from all the times his judgment was correct?

We believe that a cap must be placed on the size of these lawsuits, based upon the individual cases, and there should be still further means of settling cases out of court for greatly reduced sums of money. When these cases come before a jury, the record shows that the physician has less than a one in ten chance that he will be exonerated, no matter what the details of the case may be. Is this justice?

Once again, the bottom line is greed, and the greed lies not with the physicians in this situation, but with certain patients and lawyers. The system must be changed rapidly to quell what has become absolute madness. Otherwise, this nation will see a shortage of doctors in the near future like it has never experienced before.

To the Editor:

Recently I wrote a Letter to the Editor in which I was critical of your reporting of the Sierra Club/GCP&P controversy, stating that in my opinion, it was heavily biased. You published a reply and asked that I point up any instances I could find which would constitute bias or non-factual reporting. I am writing this letter to do so, although I have on file only two of the articles you have so far published on the subject.

In an article which you published in mid-April, you devoted only one paragraph to explaining why the Sierra Club was filing suit against GCP&P and only referred to the bog in question as what "the environmentalist group calls an 'ecologically unique wetland' ". There is no further information from you about just what could constitute an ecologically unique wetland, or, indeed, why any wetland might have value other than for peat mining.

In contrast, you ran fourteen paragraphs giving the views of an unnamed spokesperson of GCP&P, and an additional four paragraphs of the opposing views of county officials. I claim that there is an inherent bias in this front-page article as judged by the depth of coverage of the two sides of the issue.

The article which finally provoked my previous letter was that written by Bernice Kepple and published on September 26. I call your attention to phrases like "a fight for survival," "outside opposition" and "right to make a living" within the first two paragraphs as examples of writing with the intention of influencing your readers. And what about your "reporting" of the National Heritage botanists' finding of signs of bobcats and porcupines within the bogs as having "caused some snickers and outright laughter from county natives?" I am not a native of Garrett County, but I resent the implication that all county natives know better than that botanist. Who are you to speak for all Garrett County natives? The derisive tone of that statement also strikes me as very unprofessional.

There are other examples of prejudicial adjectives and phrases in this article, but if you want non-factual reporting, look at the photo caption in which Ms. Kepple states that peat bogs a.) grow "only scrub plants and bushes," and that b.) after peat harvesting the first rains reseed the ground cover in one season and "the wetland remains with the same vegetation and water quality."

The plants which are found in bogs, and especially in this bog, are of unique types, highly specialized for life in their cool, acidic environments. This bog, as I understand it, holds many species of plants which are rare in Maryland, and some species of the peat-forming moss—there are at least 12 different ones!—have never before been seen in this state. Another part of the value of The Glades lies in the fact that it has mostly not been invaded by uncharacteristic shrubs and trees like many other bogs in our area. It most definitely does not grow only "scrub" plants but rather has an abundant, diverse, unique flora.

When a bog is mined for peat, drainage ditches are dug, water levels drop, the peat begins to drain and equipment moves in to remove it. The mosses and other plants which grow in the bog require high water levels. When you lower those water levels, the same types of plants are not going to recolonize themined areas in one season as Ms. Kepple states. The major moss growing there, sphagnum, grows at a rate of one inch a year. Lower that water table and scrape off a few feet of organic matter and you will never see the "same vegetation" return. "Native plant seeds" will, no doubt, replenish the ground cover, but they will be invasive, weedy species rather than the bog flora that used to be there.

I am a plant scientist by profession. I have a deeply held belief that a piece of ground can be valuable even if it is not spectacularly scenic or is of no economic use. Re-reading your articles, I find over and over your seeming statement of this problem as one of industrial, thrift, local citizens trying to make an honest living but being spitefully targeted for economic extermination by wealthy outsiders and bureaucrats. It seems to me that the real question is whether a few people have the right to destroy a valuable piece of land simply because their name is on the deed, or rather, should we view ourselves as only the caretakers of the land for future generations? I, obviously, hold the latter view. You may not, but I don't think you have the right to let your beliefs govern your reporting of the issues.

This letter is quite lengthy, I know. Since you publicly challenged me to support my original claims of bias, though, I do hope you will run this letter and allow me to do so also in public. I have searched your paper several times for a listing of just who are the editors and reporters, but have yet to see such information. Could you possibly include such a list somewhere in each issue so that your readers may know who is addressing them?

Sincerely,
Joy B. Perry

To the Editor and Preston County
Taxpayers/Voters:

Do you know about the Preston County School Bond Election to be held on October 26, 1985? If you are like most persons, I doubt that you do. More importantly, do you know what it will or "maybe" will do? First, if approved, we will be taxed to pay $23,247,500.00 for the loan proposal. This bond is known by some as Mr. Pritts' bond for Holiday Inns. I feel it has been quietly proposed so that voters will not pay much attention to it. The art of getting school bonds passed is, low-key, low voter turnout election.

I would like to suggest you consider the following: there is in effect a court order (#79C-273) that I believe will prevent a new school from being established in the Southern part of Preston County. I have checked with the State School Superintendent, and neither he nor the State Board have approved the proposed bond, nor its planning.

In the most recent bond proposal, the cost for a new school for Kingwood was $5,147,938.00. But in this one, it's only $3,090,920.00, and includes the Rowlesburg students. It's not hard to figure what's up if Southern Preston County cannot have a new school, and I doubt if the State will allow one. So if you add the two up, it may be enough for a school in Kingwood. I believe the present planning and bond proposal to be in "contempt of court."

If the bond should pass, will old Kingwood High School become a junior high? I suspect it will, and it might mean no junior high at Tunnelton. It may mean no junior high at Newburg, as well as 5-6 grades. Remember, the present County Board likes lots of busing. Remember, Albright and Valley Point are being bused to Tunneton now, and I think this will also get the Aurora Junior High to Terra Alta sooner.

With the new fine print in this bond, anything can happen, just like a blank check. It's entirely possible that even one school could happen now. That is still the ignorant trend in West Virginia.

Respectfully,
Arvin Harsh

To the Editor:

Thank you for being here to allow the people to be heard.

We in Preston County are facing an important event Saturday, October 26, the voting for or against the school bond issue.

We hope that all voters of Preston County look carefully at the ballot and pay special attention to the fine print, before they get in the voting booth. There are a number of good reasons why the bond issue deserves a no vote. Some of that fine print reads as follows:

"The Board (of Education) may, in its discretion, allocate to and expend for any one or more of the above projects (school construction projects) any sum remaining unused if, for any reason, one or more of said projects cannot be constructed, carried out or completed. . . "

Let us add, we hope parents are considering the times our children will have to get up and leave the house for school, and the bad roads they will have to travel, such as Salt Lick, Route 50, and Route 72.

Vote no! Thank you.

Sincerely,
Michael and Pamela Bucklew

To the Editor:

As a life-long resident of Garrett County, and as a subscriber and reader of The Republican for as many years as I can remember, I am, for the first time moved to express my views in the Letters to the Editor column of your newspaper.

I have been tempted to express my opinion on several occasions, most recently, being the fiasco at GCC.

Hopefully that is now in the process of being corrected.

What prompted me to finally take pen in hand was the Guest Editorial in the October 17 issue, by County Commissioner John Braskey.

I would like to publicly commend Commissioner Braskey for his common sense approach, and for his political courage, in publicly criticizing the Hughes Administration and the Maryland Department of Economics and Community Developement, for their complacency and inaction, in the existing coal crisis in western Maryland.

Commissioner Braskey has demonstrated once again, as he did following the untimely passing of Sheriff Frank Finch, that he is more concerned with the welfare of Garrett County, and all its citizens, than he is with political considerations.

I hope all our elected officials will join Commissioner Braskey, in letting the powers that be in Annapolis and Washington, know that we, in Garrett County, do not intend to be the forgotten segment of the population, of this great State, sitting on our hands.

Thank you, Mr. Braskey, for helping to renew our faith in the democratic form of government.

Edward C. DeWitt
McHenry

To the Editor:

I must congratulate the entire staff of the townspeople for the great work you all did to make the 18th Annual Autumn Glory Festival such a great success.

Most noticeable to me was your sheriff, Van Evans, who I happened to bump into in the festival office. I do not remember the lady's name, but I believe it may have been Glenda.

In all my years of kicking around the world, I have never been treated so very well. They were most gracious and extremely helpful.

Mr. Evans' success in this capacity as sherrif can only be rated as excellent. He displayed a genuine interest in the welfare of those attending the festival, this success could have been accomplished only through long hours of difficult work.

While I was your guest during the festival I never saw disorderly conduct, I never heard any trashy talk and I never heard anyone insulting another person. Most noticeable was the excellent handling of traffic.

It was a pleasure to attend your 18th Autumn Glory Festival. This was was my first.

Respectfully,
John M. Scott, USN (Ret.)

Info On Drug Abuse

Editor's note: As part of a public awareness campaign about the problem of drug abuse involving young people, the Garrett County Drug Abuse Advisory Council is providing various articles and news releases for publication. The following information was extracted from an article in the March issue of Woman's Day magazine which concerned the undercover drug investigative work of Garrett County native and current resident, Doug Tressler. Tressler calls the following list the "telltale signs of drug abuse."

Many parents confuse the symptoms of drug abuse with the normal erratic behavior of adolescents, but there is a difference. Here is Doug Tressler's list of danger signals.

•Truancy. Check the school attendance office for class cuts and unexplained absences.

•A glassy, red-eyed look—or constant use of eyedrops to hide it. Both are common in pot-smokers.

•Low, secretive phone conversations. Watch for phrases such as "Did you get it? How much? Is it good? Did you catch a buzz?"

•Inattentiveness and loss of short-term memory. Vacillation between passivity and explosive "don't hassle me" behavior is also typical of drug users.

•Closed doors. Drug users often spend hours locked in the bathroom or in the bedroom with friends.

•A distinct marijuana smell, like sweet burning rope, clinging to clothes. Check pockets for residue, such as dried brownish seeds or stems.

•An irregular financial situation. Cash that disappears too fast may be spent on drugs. Too much money, on the other hand, may mean that the child is dealing in illicit drugs.

•Disappearing cash or valuables. Jewelry, silver and other small items are often sold to pay for drugs.

•"Stash" cans. Exact duplicates of commercial soft-drinks and oil cans are made with screw-on tops and compartments for hiding drugs. Teens also stash their supplies in stereo speakers, under mattresses and in shoes at the back of a closet.

•Drug-related T-shirts, posters or stickers in the youngster's room.

Teacher Salary Data Released By UNISERV Rep

Teachers with advanced degrees and ten years teaching experience in Allegany and Garrett County public schools earn $20,325 or $22,326 less than their private sector comparably experienced counterparts, according to research data released by the Maryland State Teachers Association.

Thomas Shaffer, UNISERV representative for MSTA and the National Education Association, reported that the private sector salary data is included in the Endicott Report of Northwestern University, long recognized as the most reliable private sector labor research document. The report includes nine private occupations that averaged $41,752 in 1984-85 salary after ten years work experience.

In Allegany public schools, the advanced certificated classroom teacher earned $21,427 after ten years teaching while Garrett County's similarly experienced and certificated teacher earned $19,426. The difference in lost buying power for the 1984-85 school year is 48.7% for Allegany County teachers and 53.5% for teachers in the Garrett County public schools, Shaffer noted.

The same MSTA research data shows $6,836 less in starting pay for Allegany County teachers last year compared to the private sector starting salaries included in the Endicott Report, while Garrett teachers' beginning pay lagged $7,178 behind the private sector average starting pay. These starting pays for public school teachers here in Allegany and Garrett had buying power deficiencies of 32.7% and 34.4% respectively for the 1984-85 year, concluded Shaffer.

Our Turn

I Talked To Paul Long!
by Pam Ashby

Impressed? You bet I am. I got to talk to Paul Long, WTAE television news' chief anchorman, during Autumn Glory.

Now I'm sure some people are saying, "Big deal. He's just another newsman. So what?" Well, to me, he's tops. I've been watching Paul Long on television since I was three years old. I believe that was 1954; the year we purchased our first television.

You see, I always associated Paul Long with Lassie. The evening news happened to precede that Sunday evening program starring my favorite dog. I now own a female collie. Paul Long also reminds me of my dad. I'm not sure why. He just does. Perhaps it's his smiling eyes.

So anyway, about an hour before the big parade, I see Ernie Gregg driving down the street with a man and woman in the car. "Oh, my gosh! It can't be. Yes . . . yes, it is Paul Long," I exclaim to my better half. "Oh, this is too much. Come on. Let's pretend we're crossing the street."

"Pam, I swear if you lie down in front of that car . . . "

"Don't be ridiculous," I say as I rush to the side of the moving car which happens to be carrying my hero.

In the panic-stricken state I'm in at this point, I forget that I am wearing a torn sweatshirt and my grubbiest jeans. "Oh, hello Ernie," I say nonchalantly. "Who are your friends . . . Paul Long!" (So much for nonchalance.)

When Ernie introduces me as a member of the local press who covers county government, I almost faint. (I owe you one, Ernie.) Then, get this, Mr. Long shakes my hand and tells me he has read The Republican. He even introduces me to his wife who just happens to have a copy of the paper with her. She even proves it by leaning up over the front seat to show me her copy. At this point, I'm in heaven.

And there you have it, folks. The story of Pam Ashby, small town reporter, meeting Paul Long, famous televison anchorman. And you know, Paul Long was everything I hoped he would be. A real human being who put on no airs with me. What a guy.

Impressed? You bet I am.

Billboards Remind Motorists That 55 Saves Lives, Energy

Twenty-two billboards, sponsored by the Maryland Energy Office and the Maryland State Police, have been erected statewide to remind motorists that a 55-mile-per-hour speed limit not only saves lives, it also conserves energy.

The billboards are featured at five locations in Allegany and Garrett Counties, and feature Garrett Countian Sgt. Bill Tower.

According to Larry Williams, transportation officer with the Maryland Energy Office, the State Police and the energy office have been combining efforts for five years to convince motorists to drive to save lives, prevent injuries, and, at the same time, conserve energy.

State Police Note Transfer

Sgt. Robert E. Friend, of the Maryland State Police, has been transferred from Hagerstown to the McHenry Detachment as head of the investigation division.

Friend was appointed to the Maryland State Police in January, 1967, and was assigned to the Waterloo, Garrett County, and Cumberland barracks before being promoted to the rank of corporal.

In August, 1984, Friend was promoted to sergeant, and was assigned to the Rockville barrack until September of this year, when he was transferred to the Hagerstown investigation division.

Special Program On Halley's Comet Scheduled At County Planetarium

by Jim Hart
Director, Garrett County Planetarium

Halley's Comet, the most famous of all comets, is speeding toward its February 9, 1986 rendezvous with the sun. To mark this event, the Garrett County Planetarium begins its engagement of "Comet Halley: Once In A Lifetime."

This a presentation of the American Chemical Society's Department of Public Communication is so named because the comet returns to the inner solar system on an average of every 76 years, thus linking human generations across a lifespan. The comet is called Halley to honor Edmond Halley, the 18th century English scientist who was first to recognize that comets travel in predictable orbits about the sun.

For centuries, comets were objects of fear and superstition. On several occasions their appearances influenced the course of human events. The ancient Chinese studied them extensively. It was from the Greeks that we got the word "comet." Comet means "hairy star"—a star with long hair. To the ancient Greeks they heralded wind and drought. The people of the Middle Ages held them responsible for wars, famine and plague.

Fear of comets, superstitions about comets should have been things of the past when Comet Halley paid its last call on the sun in 1910. Americans sealed their doors and windows, and bought gas masks and "comet pills" as protection against the "noxious vapors" as a portion of Halley's tail swept across the Earth.

Today we know that comets are "dirty snowballs," pristine material left over from the birth of the solar system. We now know that Halley's Comet is less than four miles in diameter. Yet it will develop a gaseous coma larger than Jupiter and a tenuous hydrogen cloud with a diameter greater than that of the sun. Its tail will extend outward 50 million miles. Quite a spectacular display for a vagabond iceball!

No longer will we view Halley's Comet only from afar. On this passage, spacecraft of several nations will fleetingly visit it, and, astronomers aboard the Space Shuttle will study it. Thousands of professional and amateur astronomers will peer at it through Earth-bound telescopes.

In fact, during this visit the comet could well be the most viewed, most photographed, most studied, most analyzed celestial event of all time.

Virtually all the secrets comets have to share with us are chemical in nature. Comet Halley may help us determine the chemicals and conditions present during the formation of the solar system, and how comets may have been the source of elements essential to the appearance of life on Earth. It is possible also that comet strikes caused the period mass extinctions of whole groups of animals and plants, such as the rather sudden disappearance of the dinosaurs around 65 million years ago? Comet Halley may help us to understand.

The study of comets is a fine example of remote-sensing chemistry's role in expanding our knowledge of the universe. The American Chemical Society is sponsoring "Comet Halley: Once in a Lifetime" to demonstrate this, and to remind viewers that everything in the universe is made up of some 90 naturally-occurring chemical elements—including you, and me, and Halley's Comet.

Production materials for the program are being loaned worldwide for duplication at no charge. It is anticipated that the majority of the world's approximately 1,100 planetariums will present the show. A curriculum integration guide for teachers of astronomy, biology, chemistry, and history accompanies the program.

One day, two meteor showers may be all that remain of Halley's Comet. Such is the fate of their kind. But for now, Comet Halley has returned—ours to appreciate and remember for our lifetime.

NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK, October 20-26, was proclaimed in Garrett County by the Board of Commissioners recently. A spokesman from the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., which sponsors National Business Women's Week, said, "We urge all citizens in Garrett County, all civic and fraternal groups, all news media and other community organizations to join in this salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebration of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to our economic, civic and cultural purposes." Working women constitute 44 million of the nation's work force. "Major goals of business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems," said a spokesman from the Garrett County BPW Club. Present for the proclamation signing, standing left to right, are BPW members Ruth DiPaolo, Grantsville Area BPW, past president and Woman of the Year chairman; Linda Fousek, Grantsville Area BPW, IDP chairman; Phyllis M. Buckel, Garrett County BPW, president; Pat Vetter, Garrett County BPW, vice-president; and Debbie Frantz, Garrett County BPW, ERA chairman. Seated, left to right, are Garrett County commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood Groves II, and John G. Braskey.

MEMBERS OF THE MARSH MOUNTAIN CONSORT, a local group of musicians who perform Medieval and Renaissance music, include, left to right, Dr. Tom Johnson, Roger Strouse, Marci McClive, Martin Heise, Ruth Huebner, and Carol Cunningham. The group will present a concert Friday, November 1, at 8 p.m., at St. Matthews Episcopal Church.

Marsh Mountain Consort—A New Name For The Same Old Consort?

It always gets a bit confusing when something changes its name, not to mention the date of its concert. Originally scheduled to perform during Autumn Glory as the Garrett Recorder Consort, this group has rescheduled its performance for Friday evening, November 1, 8 p.m. at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, under the new name of Marsh Mountain Consort.

The consort consists of permanent members Tom Johnson, Marci McClive, and Ruth Huebner, playing "mostly recorders," and Roger Strouse, playing guitar and mandolin.

Why the new name? A consort member explained, "We always felt bad about calling ourselves a recorder consort because in fact, one quarter of us never plays recorder, some of the rest of us ocasionally play other instruments, and we have often performed with other guest musicians as well. The name 'Marsh Mountain Consort' was suggested first as a joke when we found ourselves running into each other at Wisp, but we came to like the sound of it, as well as the fact that it doesn't specify instruments, and after all, the mountain is centrally located in respect to our various homes."

And yes, it is Marsh Mountain Consort, not "Concert." Consort is a word used to describe a small group of instrumentalists or singers, and is often applied to groups specializing in music from the Medieval and Renaissance periods of musical history. Much recorder music dates from this time, and past concerts by this group have focused on music of these periods. In contrast, this concert, titled "Bach Again by Popular Demand," draws attention to the 300th anniversary of the birth of the J.S. Bach, and features a variety of pieces written by him. Pachelbel, Praetorius, Mozart, and two Renaissance composers, Jacob Obrecht and Mateo de la Flecha, are also represented.

"The piece by Flecha is particularly interesting," Ruth Huebner, a consort member, said. "It tells a story, without words of sailors on a stormy sea. Their boat is finally saved through prayers and songs to the Virgin Mary. Martin Heise will play with us on drums, cymbals, and xylophone. It's quite an ambitious piece, and we like it a lot, so if we don't get it right this time, you can bet we'll play it again."

The second half of the concert is also a departure from tradition for this group. "We're great fans of the group Trapezoid, and also of folk music, particularly from the British Isles," Heubner said. "In this concert, for the first time, we'll perform some Irish music we've been working on for a while. Carol Cunningham will play drums for us. We may be stretching the point, but we do feel a relationship between this kind of music and some of the very old music that we play. For instance, in La Bomba, the songs the sailors sing and play to the Virgin Mary are a kind of folk song. The original melodies are simple and catchy and they sound great with guitar and percussion. In fact, one of the pieces we'll play in this part of the concert is an old English Dance from the 14th century. It fits right in."

Commission Discusses Status Of Co. Projects

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission recently met and discussed the status of several county projects, including the Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Gorman, Deep Creek, and Upper Youghiogheny sewer projects and the Kitzmiller water project.

Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Gorman Sewers

Recently a pre-bid conference was held for three sewer projects, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Gorman. Bids for these projects were opened yesterday, and must now be tabulated, assessed, and submitted to the state for approval. Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, explains that this is normally a three-month process, and says that it is hoped the bids will be within funding so that the state will give approval for the district to proceed with the projects.

Deep Creek Sewer

Several modifications need to be made in the Deep Creek system, according to reports received by the commission.

One report showed that sludge is building up in the floating weir chamber, and a change must be made to alleviate that build-up. The report also showed that there is not enough air in the sludge, and that will also be changed.

A grant amendment for the project was recently received calling for a transfer of funds from the contingency fund to cover some increased engineering fees, due to the late completion of some phases of the system.

One major problem has occurred at the Will O' the Wisp pump station. The pump station has been discovered to be undersized and not able to handle the flow. The firm of RK&K is presently redesigning the pump station and will replace it with a larger pump station that will handle the flow. Beitzel says that it appears that the state is receptive to funding the cost difference of the two pump stations.

The under water crossing at the Route 219 bridge has been contracted to Walker Diving Contractors, who will proceed as soon as notice has been given that all documents are in order.

Kitzmiller Water

Beitzel told the commission that the Kitzmiller water system is working well with just a few small problems. He reported that the impoundment held up well during the recent dry period.

Upper Yough Rehab

Video Pipe Service has just completed sewer line rehabilitation work for the district on portions of the intercepter line for Mtn. Lake Park, Loch Lynn, Bausch & Lomb, and Broadford Park.

Pressurized tests done during rehabilitation showed that the lines are in good shape, but that infiltration was coming in through some of the manholes. Those manholes were repaired.

The company is now doing flow monitoring to see what impact the rehabilitation has made to reduce the flow to the treatment plant.

Rotarians Host Exchange Visitors

The Oakland and Friendsville Rotary Clubs jointly hosted four men from Brazil October 9 through 12 as participants in Rotary International's Group Study Exchange. The four were escorted by Charlie Miller of Friendsville and Harold Holsopple of Oakland.

William Albuquerque, a university professor (term leader); Jose Carlos Pinheiro DeAssis, a civil engineer for a textile manufacturer; Sergio Neves Sant'Anna, a civil engineer for a sanitation division; and Armando Lope DeOliveira, a bank manager, arrived in the United States September 11, and returned to Brazil October 17. They visited several clubs throughout Rotary District 735, of which Garrett County clubs are a part.

During their stay in Garrett County the Brazilians visited several points of interest including Deep Creek Lake, the Friendsville water treatment facility, Southern High School, Garrett Community College, American HV Test Systems, First United National Bank & Trust, the Bloomington Dam, and the Oakland Fire Department's "Oktoberfest" celebration.

The Brazilians were guests in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. John Dopple, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ridder, and Col. and Mrs. Haig Jackson, all of Oakland.

A luncheon was held Friday, October 11, at the Starlite Restaurant to honor the four guests. Ken Ridder, president of the Oakland Rotary Club, presented several gifts and mementos to the visitors.

Rotary International's Group Study Exchange Program is active throughout the free world, affording opportunities for participants to meet their professional counterparts in other countries, and to observe the local social and cultural characteristics in those countries.

Ross was represented by John F. Somerville, Jr., a Cumberland attorney.

The judge ordered probation before judgment for Janice A. Bauer, 31, Glen Burnie, after finding her guilty of a theft charge. Bauer was placed on 90 days unsupervised probation

The charge was filed by Tfc. Roger Lewis following a July 15 incident at the Dreamland Motel, McHenry.

Late Surge By Rams Rips Black Knights, 26-0

Although it took over three quarters to really get their offense rolling, the Southern Rams turned a potential lackluster performance into a thrilling finish and big win over Valley Friday evening, 26-0, at Lonaconing. It was the Rams' fifth win in seven starts, while the Black Knights dropped to 1-6.

A two-yard scoring run by Southern quarterback Zack Gibson in the first quarter was to be the only points scored in the game until about the five-minute mark of the fourth quarter when the Rams erupted for three more touchdowns, two of which were scored within 90 seconds.

Although Coach Tom Woods described the tackling of his defense as "sloppy", the Rams defenders were responsible for stopping the Knights twice within the Southern ten-yard line, one of which ended on the one-inch line after Valley had a first and goal at the four.

A 13-yard run to the end zone by sophomore running back J.R. Bosley at about the five-minute mark of the final quarter, followed by Bruce Bosley's run for the conversion, gave Southern a 14-0 advantage.

NEW BLEACHERS, which are electronically operated, were installed recently in the Southern High School gymnasium. The bleachers were purchased with Board of Education capital improvement monies after five years of effort to have them included in the budget. The bleachers, which replace the original seating in the gym, feature aisles for easier access, plus plastic molded seats, which can be replaced individually if damaged or worn out. In the photo, left to right, are Tom Woods, athletic director; Dave Mayfield, assistant athletic director; Luther Parrack, supervisor of athletics for the Board of Education; and Arthur Refosco, school principal.

Valley's next drive following the kickoff was stopped abruptly by Southern's Bobby Bernard, who intercepted one of Dave Hawkins' aerials on the Ram 43-yard line. On the next play from scrimmage, Bruce Bosley broke loose and raced 57 yards for a touchdown. Bruce Bosley finished with 184 yards rushing, the best single-game total in his career.

Moments later, Hawkins tossed his third interception of the evening, this one to Rick Layton, which gave the Rams possession of the ball again on Valley's 47-yard line. Three plays later, Tommy Smith recorded his third touchdown of the season on a 24-yard run.

Frustration on the part of the Black Knights was evident in the waning moments of the game as a scuffle erupted with 52 seconds left on the clock, causing the officials to call the game at that point.

The Rams rolled up a total of 323 yards, all on the ground, while Valley was held to 128 yards. Hawkins' who had been averaging over 100 yards through the air, was limited to 79 yards passing, completing nine of 22 attempts.

"Valley had a good game plan and executed it well," Coach Woods stated, "and I don't want to discredit their effort. However, I believe that our injury problem, and an absolutely miserable week of practice before the game because of the injuries and illness, really caught up with us. Three of our starting offensive linemen had not practiced all week, plus Valley's sudden change in defensive formation also gave us some problems."

Woods also believed that his players may have been looking ahead somewhat to this week's critical game against Tucker County, and did not take a 1-5 team seriously.

Woods stated he was pleased with his team's first goal-line stand of the season, plus the performance of the new people in the Ram line-up. He specifically pointed out Tommy Smith's efforts as defensive tackle, "all 131 pounds of him."

Although one of the smallest to ever play tackle for the Rams, Smith was the second leading tackler against Valley. "Tommy is so quick and has a good feel for where the ball is going," Woods said.

He also noted the good coverage by the Rams secondary and the play of Bruce Bosley, not only for his success running the ball, but also for playing "an outstanding game" at linebacker.

One of the biggest challenges for the Rams this season will be Friday evening's game against a veteran, 6-2 Tucker County team, currently ranked eighth in West Virginia Class AA. It will be highly unlikely that the Rams will receive a state playoff berth if they are unable to win this week.

Tucker County also has a good chance to make the West Virginia playoffs, which will be a first in the history of the school.

A senior-dominated team, Tucker County is led on offense by three-year starting quarterback Eric Alkire, 5-11, 175; fullback Dale Nestor, also a three-year starter, 6-0, 180; guard John Adams, 5-11, 191; split end Dennis Snyder, 6-1, 172; third-year starting tackle Wade Zirk, 5-11, 242; and tight end Eddie Smith, 6-0, 190.

The same people lead the defense, with Alkire at safety, Nestor and Adams at linebacker, Snyder at defensive back, Zirk at tackle, Smith at defensive end, plus Scott Moore, a senior defensive back, 5-9, 150.

Tucker County runs from multiple-I and veer set backfields and uses 4-3 and 6-1 defenses.

"This team could easily be 8-0," Woods said, as both losses, to Grafton and Frankfort, have been close.

"This is the best Tucker County team I have ever seen," he said. "Their strength and experience are the keys to their success," noting that only three starting seniors were lost from last year's team.

"They can throw, they have great quickness and power, and their defense is positively as sound as any we have faced," Woods said.

The only Southern starter who will definitely not play this week is fullback/linebacker Scott Werdebaugh, who sustained a knee injury the previous week in practice.

"Although a number of our players are still sore, we are generally healthier than we have been in weeks," Woods said, "and we have just had a super week of practice. I haven't seen the kids this excited since the first few days of practice. It seems like the Valley game really restored our enthusiasm."

Kickoff at Tucker County is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Huskies Return To Action Friday Against Valley

After a week off from competition, the Northern varsity football team will return to action this week in search of its first win of the season. The Huskies will host Valley in their homecoming contest.

Although the Black Knights are 1-6 on the season, Coach Jack Settle says his team will be in for a real struggle, noting that the Knights are much stronger than their record indicates.

"Valley has a number of skilled, big-play people," Settle said, "and their defense has played well most of the season. Even though they are 1-6, their defense is not giving up many points. They also have some enormous linemen."

Settle said his biggest worry is four-year starting quarterback Dave Hawkins, a 5-11, 178-pound senior, who is one of the area's leading passers. "Not only does he throw well," Settle said, "but he is a very strong runner and hard to bring down. It's going to be awfully tough for us to contain him."

Other Valley players which concern Settle are junior split end Steve Bartlett, 5-8, 155, who has great quickness and elusiveness; Tim Beeman, a 6-3, 175-pound tight end; junior tackle Chris Winner, 6-6, 270; Kevin Llewellyn, 6-0, 185, at the other tackle position; and guard/defensive end John Marty, 5-9, 170.

Since the Huskies did not play last week, Settle and his staff had the opportunity to scout the Knights against the Southern Rams Friday evening in Lonaconing, a game in which Valley held the Rams to just six points until the final five minutes of the game.

"We definitely will have our hands full," Settle said. "They use every conceivable offensive formation and they have added a few new wrinkles to their defense which really seemed to bother Southern last Friday. They are a big team by most high school standards and they have the personnel to make things happen. Believe me, I have seen far worse 1-6 teams.

Settle said that all of his players are healthy and, after a little time off, have had a good week of practice and are anxious to play.

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Southern Girls Lose And Win

The Southern girls volleyball team was defeated Tuesday evening at home by unbeaten Mt. Savage, 15-4, 15-8, and 15-2, but then rebounded last night at Flintstone, topping the Aggies, 15-1, 15-6, and 15-10.

Meanwhile, the Southern jayvee team lost its first match of the season, also against Mt. Savage on Tuesday, 17-15 and 15-11. They, too, came back for a win last night over Flintstone, 15-13, 9-15, and 15-9.

Leading the varsity against Mt. Savage were Leslie Ellis and Stacy Sines with six points each.

At Flintstone, Chris Gregory scored 20 points for the Lady Rams, while Robin Tasker added nine and Leslie Ellis led the team in setting up a team total of 24 spikes.

Kelly Evans paced the Southern jayvees against Flintstone with 15 points, followed by Kendra Stemple with nine. Debbie Bateman served eight aces.

The varsity, now 6-4, and the 8-1 jayvees will travel to Clear Spring on Tuesday and then play their final home game on Wednesday against Bishop Walsh.

Local Karate Students Win In Area Tournament

Several local Tae Kwon Do students attended the Western Masters Karate Open Tournament, held October 12 at Allegany Community College, Cumberland.

Cheryl Blamble took second place in sparring in the Women's Black Belt division, while Melinda Wright won first place in sparring in the Women's Brown Belt division.

First and second place sparring trophies in the Men's Junior Black Belt division were won by Eric Savage and Jack McCauley, respectively.

All are students of the Tae Kwon Do school taught by Tony Artice in the McLaughlin Building in Oakland.

Laker Women Win Five Of Eight Matches

The Garrett Community College upped its record this week to 12-11 by defeating Potomac State, McKeesport, Frostburg, Frederick and Chesapeake, but losing to Westmoreland, Shenandoah and Hagerstown and Rockville.

Garrett Community College held the Deep Creek Invitation Tournament on Saturday, October 2, in which Garrett, McKeesport, Westmoreland, and Shenandoah competed.

The Lakers defeated Penn State, McKeesport, 15-7 and 18-16. Stephanie Burks, Rita Jackson, Kim Martin and Dianna Walkling placed 100% of their serves. Burks, Lisa Llewellyn, Amy Tate, and Walkling combined for 34 serve receives. Setters Jackson and Martin assisted three and nine plays, respectively. Burks, Llewellyn, Martin, Tate and Walkling combined for 45 digs, with Tate having five kills.

In the next match, the Lakers played Westmoreland. Although defeated 12-15 in the first game, Garrett came back for a strong win of 15-10 in the second game. The Lakers let up in the third game, falling 1-15 and handing the victory to Westmoreland.

Burks, Martin, Tate and Walkling each served one ace. Martin assisted 15 plays and Jackson assisted seven. Llewellyn led the team in defensive digs.

Garrett played Shenandoah last in the tournament. The Lakers won the first game 15-13, but lost the following two games, 6-15 and 9-15. Llewellyn and Tate led the team in serve receives, while Martin led in kills. Martin had 12 assists and Jackson, seven.

The All-Tournament Team included Kim Martin, of GCC. Sue Snyder, a member of the GCC team last year and now playing for Shenandoah, was also named to the All-Tourney squad.

Hagerstown defeated Garrett 15-1 on October 16, but the Lakers came back for a 15-9 win, followed by a 5-15 loss. Burks, Jackson, Martin and Tate contributed ace serves. Burks, Llewellyn, Tate and Walkling combined for 37 serve receives. Jackson assisted four plays, while Martin led the team in kills.

Also on that day, Garrett defeated Frostburg, 15-10 and 15-8. Burks, Tate and Walkling placed 100% of their serves. Martin led with seven kills while Cheri Duncan, Llewellyn, Martin and Tate led in offensive kills.

Garrett defeated Frederick 15-11 and 15-1 on October 18. Burks and Tate placed 100% of their serves. Tate led in both defensive digs and serve receives, while Martin assisted eight plays. Nearly every member contributed a kill.

Insert (On Disk)

On the same day, Garrett defeated Chesapeake, 15-0 and 15-4. Team members who placed 100% of their serves include Burks, Llewellyn and Tate. Burks, Clarissa Jordan, Llewellyn and Martin led the team in kills, while Jackson had four assists and Martin, seven.

In a tri-match Monday evening at Potomac State College, Keyser, the Laker women topped the host Catamounts, 9-15, 15-6, and 15-10, but lost to Rockville, 6-15 and 7-15.

Against Potomac State, Walkling placed 100 percent of her serves, while Jackson and Martin led in assists with eight and seven, respectively. Martin also paced the Lakers in killer spikes with six.

Jackson and Martin both placed all of their serves against Rockville and recorded three and one assists, respectively. Jordan and Llewellyn had no errors in service returns. The team finished with 18 digs.

Coach Sue Mason stated, "With the games we have remaining, I feel our team should come out with an average above 500 which will be reaching the goal we set at the beginning of the year. Considering ours was a young team, we have done exceptionally well representing Garrett in the volleyball program."

The Lakers will be home this Saturday, October 26, at 2 p.m. when they play Hood College and Fairmont State. They will travel to Frostburg State College on Wednesday, October 30, to complete their season.

Streak Continues For NHS Girls Volleyball Squad

The Lady Huskies of Coach Vonda Yunker picked up victories 10 and 11 with wins against Valley and Oldtown this past week to remain unbeaten on the season. The Huskies defeated Valley 15-3, 15-4, and 15-10 while the Oldtown Indians fell to Northern 15-11, 15-5, and 15-0.

In the Valley match, Amy Swauger led all Huskies with 16 service points including the game winner in the second contest. She was followed in scoring by Julie Robeson and Jenny Dailey with 11 and eight points, respectively. Robeson recorded 10 killer spikes while Swauger registered six kills. Tammy Swauger and Karen Frank had the other two game winning service points.

Defensively, Robeson, Tammy Swauger, and Dailey were standouts. Robeson had 10 blocks while Dailey had five and Swauger, three.

"This was one of our best overall performances of the season," stated Coach Yunker.

Northern's jayvees kept pace with their own victory against Valley, 15-1, and 15-4. Offensively, freshman Debbie Rounds led the Little Huskies with 14 service points. Sonya Yelovich added six.

Laura Sines led the way for the Huskies in the Oldtown contest with 11 service points, including six ace serves. She was aided in the cause by teammates, Missy Durst and Jenny Dailey, who each recorded nine, Amy Swauger with seven, Tammy Swauger with six, and Karen Frank with three service points. Dailey and Tammy Swauger each had four aces.

Outstanding on defense were Tammy Swauger and Dailey for their net play. Back row defensive honors went to Laura Sines for one save and two digs. Janie Friend and Sherri Frantz were singled out by Coach Yunker for their backline play and getting the ball into the start of Northern's offensive scheme.

Next week's contests will include the undefeated Mt. Savage Indians, the Bishop Walsh Spartans, both away, and the Flintstone Aggies at home on Wednesday, October 30, starting at 7 p.m.

The Lady Huskies' undefeated season came to an end last night when the other unbeaten team in the area, Mt. Savage, edged the Huskies, 16-14, 15-9, and 15-10.

Arnold Tichnell captured first in Class B, while Chuck Ward finished second.

Sam Wakefield Jr. won the Best Sportsman's award, while Jerry Tichnell and Vernon Sines shared the Most Improved award.

Re-elected as top officers of the club were Chuck Ward, president, and Carl Holtschneider, vice president.

Northern Blue Edges Northern Gold, 19-12

Despite rainy weather, a rather large crowd turned out to witness the Northern High School alumni football game Saturday evening, which pitted 1982-85 graduates, the Blue team, against 1981 and before graduates, the Gold team. The Blue won the contest, 19-12.

Steve Fratz scored both touchdowns for the Gold team, while Robb Carr, Bob Lipscomb, and Steve Zumpano each scored one for the Blue. Dave Georg booted one extra point.

Dave Frazee led the Gold team in tackles, Carr and Lipscomb rushed for the most yardage, Roy Miller, of the Blue team, led in interceptions, Tony Doerr, who never played high school ball, led in receptions, and Gary Finzel received the oldest player award.

Northern varsity coach, Jack Settle, noted his appreciation to the fans, coaches, and alumni players and cheerleaders who participated in the event, the proceeds from which will benefit athletic programs at Northern.

Dance For Heart Event Scheduled At Brenda's Shop

"Dance for Heart", a nationwide event which benefits the American Heart Association and promotes dance exercise as a healthful, lifelong activity, will be sponsored locally by Brenda's Body Shop next month.

Volunteers will participate in the event to raise funds for the American Heart Association - Western Maryland Division's medical and community programs. Dancers obtain pledges from friends, relatives and businesses for every minute they dance during the event.

Dance for Heart also demonstrates dance exercise as a benefit to cardiovascular health, according to Brenda Brosnihan, local coordinator. "Dance exercise is a popular activity because it emphasizes fun and fitness," she said. "Participation is not limited by age, sex, or shape, so anyone can try it. Through Dance for Heart we have the opportunity to help fight against heart disease and related disorders, as well as show that dance exercise is fun, easy, and heart-healthy."

Persons interested in participating in the Dance for Heart may stop by Brenda's Body Shop, 205 East Alder Street, Oakland (across from Englander's Pharmacy) or call the Western Maryland Heart Association office at 724-4011.

we have to respond to their wishes," stated Braskey.

Consent Order

The commissioners also reported Tuesday that they, along with roads administrator Paul R. Shockey and county attorney, Dwight Stover, had revised the consent order required by the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to close out the existing landfill and establish a new landfill site.

The county board said they expected a reply from the state, regarding their revisions and suggestions of the order, within the next few weeks.

Road Load Limit

Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. said Tuesday that the county has spent a considerable amount of money on the improvement of many county roads this past summer and the load limit of 72,500 pounds will be strictly enforced.

"We feel it is imperative that the load limit be enforced to protect the county taxpayers' interest," stated Gregg.

While the state load limit is set at 80,000 pounds, Garrett County roads are not built to those standards, according to Gregg.

When asked about truckers who live on county roads and must sometimes use them enroute to their homes, Gregg replied, "We are taking that into consideration and exceptions will be made for the local truckers."

Fires

apartment and its contents.

The apartment was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shiflett. Mr. Shiflett was reportedly in bed asleep and his wife was in the living room when they were awakened by their smoke alarm. The fire was apparently caused by food left on a hot burner on the stove.

Residents in the four units above the burning apartment, as well as those in the adjacent ones, were evacuated and remained outside for about one hour. Assisting with the evacuation was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Firemen remained on the scene until about 12:30 a.m.

Deep Creek and Bittinger fire fighters responded to a three-story frame dwelling on Rock Lodge Road Monday at 8:46 a.m. when the flames from a fire in a new furnace apparently ignited the wall. Damage was estimated at $500.

Firemen extinguished the fire quickly and returned to their quarters about one hour later.

A reported trailer fire caused Oakland and Gorman firemen to be called out Monday at 11:09 p.m. to respond to the Gnegy Church Road south of Red House close to the West Virginia state line.

Upon arrival, Oakland VFD personnel discovered that a 30-foot 1977 Holiday Rambler mobile home had been on fire, but the blaze apparently blew itself out, perhaps as a result of an explosion.

Carola reported that the trailer is owned by William P. Shaffer, who was at the home of a friend at the time of the fire. He stated that the cause of the fire is definitely suspicious in nature and his investigation is continuing.

Carola said Shaffer does have insurance on the trailer and its contents. Most of the damage was confined to the kitchen area, although there was some heat and smoke damage in other parts of the structure.

Oakland remained on the scene until about midnight, after sending Gorman VFD back to their station. Bayard firemen responded to Gorman's station for stand-by.

Bloodmobile Visit Nets 175 Pints

The Oakland visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile last Friday resulted in the collection of 175 pints of blood, 25 short of the quota, but deemed a success by organizers of the visit because of recent more frequent visits by the bloodmobile to Garrett County.

Twelve persons who presented themselves to donate were deferred for various reasons and ten persons were first-time donors.

Janet Hardesty, Mtn. Lake Park, gave her 64th pint of blood, thereby becoming an eight-gallon donor, while Ross Crowe, Oakland, became a seven-gallon donor with this visit.

Brenda Durst, Mt. Storm, W.Va., and Les McDaniel, Terra Alta, reached the four-gallon level, while Carroll Deem Jr., Oak Park, Brad Upole, McHenry, and Len Miller, William Wotring, and Earl Clark Sr., all of Oakland, became three-gallon donors.

Robert Thrasher, Deer Park, Joe Mechem, Oakland, and Rita Jackson, Elk Garden, W.Va., reached the two-gallon mark. One-gallon donors were Wendell Keaton, McHenry; Michael Lee, Kitzmiller; John Denison and Carol Canan, Deer Park; Roy O. Hinkle, Mtn. Lake Park; and Pat Rodeheaver, Oakland.

Volunteers assisting with registration were Kathryn Helbig, Lorraine Ledden, Sarah Gonder, Beryldine Stanton, Dorothy Frame, and Martha Lou Ashby. Temperatures and weights were recorded by Helen Kahl, Karen Nazelrod, Marie Vaughn and Kim Rush, while hemoglobin tests were conducted by Beth Friend and Judy Umstot.

Volunteer nurses included Reba Rush, Ruth Jones, Rhoda Miller and Betty Shaffer.

Evamae Wise, Virginia Rohrbaugh, Ruth Porter, and Mary Jane DeWitt took care of labeling. Violet Bowser, G.L. Quinet, Elizabeth McComas, Mildred Savage, Lois Mechem, Paula Upole, C. Louise Beckman, Mabel Hauser, Lollie Fridinger, Josie Tenney, and Helen Henline operated the canteen.

Walkers were members of the Southern High School Health Careers Club, including Sharon Davis, Kimberly Lowery, Kelly Hershman, and Sherry Friend.

Lois Cuppett, vice chairman of the blood donor program, made posters, Carolyn Updyke mailed appointment cards, Dorothy Cathell was responsible for blood replacements, Arleigh Hauser prepared certificates, and Jackie Kenner provided the Garrett County Memorial Hospital blood usage list.

The blood donor program officials extended appreciation to all the donors and to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Dietary Department, the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, WMSG Radio, The Republican Newspaper, and Oakland Coca-Cola Bottling.

Farm Bill Review

by Bernice Kepple

The U.S. Senate was expected to begin debate on its farm bill (SB 1714) Monday or Tuesday of this week. As of yesterday afternoon, debate had not yet begun, causing us to speculate a little while longer on the content of the bill.

The only specifics available at this time concern an amendment made by Senators Hawkins and Moynihan which would change the bill to reduce the dairy support price by 50 cents in January of 1986, if CCC purchases exceed 10 billion pounds in the next 12 months. Purchases for the 1985/86 year are projected at 13 billion pounds. The Senate bill as written will maintain the support price at $11.60 until January of 1987, unless the Hawkins amendment passes.

By the way, sources studying both the House bill and the Senate bill say that some segments of the dairy industry favor a diversion program (which was passed by the House) instead of a drop in the $11.60 support price for one very good reason. The reason—if a support price of $11.60 is coupled to a diversion program that costs producers 50 cents per hundredweight, milk plants selling products to the government would continue to receive a milk equivalent price of $11.60. However, if the support price is cut 50 cents, milk plants selling products to the government would receive a milk equivalent price of only $11.10 per hundredweight.

The wheat title in the Senate bill directs the Secretary of Agriculture to poll wheat producers to see if they want a referendum to establish a market in allotment program of mandatory controls.

The Maryland Farm Bureau sent a letter to both Senators in the Maryland delegation, S · Paul S. Sarbanes and Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. Unfortunately, neither Senator was available for comment by press time today. The following is their letter to Sen. Mathias explaining Farm Bureau's position on parts of the bill.

Dear Senator Mathias:

You will be considering the Senate's Farm Bill, SB 1714, in the near future. We would like to share Maryland Farm Bureau's position on some of the issues contained in the bill.

We oppose mandatory production controls outlined in the wheat title. This would encourage imports of foreign wheat and wheat products, discourage exports, adversely affect feed costs for livestock and poultry producers, have a serious impact on agri-businesses, and be costly to monitor and enforce.

We support the current language in SB 1714 on cargo preference.

We support the dairy title, but we believe it is necessary to reduce the support price in 1986 in order to discourage further increases in production. Commodity Credit Corporation purchases are expected to reach 13 billion pounds for this marketing year; by maintaining the same support price we only encourage more production.

Farm Bureau opposes freezing target prices for more than one year. A constant, legislated target price bears no relation to supply and demand for that commodity, and often provides an incentive to produce crops for which there is no market. We support freezing targets for one year, then setting them at 110 percent of the five-year market average (dropping the high and the low), with a five percent adjustment limit each year.

We support the loan rate provisions.

We oppose any reduction in the $50,000 payment limitation.

Farm Bureau opposes the marketing loan concept.

We oppose the beef and pork checkoffs as presented in SB 1714. We would support checkoffs if there was a referendum prior to implementation, and provisions or a refund. We would prefer to have pork checkoff funds go to a separate advisory board (to be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture from nominations submitted by pork producer organizations.)

Farm Bureau supports the peanut, wool, honey, and farmer-owned reserve provisions in SB 1714.

Thank you for your consideration of Farm Bureau's position. We look forward to your continued support of the state's farm community.

Debate in the Senate is unpredictable, and no time frame can be placed on a final bill. Some predict that it may be early 1986 before we see a final bill because it will be necessary for a conference committee to work out differences between the House and Senate versions.

Now is the time for farmers to contact these Senators also. It is important for them to know your opinion of the bill and what you support or oppose. On Saturday, November 2, Senator Sarbanes is scheduled to visit Garrett County. He will be in the dining room of the Grantsville Fire Hall at 10 a.m. His aides say that he will welcome visits from all those with concerns, especially farmers who wish to discuss the 1985 Farm Bill. Plan to stop by and pay him a visit.

Maryland Leading Nation In Ag Land Preservation Program

by Bernice Kepple

The Agricultural Land Preservation Program in Garrett County began six years ago. In other parts of the state, though, the program was put into use several years earlier, and has produced satisfying results for both farmers and adjacent landowners. The state of Maryland, as a matter of fact, has taken the lead with the largest program of permanently preserved farm land in the nation.

In the early and mid 70's, people all across the United States began to realize that prime agricultural land was being bought up for housing developments, shopping malls, and parking lots. In some cases, farmers were glad to sell their land. Perhaps they were ready to retire, or wished to make a living some other way, or take up farming in another location. Maybe children who had inherited a farm had no interest in agriculture, therefore, the farm their parents had carefully built up over the years was sold off in lots to those looking for a piece of open space in the country.

Perhap the farmer felt the pressure of urban sprawl moving into his rural area, and experienced some harassment from new neighbors who didn't like the smell of the farm, the noise made by farm machinery and animals, or the very early and very late hours farmers must work. And maybe that developer, who kept offering such a good price for the farm, just happened to stop by on one of those days when the farm just didn't seem worth all the hard work and agony it took to keep it going.

For a variety of reaons, farm land was disappearing, and it was frightening to farmers who wanted to stay in business and keep their land in agriculture to see shopping malls and fast-food chains move in next door on land which once grew corn and oats.

Around 1975 federal and state governments began to see this unreplaceable resource disappearing and decided to develop a voluntary program which would help farmers preserve their land for agriculture. In 1977 the Maryland Legislature signed into law a bill which authorized the creation of voluntary districts where commercial subdividing was restricted and agricultural activities were not.

Farmers in the eastern part of Maryland immediately began putting their land into agricultural districts. Carroll County, which is within commuting distance of both Baltimore and Washington, D.C., currently has 144 agricultural districts, made up of 164 farms, with a total of 23,700 acres in the county's program. Half of those farmers, on 82 farms, have sold easements to 11,000 acres, making that total in Carroll County one-third of all acres in the state under permanent preservation.

In 1980 the Garrett County Commissioners adopted an ordinance to provide for the establishment of agricultural preservation districts and defined farm use as any use of land which directly contributes to the production, processing or storage of agricultural products. At that time the commissioners appointed a local five-member Agricultural Preservation Advisory Board to advise them in respect to the establishment of districts and the approval of easement purchases, and in general, promote the preservation of agricultural land.

Under the ordinance any farm use of land is permitted. It also permits operation at any time of machinery used in farm production or the primary processing of agricultural products. Normal agricultural operations performed in accordance with good husbandry practices, which do not cause bodily injury or directly endanger human health, are permitted. This includes normal agriculturally-related noise and odors. The sale of farm products produced on the farm where the sales are made is permitted.

A farm must meet certain requirements to be eligible for the program. Soil type requirements must be met and the farm must contain at least 100 acres. Owners of adjoining farms may go together to form a district.

Farms in the program are protected by the county ordinance and receive some protection from nuisance suits. A neighbor, however, may still file suit against the farmer but must prove that the farmer is not operating in a responsible manor. The ordinance gives the farmer more insulation in court if an individual property owner does file suit.

Once land is included in a district, it must stay in agricultural use for five years. At that time, the agreement may be terminated or the farmer may volunteer to keep his land in a district for a longer period of time. Usually after the first five years, but at any time after the land is put in a district, the farmer may apply to sell his development rights or easements to the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation.

Selling the easements on the farmland will prohibit residential subdivision for commercial purposes. Even though the land is in a district, the landowner has the right to sell it at any time, but only for agricultural purposes. The price paid to a farmer by the state foundation is the difference between the value of his land if he sold it to be developed, and the value of his land if it stays in agricultural production.

Once an easement is purchased, the land is under a perpetual restriction against development. However, the farmer may reserve one acre or less for himself and for each of his children for the purpose of construction of a house for their own use. This is permitted one time only.

In order to sell easements, a soil conservation plan, approved and reviewed by the local soil conservation district, is required for any property in a district. The plan must list all existing erosion and water quality problems as well as the soil conservation practices to solve those problems and a schedule set up to do so.

A most important point is that the sale of an easement does not transfer ownership of the property to the state or grant any public access to the property.

Since 1980, 26 agricultural districts have been declared in Garrett County, with an approximate total of 3,300 acres in the program. A second public hearing is planned for Tuesday, October 29, at 7:30 p.m., at the Route 40 Elementary School for the most recent application made by Peter and Judith Brown. The Browns want to enter their 205.8 acre dairy farm in the Avilton area into the program simply to preserve it for agricultural purposes.

From the adjacent landowners' point of view, the agland preservation program is also a benefit. Those who have always lived in the country want to see agricultural land remain as much as the farmers do, and those who have recently moved to the country also want to maintain the open space.

Marlene Conaway, the program administrator in Carroll County, said, "What I've found over the years is that landowners are overjoyed that they're going to keep that farm next door. That was one reason they moved to the country."

UM Economists Review Dairy Diversion Program

A 15-month effort by Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to reduce dairy surpluses in this country was both a short-run success and a long-term failure, according to two University of Maryland agricultural economists.

The dairy diversion program, established by Congress in 1983 under the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act, proved successful during its 15 months because the total farm marketings of U.S. milk fell in that period.

And, taxpayers got a break during the 15 months the program was in effect because the cost of the program was paid by dairy farmers and the federal government actually reduced the amount of surplus dairy products it purchased for storage.

However, the program did not provide a permanent reduction of milk production, say Robert J. Beiter and John W. Wysong, specialists in the University's Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics.

"In fact, total milk production skyrocketed after the end of the diversion period on March 31 of this year," says Beiter.

"The cost to the taxpayers for surplus milk purchases by USDA's Commodity Credit Cooperative in 1985 is approaching a $1.5 billion and climbing," he adds.

One reason why milk production rose after the program ended this year: many producers who participated in the program found ways to get around making a permanent commitment to reduced production.

A significant number of dairy producers used practices such as reduced feeding, delayed breeding, and feeding milk to livestock to create a temporary reduction of milk production and marketings, according to Wysong.

"This enabled dairy producers to increase production immediately following the diversion period," says Wysong.

In addition, farmers replaced more cows—which is an indication of gearing up for production—at the end of the program than they had in any previous year since 1965, he adds.

Beiter and Wysong say a number of factors may have contributed to the program's long-term failure.

Fifteen months may be too short of time to expect a permanent downward adjustment in milk production, they say.

The low cost of feed grains may be too attractive to expect farmers to reduce feeding this year and next.

Milk support prices, although lower than in 1983-84, may still be too high to bring about reduced production, they add. Feed prices declined in recent years as production surpluses of corn and soybeans returned.

"Reducing the support price, as painful as that might be, would permit to some degree the survival of the most efficient producers, or it might separate out the producers with the greatest equity capital base and those with access to capital and credit resources," Beiter says.

A longer diversion program, the two agricultural economists say, might help reduce national dairy surpluses by diverting dairy production resources to other types of farm enterprises.

A healthier domestic and foreign market for other agricultural commodities might provide incentive to dairy farmers to move to other lines of productive endeavor, according to Beiter and Wysong.

State Farm Bureau Officials Visit Garrett Co.

Officials of the Maryland Farm Bureau visited Garrett County last night to speak at a meeting in Gortner to familiarize farmers with the benefits of the organization.

Traveling from the Randallstown office were: Jack Matthews, information director; Henry Holloway, state Farm Bureau president; and Jay Hoffman, field representative. Also attending was Clark Kolb, Garrett County Farm Bureau president.

Giving a slide presentation of conservation was G.P. Halterman of the ASCS office in Oakland. Also representing ASCS was Craig Hartsock of Allegany County.

Farmers wishing more information on Farm Bureau should call Clark Kolb at 826-8484.

"Be Aware—A New Dawn in Dairying"

This is the title of a program that should be of interest to you as a dairyman.

Biotechnology has reached its age in agriculture. Researchers at Cornell University have recently developed a growth hormone that has the ability to increase production by as much as 40% the first 210 days of lactation—the implications are mind-boggling.

Much has already been written on this subject. But the best way for you to fully understand what it means to your dairy operation—plus the opportunity to ask questions—is for you to plan to attend the S.E. Holstein Seminar, presented by the Maryland Holstein Association with cooperation from Md. Cooperative Extension Service.

Silo Fires

Some of the corn silage going into silos is getting extra dry. If the moisture content is low, there is a good chance of over-heating of the silage. Of course, if it gets hot enough you have a fire, one that is difficult to extinguish. Keep an eye on your moisture content. You may have to add water as you fill the silo.

The Young Farmers Association will hold their regular meeting Wednesday, October 30, 1985 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 352 in Mining Center at Garrett Community College. All young farms families are invited.

GNB To Open New Branch At Deep Creek Lake

Officials of Garrett National Bank here have announced plans to unveil their newest branch office at Deep Creek Lake with a week-long Open House observance, scheduled for Monday, October 28, through Saturday, November 2.

The Lake Branch, making a total of nine banking locations in Garrett and Allegany counties for the institution, will be fully operational and staffed for complete banking services to existing and new customers at that time, according to George Evans, vice president.

The facility, which includes drive-in banking, full loan department service, and safety deposit boxes will be open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, Evans said. The branch will also feature a 24-hour automatic teller machine, part of the regional CashStream and nationwide Cirrus networks.

Devlin, Inc., of Oakland, was general contractor of the project, and numerous regional and local firms were involved as subcontractors and suppliers.

Among the features of the new branch is an unusual experimental heating and cooling system which utilizes a geothermal energy source in the building's climate control. Using a series of underground water sources, the system is designed to supplement traditional heating and cooling devices.

The staff of the branch will be headed by William W. Rohrbaugh, manager, and will include Deborah L. Niner, Tracy D. Harvey, and Sheila A. Filsinger.

CANDY SECRETS TO BE UNVEILED — Karen Miller, left, and Vicki Detrow, right, of Vicki's Cake Decorating Classes and Supplies, Hagerstown, will present a workshop to benefit the American Heart Association—Western Maryland Division on October 29, at the Oakland Fire Hall. Two demonstrations are scheduled, one at 10 a.m., and the other at 7 p.m., where samples, easy-to-make recipes, and helpful hints in making candies will be provided. Because of limited registration, interested persons should contact the American Heart Association Office at 724-4011 or purchase their tickets from Proudfoot's Pharmacy or Grandmother's House Craft Shop, Oakland.

Demaree Inflatable Boat Co. To Purchase Building In Friendsville

During their regular monthly meeting, the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council announced that negotiations with Demaree Inflatable Boats, Inc. have been settled, and that Demaree will purchase the building the company is currently occupying on Second and Oak Streets in Friendsville, along with five adjoining lots. Demaree Inflatable Boats, Inc. has been operating in Friendsville for three years, and has a total of 10 employees.

Among other topics of the meeting was a discussion referring to the proposed town park. The town previously held an option to purchase the Harry Guard property, but has decided to relinquish that option so that John Parsons, owner of Micro-Integration, Inc., can purchase the property to enlarge his building. Parsons will then donate some land to the town for a park.

A decision on the special exception application made by Carroll Forsyth has been postponed to October 24. A postponement was necessary because a quorum was not present at the last zoning board meeting. To prevent this from happening in the future, the town council has accepted an alternate, Alice Spear, to serve on the zoning board, and to vote in the absence of a quorum.

The town "welcome" sign is standing and 20 blanks have been bought by and distributed to various businesses and organizations in the town, and will be placed on the sign as they are completed. Any business or organization interested in a spot on the sign should contact Councilman Spencer Schlosnagle soon.

The town council has decided that there will be no "trick or treat" this year in Friendsville. The town, instead, donated money for a Halloween activity sponsored by the Town and Community Women which will be held on October 31.

TIPS FOR TIRED FEET
ARIS ISOTONER

ISOTONER SLIPPERS
For Tired Feet
Massages, relaxes, beautifies, pampers, exercises, revitalizes tired feet $20.00 pair
In Navy, Black, Bone, Cerise
Here are some tricks to bring new life to tired feet:

It's important to take special measures to keep feet from cramping and aching. Wearing shoes that fit properly is the first "step" to comfort. Alternate between heels and flats to keep tendons flexible. Also, remember to change your shoes and footwear daily to keep your feet dry, healthy and happy!

Lie on the floor near a wall. Raise your legs until they're two or three feet over your head; then rest your feet against the wall. Hold them there for a few minutes; this allows all the blood that's settled in your lower legs and feet to recirculate. For special treatment, firmly massage your feet and legs upward from ankle to calf.

Remember, after a hard day, your feet may swell to as much as 10% more than their morning size. Slip tired feet into Isotoner® Comfort Slippers and you'll feel the wonderful difference! Isotoner's special fabric stretches gently to shape to your foot for a "barefoot fit."

Start from a standing position, feet a shoulder's width apart. Pick up the right foot slowly, lifting the heel first, then the ball of the foot, and finally the toes. Meanwhile, shift your weight slowly, until all your weight is on the left foot and your right foot is just barely off the ground. Repeat five times, then switch feet.

Sitting in a chair, extend one leg. Point your toes, then flex. (This one sounds easy, but it's often done incorrectly. Remember—don't curl your toes when you point. The stretch should come in the muscles of the top of the foot, not in the toes.)

Still sitting, rotate the foot slowly at the ankle. Reverse directions. Then do the same for the other foot.

State Police Report Several Local Mishaps

Maryland State Police reported several vehicle accidents which occurred in the area recently.

Paula D. Nealis, 21, Westernport, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two vehicle accident in Friendsville early Monday evening.

According to police reports, Merwin E. Slagle, 50, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was traveling south on the Friendsville Addison Road when Nealis' vehicle, a 1985 Dodge Daytona which was coming out of an alley, failed to stop at the intersection, causing a collision with Slagle's pickup truck.

Tfc. Dale K. Williams investigated the incident, charging Nealis with failing to grant the right-of-way.

A single-vehicle accident occurred on the Bumble Bee Road Saturday at 3:00 a.m.

According to the police, Thomas E. VanSickle, 25, Accident, was southbound in a 1984 Dodge Charger when he failed to negotiate a right curve. The vehicle skidded across the road, striking a concrete culvert.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the incident, charging VanSickle with crossing the center line..

VanSickle was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where officials were unable to confirm whether he was treated and released.

An accident occurred in the parking lot of Northern High School early Saturday evening.

According to police reports, Karolyn K. Speicher, 51, Grantsville, was operating a 1976 Chevrolet Malibu Classic which had stopped to let a passenger out. When the vehicle accelerated, the throttle stuck, causing the vehicle to strike a second vehicle which was parked nearby.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the incident.

Speicher was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad. Officials at that hospital were unable to confirm whether she was treated and released there.

A single vehicle accident occurred October 16 on the Sand Flat Road around 10:30 p.m.

According to reports filed by the police, Ralph G. Sell, 30, Deer Park, was southbound in a 1981 Datsun 280ZX when he failed to negotiate a curve, causing the vehicle to run off the road over a small embankment, strike a barbed wire fence, and overturn.

Trooper David W. Broadwater investigated the mishap, charging Sell with failing to remain on the roadway, driving without registration, driving without a license, and driving while under the influence of alcohol.

DWI

Maryland State Police reported that two men were charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs last weekend.

Gary Allen Shahan, 22, Oakland, was charged with DWI by Tfc. C.R. Smith Sunday morning around 1:00 a.m. on Third Street, Oakland.

John Wesley Michaels, Jr., 25, Accident, was charged with DWI by Tfc. R.J. Resh Saturday morning at 2:30 a.m. on Route 42 near Elder Hill.

Revolutionary War Veteran Receives Due Recognition — 200 Years Later

by Pam Ashby

A final, permanent grave marker was placed on a site selected for the grave of Revolutionary War veteran, Dudley Lee, on September 15, thanks to the efforts of his great-great-grandson, Charles V. Lee.

Charles, a World War II veteran, has been researching the Lee family since 1937 after he heard his father discussing the Lee family history with Charles Hoye, " a walking encyclopedia of genealogy."

At that time, Hoye was doing a genealogy series of old Garrett County families in The Mountain Democrat. The Lees were surprised to find that their ancestor, Dudley Lee, had enlisted in the armed forces during the Revolutionary War and that he was buried somewhere in the Ryan's Glade area. That section was once a part of Allegany County, and the information had to be obtained from that county's records. Indeed, a Dudley Lee, had been buried somewhere on the Lee Homestead.

In 1954, Charles and his sister, Vera Lee Griswold, along with their second cousin, Ethel Fike Friend, began documenting the life of Dudley Lee and his descendants. Eventually, a book was written with the aid of Walter Lee Warnick and Dorothy Lee Jones, also descendants of Dudley Lee.

The Family Tree

After many years of research, Charles pulled together the following points of history which gave him a better understanding of his roots and led him to the vicinity of his great-great-grandfather's burial place.

- Dudley Lee was born May 15, 1759, in Belfast, Ireland.
- When Dudley was 11, he committed some fault and ran away to escape his father's harsh punishment. Some believed his brother was with him.
- He either stowed away or was kidnapped and taken aboard a ship destined for Baltimore. The captain sold Dudley to a plantation owner as an indentured servant to pay his passage to America.
- Dudley first married Senorita Judith Gueverra, who died as a young bride.
- He then married Margaret Fritters White, a widow. They settled on the Noah Harvey farm in the White Church area which was then part of Allegany County, and allegedly had 19 children.
- On July 1, 1778, Dudley enlisted in the Sixth Maryland Regiment and was discharged on April 1, 1779.
- Dudley later moved his family to Frederick County.
- While there he re-enlisted in Captain Williams Company of Frederick County, and also served other terms until August 10, 1785.
- Following the war, the Lee family claimed their military lot, No. 301. According to census records, the Lee family and the Jeremiah Tasker family were the only two in the county to claim their lots after the war.

The Fighting Irish

Charles Lee contends it's "the Irish blood in them" that prompted many members of his family tree to enlist in the service of their country.

Listed below is a chronological overview of the fighting Lees.

- Dudley Lee enlisted in the Sixth Maryland Regiment during the Revolutionary War on July 1, 1778. He re-enlisted several times after that. (Farmers in those days would enlist for six months or so and then go home to tend to their planting and harvesting before re-enlisting.)
- Jacob Lee, son of Dudley Lee, who resided in the area now called Red House, fought in the war of 1812. His son, Robert, and his grandson, William, both served terms as sheriff of Garrett County.
- Frederick Lee, son of Dudley, also fought in the War of 1812.
- Nicholas Lee, son of Dudley, served in the Civil War, having enlisted at age 58. Four of Dudley's grandsons also served with the Union Army during the Civil War.
- Two of Dudley's great-grandsons, another Charles Lee and Web Lee, fought in the Spanish-American War.
- G.J. "Base" Lee, great-grandson of Dudley and father of Charles V. Lee, served in the Maryland National Guard from 1884 to 1900.
- Charles V. Lee, great-great-grandson of Dudley, was one of the first American soldiers to set foot on foreign soil, Algiers, North Africa, during World War II on October 2, 1940.
- Robert Friend, a fourth generation grandson of Dudley, served during the Korean conflict.
- Many fifth and sixth generation grandsons of Dudley served in Viet Nam.

A TRIBUTE in the form of a United States flag with 13 stars and stripes was presented to Charles V. Lee, great-great-grandson of Dudley Lee, a Revolutionary War veteran. The flag presentation and memorial service was held September 15 near White Church at the old Lee homestead, one of the only two military lots claimed after the war. The flag, purchased by the DAV and its auxiliary was presented to Lee in the name of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution also took part in the memorial service and grave marking ceremony. Pictured below, is Lee displaying the flag and holding a rifle which came from the John Brown arsenal in Harpers Ferry during the Civil War. Lee, who is now a gunsmith, comes from a long line of fighting Irish and can answer anything you always wanted to know about guns but were afraid to ask.

Finally At Rest

Due to the glum economic picture in Garrett County during the late 1940's, Charles relocated in Morgantown, W. Va. in 1948, from the Lee homestead near White Church. He has been a gunsmith for the past 56 years and operates his gun shop from the basement of his home.

Charles has no fancy desk or den from which he studies his genealogy. Rather, he works at his kitchen table when he is not busy with his gun shop. Small wonder with the family's military background that Charles is an expert with guns of all types.

Charles spent years trying to determine the burial location of his great-great-grandfather. He felt sure for a long time his ancestor must surely be buried near the place he was reared.

Finally, through court house records in Allegany County, he did discover that Dudley Lee was buried there somewhere, although no one will ever be sure of the exact location. Hence, the new grave marker was placed in what he thought was a suitable spot in the family cemetery at White Church.

Charles, himself, molded the cement maker and had a plaque made for it giving the pertinent information about Dudley Lee.

The September memorial ceremony included the presentation of a 13 stars and stripes United States flag to Charles, in memory of Revolutionary War soldier, Dudley Lee. The flag was presented by the Disabled American Veterans and its auxiliary, in the name of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Bill and Hazel Meyers are the respective presidents of the DAV and its auxiliary.

Members of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution were also present to help commemorate the event with a memorial service.

Dudley Lee now rests in peace and honor, thanks to the dedication and determination of his descendants, especially his great-great grandson, Charles V. Lee.

DUE RECOGNITION — After being buried in an unmarked grave for nearly 200 years, Dudley Lee finally receives a dignified grave marker and a military honor service. Pictured above is the marker molded in cement by Charles V. Lee and inscribed with pertinent information of his service in the Revolutionary War.

"Thank you"

"Thank you for picking up your toys." "Thank you for remembering to get bread." "Thank you for putting gas in the car."

Small routine matters? No! Because when a "thank you" is said, it provides a link of love for the persons involved.

We must work on these "small links of love" in order to make life happier for those around us.

The personal "thank you" also reminds us that a thank you to God is also in order. We do not have to stop and close our eyes and bow our heads each time. Our prayers can be flashes of thoughts as we acknowledge God's love and presence.

Each "thank you" can be a "link of love" to God and others as we pray at home, or at our house of worship.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TO COMMAND OR TO APPEAL?

October 27, 1985

Background Scripture:
Philemon; Galatians 3:23-29; 1 Corinthians 12:12, 13.
Devotional Reading:
Galatians 4:1-7.

I must confess that the first time I studied Philemon, I was somewhat uncomfortable with this letter. It was during the 1960's and America was embroiled in the struggle for civil rights. Although not militant, I believed—and still believe—that our nation was long, long overdue in practicing what it preached, both politically and spiritually. Inequality and segregation were by-products of the evil institution of slavery.

It was evident to me that, although Paul himself did not sanction slavery and went out of his way to proclaim oneness in Christ, he seemed considerably less than forthright in attacking this evil when he had the opportunity. He was an Apostle. Couldn't he have commanded Philemon to release Onesimus from his claims of slavery? The fact that he did not issue the command seemed to me an embarrassment—evidence of the same kind of wishy-washy behavior for which he had condemned Simon Peter.

BOLD TO COMMAND

Paul says, "...though I am bold enough in Christ to command you to do what is required, yet for love's sake I prefer to appeal to you...I appeal to you for my child Onesimus..." (8-10). If Paul could have commanded Philemon to renounce his claims against the slave Onesimus, why didn't he? If, as he says, "I would have been glad to keep him with me...but I preferred to do nothing without your consent..." (13, 14), why did he send Onesimus back to Philemon?

Paul's reasoning is more clear to me now that it was then: "..., in order that your goodness might not be by compulsion but of your own free will" (14b). A Philemon who understood the claims of Christian conscience against slavery was more desirable to Paul than a Philemon who simply acceded to Paul's command. Either way, Onesimus would have his freedom (unless, of course, Philemon failed to heed Paul), but with Paul's approach of appeal instead of command, Onesimus could have his freedom from slavery and the riches of Christian brotherhood.

MORE THAN A SLAVE

Actually, if you examine this letter carefully, you will find that Paul was not being wishy-washy: he reminds Philemon of his right to command, he urges him to receive his former slave "as you would receive me," and he concludes strongly: "Confident of your obedience, I write to you, knowing that you will do even more than I say" (v. 21).

I do not regret crusading for civil rights. The civil rights laws enacted were very necessary. But neither am I so naive as to think that a law solves the problem. Far better for all, when we can do it with persuasive appeal, rather than use the last resort of command.

Accepting his flaws keeps Damon fit

By Renee Ross

Stuart Damon sighs when he's asked about his daily exercise program. "I've done it all," says the Brooklyn-born actor, who stars as as Dr. Alan Quartermaine on "General Hospital."

Stuart Damon

"Health clubs, aerobic classes, I used to run in 10 kilometer marathons — you name it," Damon, 48, says with a laugh. "Now, at least six days a week, I usually do one of two activities. I ride a stationary bike for 30 minutes to get my heart rate up to 80 percent of its maximum. When I'm on the bike, I also work out with a set of lightweight dumbbells to tone up my arms."

When he's not pedaling for fitness, Damon relies on his two feet. "On alternate days, I usually power walk, which means walking as fast as I can without feeling uncomfortable. I do this," the actor adds, "for about four miles.

"I had to quit other kinds of workouts because I was hurt doing them — I have bad knees and ankles," he explains. "I think the bigger you are, the more bulk you carry, the harder it is to do things like running. I'm 6-foot-3, and weigh 220 pounds. I look more like a linebacker than an actor. This body was not made to run!"

Damon admits he needs to watch his weight. "When it comes to food, every day is a struggle for me," he says. "I've lasted three hours on strict diets. So everyday, I make a conscious choice to pick the most nutritious foods available." The actor pauses. "But sometimes my humanity raises its head, and when I'm hungry, I eat the first thing I grab."

The actor admits "It's hard for me to accept I'm highly imperfect, very frail and very human. I'd like to be in great shape and look like a sleek racehorse, but I don't. So I'm learning to accept my limitations more and more.

"As time begins to catch up with me, I've had to let go of my perfection. Some people might argue that this is a defeatist attitude, but I think it's realistic.

"We all have to tell ourselves that, on some days, we do better than on others. Whether it's a good day or a mediocre day, you've got to be able to tell yourself, 'Well, today, I gave it my best shot.'"

Quinn has designs on life of Pablo Picasso

By Cindy Adams

Anthony Quinn is bringing "Picasso," a musical based on the life of artist Pablo Picasso, to Broadway in '87. Quinn, all six feet of him, will play the 5-foot-4 Picasso by surrounding himself with giant-sized people.

Anthony Quinn

Any examples? Says Tony: "I interviewed Mariel Hemingway. In heels, she's even taller than I am. She's promised to take singing and dancing lessons for a year."

Duncan Wellman will produce "Picasso" in London before it moves across the ocean. Pierre Rey, author of "The Greek Tycoon," will write the book. Their biggest problem? Should they hire a European or American songwriter.

Gloria Steinem's book, "Outrageous Acts and Everyday Rebellions," will be turned into a Warner Brothers film. Irwin Winkler, the man who gave us "The Right Stuff," will produce. ... "Lady Blue" star Jamie Rose will marry writer-director James Orr at Christmas time.

Julie Andrews is selling her place in Malibu. She doesn't need the money, so she's selling cheap: only $7 million. ... Larry Hagman gave his son Preston Hagman and his daughter-in-law Starla a $500,000 house in Pacific Palisades, Calif., because they gave him a grandchild. ... Cannon Films will pay Christopher Reeve $6 million for making "Superman IV."

Julie Andrews

"Knots Landing" star Kevin Dobson will produce "Port Authority" for CBS. Dobson, who wrote the film, will also star.

Muppet artist brings his sensibility to TV

By Frank Lovece

Muppet-master Jim Henson remembers it this way: A chicken brought artist Michael Frith to his attention. "Michael had done this wonderful book about measuring animals," Henson recalls, "and his drawings were terrific. A giraffe was, for example, 19 chickens high. So we asked him to start designing things for us. I think the first thing he designed for us were some Muppet chickens. They were," Henson grins, "terrific chickens!"

Michael Frith

That was in 1975. Now, as Executive Vice President of Art and Design for Henson Associates, Frith gets to design terrific monsters, Fraggles and Doozers for the most popular puppets in the world. "I extend that whole Muppety look Jim created," Frith, 44, explains. It's only coincidence, of course, that the tall, bearded Frith looks much like Henson himself, and that his singsong voice is, well, Muppety.

"It's a fun job," says Frith, "because I find myself dabbling in so many different areas — a record jacket, for instance, or a Thanksgiving Day parade float." Frith has also designed the fine art parodies of "Miss Piggy's Treasury of Art Masterpieces," and served as the editorial director of "The Art of the Muppets." Yet he insists "I'm not a set designer or an architect. I'm a well-paid doodler."

His "doodles" have been translated for "Saturday Night Live," "Fraggle Rock," various Muppet movies and the new Saturday morning kiddie show, "Jim Henson's Muppets, Babies and Monsters."

Frith feels the new show, about kid-like Muppets running a glue and-Scotch tape TV station from their basement, is in many ways, an allegory about "the first generation of kids to grow up completely video-literate. Today, an incredible number of kids have video cameras and VCRs. Little kids are growing up playing with this awesome medium — they're gaining the kind of familiarity that used to take a network ten years to achieve. Kids will be as comfortable with video," he predicts, "as we were with crayons.

"There's the techno-fun, 'Miami Vice' side of it," adds Frith. "But there's also a serious side; a new outlet for people to channel their imaginations. The more people in control of something, the more they'll want to be a part of it."

Thicke's new show is 'pleasant sitcom'

By Gregory Garver

HOLLYWOOD — The usual thing someone associated with a new show says is: "Our show is different, because..." So it's refreshing to talk with Alan Thicke and hear him say that his new show, "Growing Pains," is not the least bit different.

Alan Thicke

Thicke stars as Jason Seaver, an upwardly mobile psychiatrist who moves his practice into his home while his wife goes out to work. Joanna Kerns stars as Thicke's wife, Maggie Seaver.

"We are a lot like the great family TV shows of the past, and, frankly," Thicke says, "that is exactly what we are designed to be. We are very derivative, and have a nice show and not bizarre show."

Thicke says that "Growing Pains" was created as a family sitcom, with what he calls "comfortable and familiar situations," which are played as attempts to represent contemporary American life.

And that suits Thicke to a T, especially since he's had his fill of the bizarre. As you may remember, the actor was once host of his own late-night talk show, and he was ballyhooed as the man who was going to make Johnny Carson quake in his ratings.

"After all the hype that show had," Thicke recalls, "it cried out for a kick in the teeth. And it got one. We had been hyped so much that our death was covered as much as our birth. For me, the cancellation came almost as a relief.

"For a time, it was all very hurtful to me personally. I'd be afraid to pick up the papers. Unfortunately, that was about the time I was also going through some very traumatic changes in my personal life."

So Thicke has had his growing pains over the last few years. After his talk show was cancelled, he was offered many career opportunities: other talk shows, writing and acting ventures.

"Most of what I was offered was bizarre," he says. "At this point in my life, I wanted something that was just nice and pleasant. I think 'Growing Pains' is exactly that."

Liza Minnelli makes her television dramatic debut in "A Time to Live," a made-for-TV movie airing Monday, Oct. 28 on NBC. Miss Minnelli portrays Mary-Lou Weisman, a real-life author-housewife who must come to terms with her son's impending death. Corey Haim co-stars as her son Peter Weisman.

Liza Minnelli finds her Joan of Arc role

By Wayne Miller

All the trademarks are gone. There are no spidery eyelashes, no chewed-up cuticles, no boisterous giggles. Yes, this is a different Liza Minnelli, a more serene, less effusive, blonde-haired Liza Minnelli.

Liza Minnelli

And this is the Liza Minnelli viewers will get to see when she stars in "A Time to Live," a made-for-TV movie airing Monday, Oct. 28 on NBC. In the film, Miss Minnelli portrays Mary-Lou Weisman, a real-life author-housewife who is forced to come to grips with her son's impending death.

"I've been offered lots of scripts over the years," Miss Minnelli, 39, confesses, "and I turned them all down. But when I read 'Intensive Care' (the film's original title), I realized this the best-written script I had ever read."

For her role, Miss Minnelli lightened her black tresses and kept on the extra weight she had gained during her recent stay in the Betty Ford Rehabilitation Center.

"I thought I looked too Italian," she says. "Mary-Lou's hair was lighter, so I thought I'd color mine. Looks nice, doesn't it?"

Miss Minnelli sips iced tea out of a straw. "I kept the weight on because I thought I looked more maternal. People said I was pregnant, but I wasn't." Her voice grows quieter. "But I wish I were."

Miss Minnelli fumbles for a Marlboro. She pops the cigarette into her mouth.

"I think every actress looks for her Joan of Arc, her modern-day heroine," the actress-singer explains. "And that's what this story's about. Mary-Lou didn't fight to try and fix her son's disease (muscular dystrophy); she fought to accept." Miss Minnelli sips and smokes. "It's the story," she adds quietly, "of a lady who's got it together."

Make that two ladies who've got it together. Last July, Miss Minnelli underwent a detox program for drug and alcohol dependency.

"I was taking 10-15 milligrams of Valium a day for 15 years," she says. Now, the actress claims, she's never been in finer health "and the only things I drink are iced tea, iced coffee and soft drinks."

"I realized I had to take control of my life," Miss Minnelli says. "It was either taking control or dying. And I'm not ready for dying."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

What can you tell me about Patrick Swayze? I saw him in HBO's "The Outsider," and fell in love! Where can I send my love letters? — D.S., Hobart, Okla.

Patrick Swayze

Swayze's mother was a choreographer for the Houston Jazz Ballet Company, and the actor once pursued ballet. He danced with New York's prestigious Harkness and Joffrey Dance troupes, eventually becoming a principal dancer with the Eliot Feld Dance Company.

While dancing, Swayze also studied acting. He starred as Zuko in the Broadway musical "Grease." Upon moving west, the actor was cast in such TV movies as "The Comeback Kid," "Return of the Rebels" and "The New Season." Swayze has also been seen in several big-screen films, including "Red Dawn," "Uncommon Valor," "Skatetown, U.S.A." and "Youngblood."

Swayze, a native of Houston, Texas, will be seen next week in the ABC miniseries "North and South."

You can write to the actor c/o Wolper Productions, The Burbank Studios, Burbank, CA 91505.

I would like to get my hands on photos of Clint Eastwood, John Wayne, Gary Cooper and Sam Elliott. Can you help me, Val? — M.S., Sugar Grove, Pa.

Shelley's soapy past; Napier keeps busy

By Kimberly Redmond

Can you tell me about Shelley Taylor Morgan, the actress who portrays Lorena Sharpe on "General Hospital"? — L.A., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Shelley Taylor Morgan

Miss Taylor Morgan graduated with honors from University High School in Los Angeles, and began working as a secretary at U.C.L.A. She decided to become an actress after she realized she wanted more out of life.

She enrolled in acting classes, and eventually appeared in commercials. The actress also landed a role in the film "My Tutor" and appeared in numerous stage roles before joining "General Hospital." Miss Taylor Morgan is single, lives in Los Angeles and is devoted to her pet cat, Ratzo.

I'm upset that "Santa Barbara" no longer airs on my local television station in the afternoon. This summer, the station started airing the soap early in the morning. Help! — T.W., Willingboro, N.J.

We have no control over when your local NBC affiliate airs "Santa Barbara." We suggest that you call the station manager and voice your disapproval. Decisions to change the time of a daytime soap lie solely with your local station.

I can't figure out why the writers of "All My Children" wrote off the character of Mike Roy, who was played by Hugo Napier. Can you enlighten me? — D.B., Jefferson, Pa.

Napier never clicked with the soap's audience, which was used to theater actor Nicolas Surovy in the role. Napier, who played Gunnar Stenbeck on "As the World Turns" before he joined "AMC," has gone on to pursue other acting opportunities.

Hugo Napier

MSTA President Notes Teacher Abuse, Shortage

The growing teacher shortage in Maryland and across the nation is the result of "years of school underfunding, years of teacher abuse, years of undervaluing teachers and education itself," said Beverly Corelle Stonestreet, president of the Maryland State Teachers Association.

In a speech October 18 at the MSTA Convention in Ocean City, which was attended by several Garrett County teachers, Stonestreet said:

"The solutions are obvious: higher salaries for teachers, a greater respect for teachers and the job they do, and a long-term and heavy public investment, not just in teacher salaries and training but in public education overall at every level of government."

Stonestreet hit attempts at recruiting uncertified teachers from other fields, saying, "That's a little like alleviating a shortage of doctors by giving everyone a stethoscope and package of tongue depressors. It is no less dangerous to think we can put warm adult bodies in every classroom and think we have eliminated the teacher shortage.

"We cannot and will not relax our concern for the students and their right to a quality education," she said. "We will increase efforts to hit the shortage with the only effective weapons—higher salaries and better working conditions."

Stonestreet stressed in the course of her speech that educational reform in every field will be expensive. But she noted that recent public opinion polls have shown that more and more Americans are willing to pay more taxes to improve public education.

"This intensive national spotlight on education," she said, "seems to be driving home a basic and realistic understanding of the problem. If we want to continue to improve public education in this country, we need more money. Rhetoric will not do the job."

Stonestreet ended her speech with a call to political action.

"Some of us may wish that we as educators could stick to education, the field we know best, and leave politics to politicians," she said. "But in that way lies disaster."

Stonestreet noted that the association is currently in the process of deciding which candidates to support in the 1986 elections.

How Maryland legislators voted on the 1984 Pension Law, strongly opposed by MSTA, will be a major consideration, but she added, "We are too sophisticated politically to lock ourselves into absolutely predetermined decisions on the basis of a single vote."

The entire voting record and positions on continuing educational issues, as well as the potential for the future, will enter into the assessment of all candidates, she said.

"We fight many battles on many fronts," she said, "always keeping in mind our larger goal: the best teaching, working and learning conditions."

Block Grant Funds Allocated For Fiscal '86

Ruth Massinga, Maryland Secretary of Human Resources has announced the state's plan for the distribution of $4.7 million in federal funds under the Community Services Block Grant for federal fiscal year 1986. The block grant funds, part of the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, will be distributed to local agencies to finance various programs for low-income persons.

According to Lawrence E. Hunt, executive director, Community Services Administration of the Department of Human Resources, the funds will be distributed to local community action agencies and other "eligible entities," throughout Maryland.

Originally part of the nation's "war on poverty", the community action agencies have used federal funds since 1964 to develop programs designed to ameliorate the causes and conditions of poverty in local areas. In Maryland, these community programs have included: Head Start educational centers for young children; health, housing and weatherization projects; and other special programs for young persons and the elderly.

For 1986, 90 percent of the state's Community Services Block Grant Funds will be distributed to existing community action agencies, along with several other previously eligible agencies, according to Hunt.

Persons wishing to comment on the plan may write, before October 31, 1985 to: Lawrence E. Hunt, Community Services Administration, Department of Human Resources, Room 406, 1123 North Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Copies of the plan are available for review at the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. office in Oakland.

DNR Slates Fish Management Meeting

The Department of Natural Resources will conduct four meetings to acquaint the public with various policies and proposals it is considering regarding the management of Maryland's cold water fisheries resources.

The meeting for the Garrett County area is scheduled for Thursday, October 31, 7:30 p.m., Frostburg State College, Room 140-141.

A discussion period will follow each presentation.

Mathias Proposes To Dedicate Canal Terminus To Beall

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced legislation that would dedicate the Cumberland terminus of the C&O Canal National Historic Park to the late Senator J. Glenn Beall, Sr.

Mathais noted that it was Senator Beall "who seized the initiative, with customary foresight and wisdom," to introduce the first piece of legislation recognizing the historic importance of the canal. "His initial bill, introduced in 1956, laid the groundwork for the legislation ultimately enacted into law," added Mathias.

Mathias pointed out that the Cumberland terminus would be an ideal place to honor Senator Beall's contributions to the development of the C&O Park "It is prominently located in the heart of Cumberland, where river, rail and road corridors still intersect," said Mathias, "although most of the physical remains of the canal have been buried and the area's appearance has been greatly changed by construction of a flood control project in the 1950's.

"Congressional designation of the terminus as a memorial to Senator Beall would provide the impetus for developing the site as an open, inviting, interpretive park with low-key permanent exhibits, landscaping and walkways, mini-plazas and benches to draw people to the river and the canal lock area," Mathias continued. He suggested that durable displays could be used to describe the canal's history and significance and to highlight Senator Beall's role in creating the park.

Mathias noted that Senator Beall, who served ten years in the House of Representatives representing western Maryland and 12 years in the Senate, was born and reared in the Cumberland area. "The Beall family has been in western Maryland since 1783 when Thomas Beall moved to a farm on Evitts Creek near Cumberland," Mathias recalled. "Senator Beall's efforts to preserve the canal testified to his own appreciation of western Maryland's heritage and its continuing national significance."

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

THE CONDOLENCE CALL

The condolence call is distinct from attendance at the viewing or funeral. It is a personal home visit made to a bereaved individual or family by relatives, friends, neighbors, associates, acquaintances soon after they have learned of the death. However, the individual who fails to go early to the bereaved home need not assume that he may not go later. Condolence calls may be made at any time, before the funeral or after, during the first weeks of grief.

The condolence call has several purposes. It expresses sympathy and offers help in a difficult time. The bereaved should know that they are not alone in their grief, that there are people who care about and understand their sorrow. It also helps maintain ties between that person and the society. This not only demonstrates community support, it can help the bereaved from slipping too deeply into grief.

INSULATION

Saves Energy - Saves Money
Insulation is your single best way to save energy and dollars in your home. But it does even more than save you money . . . it also provides greater year-round comfort. So now, before the winter winds begin to howl, double check the insulation in your home. Potomac Edison suggests an insulating value of R30 in ceilings, R11 in walls and R19 for floors. If you aren't sure about the amount of insulation in your home, call Potomac Edison or a reputable contractor or dealer for an inspection. In many cases, you can probably install your own insulation (Potomac Edison has a free "Do-It-Yourself" insulation book) or it may be necessary to have a contractor handle the job for you. But don't delay. Insulation does save energy . . . it does save money!

Saves On Taxes, Too . . .
But Hurry! $300 Energy Tax Credit Ends Dec. 31st
Don't overlook the Energy Tax Credit which can save you up to $300 when you install insulation, storm doors and windows or other energy-saving measures in your home. But you do have to act quickly because this special Federal tax credit ends on December 31st. Call your local Potomac Edison office for additional information. Specific details are also available from the Internal Revenue Service. In Maryland, call (1) 800-492-0460; in West Virginia, (1) 800-642-1931; in Virginia, (1) 800-552-9500. Jamaica-Based Marine Biology Course Again Offered At GCC

Garrett Community College is again offering students and area residents the opportunity to spend a week in Jamaica studying tropical marine biology. According to Drew Ferrier, assistant professor of biology, the course will be given March 21-28, 1986, at Hofstra University's Marine Laboratory, St. Ann's Bay, on the northern coast of Jamaica.

Ferrier, who will be director in residence of the Marine Laboratory during the spring semester, stated that students may take the course for three credits, or as a noncredit offering through Continuing Education. The cost will be $642 plus tuition, with registration deadline of December 12, 1985.

"Last year we had a wide variety of people on the trip who enjoyed the experience tremendously," Ferrier stated. "I'm sure this year's class will find the course just as exciting and enriching."

During the course, students will observe and study sandy beaches, turtle grass beds, tidal pools, mangrove swamps, rocky shores, fringing reefs and bank/barrier reefs, with emphasis on the habitats of plants and animals and the ecology of tropical marine environs. There will also be opportunities for snorkeling trips and visits to local attractions such as the 600-foot Dunn's River Falls that descends to the sea, a boat ride in the large cave of the Green River Grotto and the native market place of Ocho Rios.

Participants will stay in a small hotel, two to a room, with a private bath, where they will be given three Jamaica-style meals each day, all included in the fee. Also available will be three separate laboratory buildings with continuous-flow sea water tanks, a scuba shop, marine biology library and scientific equipment for group use.

There is no pre-requisite for this course, but students should be able to swim well enough to feel comfortable in the water. Persons desiring further information about the Jamaican trip may contact Ferrier at the college, 387-6666 or at 826-8781 evenings.

GCC Students At Maryland All In Good Standing

According to Garrett Community College officials, students who attended GCC and transferred to the University of Maryland were all in good standing (2.0 GPA or better) in the fall of 1984 and the spring of 1985.

The 100% good standing status for Garrett in the fall of 1984 at Maryland compared with the community college statewide average of 84% of students in good standing. During the spring of 1985 semester, all of the Garrett Community College transfer students remained in good standing, while the community college statewide average increased to 87.6%.

On the average, the GCC transfer students transferred 45 credit hours from Garrett to the University of Maryland.

"Even more impressive," noted a GCC spokesman, "the Garrett transfer students cumulatively had a 'B' average at the University of Maryland. This figure included a student from Garrett who had a 3.91 out of 4.00 average while majoring in marketing at Maryland."

About half the population of America over the age of three wears glasses.

Open House Provides Opportunity To Sample GCC Courses, Events

Persons who attended the Open House at Garrett Community College Sunday afternoon saw a sampling of the many and varied activities happening at the college. In addition to exhibits, displays, and live performances, the Open House provided an opportunity for area residents to meet Interim President Dr. David A. Puzzuoli.

Every campus building had something happening during the Open House, and practically everyone on the college staff "got into the act." Focal point of the activities was the Student Center where a musical trio led by George McDowell performed, refreshments were served, and campus tours were begun. A display of Outdoor Education camping equipment and slide presentation by Ann Wellham's classes surrounded the aquarium where many visitors gathered.

The Computer Lab in the Learning Center drew visitors who watched Don Storch demonstrate computer hardware and software applicable to business. The biology, chemistry, and typing laboratories were open to the public and there were biological displays, a spectrum display and a display of physics experimental apparatus. Visitors were also able to view a slide presentation of this year's Jamaica trip and a videotape of "Powers of 10."

The Technology Center housed an art exhibit of work by Ron Skidmore's students, and a wildlife exhibit prepared by Jim Mullan. A geology display and a demonstration of industrial maintenance training devices took place in the Mining Center.

In the gymnasium, visitors were able to watch women's volleyball practice and later, men's basketball practice, while on the stage in the auditorium, a rehearsal of "Dracula" was going on, under the direction of Ben Sincell.

Dr. Puzzuoli stated that he was pleased with the community response to the Open House. "We want to thank everyone who came and let them know that we appreciate their interest in the college," he said.

Garrett Alumni To Organize

A group of Garrett Community College alumni met on Wednesday evening, October 16, at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, to formulate plans for establishing a Garrett Community College Alumni Association.

Under the leadership of Chairman Pro-Tem, Pat Gregg, the group discussed goals and objectives for the organization, communication with GCC alumni, charter memberships, and possible alumni activities. Present at the meeting were Pat Gregg, Paul Shockey, Frankeye Martin, Linda Fike, Cissy VanSickle, Dean Marsico, Frances Acton, John Culp, Lillian Mitchell and Dr. David Puzzuoli, GCC interim president.

This coordinating group will convene again on November 20 at 7 p.m. at Garrett Community College.

Interested alumni may contact Gregg or Dr. Mitchell at Garrett Community College for additional information.

New Scholarships Now Available Through GCC

Applications for two new scholarships are now available in the Financial Aid Office of Garrett Community College, according to Cissy VanSickle, financial aid officer.

The first of these, awarded by the Friendsville Rotary Club, will be given to a graduate of Northern High School who is currently a fulltime student at Garrett Community College maintaining a grade point average of 2.0, with preference given to residents of Friendsville or Accident. This is a needs-based scholarship in the amount of $200. Applications for the 1985-86 academic year award will be accepted in the Financial Aid Office until November 15, 1985.

The other scholarships are "Critical Shortage" grants of up to $5,200 per year offered by the Maryland State Scholarship Board in the areas of science, mathematics, foreign language and special education. These grants are available to undergraduate students in these fields who will have 60 credit hours or more by September 1986, persons with bachelor's or higher degrees in any academic fields, and teachers not certified in these fields who wish to be. Applicants must maintain a 3.0 grade point average, and must have a cumulative 3.0 GPA; however, financial need is not a criterion. Applications will be accepted from November 1 until December 9, 1985, for awards which begin in September 1986.

Further information about these and other scholarships may be obtained by calling the Financial Aid Office at the College, 387-6666.

Sound Of Music Gaining Intensity At GCC Under George MacDowell

The halls of Garrett Community College are again alive with the sound of music, coming from the classrooms where George McDowell is teaching. McDowell, who teaches at Zion School in Grantsville in the mornings and at the college in the afternoons and evenings, wears many musical hats.

At Zion he is general instructor of music, including band and chorus. At Garrett he is currently teaching music fundamentals, an elementary education requirement, and instrumental music-community band.

He has inaugurated an applied music program for guitar, instrumental, vocal and keyboard. He has also begun a feasibility study to determine the interest in having a college-community chorus. His hope is to involve Garrett Community College to such an extent with the community that local students will come here for instrumental lessons, and that there would be opportunity for musical programs—everything from ensembles and woodwind quintets to folk music—and the possibility of combining with the theater department to present musical dramatic programs.

When he first came to Garrett Community College last summer and requested of the dean, "Give me room to build a program," he said he knew that building such a program would take time.

In addition to his teaching music, McDowell is director of the Zion Choir and plays in both the Frostburg State College Wind Ensemble and the Potomac State College Community Band. This is his 16th year of teaching music.

McDowell was trained at Potomac State College, West Virginia University and Faith Baptist Seminary, from where he received a master's of arts in education, with emphasis on tests and measurements. He and his wife, Kathy, who is a full-time student at Garrett Community College, reside in Grantsville.

Those interested in participating in these music courses and programs may contact the college, Division of Arts, 387-6666.

Baker-Bolyard Vows Recited In September Double-Ring Ceremony

Barbara Lou Baker and Duane Clark Bolyard were united in marriage on Saturday, September 21, at the Crellin Methodist Church, Crellin, in a candlelight setting. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul Poland.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Baker, Aurora, W.Va. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius "Barney" Bolyard, Crellin.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, but was escorted to the altar by John Shaffer, cousin of the bride, Aurora. The bride had chosen a white Chantilly lace bridal gown, with a standup neckline with both the front and back yokes of illusion-sheer lace with a Schiffi embroidery, trimmed with tiny simulated pearls. The close-fitting lace bodice with flounce and basque waistline were trimmed with re-embroidered Chantilly lace and pearls. It had bishop sleeves with bridal points and snap-close lace cuffs. The waistline tiered into a full skirt highlighted with appliqued Chantilly lace reaching around apron-like from side to side to taper down the back into a flounced lace hem, extending into a chapel length train.

She wore her hair swooped up on the sides, with it hanging in cascading curls down her neck and was adorned with an angel's halo of rosebuds and baby's breath with matching ribbon bows tapering down her back with love-knots.

The wedding color theme was peach, pink, yellow and white.

The bride carried a bouquet of cascading silk Antonio peach open roses with peach mini-mums, petite pink rosebuds, yellow and white mini-filler flowers, and highlighted with natural dried baby's breath and white stardust gyp., to add a slight touch of fall to a late summer pastel wedding theme. The bouquet also featured a streaming satin bow combining all the wedding colors with love-knots.

Brenda Hillery, twin sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink double-tiered lace with a neckline worn off the shoulders. The slightly raised waistline had a satin ribbon belt which highlighted the gleaming acetate taffeta overlay with delicate lace. The gown fell into a full skirt with a flounced hem that was trimmed with pink satin bows. To distinguish the matron of honor from the other attendants, she also wore Juliet style lace wristlets which fastened around the thumb into a bridal point and stopped at the elbow with a lace ruffle. She carried a long stemmed arrangement of three peach roses and trim, and wore a half halo of rosebuds, mini-mums, baby's breath and ribbon bows which swooped up one side of her hair.

First bridesmaid was Lori Gregory, and second bridesmaid was Amanda Myers, both of Aurora, and both wore a gown matching that of the matron of honor, with matching hair-pieces. Lori carried a double rose, and Amanda carried a single longstemmed rose arrangement.

Kelly Myers, daughter of Greg and Amanda Myers, Aurora, served as flower girl. She wore a long gown of shimmering pink satin and carried a lace basket of dried baby's breath and roses and rosebuds.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo trimmed in white satin and wore a boutonniere of double pink rosebuds with trim.

The best man was Richard Roy, Elk Garden. The usher was Greg Myers, Aurora. The groomsmen wore gray tuxedos with pink pleated shirts to match the colors of the bridesmaids gowns with matching boutonnieres.

The ringbearer was Anthony Hillery, nephew of the bride and attired in a tuxedo of white matching that of the grooms, with a single rosebud buttonniere and he carried a white satin heart shaped pillow.

The wedding song was "Two and One," and was performed by Mrs. Fran Bolyard, stepmother of the groom.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Crellin Community Building. The color scheme was carried out through the decorations.

The three-tier wedding cake was decorated with peach roses, wedding bells and a bride and groom gazebo cake top. The cake was baked and decorated by Iris Myers, Aurora, as a gift for the couple.

The cake top, as well as the silks throughout the entire wedding, were designed by Debbie Shaffer, cousin of the bride, as a gift for the couple. Mrs. Shaffer also served as photographer for the couple.

Duane is employed by Milton Canan in construction, while Barbara works at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home as a nurse's aide.

The couple now resides in Loch Lynn.

Newsy Notes From SMS

by Southern Middle School Student Government

The physical education department has begun a new program, the P.E. six-week honor roll. In order to be placed on this honor roll, students must receive a 90% or better in physical education. They must also have followed classroom rules, dress for gym, participate enthusiastically and actively, and show a positive attitude toward other students and activities presented in class.

California Achievement Tests are being given this week to the eighth graders during first and second periods. Maryland Functional math and reading tests are being given to seventh graders this week during second and third periods.

Yearbook sales began Monday, October 21.

The "SMS Mumbler" was sold before school on Tuesday, October 22.

Recently four 7B-1 students participated in a project while studying music of the 1900's. Jason Shank, Billy Mahoney, Randy Livengood and Steve Tasker buried a time capsule behind Southern Middle. Included in the capsule were: matchbox cars, a tape of today's music, the written music reports from 7B-1 and more.

The "Star of the Week" in the girls' physical education department is Kim Fike. Kim displays a trophy in the trophy case for being the "most dedicated" member of the Garrett County Swim Team in her age group. Kim also displays a "most improved" trophy for her contribution on the Little League Softball team where she played for Cuppett Weeks.

The school store will have callegraphic pens in five colors: blue, black, red, green and brown, for 90¢ each. They also have novelty folders and novelty pencils.

The eighth grade language classes will be taking a field trip to the Syria Mosque in Pittsburgh on November 5. They will be attending a performance of the Boston Chamber Repertory Theater's original two-act play, "Mark Twain's Mississippi" and "Tell Tale Poe." Students will depart from SMS at 7 a.m. and return by 4:30 p.m.

The featured teacher of the week is Gary Thompson. Mr. Thompson teaches eighth grade social studies.

He was born and raised in Baltimore and is a graduate of Patterson High School. He received a bachelor's degree from Frostburg State College and is presently working toward a master's degree from the same institution.

In an interview with Mr. Thompson, he stated that he was "very content" with his teaching career.

In his spare time, Mr. Thompson enjoys music, reading, playing tennis and traveling. Several years ago, Mr. Thompson visited Europe.

He is an active member of the Mountain Top Assembly of God Church and was responsible for the organization of the Ethiopian Relief Fund in Oakland last year.

NEW MEMBERS WERE RECENTLY INDUCTED into the National Honor Society at Southern High School. A fellowship dinner will be served at 12:30 p.m. The Jubilators, well-known local gospel singers, will present a program beginning at 2 p.m., assisted by the local church choir. Donations to the offering will be given to the House of Hope and World Hunger Projects. Rev. Powell Hall, present pastor of the Grantsville Charge, will be attending the afternoon service.

All members and friends are welcome to attend

Church News

Worship services were conducted on Sunday by Rev. Beryl Maurer, Morgantown, W. Va. There was a Communion service at each church. Rev. Maurer was to attend an anniversary celebration at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Grafton immediately after leaving the last morning service at Zion. St. Paul's was celebrating its 125th anniversary and the First Presbyterian Church of Grafton celebrated their 130th. Rev. Maurer, who is an historian, wrote the history of St. Paul's Church. Thirteen years ago, the two churches had a merger, with each retaining its own services.

A joint Parish Reformation service of Holy Communion will be held at Emmanuel on October 27 at 7 p.m. The presiding minister will be Daniel Yeiser, vice-pastor for the Bittinger parish, assisted by Harry Fox. A fellowship period will follow in the church basement with Emmanuel's LCW in charge.

Zion's altar had the special arrangement for Communion services on Sunday. The wheat, grapes and ivy arrangement was placed on the altar because of its symbolism. The wheat represents the bread, the grapes the wine and the ivy is the symbol of Eternal Life. The arrangement was made by Miss Leota Baker.

Volunteerism Studied

On Tuesday evening, October 15, the Aurora Extension Homemakers met at the home of the president, Martha Bolyard. There were 14 members and a number of children present.

A letter from the Preston County Chapter of the American Cancer Society was read announcing their plans for a Talent Show to be held on November 17 along with The Great Smoke-Out and soliciting entries. A comic book on safety "buckle-up" is to be distributed to Kindergarten students. Miss Bolyard asked for volunteers to aid in a checkup of those who are using their seat belts. There will be a county-wide Craft Day, November 20 at the Wesley U.M. Church in Kingwood. Each club is being asked to make two 12 inch squares for a quilt to be made for the 1986 Queen Buckwheat.

A committee composed of Mary Jane Hanline, Vesta Stemple and Bonnylin Lantz will investigate possibilities for displaying and preserving an Aurora quilt made some years ago.

Membership profiles are to be updated. Members are asked to watch their newsletter for announcements and pertinent information.

At the November 19 meeting to be held at 10 a.m. in the home of Bonnylin Lantz, Joan Reeves will conduct a morning workshop on ribbon baskets. There will be a covered dish luncheon and the regular meeting will follow in the afternoon.

Members are asked to save postage stamps for the Food for Stamps program. They must be left on the envelope and cut from that with a ¼ to ½ inch margin and be kept loose in a box or envelope. They are sorted only as to domestic or foreign.

Julie Adams, chairman of the Christmas Festival to be held December 7 at the Aurora U.M. Memorial Building, announced that she needed volunteers to help with preparations. The club also decided to have a table at the festival.

"The Values of Volunteerism" was the subject of discussion presented by Bonnylin Lantz who stressed the role which volunteers play in today's society and ways in which they are motivated. A poem read by Julie Adams concerning volunteers accompanied the lesson.

The meeting adjourned with recreation and refreshments served by the hostess.

Pam Trickett Is Promoted At WRQX Radio

Pam Trickett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Trickett of Oakland, was recently promoted to supervisor of advertising, promotion and programming at the ABC owned FM radio station WRQX (Q107) in Washington, D.C.

Trickett has been at Q107 for four years and was previously assistant music director, and played an active role in determining songs to be played and was in charge of programming research.

Upon making the announcement, the station's vice president and general manager, Ernie Fears said, "Pam has been a great asset to the programming department and now moves on to bring her expertise to the advertising and promotion aspect of Q107."

Some of Trickett's new responsibilities include arranging radio promotions such as getting listeners onto the set of "Miami Vice" or getting winners backstage at concerts to meet their favorite groups. She also deals with movie and record companies for special screenings and giveaways.

A graduate of the University of Maryland, College Park, Trickett is now attaining her master's degree in broadcast management at the university.

In her free time, she has been assisting Johnny Holiday and ex-Redskin, Pete Wysolki, voices of the University of Maryland football network, in the production of their play-by-play Terrapin football shows.

Trickett resides in Riverdale.

Safety Concerns Involving Buses Noted By Sines

"As winter rapidly approaches an extra measure of caution is necessary as motorists approach school vehicles," says Michael Sines, supervisor of public transportation for the Garrett County Board of Education. The motoring public is reminded that school buses are serving school students continuously from 6 a.m. through 6:30 p.m.

Other areas of concern, Sines said, include a thorough understanding of the school bus stop law and the use of off-road loading zones. During the past two school years a concerned effort has been undertaken in Garrett County to implement a program designed to be less disruptive to the motoring public while providing a greater margin of safety for student passengers. This program involves an off-road or loading zone procedure at the school bus stop.

At the traditional school bus stop, the motorist is required to stop no closer than ten feet from the front or rear of a school bus when the flashing red warning lights are activated. A school bus executing an off-road loading/unloading procedure will pull off the road without activating the red warning lights. In this instance the motorist is not required to stop, but will continue past the stopped school bus with caution.

"In short, if the red warning lights are flashing the motorist must stop," Sines said. "If no flashing lights are activated the motorist continues past with caution. When school buses use an off-road procedure traffic congestion created by school buses loading and unloading pupils on the road is reduced, and as a result, the potential for collisions is significantly reduced because motorists will not be required to stop when a bus is at an off-road loading zone."

Parents are urged by Sines to establish precautionary measures during the winter months in regard to monitoring their children while they await the arrival of school buses.

"Listen to local radio stations for possible school closure or delay, have children dress warmly, don't leave children unsupervised, when sending children to a bus stop make sure the bus arrives and the children board, and in the case of early dismissal, make arrangements to have the children received at home," he said.

"Our primary concern is to safely transport the children in the Garrett County School system. It is vital that we share this responsiblity and actively participate in making certain all that is humanly possible is done to insure the safe passage of our children," Sines concluded.

RE-LISTING YOUR HOUSE

The listing agreement with your real estate agent is about to expire and the house has not sold. What to do? Should you re-list with the agent? Change agents? Change the type of listing? This is the time to consider not only these, but other questions even more fundamental to sale prospects.

Market conditions. Has the real estate market in your area been stable during the listing period, or has it been soft with slow sales, been affected by a recession or by extraordinary unemployment?

House price. Is your house realistically priced? Compare the price with comparable property sales and in relation to the region's economic climate.

Property condition. Consider the price in relation to age of the house, states of repair and upkeep of house and grounds.

Now, discuss each item in detail with your agent.

Extended Coverage

By Rob Michael

More than half of all fatal auto accidents are related to alcohol. And more than 20,000 people are killed each year by drunk drivers.

The horror statistics have inspired campaigns against drunk driving all over the country. Concerned citizens and the police are going after those who drive while intoxicated.

What can you do about it? First, don't drink and drive. If you're a host, don't push drinks on your friends, and don't let anyone drive away from your home who's not in a condition to do so. (In some states, you'd be liable if he hit someone).

If all else fails, think of the money; beyond court costs and fines, a conviction for driving while intoxicated will cost you a lot of your insurance premiums—as much as $600 extra in some areas.

Don't get into a car with someone who's been drinking. It may be embarrassing to say no—but do it. Encourage your children to take a taxi or call home rather than drive with a drunk.

Protect yourself; protect your passengers. Don't drink, drive carefully, insure adequately. Brought to you as a public service by

$250,000 Barn Fire Still Under Investigation

The cause of the fire which destroyed a large barn near Friendsville last Thursday is still under investigation, according to Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett County.

The barn, located along Dave Dixon Road outside of Friendsville, was owned by Interstate Lumber Company, Kingwood, W. Va.

Firemen from four companies responded to the scene following the alert at 4:59 a.m. by Garrett Central Alarm. Carola said a neighbor discovered the fire and awoke Barry Frazee who resided on the property. Together they removed the animals from the barn.

The barn measured 60 feet by 150 feet and was two stories tall. The block foundation and steel and wood frame made up the barn that Carola estimated was 10 years old.

Lost in the fire were numerous bales of hay, oats and several pieces of equipment including a farm tractor. He estimated the loss at $250,000. Carolla said the owner did have insurance.

Firemen were able to keep the fire from destroying three large silos about 500 yards from the barn. The barn itself, however, was "on the ground," Carolla said.

Among the companies responding to the scene were Deep Creek, Friendsville, Bittinger and Grantsville. Dispatchers said the companies spent a great deal of time shuttling water to the scene. Several companies remained on the scene until 10 a.m.

"IT'S HALLOWEEN, and I'm waiting here for my little goblin friends who will soon arrive for their yearly treat," says Ima Skull. He, she, it? poses here in its haunted house on a distant Garrett County hill, patiently reading the novel, "Dracula", written by Bram Stoker. Actually, pictured above is the set being used in the play "Dracula" which opened last night at Garrett Community College. So, if you find yourself restless on Halloween night, the play continues tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m., plus a special midnight performance tonight. Those attending the midnight show in costume will be admitted half price. Regular admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children. "Dracula" is jointly sponsored by the drama departments of Northern High School and GCC.

Veterans' Day Observance Set

Veterans' Day will be observed in Oakland on Sunday, November 10, on the Garrett County Courthouse plaza with a special service slated for 2 p.m. Delegate George Edwards will be the speaker.

A host of local veterans organizations will participate, including Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and The America Legion, plus auxiliary groups. A massing of colors, special music, readings, and prayer are also being planned.

A spokesman for one of the organizations said the purpose of the service is to "pay tribute and honor to those who gave so much of themselves that all of us could live in peace and enjoy the freedom earned by them at a great sacrifice."

The spokesman encouraged the public to attend.

Past National Commander Of Legion To Speak At Pig Roast

Clarence M. Bacon, immediate past national commander of The American Legion, will be the speaker at the 54th annual "Pig Roast" Membership Feed of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, Oakland, on Friday, November 8, at the Legion home on Memorial Drive.

Bacon, 59, of Hyattsville, was elected national commander of The American Legion, the nation's largest veterans' organization, at the 66th annual national convention, September 5, 1984, in Salt Lake City, Utah.

As chief executive officer, Bacon visited nearly every state in the union and several foreign countries during his term.

A U.S. Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean War, he served aboard two presidential yachts and saw sea duty in both the South and North Atlantic. Following his discharge from active duty in May 1965, he joined the Department of the Navy, directing its automated business and logistics systems. He retired in February 1980 and currently is self-employed as a computer logistics systems and organization management consultant. He is listed in "Who's Who in Government."

A life member of Huntemann-Huff Post 110, Mt. Rainier, Bacon has been an active Legionnaire for more than 30 years. He was Maryland's National Executive Committeeman in 1978-80, and has been a member of several national commissions, including chairman of the National Legislative Commission. In 1974-75, he was state commander of the Maryland American Legion.

He is a graduate of Southeastern University in Washington, D.C., and has done graduate work in computer sciences and international economics.

Bacon is a member of the Maryland Veterans' Commission, and a past Board of Directors member of the Maryland, District of Columbia, and Virginia Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

He and his wife, Helen, married since 1947, are the parents of two sons. They have one grandson and one granddaughter.

The Pig Roast will get underway at 6 p.m. for cocktails, followed by dinner at 7 and the program at 8. Admission will be 1986 paid-up dues.

MVA Studying LaVale For Full Service Branch

Maryland Motor Vehicle Administrator Marshall Rickert said last week his agency is closely studying LaVale as the site for a planned $2 million full-service branch office. The proposed facility would replace the existing, smaller facility located at Searstown.

Rickert said the MVA is looking at several potential sites and will announce its recommendation within three weeks. He said he was confident that the MVA would be able to locate west of Cumberland.

Although the MVA is concentrating its attention on LaVale at the present time, the administrator said they have not yet ruled out sites at Frostburg or DeHaven Road.

Initially, DeHaven Road was named as MVA's preferred site for the 16,000 square-foot branch office which would replace a 3,400 square-foot facility at the Searstown Mall at LaVale.

Local elected officials opposed the DeHaven site, arguing the bulk of the population was west of Cumberland. Their opposition prompted Rickert and State Transportation Secretary William K. Hellman to instruct the MVA to review alternative sites near Frostburg and to concentrate on LaVale.

Both men told local officials that the MVA would prefer a site in LaVale for the full service branch.

Grant Received For Employment Of The Disabled

David W. Hornbeck, state superintendent of schools, announced that Maryland has won a five-year, $2.1 million award from the U.S. Department of Education to help severely disabled people find employment.

The grant was provided by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the Maryland State Department of Education.

Hornbeck said, "Our objective is to change a system in which these disabled citizens are characteristically directed toward segregated activities and workshops to one in which they can succeed in standard work settings with a little help.

"Historically, the severely disabled have been denied access to traditional employment. With help, many can hold down jobs working beside able-bodied colleagues."

Hornbeck went on, "This opportunity comes at a critical moment for one group of disabled citizens. Many thousands now reaching maturity have, for the first time received an education equivalent to that available to their non-disabled peers. Just a few years ago many of them would not have been admitted to any school."

Pathways to Employment, a committee co-sponsored by the Regional Education Service Agency (RESA), and the Maryland Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, has been assigned to assist Western Maryland's disabled youth in their preparation

Governor Hughes, DECD Secretary Blasted By Commissoner Braskey

Garrett County Commissioner John G. Braskey, who two weeks ago in a guest editorial in The Republican challenged Governor Harry Hughes and the Department of Economic and Community Development, blasted both offices again this week in the form of letters to the governor and DECD Secretary Thomas Maddux.

The recent criticism by Braskey came on the wake of the recent layoff of 114 Metikki Mines coal miners. Just two years earlier, 180 workers were laid off by the same company.

Braskey told the governor and the DECD secretary that he, along with many county residents, were gravely concerned over what he felt was a lack of concern by the State of Maryland over the unemployment in Garrett County.

He pointed out that the recent layoff represented one percent of the county's work force and stated that Metikki produces nearly two-thirds of the state's entire coal production. He charged that by Annapolis or urban standards the recent layoff was a negligible number.

"I cannot help but wonder what the reaction of state government would be if suddenly 10% of a more urban county or Baltimore City became unemployed," Braskey stated in the letter. "As a reader of the Baltimore papers on a regular basis, the answer is apparent—the state does react for the more densely populated subdivisions."

Braskey said in cases like that, the state, in conjunction with the local subdivisions and the employer, tries to provide alternatives to retain the business, increase the marketability of the product, relocate a business or industry to replace the one affected, or assist in finding new employment for those affected.

"This is not the case in Garrett County," he contended. "Neither Metikki Mines nor county government received any expression of concern by the state on what could be done to assist the county or the company. There was no concern over its effects on the county's economic future . . . no interest expressed from state government."

Braskey further stated that DECD employs a local area representative for the Western Maryland region under the Maryland Business Assistance Center.

"I certainly question what this individual's role is since we have yet to hear from him," charged Braskey.

In his letter, Braskey reminded the governor and the DECD secretary that the county has petitioned the state in the past for relief in the mining of coal. He noted the recent steep slope mining legislation in which he testified for its support.

"Unfortunately, any of the state bureaucrats and environmentalists who opposed the legislation generally have secure jobs that are located in some office building and don't have to worry about where their next meal is coming from," alleged the commissioner.

He explained that during the testimony given on mining legislation there was no concern raised about the small amount of employees that would be dismissed if there was not a relaxation of mining restrictions. He said he felt such a relaxation of regulations would have made Maryland both consistent and more competitive with other mining states.

"The general sentiment was that the amount of employees of the industry affected was insignificant. That certainly is true if you are residing in a metropolitan area," he lamented, "but not in Garrett County."

The commissioner said the coal industry is to Garrett County what the seafood industry is to the rural bay counties. "The state has sponsored a seafood marketing office for years," stated Braskey. "Has a similar effort been mounted for coal? The asnwer is no!"

He further questioned the state officials about their "lack of concern" and reminded them that the coal industry has suffered a major decline since 1977.

"I have to view the following sad statistic as somewhat amusing. There were over 60

Deer Park Man Arrested For Bank Robbery

A Deer Park man has been arrested for the robbery which occurred last Tuesday at the Mountain Lake Park branch of the Garrett National Bank, where over $3,900 was stolen, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Donald Ray Oldaker, 31, was charged with armed robbery and felony theft on Friday afternoon. At a bond hearing in Garrett County District Court, Commissioner Charles Pariseau set bond at $50,000. Oldaker is being held in the Garrett County Jail.

The robbery was investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, as well as members of the Maryland State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Sheriff's Department reported that Oldaker was arrested without incident, and approximately $3,800 of the stolen money has been recovered. No details of how the arrest was made have been released.

Patti A. McLaughlin, Popular School Teacher, Dies Suddenly

The students and staff of Southern Middle School, along with the general community, was shocked and saddened this past weekend with the sudden serious illness and then the death of one of the school's most popular teachers.

Patti A. McLaughlin, 39, who has taught music and language arts in the Garrett County school system since 1972, died Monday morning at the West Virginia University Medical Center in Morgantown after suffering what was reported to be a brain aneurysm at her home on Saturday. She was rushed to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad and then immediately flown to the medical center by the State Police Medevac helicopter.

According to a family spokesman, the surgeons who operated on Mrs. McLaughlin were somewhat optimistic following emergency surgery, however her condition began to deteriorate Sunday and further surgery was impossible.

The spokesman stated that Mrs. McLaughlin, who resided along Steiding Church Road near Deep Creek Lake, was an organ donor and all of the major organs of her body were not only donated, but by Tuesday afternoon, had been implanted in various patients awaiting transplants. The spokesman said the family requested that specific information on the recipients of the organs not be made public.

Born July 1, 1946, in Mount Pleasant, Pa., she was a daughter of Mrs. Frances G. (Myslewski) Kostelnock, Scottdale, Pa., and the late Edward K. Kostelnock.

Mrs. McLaughlin was a 1968 graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor of arts degree in music and had taken graduate work at Frostburg State College. Following graduation she taught one year at Mount Storm and the following year in Berkeley Springs, W.Va. From 1970 to 1972 she taught in the Southwest Mahoning School District in Pennsylvania. She then taught at Southern High School until 1976, when Southern Middle School opened.

Besides teaching music and language arts at Southern Middle, she also served as advisor for the school newspaper and the student government.

"Patti was a unique lady," stated Southern Middle principal Jack Rickman. "She was always willing to get involved, no matter how difficult the project might have been, especially over the past few years. She organized the talent show, typed the school news, was advisor for the student government, and was practically a fixture as a school dance chaperone."

Amy Buser, president of the student government, stated, "She was such a good friend to me. She did a lot for us students and a lot for the school. She helped everybody. I love her, and we are all really going to miss her."

Mrs. McLaughlin was a member of Bethel United Methodist Church, Mtn. Lake Park, where she was organist, a member of MARYLAND SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS — Three students from Southern High School received word recently that they have been chosen as finalists and semi-finalists for receiving the Distinguished Scholar High Achiever Nominations. Normally, the finalists chosen receive an $800 a year scholarship for four years, or a total of $3,200, but according to Les McDaniel, guidance counselor at Southern, the two semi-finalists are almost guaranteed to receive the scholarships also, the reason being that the finalists chosen must attend a Maryland college to collect the scholarship money, and many finalists choose out-of-state colleges. A basic purpose of the Distinguished Scholar Program is to honor the best high school students in Maryland. Requirements for the scholarship are: 1) be a Maryland resident, and 2) have a cumulative grade point average of 3.7 (on a 4.0 scale) calculating only academic subjects. Of the over 700 nominees each year, well over 200 have straight "A" average in high school. In the photo above, left to right, are Jon Reneslacis, semi-finalist; Art Refosco, principal at Southern; and Lorie Damon, finalist. Not present when the photo was taken was semi-finalist, Kendra Peck.

Commissioners Hear Monthly Staff Reports

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners heard staff reports from various county offices and agencies in the commissioners' meeting room Tuesday morning.

Board of Education

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, told the commissioners that the first joint meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett Community College administrators was "very productive."

The superintendent said the articulation agreement between the two learning facilities would serve as a vehicle by which the school board and the college could share facilities, programs and instructors.

He said such an articulation agreement has been unsuccessful in the past, but that he saw a willingness on the part of all concerned to "accomplish such a task."

Dr. Ryscavage also announced that a public hearing would be held at Garrett Community College on November 5, at 8 p.m. concerning the redistricting of Garrett County schools.

The superintendent also announced that he would be traveling to Baltimore next week to present the board's capital improvement request. He asked the commissioners for a letter of support from the county officials.

Dr. Ryscavage also told the county board that inside demolition of Northern High School is nearly complete and that there is still optimism on the part of the contractors as well as school officials that vocational facilities at the school will be complete by the end of the year.

Sanitary Commission

Linda Gnegy, secretary from the Sanitary Commission, informed the commissioners of the low bidders for the Gorman, Kitzmiller and Bloomington sewerage projects.

Low bidder for the Gorman project was Frank Arnold Construction, Inc. at $585,827.37; Kitzmiller project, Charles Merlo, Inc. at $1,465,580; and Bloomington project, Alvarez Construction, Inc. at $1,681,048.

Engineers for the Sanitary Commission are now reviewing the bids before they are submitted to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene for their approval.

Health Department

Dr. William Pope, health officer for the Garrett County Health Department, told the commissioners that measles have virtually been eliminated in the Garrett County area over the past five years.

Dr. Pope also reviewed some facts about AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome), stating that there have been no reported cases of the disease in the county.

He said that there is a test now that determines if one has been exposed to AIDS, although it tends to give a high rate of false positive readings. He also stated that many people fear that giving blood can cause AIDS and said that fear was unfounded.

Dr. Pope told the county officials that some 700 persons were immunized against influenza this year at the recent Flu Clinics conducted by the Health Department. He said immunizations were up by 100 this year.

Social Services

Robert Shaffer, director of the Department of Social Services, reported a six percent increase in food stamp distributions for FY 1985. He said the department dispensed $1,550,244 in food stamps this year to 2,968 households which averages out to $136 per month per family.

The director told county officials, to their dismay, that statewide food stamp figures are down while Garrett County's are up.

Public assistance grants jumped 17 percent this year, according to Shaffer, from $1,231,997 in FY 1984 to $1,417,855 in FY 1985.

Shaffer did note that child support collections increased this year from $202,446.28 in FY 1984 to $242,084.64 in FY 1985.

The Social Services head also gave an update on the status of the office lease stating that advertisements for a new facility will begin running in local as well as Baltimore and Washington D. C. newspapers.

GCC

Garrett Community College comptroller, John Culp informed the commissioners Tuesday that foundation scholarships are being studied with the assistance of Leo Martin from the Garrett National Bank.

Culp also told the county officials a report on the college's student to faculty ratio has been submitted to the state. He said last year the ratio was 10.75 students to one instructor while this year's ratio is 12.62 students to one instructor.

Planning/Zoning Office

John Nelson, acting Garrett County Planning and Zoning director, gave an update on the Southern Garrett Industrial Park stating that phase one of the project has been completed.

He said the grading and base stone have been laid for the road to the facility and that water line construction has begun this week.

Tom Jones, Garrett County Development director, said Garrett Mine Service has renewed its option and they expect to break ground next spring as the first occupants of the industrial park.

Community Action

Duane Yoder, executive director of Garrett County Community Action, announced Tuesday the Energy Assistance Program has begun in the county for those who qualified for assistance on their utilities.

He also said his agency would be meeting with Brad Frantz, manager of Garrett County Emergency Management, to review plans for winter emergencies.

Yoder then gave an update on the Accident School project and stated that the construction of apartment units for the elderly have begun. He said the Board of Public Works is holding up the grant for the portion of the complex designated as a senior center.

The director said federal money has been granted for Head Start and a paid day care center at the old Accident Elementary School.

Ruth Enlow Library

Edith Brock, head librarian of the Ruth Enlow Library, announced that Maurice Travillion from the Public Libraries in Maryland would be speaking at Garrett Community College on November 7 at 7:30 p.m. regarding library service and the newly formed support group, "Friends of the Library."

Promotion Council

Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Garrett County Promotion Council reported on the recent Autumn Glory Festival stating that "it was very successful."

She said this year's Grand Feature parade was one of the best attended ever and that "things went very smoothly in every aspect of the festival."

Local Man Injured In Mining Mishap

Carl Corder, Oakland, was treated and released from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following an accident Monday morning at the North Branch mine of the Island Creek Coal Company, Bayard, W.Va.

Corder was transported to the hospital by Medevac helicopter. Also dispatched to the scene were Southern Rescue Squad and Bayard firemen.

Commissioners Appoint Peake To DPR Board

Richard Peake, Turkey Neck, was appointed to the Disabled Persons Review Board Tuesday by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

Peake was selected to serve as a representative of a local, non-profit organization. He is representing Habitat for Humanity. He replaces Duane Yoder, executive director of Garrett County Community Action, who stepped down from that position due to a potential conflict of interests.

Roads Matters

The commissioners also met with Paul R. Shockey, Garrett County Roads Administrator, on Tuesday to discuss administrative matters.

Shockey informed the commissioners that summer roads projects are in the final stages of completion. Roads work done most recently included the Orendorf Road in the Bittinger area and the Walnut Bottom, Chestnut Grove and Mt. Zion crosscut area.

Shockey said that due to a significant amount of construction in that area, the Roads Department was unable to hard-surface the Walnut Bottom crosscut. He is hopeful such a project can be completed next summer.

Audit Review

The commissioners also announced Tuesday that a final draft copy of the audit review is being sent to the state.

"The final document will substantiate that Garrett County is in sound fiscal condition. There were no surprises," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr.

PSI Ordered For Juvenile Tried As Adult

In Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings last week, Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Neil Ray Savage, 17, Oakland, a juvenile who was tried as an adult.

Savage pled guilty to four counts of theft, two counts of breaking and entering, and burglary.

Thayer revoked Savage's bond and committed him to the Sheriff's Department pending sentencing.

Savage was charged with numerous thefts between June 20, 1984 to February 21, 1985. Theft victims included Adrian A. Spiker, Flowers by Webers, Oakland Clothing Wear-House, Hawkinson Tread Service, Inc. (now Glotfelty Interprises), Rev. Martin Feild, the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College, and Helbig's Jewelry.

Savage was represented by Arman M. Pannone, Jr., a Cumberland attorney.

Police Arrest W. Va. Man On Weapon Charge

A Tunnelton, W.Va. man was arrested Monday for possession of a concealed weapon.

Bobby Wayne Wiles, 42, was arrested by Cpl. Ron Beeghly of the Oakland City Police Department at 2:15 a.m.

Beeghly reported that, while on patrol, he noticed a light switching on and off in the B & O Railroad Station office, Liberty Street. A vehicle which was parked in the parking lot contained a shotgun in the front seat.

At this point, Beeghly called for the assistance of Deputy L.E. Gnegy, Deputy P.K. Buckel, and Tfc. L. Rosage.

Further investigation revealed a .22 caliber pistol underneath the passenger seat of the vehicle. Both guns were loaded.

The men then entered the office and arrested Wiles, who was inside.

Chief John K. Sines reported a hit and run incident which occurred October 24.

According to police reports, a white Ford van, owned by the local government for the Garrett County Board of Education, was struck by another vehicle in the front left fender, causing approximately $200 damage.

Chief Sines stated that anyone with information on the incident should contact the Oakland Police Department.

Two County BPW Women Honored At Patuxent Oct. 26

Two Garrett County women were among those honored by the Maryland Federation of Business and Professional Women at Patuxent Naval Air Station in St. Mary's County October 26.

Local honorees were Phyllis Buckel, Accident, selected as the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Woman of the Year, and Karen Spiker, Oakland, judged Employer of the Year. The two were honored in special ceremonies by the Garrett BPW members October 24 at Will O' the Wisp. Each was presented with a plaque recognizing their contributions to the community and the club.

Karen Spiker, graduate and valedictorian of Northern High School class of 1969, is sole owner and general manager of Mountaineer Log and Siding, established in 1980, and is broker-owner of A&A Realty. She is a member of the board of realtors on the local, state and national levels and is immediate past president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors. Currently she is an instructor in basic real estate for Garrett Community College and is a member of the board of directors of the Promotion Council.

Of her 11 salaried employees seven are women, and of her 22 commissioned employees, nine are female.

Phyllis Buckel, presently serving her second term as Garrett BPW president, was honored in a skit where members presented her with "jewels" for her qualities which are similar to those found in precious stones—value, constance, durability, etc. Among the 36 members and guests present were her husband, Robert, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Resh; her daughter Sheila, son Dennis and his wife and two children, and three co-workers from Harbison-Walker Refractories division of Dresser Industries. Phyllis was promoted to office manager in 1971 for that firm after being hired as a clerk in 1963.

Community activities include serving as youth and adult choir director for 24 years at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger; former PTA membership and first president of the ladies auxiliary of the Bittinger Volunteer fire department. She was the first woman to serve on her church council and presently serves that organization as secretary. She has been a BPW member since 1978.

In accepting her awards, Phyllis expressed her thanks to everyone who made her achievements possible, saying these would have been impossible without the love and support of family, co-workers and BPW members.

Participants in the program included Mildred Wucik, Linda Sanders, Jayne Brown, Pat White, and Pat Vetter, members of the National Business Women's Week committee. Both an employer of the year and woman of the year are chosen in honor of National Business Women's Week to help dramatize women's contributions to the economic, social and political life of the community, state, nation and the world. The Maryland Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. has 33 local organizations and more than 1,800 members helping to increase opportunities for women. One of the Maryland Federation's focus issues is to develop coalitions with other women's organizations.

NEW BPW MEMBER — Jayne Brown, right, was photographed with membership expansion chairman Cosette White during the October 24 meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club. Jayne, a quality control employee of Flushing Shirt Company, is a resident of Friendsville. Membership in the club is now at 37.

To Attend State Board Meeting

Phyllis Buckel, Pat Vetter, vice president, and Mildred Wucik will be traveling to Frederick, November 9 for the Maryland Federation fall board meeting.

Kathy Zimmerman, Young Careerist chairman, is seeking candidates between 21 and 30 years of age as the local organization's outstanding career woman, based on accomplishments in her work or in community service. Candidates do not have to be BPW members. Mrs. Zimmerman may be reached at home at 387-6287.

Sen. John Bambacus will be among the guests at the November 14 meeting on comparable worth/pay equity issues. Also invited will be members of the League of Women Voters. Anyone wishing to attend is welcome to call Joyce Winters at 334-4894 to make a dinner reservation. The program will follow dinner at 6:30 p.m. at Will O' the Wisp.

mining sites in the state in 1977. That number has dwindled to 17," Braskey mused. "Over the same time frame the Bureau of Mines had nine employees. Today they have 18—a 100% increase! This agency probably knows more about the Maryland coal industry than the industry knows about itself."

He then questioned the mission of the Bureau of Mines.

"The Maryland Department of Agriculture is a regulatory and statistical agency but in addition to that, they are also actively involved in marketing and technical assistance to its industry. Why can we not expect this to be a goal or an added responsibility of the Maryland Bureau of Mines?" he questioned.

The county official concluded his letter by further asking that the state take an interest in the unemployment situation in the county.

gation, said the robbery occurred at 11:43 a.m. last Tuesday, when a white male entered the bank, located on Route 135, and handed a note to one of the three tellers demanding money and claiming he had a bomb.

Upon receiving the money, the suspect fled on foot, leaving what he claimed to be a bomb taped to the rear inside entrance of the bank.

Robert Ramsey, an explosives technician with the state fire marshal's office in Hagerstown, later confirmed that the device was not a bomb.

When the bank camera film was developed, it was discovered that the film had been exposed at the beginning and end of the reel, one section of which contained the shots of the suspect.

Local Lupus Branch Formed, Meeting Slated

October 20-26 was National Lupus Week and Garrett and Allegany Counties joined forces at a meeting on October 8 to form what will temporarily be called the Western Maryland branch of the Maryland Lupus Foundation.

Some 52 Lupus patients attended the meeting in Cumberland early this month and more are expected to attend the next meeting which is scheduled for Tuesday, November 12, at 7 p.m. at Sacred Heart Hospital Auditorium in Cumberland.

Lupus, a connective tissue disease, is now seldom fatal, but the cause and cure is still unknown. Its persistent symptoms affect an estimated one million Americans each year.

Reportedly, about 50,000 new cases are diagnosed each year. There are two types of Lupus: discoid, which is generally confined to the skin, and systemic lupus erythematosus, which affects various organs or systems of the body.

Lupus may affect people at any age, but it usually strikes people between the ages of 20 and 40. For unknown reasons, eight of every 10 cases involve women.

Patients may display a variety of symptoms and numerous variations, said Maryland Lupus Foundation Executive Director Mary Ellen Bur.

Common symptoms include fatigue, pain in joints or chest, unexplained low-grade fever, red skin rash - often a butterfly-shaped rash across the bridge of the nose and cheeks, abnormal hair loss and blanching of fingers after exposure to cold.

"There may be a patchwork quilt of symptoms," said Ms. Bur, "It makes it difficult for the patient or others to believe that such varied symptoms are happening at the same time and sometimes the patients begin to question their own sanity."

"It can be difficult for a physician to understand and an exasperated patient may be advised to seek counseling. When these patients hear the word hypochondriac, that's when they are at their rope's end," Ms. Bur further stated.

Yet, she said, "There is a definite physiological basis. It's a malfunctioning of the body's immune system. We don't know the cause, but we know that a person's antibodies begin to attack their own cells. The destroyed cells sets up inflammation that may lead to damage of the internal organs."

Ms. Bur said current laboratory tests can assist physicians to determine if the disease is present and steroid medication is commonly used.

"It's not considered a fatal disease now and 90 percent of the people live normal lifespans, but they must adjust their lifestyles. That's where we can help," she stated. The speaker for the November 12 meeting will be Dr. Raymond Malamet, Rhuematologist from Johns Hopkins University Hospital.

HOSPICE MONTH PROCLAIMED — The Board of Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday proclaimed the month of November as Hospice Month to honor those who volunteer in assisting in providing care to the very ill and their families. The proclamation stated, "These dedicated individuals have often worked tirelessly and have given unselfishly of themselves to provide such support. It is deemed important that citizens should recognize these individuals for their efforts and work in assisting in the quality of life for their patients and their families." Pictured above, standing, left to right, are Verne Leininger, president of the Board of Directors of Hospice; Jackie Snelson, Hospice coordinator; and Wayne Johnson, executive director of Hospice. Seated, left to right, are Garrett County Commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood Groves II and John G. Braskey.

Rev. Pier To Lead Service At Convention

Rev. William A. Pier Jr., missionary to Honduras, will be among the guest speakers at an area-wide missionary convention, slated for November 5-7 at the Mt. Top Christian Assembly. All services will begin at 7 p.m. at the church, which is located along State Rt. 135 one mile east of Mtn. Lake Park.

Rev. Pier, who is slated to speak at the Tuesday, November 5, service, has pastored churches in Maine and Connecticut. He and his wife will soon travel to Honduras, one of the world's political "hot spots" to begin missionary service.

The Swafford Family, who will soon be working at the International Correspondence Institute (ICI) headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, will lead the Wednesday, November 6, service. The ICI is an accredited home study Bible school with enrollment of students from nearly 150 countries and totaling more than eight million people.

Rev. Fred Howsare will be the guest speaker at the Thursday, November 7, service. Since their appointment in 1974, Rev. Howsare and his wife, Betty, have been ministering in Indonesia. He serves as a Good News Crusades evangelist and as the coordinator of youth evangelism in Jakarta, the capital city.

Rev. Alvin Kyle, pastor at the Mt. Top Assembly, invites the public to attend any or all of these services.

State Police Charge Three Men With DWI

Maryland State Police reported that three men were charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs during the past week.

Mark Allen Garlitz, 22, Frostburg, was charged with DWI by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger following a two vehicle accident Saturday morning at 2:45.

According to police reports, Rodney D. McKenzie, 26, Frostburg, was eastbound on Rt. 40 near Long Stretch in a 1976 Ford truck when Garlitz, driving a 1985 Ford truck, attempted to pass him.

Police said Garlitz swerved in front of McKenzie, striking the vehicle in the left front. Garlitz continued on without stopping, and was later apprehended in his home.

Garlitz was also charged with leaving the scene of an accident and improper passing procedures.

Donald Redburn Moyers, 66, was charged with DWI by Tfc. G.D. Resh on Thursday at approximately 6:30 p.m. near Friendsville.

Nevin David Crowe, 30, Lonaconing, was charged with DWI by Tfc. R.J. Resh last Thursday at 1:45 a.m. on U.S. Route 40.

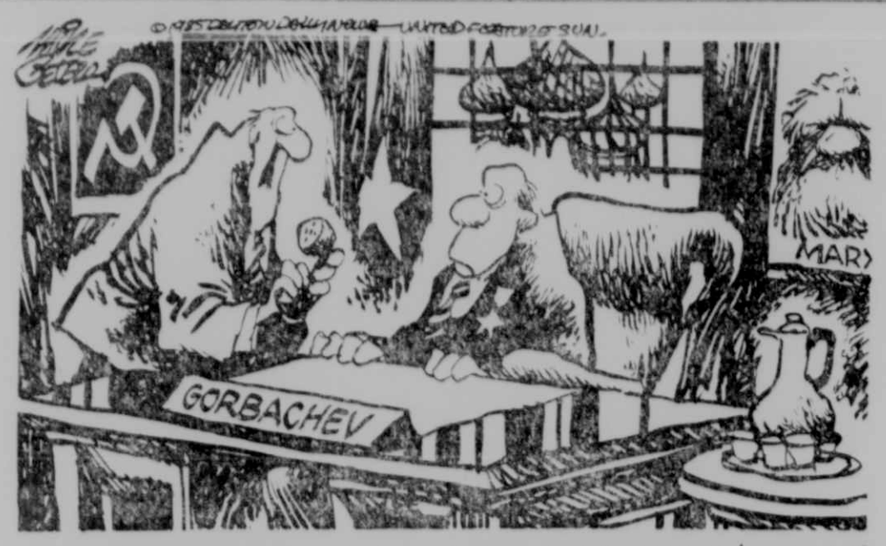
A Special Lady . . .

The line at the funeral home was out into the street. The church was overflowing last night for the service. So many people, young and old, whose lives have in some way been touched by Patti McLaughlin, came to pay their last respects to her this week and share hugs, tears, and words of comfort with the members of her family.

When word of her sudden illness was received, followed soon by the announcement that she had died, that all too familiar shock wave of loss, of sorrow, of tragedy, ripped through the minds and hearts of so many. She had been in school Friday, and seemed just fine, but on Monday she was gone. The harsh reality of unexpected death was rudely shoved in the face of hundreds of young people, many of whom are in the midst of those adolescent years when there are so many unanswered questions.

Patti McLaughlin was one of those truly special people, who devoted her 39 short years to making life better for others. She was always on the go, beaming with enthusiasm, and taking on far more responsibility than the average person could ever begin to handle. She used all of her abilities, all of her talents, all of her warmth, to make this world a better place.



Children were so special to her, and because she and her husband, John, were not fortunate enough to have children of their own, it seemed that she considered all of her students as her own children. She cared about each one of them, as individuals. She reached out to those students who needed love and care the most. The toughest, meanest, most mixed-up kids in school always liked Patti, because she cared for them and treated them with the respect and esteem they so desperately needed.

Patti gave so much, but it was all done quietly, almost in the shadows. She was not motivated by receiving thanks and would pass along the credit to someone else for what were really her own good deeds. She gave of herself, expecting nothing in return, which is giving in its purest sense. Even in death, she gave the gift of a new life, a new beginning, to several other people. She was an organ donor, and all of the precious, major organs, handmade by God, were removed from her body and are at this moment bringing new life and hope to others. Once again, because of her desire to not receive credit or praise for her giving, John and the other members of her family do not wish to reveal specific information about this beautiful, final act by Patti. In fact, we would not have said this much if it were not for the fact that John thought doing so might encourage more persons to become organ donors.

While news of Patti's death was being announced over the public address system to the students of Southern Middle School, suddenly, for no apparent reason, a poster fell off the wall of the classroom adjacent to Patti's room. After the announcement was complete, the teacher walked over and picked up the poster, upon which were these words: "What appears to be the end may really be a new beginning."

Was it coincidence . . . or was it a message from a person in another, wonderful place who wanted to send words of comfort to her friends and her children who were suffering?

We choose the latter.

To the Editor:

I would like to reply to the letter from Joy Perry in last week's paper. I am a native of Garrett County and I especially take offense about her remark that the people of Garrett should accept the information about wildlife put out by her botanist. If she wants to believe him, that is her problem. That is not to say that a bobcat or possibly even a porcupine might not have passed through the Glades.

I have hunted in this area for over 50 years and have even hunted and killed several bobcats. But I never wasted my time looking for them in the Glades or any other swamp. I think I have probably spent as much time in the woods and know as much about the animals of the area as most of the people around. In fact, I invite her to come talk to me face to face if she wants to know something about the habits of wildlife in the area.

Perhaps the botanist she talks about had some other motive for putting out the report he did. In fact, I have to doubt the statement that a porcupine quill was found in the bog. Finding a quill amongst the quill-like swamp grass would be very difficult. Combining this with no known sightings of porcupines in the area makes the odds against it astronomical. What a stroke of luck for someone with his stand on this issue!

Regarding the vegetation, I am not an expert, but from my own observations and talking with people I know I can believe and trust, I doubt very much if there is anything in the Glades that cannot be found in several of the local swamps.

Sincerely,
Robert Brenneman
Bittinger

P.S. Perhaps Ms. Perry should have her "eagle-eyed" botanist help her find the name of The Republican's Editor. (Hint: I found it on the editorial page last week).

To the Editor:

Ms. Joy Perry stated in her letter last week that she feels the real question at hand is "whether a few people have the right to destroy a valuable piece of land simply because their name is on the deed." I would like to counter with the question: Does a group of wealthy outsiders and bureaucrats have a right to smother and kill a 23-year-old business which local residents support and have had no complaints with? How honest an effort has been made by your botanist to determine that these plant species are only found in the bog area to be disturbed and thus constitute "a destroying of valuable land?" Aren't these rare plants you refer to also found in the Cranesville and Finzel swamps which are already protected? Respected botanists of this area say that they are.

It appears that what we have here is a case of snail darter mentality in our backyard which ultimately gives environmentalists a bad name. You continue to cry "Wolf" when there is none and one day when something vitally important occurs perhaps we will be inclined to brush it off as another false alarm.

Rather than try to destroy G.C.P.P.C., why don't you cooperate with them to preserve the fringe areas and lesser economically valued areas containing the same "native plants?" G.C.P.P.C. owners should certainly be willing to co-operate with reasonable measures.

Although ownership of land does not and should not give unlimited rights to the owner, mineral deposits and natural resources which are havested in a non-polluting responsible manner are a benefit to everyone. G.C.P.P.C. has made every effort to obtain the necessary permits and operate in an environmentally safe manner. They have been met with several instances of simple harassment from the Sierra Club and its pressure on regulatory agencies.

As a native and lifelong resident of Garrett County, I am concerned about environmental issues, but feel that outsiders' claims must be tempered with the realization that the entire county is unique and a rarity compared to the rest of the state.

To the Editor:

Hats off to Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey! I'm glad someone is finally taking the bull by the horns in challenging Governor Hughes and DECD secretary, Thomas Maddux, with regard to their lack of interest concerning the county's ailing coal industry.

I've seen too many friends and relatives affected by the declining coal industry and its "trickle down effect."

Men have had to leave their families to take jobs in states where the coal industry is protected by the state; or they have had to relocate their families when all they ever wanted was to earn a decent living and rear their children in pleasant, rural Garrett County.

Because of this sorry state of affairs and "trickle down", my husband, who is an excellent mechanic, and I are now facing a major decision - either he moves to a coal-thriving state and visits us a few times a year, or we all move, leaving behind the hopes and dreams we've built here. Leaving behind the Garrett County we love so well.

We, as county citizens, can't go on blindly thinking the situation will get better on its own. As voters and taxpayers we do hold the reins. I am asking everyone to follow John Braskey's lead in letting the governor, the DECD secretary and legislators know "that we're mad as - - - - and we're not going to take it anymore."

Sincerely,
Pam Ashby

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the latest Garrett County Board of Education meeting. I understand that all the options for closing or redistricting were only proposals to consider.

Being a parent of Bloomington School children, I am concerned for our school. We are proud of our school, teachers and students. Granted, we are a small community, but we have dedicated, caring teachers. Our students leave Bloomington School ready to complete their high school years. Many of these students achieve honor roll grades and receive top honors upon graduation.

I feel closing Bloomington School or consolidating with another would be ineffective. After all, the school system is run with taxpayers' money and the money should be spent on educating the students and not on transportation.

To the Editor:

Today I learned of the sudden death of a teacher—a teacher who made a real difference in the life of one of my own children. Patti McLaughlin taught my son to love and enjoy classical music when my influence in that direction had been slight.

As I grieve for the loss of this teacher who could reach students with an awareness of beauty, I'm so glad I told her before she died what a remarkable job she had done and how grateful I was.

I have often noticed that many famous people, in telling about past influences, have remarked about the inspiration and guidance each had received from a teacher or teachers.

There was a teacher who had quite an influence on me, and I'm not sure I have thanked that person. I will write a letter today, and I challenge you to write the teacher who inspired you. Send a carbon or photo copy to this newspaper, if it isn't too private. Perhaps the editor will want to use some of them.

Teaching has a lot of disappointments. Let's show that it has successes, too, and influence far into the future.

To the Editor:

A tremendous "Thank You" goes to the kind, thoughtful people of Garrett County who responded to a need in our county. As I phoned various places, I found far too many people not fully aware of the extended hours the school buses operate in the northern part of the county. But, the billboards, personally designed posters, newspaper ads, radio spots, all efforts made, did make an impact and are still, proving that this is a fine place to live and we do care about each other.

If we can minimize the element of surprise, won't our children be safer? An informed public is a safer public. On how many other issues is this true?

This leaves one large group of uninformed people: our winter tourist. How surprised will they be to see a stopped school bus with a child walking across the road in the dark? Will they stop in time?

I've looked into the possibility of posting signs on Route 48, to inform motorists before they begin driving on our county roads, only two would be needed, but Mr. George Small said "NO."

So, is the safety of our children in the hands of our Board of Education, local PTAs, County Roads Department, elected officials, individually concerned parents? Yes. Once again there is a need. Let's respond!

Sincerely,
Sandy Glotfelty
McHenry

To the Editor:

"While the committee has offered numerous options and alternatives, it is clear that the most basic issue remains: Will the Board of Education continue to operate small community schools or should it/must it consolidate into fewer, somewhat larger (250-400 student) elementary schools? Although this has the potential for being a highly emotional issue and many will want quick and easy solutions, the issues are highly complex in terms of accommodating community wishes, fiscal responsibility, school building concerns (now and in the future), transportation issues and educational and supporting services delivery. The Board of Education will have no easy task in even considering what course or courses of action to take. It is our hope that all people involved in looking at the issues and options presented will work together to ensure a good, viable plan of action."

I agree completely with the above statement which is the final paragraph from the Garrett County Board of Education's Options for Redistricting and School Closings. As one of the people involved, I have looked at the issues and options. This letter states my opinions on ways to consider the issues in order to "ensure a good, viable plan of action."

The issues are: a good education for each student; a staff of well-educated, caring adults; a solidly constructed and carefully maintained school building; a group of actively involved and concerned parents; and a community of people willing to support the school in any honoring her country's flag. ashamed we were.

The Bloomington School can give a positive response to all of these issues. Our students are receiving an excellent education. Many of them are honor students who have earned scholarships, including several Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program scholarships. The staff at Bloomington School proves by its dedication to provide each child with a good education that it cares about every student's complete well-being. The school building is in fine condition and is maintained as to ensure the safety and comfort of each student. The parents of Bloomington School's children are willing to work diligently and give time, talent and money to support their school. The entire community, from volunteer firemen to the business men, and the church members are proud of the school and make every possible effort to be a supportive community.

Bloomington School is an asset to our area. It is the most important link in the chain that joins the people of Backbone Mountain, Savage River, and the town of Bloomington. As a member of this community, I request the Bloomington School be left unchanged because the options presented are unsatisfactory for our children's educational future.

Respectfully,
Dolores Boal

To the Editor:

"0800 HRS. KMJ961 Units out of service, Air Cascade 3."

Those who listen to the fire channel on their scanners have heard this announcement by Garrett Central Alarm for several months. Though not announced any longer, this vehicle is still out of service today. What is Air Cascade 3? This vehicle carries compressed breathing air in large high-pressure cylinders. The air is used to refill the tanks on breathing apparatuses used by fire fighters, making it possible to work where the air is contaminated by heat, smoke and dangerous gases.

A fireman's first obligation is rescue and secondly, fire suppression. In order to perform either function, he must be able to work and survive in a contaminated atmosphere.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad donated a used Ambulance which was modified through the efforts of the firemen and became our first air truck. This was used until it became unserviceable.

The Brad Stewart family, owners of Miller's Market then donated their delivery van, which was converted to serve as the new air truck. This vehicle served our purposes until November 19, 1984, when it was wrecked on an icy road while responding to a house fire. Two firemen were injured in this accident and the air truck was damaged beyond economical repair. Since the accident, Garrett County firemen and neighboring West Virginia companies have been without an air truck. A continuing effort has been made to replace this vehicle, but the cost has been prohibitive to the Association. All channels of funding from federal, state and county agencies have been explored with no results. Member companies have pledged within their ability, but this is still not sufficient to replace this very important piece of fire apparatus.

We would like to express our gratitude to The Republican and WXIE Radio who promoted a softball tournament with the proceeds donated to the Fire Association for a replacement vehicle.

The estimated cost of a new vehicle and equipment is $16,500.00. Any contributions will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you,

To the Editor:

As a member of the Health Systems Agency Board for Western Maryland, a problem that has arisen in the last few months has been of deep concern. As most of you know, the Governor ordered a study of acute care hospital beds licensed in the State, and the study revealed that there are many more beds licensed than are cost effective. As a result, hospitals are told to either cut down themselves or have the beds delicensed for them. One solution suggested by those down state has been the closing of the Frostburg Hospital. Since most of us do not want to see this happen, we have been trying to come up with some reasonable solution that would save the hospital and still come within the State's guidelines for licensure.

A glimmer of hope appeared, at least to this member of the Board, when it was suggested that instead of building a new Veterans Hospital in Baltimore, that Veterans be given vouchers so that they could get care in a hospital of their choice. As any Veteran or family of a Veteran knows, when a Veteran needs to get in a Veterans' Hospital, some influence must be brought to bear through a Legislature or Congressman to get the Veteran into the Hospital, due to the lack of beds available. Why not, then, let the government give a voucher to the Veteran so that he could get immediate care in a hospital in his own area, available to his family for visitation and help in the care of said Veteran.

This seems to be a most sensible solution to two problems. Studies have shown that this is a less expensive way for the government to care for its Veterans than by building a new hospital. I was astounded, then, when I talked with one of our Legislators who told me that the Veterans Administration was not only dead set against the voucher system, but had written every legislator and threatened that if they voted for a voucher system they would bring their political clout to bear to do everything they could to defeat that legislator the next time he ran for office!

Personally, I do not believe the average Veteran feels this way and I would like to know why the Veterans Administration has taken this stand. While I am only one consumer on the Health Systems Agency Board, and speak only for myself, I plan to do everything possible to see that the voucher system is put into effect, but since I do represent people in the community, I would like to know how the community feels and why the VFW objects to this plan that would apparently solve two pressing problems.

Please let me know if you have any feelings on this plan, pro or con.

To the Editor:

Over Labor Day weekend, we were invited to take part in the "Massing of the Colors" at the American Indian Pow Wow held at the McHenry Fairgrounds. This Pow Wow was in honor of the native American Indian Veterans and their Veteran brothers from around the world, who have served this great United States of America.

The two days we were there marching, carrying our flags, greeting fellow veterans and friends, we saw one dear woman, not able to stand, but giving the hand salute and honoring her country's flag. This made me feel good and proud.

As we moved on in the circle, we looked around at the others in the audience and saw too many people, young and old, some in Scouting uniforms and, yes, even a serviceman in uniform, who did not even stand or give a salute when our flages passed by. How sad and ashamed we were.

To those who did honor "Old Glory" we say a sincere "thank you" for not being ashamed to stand up, salute and smile. When this symbol of America passed by.

To those of you who did not, we say, next time your flag goes by or is flying in the breeze, stand up proud and tall, give a salute or put your right hand over your breast and honor your flag.

If we do not show our partiotism and teach our children to honor the country and its flag, then one day it may be too late to capture those things which have always made America great.

When their country called, our veterans did not say, we can't come today, there's a football game, it's too cold, or I'll make it next time. They put their lives on hold and took up their country's fight and brought home to you and me and our children the gift of peace and freedom. What will you give them? A new birth of patriotism will do for a start.

Thank you,

Our Turn

A Treat, Please
by Pam Ashby

Last year, I only bought one small bag of candy for the little neighborhood ghosts and ghoulies because over the years the amount of Halloween visitors had dwindled drastically. Know how many visitors I had? None.

Since Halloween was always one of my favorite holidays as a child, I was disappointed and, quite frankly, saddened.

It seems as though over the past decade, Halloween has gotten a bad rap. It's the old "one bad apple" theory. Some nut put a razor blade in an apple and it spoiled Halloween for everyone.

Perhaps it was the "Trick or Treat" statement that angered the razor blade-wielding fiend. That statement also gave Halloween a bad name. When you think about it, it's a direct threat that warns, "Give me some candy or I'll soap your windows."

Mind you, my windows could stand washing, but unfortunately Halloween pranks have ranged from broken windows to slashed automobile tires. That's not a trick. It's vandalism. Although most of us grew up using the line, "Trick or Treat," we didn't mean it literally. If forgetful Mrs. Jones forgot to buy Halloween treats we didn't string toilet paper through her yard, we just said, "That's okay. We already have enough junk."

So now, everyone is afraid of Halloween, a once-harmless night of fun named for the eve of All Saints' Day. You needn't pick up your pencils and start writing me letters about the Druids celebration of Halloween. I know all about it. I choose to believe they only served to make Halloween more fun with their silly belief in ghosts, fairies, witches and elves. Actually, the Druids' autumn festival, called Samhain, or summer's end, gave us the wonderful custom of using leaves, pumpkins and cornstalks as Halloween decorations.

Wouldn't it be nice if we could forget the Druids were evil people? Wouldn't it be nice if we didn't have to have the local police check our kids' treats? And wouldn't it be even nicer if instead of saying "Trick or Treat", our children would simply ask, "May I have a treat, please?"

At least our children would learn some manners and, who knows, maybe AP would pick up the phrase or read this column and start a new trend throughout the United States. Happy Halloween!

The committee is responsible for identifying problems facing handicapped individuals entering or already in the work force and prescribing an action plan to Governor Harry Hughes.

The Pathways committee represents employers, handicapped workers, and training specialists in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington Counties.

Faith S. Kirk, executive director of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, stated that, of our nation's working population, 61 percent of disabled men and 81 percent of disabled women were not part of the work force in 1980.

Kirk said, "There have been many reasons given, all of them valid. They include resistance by some labor unions and potential co-workers who . . . object to the concept of job modification or changes in senority systems.

"The main reason, however," she went on, "is a lack of understanding on the part of the employing community regarding persons with disabilities. Studies have shown that a large number of employers react unfavorably to persons with disabilities because of faulty information, which involves many myths.

"This includes the thought that handicapped workers are more likely to have accidents than other employees, when in reality the U.S. Department of Labor surveys show that handicapped workers have fewer disabling injuries that non-handicapped workers exposed to the same work hazards."

Kirk mentioned that another misconception is that workmen's compensation insurance rates will rise if workers with disabilities are hired, when in fact, insurance rates are based solely on the relative hazard of the operation and the organization's accident experience.

Kirk continued, "Performance studies by the U.S. Government, as well as companies like Bulova Watch Company, Sears Roebuck & Co., DuPont and many other organizations, reflect that workers with disabilities, when properly placed, produce both quality and quantity equal to their non-disabled co-workers doing similar work."

Governor Hughes, in his proclamation of October as "Employ the Handicapped Month" in Maryland, stated, "Everyone can play a vital role in facilitating the mainstream of our society."

The Pathways committee met early in September to address six themes identified at the original Pathways meeting held last April. Representatives from a variety of agencies and organizations in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties attended both meetings.

A NEW STEREO SYSTEM has been installed in Cinema 1 of the Mid Towns Cinemas, Oakland. The four channel, wide screen system consists of three major drive speakers behind the screen and eight additional speakers positioned throughout the auditorium. The system produces "extraordinary sound" and a stereo effect even from films with monophonic recordings. Pictured above is Larry Holler, president and general manager of the cinemas.

New System Installed At Local Cinema

As part of an overall remodeling and improvement project at Mid-Towns Cinemas, Oakland, a four channel, wide-screen stereo system has been installed in Cinema 1.

The system consists of three major drive speakers, each approximately four feet by six feet, located behind the screen. An additional eight speakers, which are about the size of large home stereo speakers, are positioned throughout the auditorium.

Larry Holler, president and general manager, said the combined system produces "extraordinary sound", adding a new dimension to today's special effects in films.

He said the system is so powerful that the volume used during screenings is only about 25 percent of the maximum capacity. The system is also capable of producing a stereo effect even from films with only monophonic recordings.

Holler said the cost factor limited installation of the system to only one of the two cinemas.

An open house was held yesterday to allow the public to tour the remodeled facility and hear the new system.

The remodeling project included new carpeting, wall covering and lighting.

EPILEPSY MONTH was proclaimed by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday. More than two million Americans, including approximately 275 people in Garrett County, suffer from epilspsy. During the month of November, the Epilepsy Association of Maryland, an affiliate of the Epilepsy Foundation of America, is conducting a public education campaign to bring the facts about epilepsy to the attention of each community. Gerald Goessel, director of the Maryland Associaion, said, "Epilepsy is tragically shrouded in mystery, superstition, ignorance and fear which too often work to deprive those with epilepsy of the opportunity to achieve a full and productive life, thus causing more unnecessary suffering. It is often people's misconceptions about epilepsy that cause the disability, not the epilepsy itself." Pictured above, left to right, seated, are Garrett County Commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood Groves II and John G. Braskey. Standing is Goessel, director of the Epilepsy Association of Maryland, Inc.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK

State Forester James B. Roberts announced that the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Department of Natural Resources, joined with the nation's forestry community last week to recognize National Forest Products Week, October 20-26.

"America Grows on Trees" was the theme of this year's National Forest Products Week which salutes America's most abundant renewable natural resource. This week served to remind Americans of the role of wood products in everyday life. In addition, the week was designed to call attention to the need for forest management to maintain productive and healthy forests to meet the growing demand for wood products and other benefits.

"Maryland is fortunate to have nearly 42% of its land area covered by forests," Roberts said. Maryland's forest land is owned by 96,000 individuals with different interests and objectives. Management of their forest land can insure a continuing supply of wood products as well as other benefits of wildlife, clean water and recreation. The forest industry in Maryland employs 17,000 people and contributes $440 million to the state's economy.

Foresters assist landowners in management which extends the resource and increases its value to the landowners. They also work with the forest industry to increase the quality and quantity of products harvested from trees. This helps extend the forest resource while increasing financial returns to landowners, loggers and wood processors.

The Forest, Park and Wildlife Service provides assistance to private forest landowners, municipalities and other governmental units in the management of their forests and individual trees. Foresters incorporate forest protection, utilization and urban and community forestry programs in their overall management effort.

"Maryland's forests are healthier today than ever," said Roberts. "We're growing wood faster than it is cut, thus providing us with an abundant supply of raw material for the products we produce such as housing, furniture, lumber, paper, boats, pilings, musical instruments and plywood.

"In addition, the forest produces enormous environmental benefits such as watershed and wildlife protection and recreational opportunities for Marylanders of all ages who love the outdoors," Roberts added. "When properly managed, the forest is a renewable resource without parallel in the American economy."

Volunteers Sought For Life Support

Life Support volunteers are being sought by the Area Agency on Aging, according to Rebecca Oldham from that agency.

Oldham said the first volunteer orientation will be given on November 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the conference room of Community Action, located at 360 West Liberty Street, Oakland.

Life Support is a new program being initiated in the nursing Homes of Garrett County by the Maryland Agency on Aging, said Oldham.

The program provides one to one visitation with Nursing Home residents who do not have living family members in the area. "The nursing home residents have their physical needs well taken care of by the staff, but with Life Support, the volunteer can help sustain their morale as well," said Oldham.

Persons of all ages are invited to volunteer for the program. For further information or to place a reservation for the training session, interested persons may call 334-3990.

Former Laker Signs Contract With Pirates

Tim Kocis, a pitcher on the 1983-84 Garrett Community College baseball team, has signed a contract to play in the Pittsburgh Pirate organization. Kocis, a 6-3, 200-pound right-hander from Sharpsville, Pa., posted a 2.98 earned run average at GCC, to lead the Laker staff.

Kocis is one of five Lakers who, under the direction of former Laker Coach Phil Caruso, has signed a major league contract. "Tim has a very strong arm, as we used him primarily as a Goose Gossage type pitcher, working exclusively in relief," Caruso said.

Kocis is to report to Bradenton, Fla., next spring and is expected to be assigned to Watertown, N.Y., which is a Class A member in the New York Penn League.

Northern Girls Bounce Back To Set Record

After suffering its first loss of the season to perennial powerhouse Mt. Savage, the Northern High Volleyball team got back on the winning track with a victory over the Bishop Walsh Spartans. The victory helped to establish a new school single season victory total of 12 wins. The old record of 11 wins was set by the 1982 team and tied by last year's team. Northern still has two more regular season matches to play before entering the District Championships.

Northern lost to Mt. Savage in three straight games, 16-14, 15-9, and 15-10. Leading scorers for the Huskies were Missy Durst with nine service points and Jenny Dailey with seven.

Offensively, the Huskies were led by Julie Robeson with 14 killer spikes and Amy Swauger who recorded three. Mt. Savage's attack was paced by Jamie Keller, who had 12 kills and Stacy Smith with three. Robeson led the defense with ten blocks while Dailey and Tammy Swauger chipped in four each.

"Naturally we were disappointed that we didn't defeat them," said Coach Vonda Yunker. "But I was encouraged by a lot of our plays on the court and perhaps it'll be a different story when we meet them in the districts."

Northern didn't go home totally empty handed, because the jayvee Huskies under Assistant Coach Bob Yunker defeated the Indians in their match, losing the first game 15-9, but coming back and winning the next two, 15-10 and 15-12. Offensive leaders were Sonya Yelovich with 13 service points including four aces, Debbie Rounds with nine points and four aces, and Lisa Swauger with seven points. Dona Stanton and Shayne Couch, led the spiking attack while Julie Yommer, Swauger and Yelovich sparked on defense. The Little Huskies record now stands at 6-2.

The varsity came back from its defeat and whipped the Bishop Walsh Spartans in three straight games, 15-1, 15-0, and 15-10. Jenny Dailey led the Lady Huskies with 19 service points, including four aces. Amy Swauger added 17 service points. The offensive attack was led by Julie Robeson with six killer spikes. Dailey and Swauger also registered nine spikes between them. Robeson, Dailey and Dona Stanton kept Walsh hitters at bay with a combined total of 15 blocks at the net.

Northern recorded a 98% serving accuracy with 60 good serves out of 61 attempts.

The final two matches of the regular season will be played at home. The Huskies just take on the Flintstone Aggies, followed by cross-country rivals, the Southern High Rams. The Northern-Southern match is on November 5 in the Northern High gym, starting at 7 p.m. The jayvee match will follow the varsity contest.

ALL AMERICAN CHEERLEADER — Sandy Mason, a member of the Southern High School varsity cheerleading squad, was named the most outstanding cheerleader at a recent National Cheerleaders Association camp, held in the Pocono Mountains, Pa. Miss Mason performed a dance routine during the competition with Wendy Bosley, another Ram cheerleader who was named an All American at a similar camp last year. Sandy was named the top cheerleader out of 668 girls in the camp. She was invited to cheer at the Aloha Bowl in Honolulu over the Christmas holidays, however she will be unable to attend.

by Amy Berry

"The key to our season is that we mesh as a unit. Our kids have to learn their roles and perform well in order for us to win" says Dennis Gibson, head basketball coach at Garrett Community College.

Gibson, who is in his first year as the head of the basketball program, realizes that it could be an uphill struggle this year, for the Lakers, who lost four valuable players in Doug Shiflett, Quintin Kearney, Brad Yoder and Art Monroe.

The most visible change is with the coaching, where Gibson steps in to take over for the departed Tom Bosley. However, the Laker Bench is familiar to Gibson as he served six years as an assistant, three to Randy Hess and three to Bosley.

"I learned a lot from both of them," states Gibson. "Randy was such a great teacher and Tom was a terrific bench coach."

The Lakers return a pair of point guards in Jimmy Mayfield and Jimmy Ragler. "I've gotten to the point that when I say 'Jimmy will play point,' I actually mean both of them," laughs the first-year coach.

In addition, Jerry Monroe, who ended last season starting at the small forward spot, returns and is expected to see action at big guard and small forward spots. "Jerry personifies what I want in a Junior College Athlete. He's a fine person, a fine student, and a fine athlete," Gibson said.

At 6-3 Darin Blackwell completes the list of returning Lakers. Although he only saw a limited amount of action last season, Gibson says Blackwell could be a major force this season if he would "increase his intensity."

Although Gibson got a late start in recruiting, he managed to acquire several outstanding athletes. Cumberland Times-News player of the year, Scott Stem, a graduate of Southern High School, passed up a four-year scholarship to attend Garrett. At 6-4, Stem will be counted on to score points and grab rebounds. "Scott has more potential than any other local athlete to come here," notes Gibson. "He's a good student, a good player . . . and best of all, he's local."

In addition to Stem, Garrett recruited several Baltimore prep stars. Sean Hazel, a 6-4 leaper from Millford Mills High School, is viewed as an athlete that could play any position, Gibson said. Hazel is strong inside, but needs to work on his outside shot. "He's got decent range, but if he becomes more consistent from the outside, it will help his overall game and make him an offensive force," he noted.

Hazel participated in last year's "Boston Shoot-out," which features the best players from Baltimore going against the top hoopsters from the Boston area.

Jimmy Feagins, a 6-2 guard who was invited to play in the Capital Classic, is said to be a great jumper and has the patience to play the point. "I wish everyone on our squad had his attitude," says Gibson. Feagins, a product of Randallstown High School in Baltimore, could see action at both backcourt positions.

Gibson says he likes what he sees in 6-2 Terry Carter. "Carter is a hard worker with an excellent attitude and will see action at both big guard and small forward," he said. Carter came out of Martinsburg, W.Va., High School.

Torrin Savoy, 6-5, is the tallest Laker recruit and will be depended on to rebound. Savoy has been working out with weights and is strong around the basket. "In addition, he shows the ball well and is constantly improving," notes Gibson. Savoy played at Suitland High School in the D.C. area.

Justin Fagan from Keyser High School is learning a new position this year. At 6-3, Fagan was big enough to do well inside in high school. This year, Fagan and his 15-foot jumper will move to guard.

Stacy Vines, a 6-3 sophomore who played baseball last year, adds depth along the front line. Gibson says, "He's willing to fill a role and is working hard to learn the intricacies of the inside game."

Another sophomore, David Wilkins, from West Preston High School in Masontown, W.Va., becomes eligible in the second semester.

The Lakers will rely on a running game this year. Gibson is aware that good running games begin with rebounding. "I know we're smaller up front this year, but we hope to overcome it by utilizing our quickness and good positioning," he said.

As far as adjusting to his new position as head coach, Gibson said, "I always knew what problems a head man faced, but I really didn't expect all of the little details that crop up. I do know one thing, though. How we do inthe classroom will make or break us. That's why I've made our study halls mandatory."

Gibson plans to get as close to his team as necessary. "A lot of coaches are afraid of doing that, but you must remember these kids are only 18 and 19 years old and in a lot of cases are a long way from home. Sometimes you have to be their father, mother, doctor and lawyer."

The Lakers open their season by hosting the Annual Preview Classic on November 22 and 23.

Broad Ford PTA Sponsors Fitness Awards Banquet

The PTA of Broad Ford Elementary School sponsored an awards banquet recently at the school for the purpose of honoring the students who won the Maryland Physical Fitness State Championship during the 1984-85 school year.

A ham dinner was served by the school's kitchen staff following an invocation by former county school superintendent, Dr. William Buser.

Wayne Johnson, former Broad Ford principal, was the speaker for the evening. He noted how the fitness program began at the school, some of its highlights, and the importance of working for something that is difficult to achieve.

Dave Koon, PTA president, presented Phil Caruso, physical education instructor, with a plaque of appreciation from the school for his efforts in building the school's PE program over the past seven years. Caruso then gave a speech directed at the championship team, expressing what he believes to be the "real meaning of winning the fitness award" and noting that he hoped winning the award would make the students want to become "achievers and leaders of tomorrow."

Caruso presented a plaque of appreciation to Johnson, the PTA, and the faculty in appreciation of their support of the fitness program. Each student was awarded a trophy commemorating his or her achievement as a "Maryland Physical Fitness State Champ." They were presented by Caruso and present principal, Tom Fowler.

Fowler read the letter from the President's Council on Physical Fitness that notified the school of its state championship. Koon then presented a trophy to the school from the PTA in recognition of the championship.

Numerous awards were presented to the students, information of which can be found under the photos on this page.

Garrett Student Athletes Honored

A night of appreciation for student athletes of Garrett Community College was held at Cornish Manor in Oakland, Saturday evening. Paul McClaud of WXIE Radio served as master of ceremonies.

Some 40 persons from the college community were in attendance, including Dr. David Puzzuoli, president, and William Grant and his wife, representing the Board of Trustees.

The coaches from each of the intercollegiate sports offered at GCC, (men's baseball, women's volleyball, men's basketball, and women's basketball) gave a brief summary of their prospective sports and introduced their team members.

Dr. Puzzuloi topped off the evening by extending his best wishes and support from the administration, stating, "A lot of pride goes into a successful athletic program and the foundations have been molded to produce both winning teams and winning people."

Lackluster Rams Crushed By Powerful Tucker County

A lackluster performance against a powerful, experienced Tucker County team resulted in a 34-0 thrashing of the Southern High Rams Friday night on the West Virginians' field. It was the third loss and second shutout of the season for the Rams against five victories and dashed all hopes of a Class B Region I playoff spot for Southern in its first year in the larger school category. It was Tucker County's sixth win in eight starts.

The Rams had some golden opportunities early in the contest, including a fumble recovery by Chuck Fitzwater on the Tucker County 13-yard line in the opening minutes. However, the offensive unit failed to score and turned the ball over on downs.

The first quarter remained scoreless, and the Rams seemed to have the upper hand since the ball remained on Tucker County's half of the field all of that quarter and much of the second.

The home team got things rolling midway through the second period and Eric Alkire hit Dennis Snyder with a seven-yard touchdown pass to put the first points on the board. John Goldman booted the extra point.

In the final minutes before halftime, Tucker County's Scott Bolyard reached paydirt on a three-yard run to give his team a 13-0 halftime advantage.

Although the Southern defense tightened again in the third stanza, the Rams' offensive unit was still unable to move against the veteran TC squad. A 46-yard pass/run play from Jed Drenning to Dale Nestor, followed by Goldman's kick, put Tucker County on top 20-0.

The final stanza was a disaster for Coach Tom Woods' team, as Drenning picked up a Southern fumble and raced 35 yards for another score and, late in the game, Bolyard added still another touchdown, this time from four yards out. Goldman made good on the final two conversions.

The Ram offense managed just five first downs and 138 yards in total yardage, while Tucker County recorded a dozen first downs and 374 total yards.

"This was really a big disappointment," Coach Woods stated, "not so much because we lost, but the manner in which we lost. We had ample opportunities early to get the game under control, but we just couldn't capitalize. We had numerous poor tackling efforts and made a lot of bad mistakes, things we just should not be doing in the eighth game of the season."

Woods said he believed going into the game that Tucker County was a team that was eight to ten points better than Southern, but still a game that the Rams could win. "We seemed to move the ball fairly well until we got to about the 30-yard line," he said. "Then we would get a penalty or fail to execute.

"Certainly some of the problem is our youngness and inexperience," he continued, "but we still should not have had such a game so late in the season."

The coach was quick to add that his assessment of his team's performance was in no way an attempt to detract from the quality of the Tucker County team, which he stated before the game was the strongest Tucker County team he had ever seen.

"They are strong, experienced, well-coached, and play with a lot of confidence," he said, "all the ingredients for a fine team."

Since the Rams are no longer in the Class B playoff picture, Woods stated that they have "realigned their goals" and are now simply going to concentrate on winning the final two games of the season. "While we are disappointed, we are not displeased when you consider that we have a good chance at a 7-3 season," he said, "despite our inexperience. A whole lot of teams would be thrilled to have a 7-3 season and it really is something to be proud of.

"A 5-5 season, on the other hand, is just a bit embarrassing," he said.

The first of the two remaining obstacles are the Bruce Bulldogs, who will come to town this Friday evening and attempt to upset the favored Rams.

Bruce returned eight offensive and five defensive starters from last season, but have been struggling this season, winning only three of eight games. Like the Rams, the problem of injuries to key players has been a major factor contributing to the Bulldogs' troubles; however, it appears that all of its regulars will be back in action this week, including fullback and linebacker Charlie Wilson, a 5-10, 165-pound three-year starter.

Other outstanding players for the Bulldogs include: Dave Shaw, a 5-10, 170-pound tailback and safety; Alex Taylor, 5-8, 145-pound wing back and safety; Brian Bean, 6-0, 197-pound offensive and defensive tackle; and David Burgess, 5-11, 170-pound running back/defensive end.

Bruce runs primarily from I-formations and some wing-T configurations, while using multiple-50 defenses.

Like Southern, Bruce was eliminated from state playoff competition by virtue of a big loss to Beall last week.

For the first time this season, it seems that Southern will take the field at full strength, with the exception of Scott Werdebaugh, who will dress, but probably not play. Werdebaugh is nursing a knee injury and is expected to be able to play some of the final game of the season next week against Northern.

"Our attitude is a little different than it was at this time the past two years, when we knew we were going to the playoffs," Woods said. "But we've had some real good practices this week and we have told the kids to have a good time these next two weeks, play their best, and then be proud of our season."

The kickoff for the Rams' final home game will be at 7:30 p.m.

Hawkins And Company Run All Over Huskies, 47-6

Northern High School varsity football coach, Jack Settle, stated before last Friday's game between the Huskies and Valley that his greatest fear was whether or not his team would be able to contain the Black Knights' four-year starting quarterback, Dave Hawkins. That fear proved to be real as the Huskies were not able to contain Hawkins, who led the Knights to a 47-6 win, their second of the season in eight starts. It was Northern's seventh straight loss.

Hawkins scored four touchdowns, two on running plays from his quarterback position and two on intercepted passes, and threw for two more touchdowns, completing 11 of 17 passes on the evening.

The Knights, who scored in all four quarters, got on the board first when Hawkins ran in from the four-yard line. George Lauder kicked the extra point.

The Huskies responded with what would prove to be their only points of the evening when Kevin Sines connected with Rod Lipscomb on a 68-yard pass/run score. The pass for the conversion was no good.

Valley came right back with another touchdown, with Hawkins taking the ball in from the one-yard line, followed by Lauder's conversion kick. The remainder of the contest was all Valley's.

Hawkins recorded his third touchdown from his linebacker position when he picked off an interception and raced 21 yards into the end zone. The kick for the conversion point failed.

Later in that same period, Hawkins found Tim Beeman open and hit him with a 24-yard scoring pass. Lauder's kick for the extra point gave the Knights a commanding 27-6 halftime advantage.

The momentum remained with the visitors in the third period, as Hawkins connected with Beeman again through the air, this time on a 31-yard scoring toss. Beeman also hauled in the pass from Hawkins for the two-point conversion.

Things just got worse for the Husky offense, as Hawkins seemed to be all over the field and again picked off a Northern pass, taking it 41 yards for another touchdown.

Lance Weaver's three-yard run in the fourth period concluded the scoring.

The final statistics did not indicate such a lopsided score, as Valley finished with 258 yards compared to 162 for the Huskies, however it was the scores by way of interceptions that made the greatest difference in point totals. A third interception set up one other touchdown.

Jason Bartlett and John Clark also displayed strong defensive performances for Valley, while Dennis Hetrick and Matt Eggleston paced Northern's defense.

"We would have to look way, way back to find a poorer performance by a Northern football team," stated Coach Settle. "I was really disappointed, even to the point of embarrassment."

Settle stated that good defense has been a trademark of Husky teams in the recent past, "but it just isn't there right now," he said. "Our tackling was absolutely atrocious.

"I really thought our kids were in the right frame of mind to go out and play a good game," he continued. "But I was wrong. It looked like it was their homecoming rather than ours."

Settle also gave credit to the Black Knights. "They really came after us and outplayed us all the way," he said. "We really didn't think that they would be able to run against us like they did."

The Huskies are re-grouping again this week in hopes of securing that first win of the season. However, despite the fact that West Preston, of Masontown, W.Va., has a 1-7 record, it appears that the Panthers have plenty of size and talent, which has Settle concerned.

The Panthers, under new head coach Ron Richardson, are led by a strong corps of experienced running backs, including sophomore tailback Scott Wodzenski, 5-10, 175, who rushed for 815 yards as a freshman last season in eight games; Tim Rossetti, a 5-9, 190-pound senior fullback; Jack Koontz, senior quarterback, 5-10, 160; and Jeff Satterfield, senior wingback, 5-11, 180. Also adding to their offensive strength are senior ends Vance Lipscomb, 5-11, 165, and Jamie Sisler, 5-7, 175, who alternate at tight and split end.

Anchoring the offensive and defensive lines are Chris Gregg, a 6-4, 260-pound junior tackle, who Settle says is "one of the best linemen we will see this year," and nose guard/offensive tackle Robert Melchek, 6-3, 230.

The Panthers offense utilizes straight-T, power-I, and a variety of split-back formations, while the defense runs primarily from 5-3 and, in short yardage situations, a 6-2. They also have a strong kicking game.

"Frankly, I have no idea why this team is 1-7," Settle stated. "They seem to have plenty of experience and excellent size."

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 at Northern. It will be Parent Night for the players and the members of the band, when the parents of the players will be recognized just before the game and the band parents at halftime.

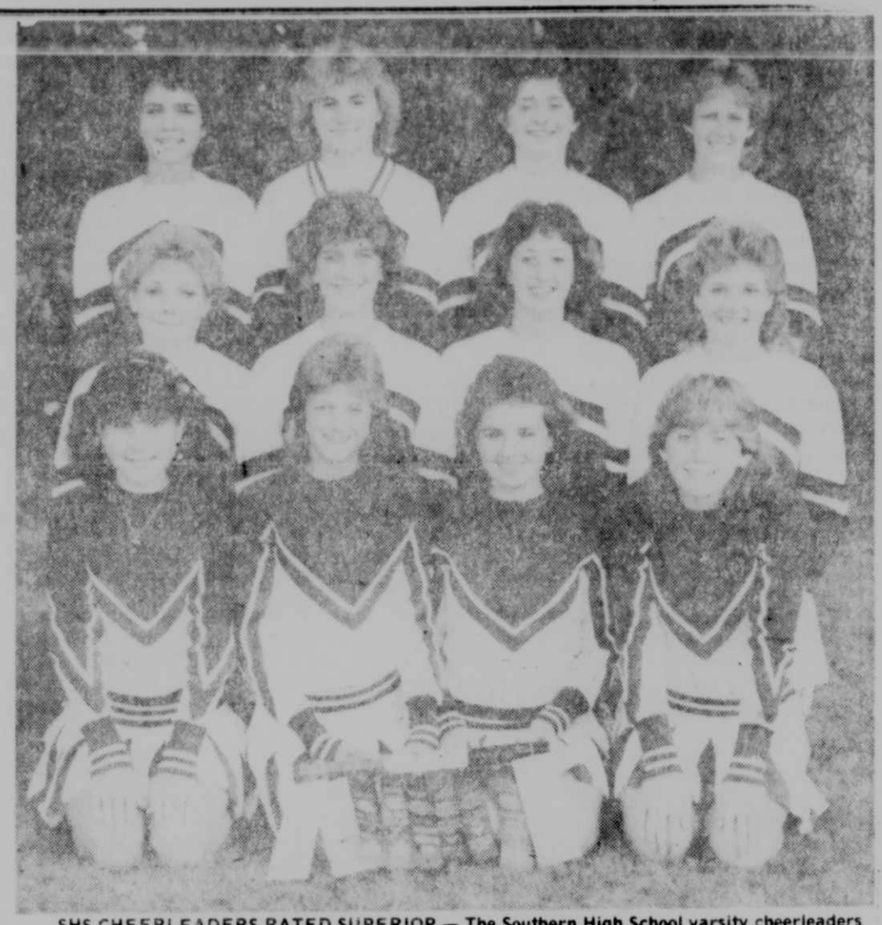
Southern Girls Top Clear Spring And Bishop Walsh

The Southern girls varsity volleyball team upped its season record to 8-4 this week by defeating host Clear Spring on Tuesday evening, 15-6, 7-15, 15-6, and 19-17, and topping Bishop Walsh last night, 15-10, 15-9, and 15-9.



The Southern jayvee squad also defeated Clear Spring, 15-9 and 15-11, to improve their record to 10-1. The Clear Spring jayvees had been undefeated.

Robin Tasker paced the Lady Rams against Clear Spring with 18 points, while Stephanie Lewis scored 11 points, including five ace serves. Chris Gregory added ten points, including six aces.

Leslie Ellis led the Rams against Bishop Walsh, finishing with six aces and 13 points. Stacy Sines recorded nine points, four aces and six spikes. Joy Thrasher finished with nine points, five of which were ace serves, and Marty Vance added seven points.

In the jayvee contest, Kendra Stemple and Kelly Evans each finished with nine points to lead Southern.

The Lady Rams will complete their regular season on Tuesday in a county showdown with powerful Northern at the Cove. They will then travel to Damascus High School on November 9 for Class B playoff competition.

SHS CHEERLEADERS RATED SUPERIOR — The Southern High School varsity cheerleaders recently attended a National Cheerleaders Association camp in the Pocono Mountains, Pa., where they received the first runner-up Award of Excellence out of over 60 squads in attendance. The Southern girls received a blue superior ribbon and a spirit stick each night and also a take-home spirit stick. Sandy Mason and Wendy Bosley performed a dance routine in the talent show, for which they were both nominated for the All American Cheerleader Award. Sandy ultimately received the award as the top rated cheerleader in the camp, an honor bestowed upon Wendy in the 1984 camp. Southern, Northern Jayvee Teams Win

Both Garrett County high school jayvee football teams won games this week, as the Southern freshmen topped Tucker County last Thursday evening, 12-0, in Oakland and Northern jayvees blanked Valley, 13-0, in Lonaconing Monday evening.

Jamie Colaw tossed scoring passes of 14 and 23 yards to Brian Ridenour for the Rams, while Randy Streets and Dave Burdock paced the Southern defense. It was the fifth win in seven starts for the Little Rams.

Kyle Zeko tossed a 12-yard scoring aerial to Kevin Selly in the first quarter for the Northern jayvees against Valley and Selly also kicked the extra point. Mike Glass then picked off a Valley pass in the second period and raced 38 yards for the Huskies' second touchdown.

Bourgeois Notes Hunting, Trapping Season Changes

The Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service noted this week that several hunting and trapping seasons are scheduled to begin in early November. Of particular interest to Garrett County hunters are changes in the rabbit and pheasant seasons, according to Al Bourgeois, district wildlife manager.

Rabbit season in Garrett County will open on November 1, while in the remainder of the state, it will open on November 15. This change was brought about because the more severe winter weather conditions in Garrett County allow hunters less time in a field. The daily limit will remain at four rabbits. Snowshoe hare season is again closed in Garrett and Allegany counties to allow experimental stockings of snowshoe hares to become established.

Bourgeois said the other notable change which hunters should be aware of, is that hunting for ringnecked pheasants is prohibited in Garrett County this fall. The pheasant season was closed because of the live trapping of wild ringnecked pheasants in Washington County and the subsequent release of these birds in Garrett County. "It is hoped that a self-sustaining wild population of ringnecked pheasants can be established in Garrett County," he said. "If this proves to be successful, there will be ringnecked pheasant hunting in Garrett County in the future."

The Service also notes that the fall wild turkey season in Garrett County begins on November 5 and runs through November 11. The bag limit is one turkey for the fall. Hunters are reminded that if no turkey is killed in the fall, two bearded turkeys (gobblers) may be taken in the spring season. All turkeys harvested must be checked at an official checking station in the county where the bird was killed, within 24 hours.

Trapping season for fox, raccoon, and fisher begins on November 1, while the season on muskrat and mink opens November 15. Trappers are reminded to exercise caution when handling their catch, particularly raccoons, because of the possibility of encountering an animal with rabies. All animals should be handled with rubber gloves and pre-exposure rabies shots are recommended for all trappers.

Further information on hunting and trapping is available in the guide to hunting and trapping which hunters receive when they buy their license.

Banquet Benefits Ducks Unlimited

The Mt. Top Chapter Ducks Unlimited committee raised more than $11,900 at a recent banquet to benefit North American waterfowl conservation. The money has been forwarded to the Ducks Unlimited National Headquarters.

Phil Davidson, DU area committee chairman, said, "It was comforting to see such a large, enthusiastic turnout at the fundraiser. It's also reassuring to know that the lion's share of every dollar we raised will be funneled directly into wetland habitat restoration programs in Canada, where over 70% of this continent's ducks and geese are produced."

In a final statement concerning the future growth of the organization, Davidson said, "Over the past 15 years, Ducks Unlimited has grown at a rate of 25% compounded annually. Since such growth is essential to the well-being of the waterfowl resource, the Mt. Top Chapter Ducks Unlimited committee is already planning to make next year's DU banquet a record-breaker."

DOWN WITH CALORIES AND CHOLESTEROL

More than 40 percent of the calories the average American consumes comes from fat. While some fat is necessary to form cell membranes, carry vitamins, A, D, E and K and supply essential fatty acids, most of us would be better off if fat intake were reduced by ten percent or more.

To protect your heart and blood vessels, the American Heart Association recommends that saturated fats make up only one-third of total fat consumption and that fat represent no more than 30 percent of total caloric intake.

To accomplish these goals:

-reduce intake of fried foods
-switch to low-fat dairy products
-eat more poultry and fish
-discard skin of poultry before or after cooking
-replace oil or fat in marinades with fresh lemon or lime juice, wine or vinegar
-stir-fry instead of deep fry
-broil with wine instead of butter

Try this recipe that is low in fat. Chicken can be substituted for the turkey.

1. Grease 1½ quart casserole lightly with oil.
2. Cook mushrooms and green pepper in oil until green pepper is tender.
3. Stir in flour, salt and pepper.
4. Mix broth with milk. Add slowly to flour mixture, stirring constantly; cook until thickened.
5. Stir in turkey, pimiento and sherry.
6. Mix in cooked spaghetti.

Rankin Lusby Addresses 48th Annual Farm Bureau Membership Meeting

E. Rankin Lusby, editor of Maryland Agriculture, addressed the Garrett County Farm Bureau membership at their 48th annual dinner meeting October 25 at the Grantsville fire hall.

In his opening remarks, Lusby said, "It's great to be back in Garrett County. It's been 24 years since I left this great county to start my Farm Bureau career. But, I still have a warm place in my heart for the county because of the wonderful people I got to know here during my 2½ years of 4-H work."

At that time, 24 years ago, Lusby served as Garrett County Extension Agent for 4-H and youth and owned a farm in Pleasant Valley, which he sold after taking a position with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

During his speech, Lusby took a look at many key farm issues, including the Farm Aid Concert and the problems of the Farm Credit System. "Farm Bureau is taking a leading role in seeking solutions to the problems of the Farm Credit System," he said. "Long before the crisis' situation developed, AFBF President Robert B. Delano asked each state Farm Bureau president to sit down with top FCS officials to discuss status and outlook. Now, hard at work is an AFBF task force that has the challenge of coming up with recommendations on Farm Bureau's positions to bring back a healthy condition to the Farm Credit System."

Lusby stated that the root of the crisis could have been averted by "a farm program that was linked to the marketplace to send proper production signals to farmers."

He informed the group of the animal rights movement, and said, "I've found that farmers really don't understand what impact this movement could have on their operations—and consumers certainly don't understand it either."

He explained the difference between "welfarists" and "rightists." Welfarists, which include farmers, insist on animals being treated humanely. Rightists compare themselves with civil rights and women's rights activists. One of their objectives is to eliminate all confinement facilities, especially for veal calves, swine and caged layers.

Lusby stated that if production restrictions proposed by animal rightists become law, the price of medium size eggs could go from 70 to 80 cents a dozen up to $2 to $2.40 a dozen. Veal could become like caviar in scarcity and price.

"What about the future of agriculture?" asked Lusby. "It's exciting! Biotechnology is about to bring great changes to agriculture. It will revolve around genetic engineering, cloning, new biological processing techniques and other scientific applications of molecular biology."

Lusby closed by saying that "Farm Bureau is an organization through which farmers can analyze their problems and take united action to solve those problems." He commended the Garrett and Allegany County Farm Bureaus for learning about the harassment being experienced by the Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation during the September meeting.

"The methods being used here to stop the operation are typical of the situations Farm Bureau lobbyists face every day in dealing with proposed legislation and implementation of laws," he said.

"Your future, the future of agriculture, depends upon how effectively you use the problem-solving tool that is Farm Bureau," said Lusby. "One thing for sure, use it!"

Clark Kolb, Garrett County Farm Bureau president, was master of ceremonies and presented a gift of Garrett County maple syrup to Lusby.

Invocation was given by Raymond Bender and entertainment was provided by Carolyn Helbig.

Brooks Hamilton conducted elections and read the following proposed resolutions, which were approved by the membership, and will be forwarded to the state resolutions committee for consideration at the Maryland Farm Bureau convention December 8 through 11 in Ocean City.

1. Be it resolved: That Garrett County Farm Bureau members support a balanced federal budget.

2. Be it resolved: That the state and county continue to support the preservation of agricultural lands in Garrett County and other areas as this is vital to the future food supply of the county, state and country.

3. Be it resolved: That the state and county explore ways and means to upgrade and maintain bridges vital to the commerce of Garrett County and rural citizens.

4. Be it resolved: That the state assume an equal proportion of cost associated with state-owned lands and no further acquisition of land for state forests or parks be made in Garrett County.

5. Be it resolved: That the control, growth and propagation of thistle and other noxious weeds continues to be an area of frustration and concern for all land-owners. One of the great breeding grounds for these plants continues to be the banks and shoulders of Maryland's public highways. It is imperative that the Secretary of Agriculture and the State Highway Administration take the necessary measures to control thistle growth and the growth of all noxious weeds.

6. Be it resolved: That the Garrett County Farm Bureau supports the efforts of The Republican newspaper's farm page.

7. Be it resolved: That due to the fact that Maryland residents have an ongoing problem with deer population, we strongly urge that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources allow a kill of two deer per hunter in more counties to bring the deer population under control, and additional permits for areas of heavy damage.

8. Whereas, in Garrett County there are three county commissioners elected for a four-year term and all must seek re-election at the same time. And,

Whereas, it is disruptive to government to have three new commissioners and, therefore, injurious to the general welfare of the county.

It is, therefore, proposed to stagger the terms of the commissioners so that at no time the government of Garrett County is left with three new commissioners.

It is, therefore, proposed that the term of commissioners be and continue at four years but that in the election of 1988 the commissioner for District One be elected for a term of six years, District Two for four years and District Three for two years and that thereafter the terms of all three districts shall be for four years but the commissioner for District One will be elected in the same year as our country elects a president.

9. Be it resolved: That the appropriate county officials re-submit an application for the Oakland Bypass.

Kolb introduced guests which included Delegate George Edwards; William Aiken, senior field representative for West Virginia Farm Bureau; Robert Wilson, first vice president of the Maryland Farm Bureau; Steve Conley, legislative and field liaison representative for Maryland Farm Bureau, and 1985 Garrett County Farm Queen Daina Savage.

Speaking briefly were Robert Wilson, first vice president of Maryland Farm Bureau; Steve Conley, legislative and field representative for Maryland Farm Bureau; and Jerry Ferguson, Nationwide Insurance Company representative.

The turkey dinner was prepared and served to the 252 Farm Bureau members and guests attending the Women's Auxiliary of the Grantsville Fire Department.

Brooks Hamilton conducted elections. Clark Kolb was re-elected chairman and William DeWitt was re-elected co-chairman. Directors are: Roy Kahl, Accident; Nevin Umbel, Friendsville; Harry Hummel, Grantsville; Jesse Harsh, Oakland; and Hoover Meyers, Deer Park-Swanton. Delegates to the convention are William DeWitt, Paul Miller, Charlie Miller, and William Merrill. Alternate is Dana Resh.

No Women's Committee chairman was elected, and will be announced later. Carol Umbel was re-elected vice chairman. New directors are: Fannie Mae Kolb, Accident; Joanne Meyers, Friendsville; Wanda Wassell, Grantsville; Hilda Stahl, Oakland; and Bernice Kepple, Deer Park-Swanton.

Maryland Farm Bureau Gold Star Achievement Awards were presented to Donna Glotfelty, for Information Director and Women's Committee; Charlie Miller, for Service to Members; Merrill Wilburn, for Discussion Group; and Dana Resh, Young Farmers Award.

Farm Bill Review

by Bernice Kepple

The U.S. Senate's debate of Farm Bill legislation began on Friday, with senators concentrating on cargo preference. The issue under discussion was whether or not to exempt certain USDA export financing programs from the requirement under cargo preference law that half of the shipments under those programs be carried on U.S. flag ships. Cargo preference has been applied to food aid exports and has added about $1.6 billion to their cost over the life of those programs.

These export credit programs had been exempt until February, when the maritime industry obtained a court ruling requiring that cargo preference also be applied to the blended credit program. This court decision caused USDA to terminate the blended credit program because the additional costs involved would have nullified any benefits to U.S. exports. The court decision also opened up the possibility of a similar court case on all other USDA export programs. The Senate must decide if they should allow the operation of those programs to be unencumbered by cargo preference.

Senator Paul S. Sarbanes has helped work out a compromise between agriculture and maritime representatives which has been approved by all farm factions except soy bean producers and the American Farm Bureau Federation. The details of this compromise are not known at press time, however, Farm Bureau's position on the issue is known.

Farm Bureau supports a strong U.S. maritime industry but believes that the application of cargo preference to commercial farm export programs will serve neither agricultural nor maritime interests. Agricultural exports are crucial to the health of the U.S. farm economy and their decline must be reversed. USDA programs created to allow farmers to compete in world markets in the face of subsidized foreign competition will not work if export incentives are impaired or nullified by the higher costs of cargo preference.

Senator Sarbanes will be at the Grantsville fire hall this Saturday at 10 a.m., and will be glad to discuss this and other farm bill issues with area farmers.

Agriculture Secretary John Block, in a press interview last week, listed three of the administration's priorities required before the president will sign a farm bill. Surprisingly, those priorities match the position of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

First was a cut in target prices, which are the guaranteed levels of income farmers who participate in federal crop programs get for their wheat, corn, cotton and rice. The Senate bill essentially freezes the targets at current levels for four years, but Block said the administration will accept no more than a one-year freeze, or some other form of limit that achieves the same savings.

Also on the list are dairy price supports, now frozen for 1986, but which the administration would like to cut by 50 cents this year to $11.10 per hundred pounds. Farm Bureau believes it is necessary to reduce the support price in 1986 to begin to get a handle on the surpluses. CCC purchases in the 1985/86 marketing year are projected to exceed 13 billion pounds (more than $2 billion in cost) if the current support price of $11.60 per hundredweight is maintained throughout the marketing year. They feel that without adjustments in 1986, there will continue to be increased production, a high level of CCC purchases and excessive government costs.

For this reason, Farm Bureau is seeking support for the Hawkins, Moynihan, and Chafee amendment to the dairy title to reduce the dairy price support by 50 cents per hundredweight on January 1, 1986, if net CCC purchases are expected to exceed 10 billion pounds during the next 12 months (which they are).

Farm Bureau feels that the Senate dairy bill is fundamentally good, and would be even more sensible if the Hawkins, Moynihan, Chafee amendment prevails in the debate.

Block said that the administration would also like to strike from the bill a provision allowing wheat farmers to vote on strict production controls coupled with higher price supports. If mandatory production controls were passed, wheat acreage would have to be reduced about 50 percent, and regardless of whether a farmer voted for or against mandatory production controls, he would lose his freedom to choose how much to plant. This control would affect agribusiness adversely, and probably lose the country's export market for wheat. At the least, a vote on mandatory control programs each year would make planting decisions about the future difficult for farmers.

The Senate debate will probably go on into next week. Sec. Block has been reported as saying that the emerging farm bill is still regarded as prime veto bait by President Reagan. We'll just have to wait and see.

There's No Such Thing As A Free Lunch

For your ad to be read, the publication that carries it must be read.

If you're advertising in a publication that is given away, you'll never be sure your ad message has the impact you paid for.

Measure the impact of a newspaper by paid circulation, and make sure it is audited. Third class, direct mail publications are not audited and therefore have no proven readership whatsoever.

The Republican, a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, has an audited circulation of 10,900, meaning there are approximately 30,000 people who read The Republican every week. That's proven readership. Not a single copy of The Republican is tossed into the garbage can when it is received each week, because people pay to receive it. The same cannot be claimed by shoppers and other third class mailings, many copies of which are never read and do indeed line the interiors of refuse cans all over the community.

Many persons also receive more than one copy of a particular shopper each week (we know of one person who receives four!), which also makes circulation figures inflated and misleading.

How many people pay for a newspaper is a sure way to determine its value to its readers, and a rather strong indicator of where you should spend your valuable ad dollars (unless you give away your product or services, too).

Summer Potato Production Up

Summer potato production on Maryland farms is expected to total 320,000 hundredweights, 8 percent above 1984's 296,000 hundredweights. Yield prospects for the 1985 crop at 200 hundredweights per acre is 15 hundredweights per acre above last year, but 15 hundredweights below the record 1982 yield of 215 cwt. per acre. Acreage of potatoes harvested at 1,600 is equal to 1984's acreage.

No Substitute for Forage

If you want to produce milk or put pounds on your beef animal, there is no substitute for food forage. Hay is necessary to keep the rumen of the animals functioning efficiently. Because of the cheap grain prices some farmers are substituting grain in place of forages. It won't work. If you are short on forages you would be better off buying some good quality hay. Also I would advise that you have a forage analysis run on forages. Analyzing your hay is more important than analyzing corn silage. Corn silage stays fairly constant in nutritional value if stored right. Hay has so many more factors affecting its quality such as maturity, being rained on, etc.

Timothy Hay - Over Priced

Compared to Alfalfa or a good Legume-grass Hay, Timothy is over-priced. Timothy is much lower in nutritional value than Alfalfa or a Legume grass mixture hay. The main reason Timothy is selling near the same price as Alfalfa is because of demand of people who are feeding horses. Too many people raising horses as a hobby are willing to pay the inflated price. As a dairy or livestock farmer good Alfalfa Hay is still your best buy.

Corn Borer

I have noticed a more than ususal amount of Corn Borer damage this year. If your corn fields show a lot of stalks broken and fallen over there is a good chance corn borers have been at work. If you are picking the corn and leaving the stalks in the field I would suggest that you "brush-hog" the stalks to destroy the borer's home. Next year Furadan Granular applied after the corn reaches the whorl stage will help with the borers control. Furadan has very little control when applied at seeding time.

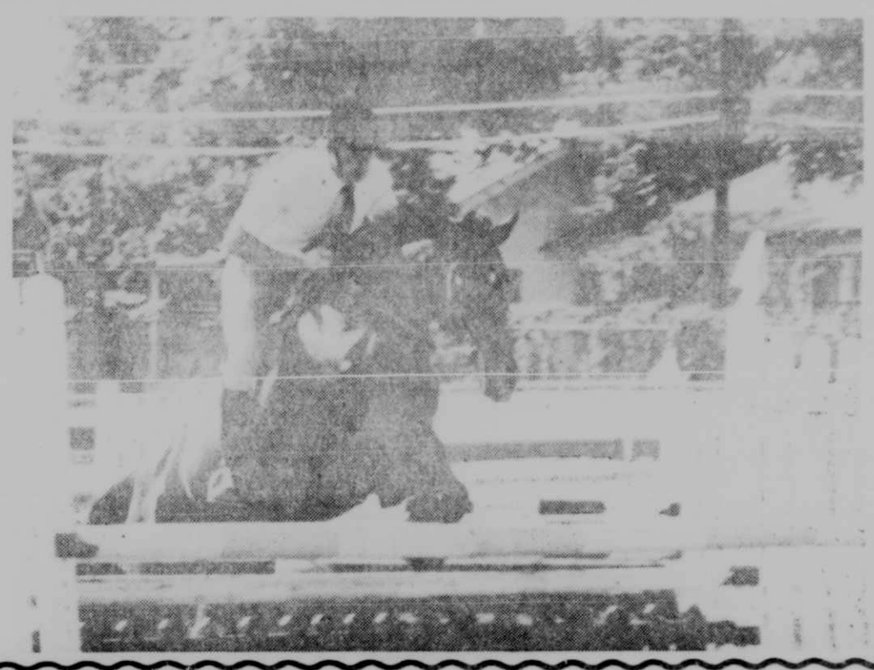
Local Athlete Achieves World Class Status In The Ultimate Sports Challenge: The Pentathlon

by Don Sincell

There are several million individuals in the United States who are considered good athletes. There are probably a few hundred thousand who might be classified as outstanding athletes. However, only a handful of athletes ever achieve the description of world class. Right now there are only a few dozen men in America who are world class athletes in the modern pentathlon, a five-part event that is considered by many to be the ultimate sports challenge.

Garrett County happens to be the home of one of those world class pentathletes. He is John McIntee, who moved to Oakland last year after accepting a position as engineer at the local Bausch & Lomb facility. Although residing in Oakland and working fulltime at B&L, McIntee just completed his most successful year of competition, finishing fourth in the National Pentathlon Championships in San Antonio, Tex., including first place in the nation in shooting, and seventh overall in the National Sports Festival in Baton Rouge, La.



McIntee has also captured numerous gold medals in competition in Switzerland, Germany, Mexico, and Canada, where he won that nation's International Championship last year.

SHOOTING, RUNNING, FENCING, RIDING, AND SWIMMING are the five sports which compose the modern pentathlon, a combination of events that are so different from each other, the pentathlon is considered by many to be the ultimate sports challenge. Oakland resident John McIntee, an engineer for Bausch & Lomb, decided a few years ago to train to become a pentathlete and has rapidly become a world class athlete in the event. McIntee, shown in all four of these photos, finished fourth in the National Pentathlon Championships this past summer and seventh at the National Sports Festival, placing him among the top dozen pentathletes in the entire world. He has also won numerous gold medals in competition in Europe, Mexico, and Canada. The fact that he lives in Garrett County and works fulltime at Bausch & Lomb made his fourth place finish this year an even more remarkable event, since many of the other pentathletes are in fulltime training, 13 hours per day.

The Sport's History

The modern pentathlon was instituted in the first modern Olympics as a challenge to the best all-around athlete. Its development was based on the romantic legend of the French couriers, who had to face a variety of challenges and dangers while attempting to deliver their important messages. As the legend goes, after the courier was handed the message, he would jump on any horse available, and ride cross-country. When met with bandits, he would have to shoot a pistol and when out of ammunition, he would defend himself with his sword. If his horse were hurt or killed, he would then have to run cross-country and, if necessary, swim across any rivers in the path toward his destination.

Thus, the five events which compose the modern pentathlon are horseback riding, fencing, shooting, swimming, and running. It takes four days to complete the competition.

World Class In Two Years

While most of the top pentathletes in the world do not reach such status before at least ten years of intensive training, McIntee accomplished world class ranking in just over two years of training and competition, a feat matched by only one or two other outstanding pentathletes.

McIntee is a graduate of Betterdorf High School, Betterdorf, Iowa, and holds a bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University of Notre Dame. While in high school, he was active in numerous sports, including football, track, baseball, and particularly swimming, which he continued at Notre Dame. While maintaining a three-point grade point average at Notre Dame, he was also active in intramural football, softball, basketball, soccer, track, and racketball, and a member of the Chess Club.

In the world of employment, McIntee, although only 28 years old, has been a bodyguard, swimming coach, school teacher, private investigator, construction worker, insurance adjuster, and an engineer for Parker-Hannifin Brass Company in Otsego, Michigan.

Horse Dashes Hopes For Olympics

Just prior to his coming to employment with Bausch & Lomb, McIntee spent two years in fulltime training at the U.S. Modern Pentathlon Training Center, San Antonio, Tex. One of his goals was to make the four-man 1984 U.S. Olympic team.

McIntee was 25 when he began his training, an age at which many pentathletes would already have several years of work under their belts. Although John had a strong background in swimming and a rather solid background in riding, running, and shooting, he had done almost no fencing.

"When I got there they told me that it takes eight to ten years of training to become a world class fencer," McIntee said, noting that the best fencers in the world score around 1,000 points in a competition. "I told them that I just didn't have that much time." Within the next 18 months, McIntee was scoring at the 1,000 point level in over half of his bouts. Although most athletes do not progress nearly as rapidly as McIntee did, he believes that it is more of a mental block for many of them. "Once they are told how long it takes, most of them accept that and don't expect to become world class until after completing that much training time," he said.

McIntee's hopes for a spot on the Olympic team were dashed by the horse that he drew for the riding portion of the Olympic Trials competition. Each competitor draws for one of several unfamiliar horses and is given 20 minutes and six warm-up jumps to learn how the horse behaves. The riding course is 600 meters with 15 obstacles to jump, including a water jump, a bank, a double combination and a triple combination. Each rider starts with 1,100 points. A knock-down of an obstacle is a minus 30, refusal by the horse to jump is a minus 40, and being thrown from the horse is a minus 60. The allotted time to complete the course is one minute, 43 seconds, with a penalty of minus two for each second over.

"Sometimes you get a horse that likes you, sometimes you get one that doesn't like you," McIntee said. "Mine didn't like me at all, and threw me to the ground." His final score was 1,010, which placed him way back in the pack at that time in the competition. He fared so well in the other four events, however, that had his ride been as good as usual for him, he would have probably finished fourth in the trials, good enough to make the team.

The Scoring

In the fencing event, each competitor fences every other competitor. Each bout is three minutes or first touch. The competition usually runs 12 to 16 hours, and each fencer rests only six mimutes between bouts. A top score is 1,173 (no losses). McIntee finished third by just two touches at the National Championships this year.

McIntee finished first at the Nationals in the shooting event, which involves firing a .22 pistol at a duel target. The target faces for three seconds and turns away for seven. Four strings of five rounds are scored making a possible score of 200 target points. A score of 194, which is what McIntee recorded for his first place finish at Nationals, is worth 1,000 pentathlon points. Each target point above or below is worth plus or minus 22 points, respectively.

The swim is a 300-meter freestyle in an Olympic-size (50-meter) pool. A time of 3:54 is worth 1,000 points, with each second under worth eight more points. McIntee normally swims the event in about 3:25, which gives him 1,232 points.

The fifth event is the running, which is a 4,000-meter (about two and one-half miles) on any terrain. A time of 14 minutes, 15 seconds is worth 1,000 pentathlon points, with each second under that time worth an additional three points.

Unlike normal races, the runners in the pentathlon run are staggered based upon total scores from the other four events. For example, the athlete in first place would start first and the second place athlete would begin one second later for every three points difference in their scores. Likewise, the third runner would begin so many seconds later, depending upon the point spread between him and the second place runner.

The run makes for an exciting finish because the competitors and spectators know the position of every participant as the race gets underway. Passing someone in the run means advancing a place in the entire competition.

Although McIntee claims running is his weakest event, he displayed a phenomenal finish in the National Championships to win fourth overall. With only about 200 yards remaining in the race, McIntee poured on the speed and made up nearly 75 yards between him and the runner in front of him, just edging out his opponent at the wire. His overall point total was 5,134.

The Ultimate Challenge

The reason the pentathlon is considered the ultimate sports challange is because of the tremendous diversity in the five sports. The training for one not only does not complement the training for one of the other five, but in fact, is counter-productive for the others.

"For example," McIntee said, "a world class swimmer might be a lousy runner or rider. Swimming tends to build up the upper body, which is a hindrance to running. Running builds big, strong legs, which tend to weight you down in swimming. Swimming also requires long, flexible muscles, while running requires short, tight muscles. Fencing will result in more strength in one leg than the other, which also throws off your running."

Even more important, however, than the physical diversity in the five sports is the mental and emotional diversity, McIntee says.

"It's a matter of trying to control different types of energy," he explains. "One moment you have to be tense, quick, alert, and sort of nervous to do well in fencing. Then you have to be able to be completely calm and steady to do well in shooting. Likewise, you have to be aggressive and your physical energies have to be heightened to do well in swimming, but then when you climb on a horse, you have to be relaxed and calm once again, or that nervousness will transmit right to the horse. In running and swimming, you are concerned with stamina and power, but in fencing you must concentrate on smooth, quick motion.

"No other athlete has to contend with this problem of having to be able to deal with this physical and mental diversity," he continued. "Even in the decathlon (ten track and field events), the events are not nearly as diverse. The same muscles are used for several events and, more importantly, the mental and physical energy control is not so diverse."

Mastery of this unique aspect of the pentathlon is why not many athletes are able to excel in the sport and why it takes many years for those who do pursue it to reach world class ranking. Because so much concentration, fitness, and mental control is necessary to be successful, most of the top pentathletes have far greater than average intelligence. Out of the top dozen pentathletes in the United States, at least three are physicans, three are lawyers, three are engineers or engineering students, and the others are successful businessmen.

The Ultimate Goal

The ultimate for a pentathlete is being able to peak and do his best in all five events in a single competition, a feat that, according to McIntee, has never been accomplished by anyone. "If any one of the top 20 pentathletes happened to peak in all five sports in one competition, he would set a world record that might never be broken," McIntee said. "It's almost impossible, though, mainly because of the intensity of the competition and the sheer energy and stamina it takes just to make it through the entire four days. You might have a competition where you do the best you have ever done in two or three events. But to peak in all five is next to impossible, even though that is the goal each of us has.

"Even Mike Burley, who has won the National Championship 13 out of the past 14 years, including this year at the age of 36, and is truly in a class by himself, has never done the best he can do in all five events," McIntee said.

Not A Glory Sport

The pentathlon is not a glory sport, as most persons are not even aware of the five events involved. It receives little media coverage, despite its uniqueness and the extremely high calibre of athletic ability of the participants. It is the Mary Lou Rettons, Muhammad Alis, and Moses Malones who receive world-wide acclaim and admiration for their having mastered only one sport, not five.

McIntee says there are several reasons for this, among them the fact that the pentathlon is an event with which most people are not familiar.

"It is not something that people grow up with," he said, "like baseball or football. Also, few people are willing to sit for four days to watch the competition and it would be almost impossible for the media to cover it. By comparison, a football game or track and field meet might be about three hours, a time span that is comfortable for spectators.

"Another reason it does not get major coverage is that the public seems to be most interested in seeing world records broken and performances by the best athletes in individual sports. A pentathlete is not the best in an individual sport. I would not beat Rowdy Gaines in a swimming event, for example, and there are many runners who run faster than I can. However, there are few athletes who can excel in five completely different sports, which is what the pentathlon is all about."

Best Finish, Despite Work And Living Here

Another fact that makes McIntee's fourth place national finish so remarkable is that he accomplished the feat while working fulltime and while living in Garrett County, an area that is not exactly conducive to the training of a world class athlete, especially in five different sports. Last winter and spring, McIntee would get off work at 4 p.m. and spend the next five or six hours training, every day. He would run and shoot in Garrett County, swim at the Alpine Lake pool near Terra Alta, ride at his sister's farm near Gettysburg, Pa., and travel to Pittsburgh, Baltimore or any one of several regional bouts for fencing.

When asked how he explains his best finish after training under such circumstances, compared to a 13-hour per day, seven days per week schedule at the training center in Texas, McIntee said, "Part of it had to do with being one year smarter and part of it was luck. I also think I wanted to prove to myself that I could work and train at the same time and still be successful."

Plans For The Future

As for his plans for the future, McIntee says he hopes to continue competing on a national level for a while. Since most of the top pentathletes in the world are usually in their early and mid 30s, at 28 he theoretically has not yet peaked in his efforts. As for the 1988 Olympics, McIntee has not yet made a decision.

"I obviously have an obligation to my employer and I really don't know yet if I can continue to train at the level necessary for world competition," he said. "Most of my competitors are training fulltime and do not have to travel like I do."

McIntee also pointed out the tremendous sacrifices all top athletes have to make in order to be one of the best. "Most people have no idea what it takes," he said. "Every facet of your life is committed in one direction. You give up everything else in life. Relationships with friends and family are often damaged and sometimes destroyed. The pressure and emotional stress is so overwhelming that it sometimes almost breaks you.

"If someone had told me before I ever got involved with this just exactly what would be required and what it would be like, I must honestly say that I probably would never have done it," he continued. "Yet once you get a taste of almost reaching that peak in all five events in a single competition, a taste of being the best in the world, you seem to want more than ever to go back for more."

At Home In Garrett County

Regardless of his decisions about the future, McIntee says that Garrett County is his home now and he plans to be here for a long time. He takes a special delight in working with children and has done some coaching of the local youth swim team, the Manta Rays.

"He does an excellent job with the kids, and because they like him so much, they respond with enthusiasm and determination," stated one parent. "He is patient and kind, and so effective with his teaching. Within just 15 minutes he had many of the children doing flip turns at the wall, something many of them had never done before."

Although McIntee moved 18 times since his birth because of his father's job with Alcoa, he said he and his family, which includes a brother and four sisters, spent time on Deep Creek Lake several years ago. His parents now reside permanently in Bethel Park, Pa.

"I really like living in Garrett County and I hope to be here a long time," McIntee said.

Editor's note: One quality of John McIntee which surpasses even his athletic ability is his modesty. Despite his outstanding achievement, he has never sought coverage from the media. The media always seeks him out. In fact, his modesty and humility make him feel a bit uncomfortable talking about his achievements.

This writer is one county resident who is proud and pleased that John is here, and has made time in his busy schedule to help many of our local children.

It's November. And in many a local church it's time to think about the budget for another year.

This is cause for being thankful. Really it is!

For aren't there many places in this world where men haven't any opportunity to support their church . . . or any church to support if they had opportunity?

And aren't there many places where men are compelled to work for causes they do not believe in . . . instead of free to work for a Cause in which they do believe?

Frankly, much of the responsibility for keeping our land and our people what we want them to be rests with our churches.

So let's rejoice in that happy American tradition — the church budget.

And, in keeping with another fine tradition of our people, let's roll up our sleeves and help!

PUT SOME LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT

Never, never, take ANY medicine in the dark!—Always turn on a light so you can see what you're doing and check to make sure that you're taking the right medication. A lot of medicine bottles are similar in design and can be easily interchanged with one another if you're not paying attention to what you're doing.

It never makes sense to take unnecessary chances and avoidable risks. In fact, it's downright foolish! Today's drugs are potent compounds, and accidentally taking the wrong one instead of the right one can lead to serious—and perhaps fatal—consequences. You can't be too careful when it comes to using medicines, and we hope you will exercise the necessary precautions.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHO BUILDS THE BARRIER?

November 3, 1985

Background Scripture: Romans 8.
Devotional Reading: Galatians 5:16-24.

In those times when God seems absent from our lives, when it appears that he is not present to help us in our trouble or sorrow, it is customary for us to assume that he has for some reason placed a barrier between himself and ourselves. It is also customary for us to assume that the reason for his absence is his displeasure with us—something we've done or not done, something present in our lives that shouldn't be there or something lacking that should be.

The Psalmists frequently complained that God had forsaken them: "O God, why dost thou cast us off forever?" (74:1). King Saul was convinced that God no longer listened to his prayers. Even Jesus cried on Calvary, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" If all of these—and more—experienced a barrier between God and themselves, it is not so surprising that we have also experienced it.

ACCORDING TO THE FLESH

Yet, the Bible seems to indicate that it is really not God who abandons us, but we who abandon him. If there is a barrier between us in times of great need, it is because we have perhaps unwittingly erected it ourselves. God does not desire to separate himself from us even in the midst of our sin.

One of the ways in which we build such a barrier is to focus our whole attention and being on the material side of life. Whether our hangup is food, drink, clothing, money, power or other material pleasures, we stifle our spiritual selves when we fail to recognize that we are both flesh and spirit. It is not that God becomes angry with us for our material preoccupation, but that these "things" erect a barrier that tends to shut him out. Thus, Paul reminded the Romans that "all who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God" (Romans 8:14).

WHO IS TO CONDEMN?

Another way we build a barrier between ourselves and God is by failing to really accept his forgiving grace. Although in our minds we "know" that it is through God in Christ that we are freed from our guilt, we still may live as if we don't believe it. We act as though we are more powerful sinners than he is a Savior. So Paul reminds us in Romans, "It is God who justifies, who is to condemn?" (8:34). To live with unrelieved guilt is to actually reject the grace of God.

"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?" asks the Apostle (8:35). His answer: Nothing or no one! "For I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord" (8:38).

Unless we ourselves build the barrier.

Safety Campaign Launched By MD Highway Officials

Maryland highway safety officials launched a united campaign this month to reduce pedestrian accidents in the state.

Pedestrian deaths in 1984 were 131. Injuries amounted to 3,700. In Garrett County, State Police figures show two deaths and eight injuries.

Nationwide, pedestrian collisions with motor vehicles killed more than half a million Americans in the past half century, including 8,100 last year.

"Although total highway deaths have steadily declined in recent years, pedestrian fatalities have remained constant. One out of five fatal traffic casualties is a walker", said Cody L. Godman, director of operations for the Safety Council of Maryland, Inc., chapter of the National Safety Council.

The traffic division of the safety council is coordinating the safety drive with support from the State Police, State Highway Administration, AAA-Automobile Club of Maryland, Maryland Motor Truck Association, and traffic engineering departments from Baltimore City and five heavily populated counties, Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Howard, Montgomery and Prince Georges.

Total deaths on Maryland roads dropped significantly midway into the 1980's from nearly 800 at the start of the decade to a twenty year low of 650 last year, according to Godman.

However, pedestrian deaths settled into the 130 to 140 range annually. Injuries remain at the 3,600 to 3,800 level, including 3,761 in 1984.

According to Godman, four trends worry safety officials, including increased involvement of fatal victims 20 to 40 years old, night incidents, drunk pedestrians, and accidents on high speed roads.

Fifty-three, or 40 percent, of last year's fatal victims were 20 to 40 years of age. Fifty-five of the teens and adults killed were under the influence of alcohol, according to Godman. Eighty-seven, or two thirds, of pedestrian fatalities happened at night.

Roads posted at 55 miles per hour experienced 37 pedestrian deaths last year, according to Lt. Ray Cotton of the State Police. He said, "Most of the victims were clearly at fault."

Godman noted that, "Drivers and pedestrians share the blame equally, and both must work harder at protecting people on foot."

Godman's safety tips to motorists include the following: look for diamond shaped yellow and black signs that warn of pedestrian activity ahead; watch for school advance and school crossing sign; never pass a vehicle that is stopped for a crossing pedestrian; yield to pedestrians as well as vehicles when negotiating a right turn on red; and slow down when making a right turn on green, yielding to pedestrians who have the right-of-way.

Godman's pedestrian precautions include the following: be sure drivers yield before stepping off the curb onto the street; cross only at intersections; never cross against a red light and watch for turning vehicles when crossing with a green; obey pedestrian signal indicators; walk on sidewalks, not the roadway; walk only on the shoulder facing traffic when sidewalks aren't available; and avoid intoxication.

Safety measures for motorists with a disabled car include: steer the car completely off the road onto the shoulder; discharge all occupants from the right side of the vehicle; at night, turn on flashing hazard lights and interior dome light; and open the hood and tie a white cloth to the door handle as a distress signal for the police.

For further information about pedestrian safety, contact the Safety Council of Maryland in Baltimore at 298-4770; the Automobile Club of Maryland at 462-4000; the Maryland State Police, or the local police department.

Injury Prevention Grant Awarded To MIEMSS

The Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS) has received a $40,000 grant from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) to develop within the next year a comprehensive state plan for the prevention of injury. A committee chaired by Dr. R. Adams Cowley, director of MIEMSS, will review the data in injuries statewide. It is expected that the committee will list and rate the injuries in order to suggest prudent strategies for its plan. This is the first time such a plan will have been developed anywhere on a statewide basis. A committee report is expected in the summer of 1986.

Also serving on the committee as vice chairperson is Dr. Susan Baker from the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, as well as representatives from the Johns Hopkins Hospital, the state legislature, DHMH, professional and consumer advocate organizations.

It has long been recognized that injuries are the leading cause of death and disability in young people. Injuries kill more Americans between the ages of one and 34 than all diseases. In Maryland alone approximately 40,000 persons are hospitalized each year due to injury.

Once again Maryland will lead the way in dealing with injuries through MIEMSS. Dr. Cowley first opened the Shock Trauma Center in 1969. Then in 1973, the governor, by Executive Order, directed MIEMSS to develop and coordinate a statewide emergency medical service system. Now it has taken a lead to provide a comprehensive plan for prevention of injury for the citizens of Maryland.

C&P Telephone Notes Locations To Pay Bills

C&P Telephone Company of Maryland announced plans earlier this year to ask its customer bill payment agencies to convert to an improved electronic form of bill payment reporting. As a result, there are still more than 600 locations in Maryland where persons can pay their telephone bills in person after October 31, even though many agencies decided not to convert.

According to C&P spokesman Leroy Fisher, Garrett County customers can pay at First United National Bank and Trust Offices located at Barton (Lonaconing); Citizens Office, Westernport; Deep Creek Lake (McHenry); Friendsville; Grantsville; Mid-Towns Office, Oakland; 19 S. 2nd Street, Oakland, Thayer Center, Oakland; and Tri-Towns, Westernport.

"Of course, customers can also mail their payment to C&P in the company-provided envelope," said Fisher. Approximately 65% of C&P's customers currently mail their bills each month.

"We believe the electronic reporting system will substantially improve service to customers who pay their telephone bills at agency locations," Fisher explained. "Problems which occurred with manual reporting will now be eliminated." For example, the electronic reporting system enables C&P to consistently credit a customer's account within two business days. Using the manual reporting system, it could take as long as eight days for a payment to be recorded on C&P's records.

In addition to being faster, the electronic system is more accurate and less expensive to administer. It will reduce the chances for error and improve overall service to C&P's customers, according to Fisher.

Beginning with the November telephone bills all C&P customers will receive an insert which lists all payment agencies which continue to accept payments.

Commission Notes New High Blood Pressure Guidelines

The Maryland High Blood Pressure Commission has announced its endorsement of new guidelines for high blood pressure treatment which differ considerably from previous blood pressure therapy recommendations.

The Commission recommends that persons 18 years of age and older with an average blood pressure (three measurements at each sitting) of 140/90 or greater should be referred to a physician for diagnosis and treatment of high blood pressure. The previous minimum reading for referral was 150/90.

The medical care community—physicians, nurses, pharmacists, dentists, optometrists and other health professionals—is urged by the Commission to use the new standard in handling referrals and in diagnosing and treating high blood pressure.

Also outlined in a new card, Marylland Standards for the Referral of Persons with Elevated Blood Pressure to a Source of Medical Care, are recommendations that include modifications and recommendations for detecting and evaluting high blood pressure, a change in rationale for treating mild hypertension, revision in the step-care approach to therapy, use of non-pharmacologic therapies, management in special groups and education for control and prevention.

The card can be obtained from the Maryland High Blood Pressure Commission, 201 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Insurance Rate Guide Published

Maryland's Insurance Commissioner Edward J. Muhl has published a Consumer Rate Guide of automobile and homeowner policies for the companies who write the majority of personal lines insurance coverages in the State of Maryland.

Commissioner Muhl advised that this is not an all inclusive list as there are a number of licensed companies that are not referenced in the rate guide.

"It is important that the consumer shop around for a company which can best fill their individual insurance needs. By shopping around, our citizens can get the most for their insurance dollar," Muhl said.

The Commissioner indicated that rates and benefits offered vary considerably from company to company. He cited an example of homeowners rates in Baltimore City for a frame dwelling valued at $48,000, the premium charge ranged from $98 a year to $223 a year.

The free guides are available in the Commissioner's office at 501 St. Paul Place, (7th floor), Baltimore, MD 21202 or will be mailed to persons calling 1-800-492-6116.

Is your home protected by smoke detectors? Every home should be. That's a flat-out blanket statement, but we stand behind it all the way.

Most fatal home fires start early in the morning, when the family is asleep. And, without a smoke detector, you're 2½ times more likely to be killed in a home fire.

Detectors are low in cost, and low in maintenance worries. Most will beep at you to let you know that the battery—also low cost—needs replacing.

It's wisest to install several smoke detectors; at least one on each level, and near the entrance to bedrooms. Place detectors high on the wall or on the ceiling, at least 12 inches away from where they join.

The final argument: a smoke detector will not only save your life, it will save on insurance premiums. Most companies offer a discount for a fire alert installation.

Your family's protection is our concern. For all your insurance needs, see the experts at

Gas Customers Urged To Utilize Assistance Plans

Columbia Gas of Maryland is urging customers facing hardship in paying their gas bills to visit the gas company's offices without delay to learn about the Maryland Energy Assistance Program (MEAP) and to work out winter payments with Columbia's professional staff.

"We recognize that some customers have legitimate difficulty paying their bills," said Thomas Lindsey Jr. Columbia's Cumberland manager. "We want customers to know about the assistance for which they may apply. We will work with customers to use those resources in making payment arrangements to ensure that customers will have no interruption in their gas service this winter."

Columbia can supply customers with information on the aid program and advise customers where to make application, Lindsey explained. "Our primary objective is to see that customers take advantage of the assistance that is available, and to work with them on payment plans they can handle," Lindsey said.

He pointed out that some Columbia customers who were apparently eligible for federal funds in paying their heating bills did not participate last winter.

"Our total focus is on doing whatever is possible to continue serving all customers," he said.

Lindsey said many customers who are not eligible for assistance programs also have accumulated large back bills, and he urged them to come into the nearest gas company office as soon as possible to work out payment plans to get service restored or to ensure continuation during the winter months.

Assistance programs include:

•The Maryland Energy Assistance Program (MEAP), which is financed by federal funds, pays a portion of eligible customers' heating bills. Eligibility is based on household income. To qualify for MEAP, household income must not exceed 150 percent of the federal poverty level ($15,975 for a family of four).

•The Winter Heating Protection Plan (WHPP), which permits income-eligible customers to pay, November through March, a percentage of the current month's bill. Those whose income ranges up to 50 percent of the federal poverty level may pay the greater of $22 or 20 percent of the current heating bill. Those whose income is between 50 and 100 percent of the federal poverty level may pay the greater of $30 or 25 percent of the current bill. Those with income between 101 percent and 150 percent of the federal poverty level may pay the greater of $38 or 30 percent of the curent bill.

During the remainder of the year, WHPP participants must take part in a payment plan which should eliminate any continuing arrearage before the new winter season begins.

"We encourage all customers with payment problems to contact Columbia offices to learn about the assistance progams and to work out payment arrangements," Lindsey said. "We want to do everything possible to see that our customers maintain service this winter."

White U.M. Church Selected For Cover Of SCS Publication

The youth class of the White United Methodist Church was notified recently that a photograph of their church was selected by the Union Gospel Press Division to be used on the cover of the summer quarter of their Sunday School literature.

The church underwent major repairs the summer of 1984 in the form of new siding, newly painted basement walls and a new front entrance.

Upon completion of the renovation, the class of Mrs. Janet E. Tichnell submitted a photograph of the church to the Union Gospel Press Division. One year later, the class was surprised to find that their picture had been selected. They received three press runs of the picture along with a letter of congratulations.

Church News Update

Recently the congregation traveled to Blackwater Falls to hold church services and a picnic there. They later toured the Caanan Valley area.

Children of the Burlington Home were guests of the South Garrett Parish for the fall booth festival and program held at the White Church recently.

A charge conference will be held at the Crellin United Methodist Church on November 3, at 4 p.m.

Garrett County District Court Cases Noted

In Garrett County District Court proceedings last week, Judge Jack Turney found Eugene W. Shiflett, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, to be guilty of a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Shiflett was sentenced to 12 months in the Garrett County Jail. The judge then suspended 329 days of the sentence, with credit for time served, and placed Shiflett on 12 months supervised probation.

The charge was filed by Tfc. R.C. Resh, of the Maryland State Police, following a March 30 incident in Mtn. Lake Park when Shiflett took a van from Fitzwater's Furniture without permission.

A charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon was not prosecuted by the court in exchange for a plea of guilty to the first charge.

Shiflett was represented by Robert W. Watson, an Oakland attorney.

The judge found Mary C. Nirkirk, 44, Oakland, to be guilty of hindering a police arrest.

Nirkirk was sentenced to 89 days in the Garrett County Jail. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing Nirkirk on 18 months supervised probation.

Nirkirk was found to be not guilty of charges of disorderly conduct and destruction of property.

The charges were filed by Deputy William C. Thomas, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, following a July 28 incident.

Nirkirk's attorney was John R. Toston, public defender.

In another court case, Frederick L. Paugh, 34, was found guilty of resisting arrest.

The judge sentenced Paugh to 18 months, then suspended the sentence, placing him on 24 months supervised probation.

Paugh was found not guilty of charges of disorderly conduct and destruction of property.

The charges were filed by Deputy P.J. Pratt, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, following a July 28 incident.

Paugh was represented by Toston.

The judge ordered a presentence investigation for Thomas R. Bowers, 19, Deer Park, after finding him guilty of a charge of battery.

The charge was filed by Carolyn Simmons, Mtn. Lake Park, after a September 30 incident there.

Bowers' attorney was Henry R. Adams, an Oakland attorney.

The judge granted probation before judgment for Ronald P. Buckingham, 25, Mtn. Lake Park.

Buckingham faced a charge of battery filed by James M. Murray, Oakland, following a July 28 incident.

Buckingham was represented by Watson.

The judge also granted probation before judgment for Stephen R. Wiley, 30, Grantsville, who faced a battery charge filed by Susan Y. Wiley, also of Grantsville, following a September 29 incident.

Placed on the stet docket were charges filed against Curtis D. Keller, 26, Terra Alta, W.Va.

Keller faced a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, six battery charges, three charges of malicious destruction of the property of another, and three charges of operating a motor vehicle in a reckless manner.

The charges were filed by Glenn E. Cuppett, Oakland, following a September 22 incident.

A case placed on the stet docket, although not immediateely prosecuted, can be brought to trial if the state so desires.

Charges of assault and malicious destruction of the property of another filed against Russel L. Welch, 45, Oakland, were not prosecuted by the court because the complainant, Mike Stemple, Oakland, failed to appear for the case.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Lucy's still on the ball with TV drama

By Marc Minnelli

Lucy. The name is known to people in more than 102 countries. And the face — well, if Lucille Ball's face isn't known, her carrot-orange hair and scatter-brained antics certainly are. Everyone loves Lucy, and it's no wonder.

Lucille Ball

Since it debuted on CBS on Oct. 15, 1951, "I Love Lucy" has become more than a classic television sitcom. The series has canonized Lucy as the saint of suburban sitcom. The impressions of Lucy Ricardo locked in a meat freezer or trying to outsmart Harpo Marx are imbedded in our minds forever. Dissect a die-hard Lucy devotee, and you'll find someone who can recall Ethel and Fred Mertz's home address faster than his own name.

This week, the Queen of Comedy takes a serious turn. On Tuesday, Nov. 5, Lucy stars as a shopping bag lady in "Stone Pillow," a made-for-TV movie airing on CBS.

Lucy, though agile and quite limber (she pranced around the room several times throughout the interview), recently turned 74 years old. Why doesn't she simply rest on her laurels?

The husky laugh resounds through her living room. "I wanted to go back to work," she says, "because I like to work. The old clan is gone — I can't ever top what I did — but I wanted to do something different.

"I had no idea what I wanted to do," the comedian adds, "until I saw my first shopping bag lady in New York. When I started passing her and not giving a second look, I got worried that something was wrong with me. The lady had become part of the scenery, and I wasn't caring. So when CBS called and asked me if I was interested in working, I suggested a film about one of those poor ladies."

Lucy hopes her performance in "Stone Pillow" will force people to face the plight of bag people. "Care for the homeless: That's what I want to get across," Lucy says. "People who thought they were set for life lose their apartments. They are forced onto the streets. And when you have no address, you might as well be dead."

Miss Slutsky finds commercial success

By Frank Lovece

(Intro: "Mission: Impossible" theme music)

Laura Slutsky

"Good evening, Laura Slutsky. Your mission, should you decide to accept it, is to find an old-fashioned volunteer fire department for a 'real people' TV commercial. We need a brass pole, a spotted dog, at least one woman firefighter and a fire chief with a deep voice. The firefighters have to catch colds between January 1 and mid-March, and some of them have to switch to Alka-Seltzer Plus. No coaching. Oh, and make sure there's snow on the ground."

This was one of Slutsky's easier assignments — firehouses tend to stay put. But if she had to, the queen of commercials casting could probably track down the Maltese Falcon. The biggest ad agencies have Slutsky's People-Finders company hunting for real folks named Honda and Ford who drive Subarus, burly construction workers who like candy and truckers with no visible tattoos and the sniffles.

"I don't like the term 'real people,'" the highly animated Miss Slutsky contends. "Actors are real people, too. I find typical consumers who'll talk about products they really use. On the other hand," she adds, "What's typical? Typical people in New York aren't like typical people in Maine. Let's just say I find you."

Finding is exactly what the 36-year-old has been doing for more than a decade. She looks in shopping malls, on farms, in New Jersey truck stops. For legal and ethical reasons, she doesn't let on she's casting commercials. "I just say it's market research," she explains, "which it is."

Miss Slutsky also can't coach or ask leading questions. After screening-out people and collecting a group that fits the advertiser's needs, she generally does hidden-camera interviews. When she gets what she's looking for, she reveals her secret to those who haven't already guessed, and has them sign a release. Most agencies pay people in commercials between $200 and $20,000, depending on if, and how long, a commercial runs.

"The fabulous thing about this job," Miss Slutsky says, "is that people seem to like me. They take me in like an old friend. You meet a lot of people and learn about society."

What has she learned? Miss Slutsky pauses. "Most people," she says, "are basically good. They just get screwed up along the way. There's a lot," she sighs, "of hate out there."

Natassja may star as Ingrid in CBS special

By Cindy Adams

The life of actress Ingrid Bergman may soon be a CBS miniseries. Up for the lead of the legendary actress: Nastassja Kinski. The script will be based on Miss Bergman's autobiography, "Ingrid Bergman: My Story," and talks are underway with the late actress's estate. Robert Halmi ("Izzy & Moe") will produce.

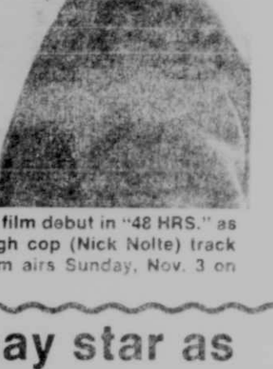
Ingrid Bergman



I asked Miss Bergman's daughter, New York theater critic Pia Lindstrom, what she thought of Halmi's casting choice.

"Nastassja looks very much the way mom did when mom was young," said Pia. "Nastassja's ravishing, but I wonder if she can really age. Can she look 67? Can she be the woman who plays Golda Meir? I don't know. Maybe they'll need two actresses, one to play the older Ingrid Bergman."

Will Pia serve as the film's consultant? "No," she said. "But I did meet with Halmi, and he said we'll discuss things as they progressed."

Frank Stallone doesn't have a rocky future. The songwriter-singer has turned actor. He stars in "Pink Chiquitas," a sci-fi comedy that was filmed in Toronto. ... Richard Dreyfuss has dibs on the lead in the West Coast production of the off-Broadway play about AIDS, "The Normal Heart."

George Burns donated $1 million in cash for a four-bed intensive care unit in the Woodland Hills, Calif. Motion Picture Home. The average resident is 82. Burns is 89. ...

Nastassja Kinski

Bill Cosby bought two tickets to the Broadway opening of "The Iceman Cometh." The seats remained empty. Cos didn't cometh.

Miss Evans works out in her dressing room

By Renee Ross

Andrea Evans believes that good manners help her stay physically fit. The actress, who plays Tina Clayton on "One Life to Live," explains: "I'm so busy on the show that the only time I have to exercise is during lunch hour.

Andrea Evans

"A trainer works with me in my dressing room, and we do a 45-minute session that includes aerobics and free weights. I schedule the workouts days in advance. I'm polite," the actress adds, "and I don't want to inconvenience my trainer by canceling all the time. This forces me to exercise!"

The 5-foot-3, 100-pound actress, who soap fans will also recognize from her former role as Patty Williams in "The Young and the Restless," says that a recent illness inspired her to change her lifestyle and eating habits.

"I was quite sick and spent a week in the hospital," Miss Evans recalls. "My doctor said one reason I got so ill was because of the lengthy hours I was working, combined with not taking care of myself. It scared me into changing. As a result, I've tried to improve my diet and I feel 100 percent better."

Yet the 25-year-old actress confesses she occasionally goes off her diet. "I sometimes splurge at breakfast because there are things like bagels on the set," she says. "But I try to eat a nutritious lunch and dinner. I realize I'm not perfect; I occasionally eat something awful. I don't think a person should totally deprive themself. A pig-out now and then," she adds, "is good for the soul!"

Hot studio lights pose a constant threat to Miss Evans's hair and skin. "The makeup people are constantly fixing me with powder, makeup and hairspray," she says. "I wear soft contact lenses, and they get dirty and wear out every three months instead of lasting at least a year as they should.

"My eye doctor thinks it's linked to all the makeup I wear," the actress adds, "because no matter how carefully I close my eyes when they apply the makeup, some of it is going to get in."

Miss Evans smiles. "I feel like I have to keep working," she adds, "to support my contact lenses!"

We still love Lucy, even when she turns serious. Lucille Ball makes her dramatic television debut when she stars as a shopping bag lady in "Stone Pillow," a made-for-TV movie airing Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Miss Alley decorates Civil War miniseries

By Gregory Garver

HOLLYWOOD — When Kirstie Alley signed to appear in the small-screen adaptation of John Jakes' novel "North and South," she had no idea the miniseries would take up a year of her life. The sprawling, 12-hour miniseries, which ABC is billing as "the television event of the year," airs Sunday, Nov. 3; Tuesday, Nov. 5; Wednesday, Nov. 6; Thursday, Nov. 7; Saturday, Nov. 9 and Sunday, Nov. 10 on ABC.

Kirstie Alley

Miss Alley, who plays outspoken abolitionist Virgilia Hazard in the Civil War saga, says she spent six months filming "North and South." Since the actress is recreating her role for "North and South, Book II," she anticipates that the second 12 hours will also take six months to film — which means that before Miss Alley is finished with the entire production, she will have devoted a year of her life to the project.

The actress says she might have lost her enthusiasm for her role midway through the project, but "I'm playing a lady who's not a boring type.

"She's in the abolitionist movement," adds Miss Alley, "but she's more than just an activist. She's a zealot. She runs the gamut of emotions every five minutes, and she's exciting to play."

Since it took a long time for her to find excitement in her life, the actress now cherishes the emotion. Born and raised in Wichita, Kan., Miss Alley harbored a yen to act, but felt it was "totally impossible."

So she became an interior decorator instead, and had a modestly successful career in her hometown. Then, one day, Miss Alley realized she was not satisfied, so she chucked her career, boyfriend and family, jumped into her car, and drove west.

Along the way, Miss Alley stopped to visit friends. By the time she arrived in California, she was virtually penniless. She became a game show contestant, winning $6,000 on "The Match Game."

The money tided her over until she resumed her decorating career. She was in the middle of decorating Karen Black's house when Miss Alley auditioned for a part in the movie, "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan," and won it.

"Karen's house is probably still only half done," Miss Alley says with a laugh. "Or maybe less. She's a terror."

Miss McKinsey's past settles family fight

By Kimberly Redmond

My mom and I have been fighting over Beverlee McKinsey for a long time. I insist the actress, who portrays Baroness Alexandra (Alex) Von Halkein on "The Guiding Light," has also been on other soaps. Mom thinks I'm wrong. — B.J., Lac du Flambeau, Wis.

Beverlee McKinsey

Sorry, Mom, but the fight's over! Miss McKinsey has starred as Iris Carrington Bancroft on "Another World." The character was later spun off and appeared on "Texas." The actress has also been seen as Julie Richards on the defunct soap, "Love is a Many Splendored Thing."

I used to love Don Diamont, the actor who portrayed Carlo Forenza on "Days of Our Lives." Since his character was written off the NBC soap, I've been wondering what's happened to him. — M.F., Fall River, Mass.

Perfect timing, M.F.! Diamont is now flexing his pecs on the CBS soap, "The Young and the Restless." He plays Brad Carlton, the Abbott family's gardener and target of Jill Abbott's sexual fantasies.

Why did Ava Lazar leave "Santa Barbara"? I loved her as Santana Andrade, and now I miss her. — F.P., Oshkosh, Wis.

The powers-that-be decided that Miss Lazar's portrayal of Santana wasn't to their liking, so the actress was let go. The second actress to play Santana was Margaret Michaels, who has also been dropped from the role, in favor of yet another Santana, portrayed by daytime newcomer, Gina Gallego. It seems this part is a hard one to cast!

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I'm a big fan of "The Love Boat." I think Ted McGinley, the actor who plays Ace, the ship's photographer, is cute. What can you tell me about him? — A.W., Painesville, Ohio

Ted McGinley

McGinley was born in Newport Beach, Calif., on May 30. He was a member of the Newport Harbor High School water polo team, and his ability won him an athletic scholarship to the University of California. At USC, he became captain of the water polo squad and a member of the U.S. National Junior Team.

Then, during his junior year, McGinley discovered acting. He made his acting debut in the 1979 ABC film "Valentine." The made-for-TV movie starred Jack Albertson, who encouraged McGinley to move to New York and study acting.

After just a few months in Manhattan, McGinley auditioned for a nationwide ABC talent search, and won the role of Roger Phillips on "Happy Days."

The actor, who lives in Los Angeles, made his stage debut in a Kansas City production of "6 Rms Rv Vu." He has also been seen in the film "Revenge of the Nerds."

Can you give me Michael Landon's address? I would like to send him a letter, thanking him for all the hours of wonderful viewing pleasure he's given me. — M.S. Bruan, Clearwater, Fla.

Another I-love-Michael-Landon letter! You're not alone in liking his shows. Every week, it seems I receive more and more letters praising the star of "Highway to Heaven." Address your letters to the actor c/o Michael Landon Productions, 10202 West Washington Blvd., Culver City, CA 90230. Good luck!

DAR Chapter Has Presentation By Dr. Friend

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the home of Mrs. Randall Kahl on October 21 with 20 members and four guests present. After the opening ritual led by Regent Mrs. Richard Sherwood and prayer by Chaplain Mrs. Asa Lewis, Dr. Alvin Friend, assisted by his wife, Ann, presented a slide program on a patriotic theme: "Friend Family for American Independence".

Dr. Friend spoke of the pleasure derived from working on one's lineage, the privileges and opportunities in America, and of the important roles ancestors have played "in making our country the great nation it is today."

Dr. Friend's slide presentation pictured the genealogical charts, showing the first five generations of Friends in America. The first permanent white settler in what is now Garrett County was John Friend, Sr., who came with his family from Virginia and settled along the Youghiogheny River near Friendsville. He is buried in the Friend Cemetery at Friendsville, the town which bears his name.

Other slides showed a replica of "the old home place" in Swanton. This model was constructed to scale by Sherman Friend, a cousin of Dr. Friend's. It was on display at the Friend Association Meeting in August, 1984, at the Holiday Inn at Grantsville.

The Friend Association was chartered by the United States Government in the Bicentennial year - 1976 - as a historical and genealogical organization. The headquarters of this association are now in Friendsville, and includes a library and museum.

Regent Sherwood presented Dr. Friend with a gift. New member Barbara Lee was welcomed, and guests Charlotte Carr and Elsie McQuire were introduced. There was a discussion about the Garrett County cemetery book, and workers were enlisted to help with the indexing. It is hoped it will soon be completed and available to the public.

Mrs. Robert Shaffer, Mrs. Charles Briner and Mrs. Barbara Lee were appointed to a committee to work on suggestions for a fund-raising project.

Veterans' Day, November 11, will be observed at the two local nursing homes by DAR members who will place a small American flag on each tray.

The advisability of taking pre-publication orders for the cemetery book was discussed, but no definite decision was made.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs, Kahl, assisted by co-hosstesses Mrs. Edward Kovach, Mrs. Thomas Browning, Mrs. Paul Calderwood and Mrs. Lindsay Gonder, served refreshments.

The group will meet on November 18 at the home of Mrs. Hugh Echard, with Mrs. Eugene Nordeck, Mrs. Robert Lohr, Mrs. Robert Railey, and Mrs. Leo Helbig as co-hostesses.

"THAT ONE'S MY LAWNMOWER WARRANTY. I PUT IT UP TO SEE IF ANYONE REALLY NOTICES."

The concert continues with a blues from the Ellington band, "Things Ain't What They Used To Be." Solos are by Karin Thompson, tenor saxophone; Jim Roderick, guitar; and Nick Crowder, clarinet. The first half ends with Cole Porter's "Anything Goes." Bill Mott, of Oakland, trumpet; Erick Neumann, trombone, and Sharon Thompson, drums, will have solos.

The classic Count Bassie version of "All of Me" features pianist Kevin Deford to begin the second half of the concert. Crystal Clulee is featured next with an alto saxophone ballad, "The Lady In The Black Dress."

Ellen Grolman, director of the FSC Orchestra and string specialist for the department of music, joins the Jazz Ensemble director, Jon Bauman, and his fluegelhorn for the next selection, "Keep On Pumpin'."

Postal Workers To Help Locate Missing Children

The U. S. Postal Service, in conjunction with the National Association of Letter Carriers, announced a coordinated, voluntary effort to locate missing children.

A statement of support for the "Child Alert" program was signed by Postmaster General Paul N. Carlin, National Association of Letter Carriers President Vincent R. Sombrotto, and Jan Howell, Executive Director of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children.

In remarks before the signing ceremony, Carlin noted that there are some 220,000 city letter carriers nationwide. "In neighboring and on city streets, those carriers come into contact with millions of our nation's children on a daily basis," said Carlin, adding, "We have every reason to hope that they can play a significant role in locating missing children."

Participation by letter carriers is strictly voluntary. Said union President Sombrotto, "In teaming up with the Postal Service and its membership are again demonstrating their community spirit and their deep concern for the people they serve."

Six photographs of missing children will be published each month in Postal Service and union publications. Pictures published in the Postal Bulletin will be posted in post office lobbies nationwide for public viewing. Those photographs printed in union publications will remind carriers to be on the lookout for missing children as they make deliveries to over 72 million addresses every business day.

"We don't expect carriers to memorize pictures of missing children," said Howell, "but it is quite posible that a letter carrier will recognize a child seen earlier on their route."

"Child Alert" is similar to the highly successful "Carrier Alert" program, under which letter carriers look out for elderly or handicapped people on their routes. The three-year old "Carrier Alert" program also is jointly sponsored by the Postal Service and the letter carriers' union.

The latest edition of Postal Life, a publication for all postal employees, carries an article and photographs of 60 missing children supplied by the National Center. One of these 60 is Cherrie Ann Mahan, the daughter of a Pittsburgh, Pa., postal employee.

Mosleys Featured In United Nations Special Concert

A commemorative concert in a salute to the 40th anniversary of the United Nations, and on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the visit of Pope Paul VI to the United Nations, was presented by the Holy Family Church Society of the United Nations Community on Friday, October 4, in New York City.

Featured in the concert were the American Boychoir from Princeton, N.J., America's foremost boychoir; Robert Mosley, soon to appear in the title role of "Porgy and Bess" at the Metropolitan Opera, along with his accompanist and wife, Rita Shrout Mosley; formerly of Mtn. Lake Park, and Duncan Stearns, concert pianist and recent winner of the Juillard School's Samaroff Award and recent William Schuman Award. Speakers included H.E. Harley S.L. Moseley, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary, Permanent Representative of Barbados to the United Nations; Bishop Edward M. Egan, Secretary of Education, Archdiocese of New York; United Nations Representative Robert Muller, Assistant Secretary-General; and Msgr William J. McMahon, pastor Holy Family Church, the United Nations Parish.

Moseley is involved in a major international program to create awareness, concerns and help for crippled children. Musical selections for the concert, "Let There Be Peace on Earth", "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "No Man Is An Island" were chosen to reflect this concern. The finale "One World", music and lyrics by Rita Mosley, arrangement by Kay Cameron, was writtern especially for Mosley and the American Boychoir and is dedicated to the 40th Anniversary of the United Nations. A copy of the song is to be placed in the United Nations Archives. It is hoped that it will become the theme song of the Global Health Initiative and its International Campaign for crippled children.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosley will be doing a series of performances and benefits in conjunction with the Urban Health Institute, an organization committed to international health. The next scheduled concert will be at Saint Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, on December 19, 1985.

Rita is the daughter of Marie Shrout, Oakland, and C.E. Shrout, Mtn. Lake Park.

Comfort Inns Helping Locate Missing Children

Quality Inns International has developed a new billboard program to help locate missing children. Partners in the effort include AT&T, The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Outdoor Advertising Association of America. Initially, more than 5,000 boards will be posted coast to coast, marking the first time the photo of one child has appeared across the country.

According to Cindy Sweene, general manager of the Comfort Inn in Frostburg, a photograph of Rima Traxler, missing from her Longview, Washington home since May 15, 1985 will be posted on more than 3,000 billboards throughout the U.S. as part of this joint effort.

Anyone having information about these children should call the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children through a lobby phone at any Comfort Inn, Quality Inn or Quality Royale or by dialing 1-800-843-5678.

Kathy Lynn Carrico, of the Pharmacy Department, has been chosen as Employee of the Month at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A native Garrett Countian, Mrs. Carrico began her employment in October of 1977 in the Medical Records Department. She transferred to the Pharmacy Department as a pharmacy technician in 1980 and continues to learn I.V. preparation under the direction of Joanne Kozier, P.D.

Kathy is always pleasant and cooperative and goes out ofher way to help everyone.

Mrs. Carrico lives in Deer Park with her husband, Ralph, and their daughters, Melissa and Amy. She enjoys swimming, reading, latch hook crafts, attending Alabama concerts, and watch the Washington Redskins.

In commenting on her position at the hospital, Kathy stated, "Working in Pharmacy is very interesting and I learn something new every day. I really enjoy my job and my two terrific bosses. Becoming Employee of the Month is quite an honor and it's terrific being part of a hardworking, dedicated health care team."

SHOULD THE BODY BE VIEWED?

Some people have strong views on this question and these should be respected. Others have no firm commitment one way or the other, and would answer such a question on the basis of circumstances. For these people, we would offer the following advice, based on many years of experience.

If the body can be made viewable, it should be viewed. It serves a number of very helpful and constructive purposes. In cases where the decedent has been living away from home, or confined to a distant medical institution, viewing can provide the confirmation that death has occurred.

It provides a way to recall the loved one as he or she should be remembered—free of the evidence of pain, wasting, or injury. Viewing is likewise considered therapeutic for people. It is especially helpful for a child who has experienced the death of one loved. Instead of relying on imagination, the child can begin to comprehend the real meaning death.

WHICH TITLE FOR MARRIEDS?

When you buy a new home, you'll have to decide what form of ownership you'll want. The most common way for husbands and wives to own property is by joint ownership, either in the form of joint tenancy with the right ownership or tenancy by the entirety.

Under either form, if one spouse dies, the other joint owner becomes sole owner of the property. This happens automatically, by passing probate, avoiding delays and usually trimming the cost of settling the estate.

The two kinds of joint ownership differ in some respects, and many states don't recognize tenancies by the entirety. You may want to have your lawyer's advice before you take title. He will probably point out some restrictions, such as one spouse not being able to dispose of the property held as tenants by the entirety without the other's consent. If you live in a community property state, state law will affect the form of property ownership you use.

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In August

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate dropped slightly again, from 4.4 percent in July to 4.3 percent in August, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Employment and Training. The lowest unemployment rate since May 1974, this month's rate is also the lowest rate for an August since 1973.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate fell from 9.2 percent in July to 8.5 percent in August. The 1984 August rate was 10.1 percent.

Between July and August, Maryland's civilian labor force decreased by an estimated 15,122 persons to total 2,290,500 as students and summer workers left the labor market. This is the first decrease in the labor force since April 1985. The number of persons employed declined also by an estimated 10,169 persons for a total of 2,193,074. The number of unemployed persons declined by 4,953 to reach 97,426, the lowest since May 1976 and substantially below the unemployment peak reached in January 1982 of 199,951 persons.

Over the year, the labor force expanded by an estimated 32,937 persons. Employment increased by 48,852, outnumbering the year's drop in unemployment of 15,915 persons.

Of the state's total unemployed, an estimated 33 percent received unemployment insurance benefits in August.

During August, the end of summer jobs and between semester idling of school personnel pulled down the employment count of local government. Other seasonal layoffs were experienced in eating and drinking places, membership organizations and federal government while strike activity hit nonelectrical machinery manufacturing. Hiring was noted in construction, electric and electronic equipment manufacturing and business services.

The national unemployment rate dropped significantly from 7.4 in July to 6.9 percent in August. In July, only Massachusetts, at 4.3 percent, had an unemployment rate lower than Maryland's. Unemployment among black persons, nationally, dropped from 16.0 percent in July to 14.3 percent in August. In Maryland, the unemployment rate among black persons, reported annually, was 9.3 percent in 1984.

In the Balitmore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate was down to 5.0 percent from July's 5.3 percent. Baltimore City's unemployment rate decreased from 6.8 to 6.4 percent.

Unemployment in Maryland's suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area dropped from 2.9 percent in July to 2.8 percent in August.

Western Maryland's unemployment rate fell considerably from 7.8 percent in July to 6.8 percent in August with a notable decline from 7.4 to 6.2 percent in Washington County.

In the balance of state, unemployment increased slightly from 5.7 to 5.8 percent. Temporary layoffs in Delaware's automobile plants caused Cecil County's rate to jump from 4.9 to 7.0 percent. However, sizable declines in unemployment were seen in Kent County, dropping from 6.4 to 5.4 percent and Somerset County, dropping from 11.8 to 10.1 percent.

Statewide, during August, Maryland's unemployment rates ranged from 2.5 percent in Charles, Frederick and Montgomery counties to 10.1 percent in Somerset County.

Scholarship Board Offering Funds To Potential Teachers

Applications will shortly be accepted by the Maryland State Scholarship Board for grants to persons interested in certifying as teachers in subject fields where there is a shortage of qualified teachers.

Financial need is not a requirement; applicants must have and maintain a cumulative grade average of at least 3.0. Recipients must be Maryland residents and agree to teach in a Maryland public school 1½ years for each year of aid.

Applications will be accepted from November 1 until December 9, 1985, for awards beginning in September 1986.

Undergraduates can obtain applications from the financial aid office of their college. Current public school teachers should call the central office of the school system that employs them. Others should call the State Scholarship Board at (301) 659-6420.

Energy Overcharge Funds Go To Local Projects

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says checks totaling $659,899 will soon be on their way to state and local government agencies to help with energy saving measures such as improved highway traffic signal coordination and home weatherization.

The funds are the state's share of a federal government settlement with Amoco and Belridge oil companies for energy overcharges. Under the terms of settlements being negotiated with oil companies and other energy producers, the states receive a portion of the restitution to be used in federally approved energy conservation projects.

"The Board of Trustees of the Energy Overcharge Restitution Trust Fund, of which I am chairman, recommended seven projects for approval by the United States Department of Energy, following two public hearings and other meetings," Goldstein said. "The federal government approved our recommendations and the checks will be sent to the agencies administering the programs by November 9, 1985.

Goldstein noted that two of the projects involve traffic signal coordination, one helps to fund the purchase of vans for transporting the handicapped and elderly citizens and four projects assist with home energy conservation.

"These are the first projects funded through the Energy Overcharge Restitution Trust Fund," he said. "Additional funds will continue to become available as settlements are reached with other energy producers."

The projects to receive funds include:

-$101,885.19 for statewide traffic signal synchronization at 72 major traffic signal systems maintained by the State Highway Administration. Federal highway studies indicate a 12.5 percent fuel savings can result from this kind of synchronization.

-$142,639.25 for a time based coordinator for improved traffic signal synchronization in Baltimore City. An analysis of the intersections targeted for this program shows that one million trips per day are made through them collectively. Recent experiences in other cities indicates that, in traffic situations of this magnitude, energy savings can amount to 62 billion BTUs per year.

-$203,770.38 to supplement funding for an existing program administered by the Mass Transit Administration of the Department of Transportation that provides non-profit groups with 80% of the cost of vans modified for the transportation of handicapped or elderly citizens.

-$73,865.74 in additional funding for the Low Income Residential Weatherization program, operated by the Maryland Department of Human Resources, which provides for the installation of weatherization materials in low income households, saving as much as 20% in winter fuel consumption per household.

-$49,312.43 to provide instruction to those households receiving energy assistance grants on the installation of their low cost energy conservation kits. The instruction is to be provided by the Maryland Energy Office of the Department of Natural Resouces.

-$50,942.59 to provide hands-on seminars in the installation of low cost/no cost energy conservation materials. The Maryland Energy Office will target low and moderate income households that generally are just above the poverty guidelines and therefore are not eligible for weatherization and public assistance programs, but who are severely burdened by escalating home energy costs.

-$50,942.59 for the modification of old, inefficient oil burning furnaces with more efficient models that can save 23% on a winter's heating bill. The eligibility requirements of this program, to be administered by the Department of Human Resources in cooperation with local non-profit agencies, are the same as those for low income weatherization assistance.

DHMH Issues Measles Warning

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene urges parents of children 15 months and older to have their children vaccinated against measles.

Feng-Ying Lin, M.D., chief of the Department's Clinical Epidemiology Division, said that the number of measles cases in the state has risen dramatically to 108 so far this year, compared to 22 cases for all of 1984.

Of the 1985 cases, 95 were reported from Prince George's County, with most recent cases occurring mainly in the area near the District of Columbia line.

"I urge parents of preschool age children, especially those attending any type of day care center, to go to a private physician or the local health department and get their children immunized against measles," Dr. Lin declared.

The state health department epidemiologist said that measles has been particularly prevalent in Prince George's in the past four months and does not seem to be abating.

Measles, a highly contagious disease, usually begins with a few days of cold-like symptoms, such as a running nose, inflammation of the eyes, cough and high fever, followed by the development of a rash.

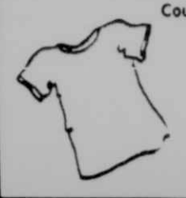
"If you suspect that your child has measles, call your physician, health department or hospital first to alert them to the possibility that he or she has measles," Dr. Lin warned.

"By limiting the number of persons who come into contact with a case of measles, the possibility of additional cases can be reduced significantly," she said.

Registration Slated At Frostburg State

Frostburg State College has announced that pre-registration for continuing students for the spring 1986 semester will be conducted November 4-15 at the Registrar's Office. Pre-registration materials will be distributed to the dormitory mailroom for Resident Hall students, and off-campus students will receive their packets at the Registrar's Office, weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Deadline date for submitting the course request card is Friday, November 15, and all students are required to have their advisors signed approval on their course request card.



Continuing students who do not submit course request cards by November 15 will not be permitted to register until Wednesday, January 15, 1986, the first day of classes. Students who are undecided about returning for the spring 1986 semester should pre-register and notify the Registrar's Office as soon as possible after a withdrawal decision has been made.

Health Systems Governing Body Meets October 16

The Governing Body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland met on October 16, at the Silver Tree Inn, Deep Creek Lake. James E. Cuppett, chairman, presided.

Luther E. Phillips, co-chairman of the Management Committee, reported on committee activities. The Governing Body approved the financial statement for September 1985, the Annual Audit, and the job descriptions for three professional positions, with authorization to the executive director to advertise for the coordinator position.

Dr. Leslie R. Miles, Plan Development Committee chairman, gave the committee report. The Governing Body approved the Committee's comments on the Acute Psychiatric Care Bed Need Methodology, and the elimination of several points in the allocation plan because they were repetitious of the State Health Plan. A significant change in the psychiatric allocation plan on travel distance between services will allow for the separate development of these services in Garrett, Frederick, and Washington counties. Currently, these jurisdictions do not have licensed acute care psychiatric beds.

Kery C. Hummel, executive director, announced that a public hearing will be held on this evening, October 24, 7 p.m., in the auditorium of the Student Center Building on the campus of Allegany Community College in Cumberland concerning the Hospital Capacity Plan. James R. Stanton, state health planning administrator, and his staff will be on hand to conduct this public hearing and to answer concerns of the general public.

Kathryn D. Cannan and Fred V. Tola, staff coordinators, completed the Orientation of Governing Body members with a brief history of health planning in Maryland and Western Maryland, and a review of the purpose and many uses of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland.

Cuppett announced that the next Governing Body meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 20, 1 p.m., at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown.

Those members present representing Garrett County besides Cuppett were Lawrence M. Beck, Carolyn J. Ganoe, John S. Parker, and M. Virginia Rosenbaum.

AN OLD FASHIONED BARN RAISING, which followed the pioneer tradition of helping those in need, took place this past Saturday at the Russell and Dorothy Teets farm on Rock Lodge Road. A tragic fire leveled the two-story, 52-by-80 foot barn on August 21, which just happened to be Mr. Teets' birthday, destroying 6,000 bales of hay, 2,000 bales of straw, and some machinery. As usually happens in a rural community, friends and neighbors jumped in to help. Some offered hay or shelter for the cattle, others helped in the clean-up operation, and the labor to build a new barn was donated by the Mennonite Disaster Service. Mrs. Teets said that the support these folks gave them was wonderful. "You really can't imagine what a help it is till you go through it." She went on to say how lucky they were to lose only the barn; that none of the cattle was lost and no one was hurt. "If it wouldn't have been for the wonderful fire companies," Mrs. Teets said, "the house and sheds would have been gone too." On Friday, some members of the Mennonite Disaster Service, along with family, friends and neighbors, gathered to dig holes and put up the poles so that the work could begin on the 50-by-96 foot barn the next morning. Early on Saturday, 40 to 50 men began the construction. Working along with the Mennonite Disaster Service were members of the Pleasant Valley Amish Church, who are very active in the local community at a time like this. A noon meal for all was provided by the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church women. On other occasions when work was going on at the farm, help at meal time was given to Mrs. Teets by the LCW of the Bittinger Lutheran Church. The Mennonite Disaster Service is a grass-roots organization established in 1950 to help in times of great disasters such as floods, earthquakes, and storms. The service is divided into five regions across the United States, and local units take over to help with clean up and reconstruction in their area. Other times, workers from all over the United States volunteer their time to help with major disasters, such as the recent earthquake in Mexico. The service does have funds available for long-distance travel, but the work is all volunteer, no one is paid, and the workers provide their own tools. In the Garrett County area, the local coordinator is Edward Miller, who called Mr. Teets the day after the barn burned and offered their help. It's interesting to note that the United States government recognizes only three organizations capable of going into a closed-off area after a major disaster. They are the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, and the Mennonite Disaster Service. By Saturday evening, three-fourths of the roof and the outside of the barn were completed. Relatives of the family who live in Baltimore told them how lucky they were to live in such a caring community, but for all those service-minded people who helped, the barn raising was all in a day's work.

Survey Says Md. Residents Favor Seat Belt Law

Marylanders are not only acknowledging a need for a mandatory safety belt use law, but are supporting it as well. The results of a recent poll by Hollander, Cohen Associates, Inc., suggests that over 81.2% of those surveyed believe that safety belts help save lives and decrease the number of serious injuries. The Maryland survey indicated that 73.6% are in favor of a mandatory safety belt use law.

AAA Maryland and AAA Potomac surveys have also indicated support for a mandatory safety belt law. The early results from the AAA Maryland poll indicate that 74.5% are in favor of a mandatory safety belt law, an 11% increase from last year. Similarly, AAA Potomac, which includes Montgomery and Prince Georges County, learned that 66.5% of its membership favor mandatory safety belt legislation.

Hermann K. Intemann, spokesman for the Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use, Inc., and former state secretary of transportation, credits the increase in public support to the life-saving statistics available from the first three states, which have mandatory safety belt use laws in effect. To date, 17 states have adopted mandatory safety belt use laws. Intemann noted, "The results from other states, along with the efforts of our Committee, and other organizations throughout the State, have increased the awareness of Marylanders of the need to buckle up."

According to Intemann, of the 387 automobile fatalities on Maryland highways in the first nine months of this year, 214 people might have survived had they worn their safety belt.

Rev. Friend To Lead Service At Open Door Chapel

Reverend Benjamin Friend, Zionsville, Ind., will be the guest minister at the Sang Run Open Door Chapel this Sunday, November 3, at 1 p.m.

Reverend Friend is of the American Baptist faith and is presently serving as the resident chaplain of the Central State Hospital, Indianapolis, and as part time chaplain at the Hoosier Village Retirement Center, same city.

He is a graduate of Franklin College, Ind., and holds two master degrees from the Christian Theological Seminary of Indianapolis. He is also the chaplain and a trustee for the Friend Family Association of America.

Reverend Friend traces his ancestoral heritage to Sang Run, the birthplace of his great-grandfather, Samuel Ward Friend, who was the son of John Friend Jr., first to settle permanently in Sang Run, who was son of John Friend Sr., first to settle in Garrett County.

Friend said he is "delighted for the opportunity to preach in the Sang Run Open Door Chapel which his ancestors help build on a site deeded from a part of his ancestoral home, "Friend's Delight." The church house was first built in 1853 and served as the school and church until 1883. In that year a new church house was built which served as the Methodist Episcopal Church until 1964 when, because of a declining congregation, it was abandoned. At that time the remaining congregation took over the church house and, as a non-denominational church, renamed it as the Open Door Chapel.

Reverend Friend will be accompanied by his wife, LaVera, his son and daughter-in-law, Timothy and Paulette and their three grandchildren, Jeffiner, Gregg and Erick.

Pyle-Mills Nuptials Recited In July Ceremony In Swanton

Rogetta Laine Pyle and David Wayne Mills were united in marriage on Saturday, July 20, at 2 p.m. at Mt. Zion United Methodist Church in Swanton with the Rev. Hal Rotruck officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Peggy and Richard Tasker, Walnut Bottom. The groom is the son of Mrs. Mae V. Mills, Clear Spring, and the late Bruce James Mills.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She chose a gown of organza with an open neckline trimmed with Chantilly lace, sequins and pearls. The gown was accented with a fitted bodice and Basque waistline. The short, double sleeves were trimmed in a Chantilly lace motif with a lace flounce. The three-tier shirt, with lace borders of Chantilly lace, extended to the chapel train.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of silk flowers consisting of pink rosebuds, white azaleas, pink wedding stars and frocked gypsophila. The bouquet was trimmed with pink and white ribbons. All the wedding party's bouquets and flowers were created by the bride's mother and Barbara McKenney.

Reva D. Wilt, Kitzmiller, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. while DeAnn M. Skiles, Oakland, and Teresa L. Matthews, Kitzmiller, served as bridesmaids. Lora Abe, Ridgeley, W. Va., served as her cousin's flower girl.

The bride's attendants were all attired in gowns of pink taffeta with a sweetheart neckline. They carried bouquets of pink azaleas, white daisies and white wedding stars with frocked gypsophila. They also wore white pearls, gifts of the bride.

Serving as best man was Van Daley, Greencastle, Pa., friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Al Atkins, Hagerstown, friend of the groom, and Rick Tasker, Walnut Bottom, brother of the bride.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo while the bride's father and the groomsmen wore silver tuxedos.

Pianist for the service was Kathy Rotruck. Soloist was Wilma Shueman, Kingsville, cousin of the bride who sang, "You Light Up My Life", "Sunrise, Sunset" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Eileen Lancaster, Akron, Ohio, cousin of the bride, attended the guest book and distributed the rice packets.

An outdoor reception at the bride's parents' home followed the ceremony. The three-tier wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Helen Harvey, Kitzmiller, was served by Alverda Lancaster, Akron, Ohio, aunt of the bride, and Barbara Bowers, Hancock, sister of the groom.

Following a delayed honeymoon in Clarksburg, W. Va., the couple set up residence in Londontowne, Hagerstown.

The bride is a 1983 graduate of Southern High School and a 1985 graduate of Hagerstown Business College. She is currently employed at Frederick Memorial Hospital as a medical secretary.

The groom formerly served in the U.S. Marine Corps and is now employed by Ronco Mechanical Corporation, Clinton, as a plumber.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK was observed by the students of Grantsville School recently with a presentation by two members of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department, Eugene Broadwater and Millard Schrock. The mission of the fire fighters was to point out possible fire hazards around the school and in the home, plus fire prevention and safety in general. Activities included: techniques for getting out of a burning building, such as crawling under the smoke and feeling closed doors for heat; demonstration and discussion of the smoke alarm; demonstration and discussion of fire fighting equipment; a film strip and cassette program on fire safety; and a general question/answer session. Above left, Eric Bittinger, from Mrs. Friend's kindergarten class, models a fireman's helmet, while at right, Broadwater and Schrock explain and demonstrate a fire fighter's protective gear.

Hutchinson To Run For U.S. Senate Seat

Baltimore County Executive Donald P. Hutchinson has announced his intention to run for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Senator Charles "Mac" Mathias. Hutchinson announced his candidacy to the gathering of more than 200 in the Ceremonial Court Room in the Towson Court House on October 1.

Hutchinson, a native of the eastern Baltimore County community of Essex, said his decision to run for the Senate is a culmination of a career in public service that began 18 years ago, and includes 10 years in the State Legislature as a Delegate and a Senator, and seven years as county executive of one of the county's largest subdivisions.

Hutchinson began his career in public service within weeks of his graduation from Frostburg State College in 1967. In 1969, he was appointed to the Maryland House of Delegates to fill the vacancy created by the death of his father. Following re-election to a full term in the House, he successfully ran for the State Senate where he served from 1975 to 1978. In 1978, Hutchinson successfully emerged from a field of seven candidates to become the youngest man ever elected Baltimore County Executive.

Hutchinson is recognized for his role in bringing about closer cooperation between Baltimore County and its neighboring subdivisions, including Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Harford, Howard and Carroll Counties.

As County Executive, Hutchinson is credited with improvements in the education system and with creating effective programs to assist the disabled, the elderly and the unemployed. He is also recognized for his growth management policies and for maintaining a high level of public services in the county. The Baltimore County Police and Fire Departments are nationally recognized for their excellence and professionalism.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of my wife, Mary Hershberger, who died tragically one year ago on November 3rd.

The sunset years that we planned for and worked, that they might be Spent leisurely together in sweet security,
Are here, but their sunset's glory has faded now and gone
For me, dear life's companion,
Since the day that you passed on.

Your loving husband,

Barnes Announces Candidacy For U.S. Senate Seat

Maryland Congressman Mike Barnes, the fourth term Democratic representative of the Eighth District, has announced he will seek the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

Barnes said his announcement "marks the beginning of an all-out, aggressive, vigorous, positive statewide campaign so that Marylanders in every county and community will know Mike Barnes and my progressive record." In 1984, Barnes, 42, received the largest number of votes ever cast (181,947) for a U.S. House candidate in any congressional district in the history of the state of Maryland.

He enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in 1967. In 1975, he left his law practice to accept an appointment to the Maryland Public Service Commission in Baltimore, where he served for three years. The Maryland Young Democrats named Barnes the "Outstanding State Official of 1977" for his work on the Commission. He was elected to the Congress in 1978.

Barnes is a member of the Budget Committee and the Foreign Affairs Committee, on which he chairs the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs. He also has served as Assistant Majority Whip, and he chairs the Federal Government Service Task Force, the congressional caucus "watch dog" of federal employee and retiree interests.

"If the people of Maryland give me the privilege of representing them in the United States Senate," Barnes said, "I will need no on-the-job training. I know Maryland. I know the Congress. I am ready to devote all of my energies as an advocate for Maryland from my first day in the Senate."

EAST MAIN STREET, KITZMILLER is now a thing of the past since the raging flood waters of the North Branch of the Potomac River swept it away late Monday night and early Tuesday morning. All the angry river left in its path was debris. It took with it huge sections of the street in Kitzmiller and the Shallmar Road and foundations from homes in that area. Locally, Kitzmiller and Shallmar were the hardest hit during the flood, but neighboring West Virginia communities experienced much more destruction and devastation as entire homes, schools and businesses were swept away with the swollen waters. Power has been restored throughout the county and the task of cleaning up and rebuilding is now in full swing. Several organizations have begun drives for flood victims in the county and in West Virginia.

Kitzmiller, Shallmar Suffer Most As Devastating Floods Hit County

Devastation was the only word that came to the minds of many as the clean-up efforts began in the Kitzmiller-Shallmar area Tuesday morning on the wake of the ravaging flood from the North Branch of the Potomac River which ripped through those small towns late Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

Kitzmiller officials estimated that the river wending its way through the heart of that town was still travelling at about 50 miles per hour at about 10 a.m. Tuesday and that it was probably travelling twice that fast in the middle of the night as it wreaked a path of destruction, tearing down flood walls, hurling large drain pipes, eliminating miles of road, ripping down power lines and shaking the foundations of many homes.

While most areas of the county received approximately four to six inches of rainfall from Saturday to Monday, unconfirmed amounts of up to eight inches were reported in some areas of the county, especially the Kitzmiller-Shallmar area.

Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management, said that while there was much flooding throughout the county, Kitzmiller and Shallmar definitely "took the brunt of the raging water."

One life was lost during the storm in Garrett County when a diesel unit pulling a coal train fell over a bank in the Spring Lick area into the flood-swollen Savage River. David S. Ake Jr., Cumberland, drowned as a result of being trapped in the sunken diesel unit.(See separate story.)

Aside from the one fatality that occurred in the county, this morning's death toll in Maryland and West Virginia stands at 17. Rescuers are still searching this morning for missing persons in the heavily flooded West Virginia areas.

Extensive W.Va. Destruction

Neighboring West Virginia towns did not fare quite as well as Garrett County, as Rowlesburg police estimated that nearly 60 homes were destroyed by flooding of the Cheat River in that region.

Early Tuesday evening, the flood waters had destroyed the Route 51-Route 9 bridge at Paw Paw by the strong force of the water. The collapse of the bridge left the small town with only one exit, Route 19 to Route 127. Many residents had to be evacuated.

Numerous homes and businesses were also destroyed in Albright, Romney, Petersburg and Moorefield. Reportedly, residents who had been evacuated were surprised to see those homes and trailers floating down the river.

Rescues and Evacuations

Frantz said nearly 60 persons were evacuated from flood-damaged areas around the county Monday and Tuesday, noting that many of those persons had to be rescued.

Residents in Shallmar who admitted that they didn't feel it would be necessary to leave their homes on Monday afternoon after being warned by Garrett County Emergency Management suddenly found themselves stranded. By early evening, resident Bill Ferry said he and a few other men convinced the other residents to escape up the steep hill located behind their homes. He said it took them nearly three hours to get to North Hill and then to safety.

Frantz, along with Phil Rook and Randy Shaffer, also dispatchers for Emergency Management; Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy P.J. Pratt; Danny Swartzentruber, Mark Proulx and Criss Browning, all from Southern Rescue Squad, responded to a call from a man from Shallmar who said he couldn't get his three young children out.

In the meantime, Deer Park firemen had made it to North Hill with ropes, lights and stretchers to aid in the rescue.

When the volunteer rescuers arrived, they, according to Frantz, "walked, slid and fell down the 400 foot incline to help carry babies and sick elderly people up the steep grade."

Frantz added that two elderly heart patients who had somehow made it up the hill refused treatment after the rescue. "They're tough people," he added.

According to the Emergency Management director, over 50 calls were logged Monday night in reference to the flood. "I couldn't begin to tell you how many additional calls we received in regard to the flood," he said.

He said the nature of most of the calls dealt with flooded basements which kept every fire company in the county busy throughout the night.

Most of the people evacuated during the worst of the flooding were back in their homes by Wednesday morning dealing with the task of cleaning up mud and drying out their belongings. That task became nearly impossible, though, due to the additional rainfall received yesterday.

Several residents in the Crellin area were also forced to evacuate because of flooding of the Youghiogheny River in that town. As one resident of Crellin put it, "It was no surprise to us. We can count on this happening a few times a year. We leave our houses and then come back to clean up the mess the next day."

The Youghiogheny River also wreaked havoc in a small portion of Friendsville.

Dr. Donald Pepper, owner of Sport Sabre, sustained $10,000 in damages at his business located on the river. The swelling waters not only swept away a half dozen of his kayaks but also flooded the lower level of his establishment ruining other equipment and valuable business papers. The building also sustained structural damage.

Another Friendsville resident, Phil Coleman, said he and a few of his friends had gone to the Albright area earlier in the day to kayak some of the smaller streams. "We had no idea of the scope of the damage over there," he said. "Half of the town was wiped out and as it turned out we spent the morning rescuing other kayakers and stranded people."

Coleman said the Youghiogheny River water speed was measured at 11,000 cubic feet per second earlier in the day, and that it had been estimated that the North Branch had been measured at nearly 80,000 cubic feet per second.

Roads Damaged

Additional heavily flooded areas in Garrett County included Crellin, Underwood, Pleasant Valley, Swanton, Bloomington, Sang Run, Friendsville and Grantsville, closing as many as 35 roads on Tuesday, according to Paul Shockey, Garrett County Roads administrator.

Shockey said that a total assessment of road damages has not been completed but if he had to estimate he would roughly guess $250,000 to $300,000 in road damages alone. He also agreed with Frantz saying that most of the damage occurred in the Kitzmiller-Shallmar area.

He said he plans to have road crews work from daylight to dark the remainder of the week clearing drainage ditches, grading and repairing culverts. "If we are unable to complete the operations by Friday night, then we'll plan to work this weekend also," he stated.

The roads administrator said his crews would begin work Monday on the Shallmar Road to provide residents there with an unimproved surface until

225 Laid Off At Mettiki Mines

Approximately 225 workers have been laid off at Mettiki Coal Corporation as a result of the severe flooding in Garrett County and surrounding West Virginia.

Word from the corporation's personnel director, Thomas A. Gearhart, is: "Effective November 11, Mettiki Coal Corporation will temporarily cease operation. We are unable to ship any coal for export due to track damage caused by flooding. In addition, Albright Power Station has sustained extensive damage, causing all shipments to be canceled until further notice."

It has been reported that 1,200 feet of railroad track between Garrett County and the port of Baltimore has been destroyed by flood waters, and since a large percentage of Mettiki's coal is shipped to Baltimore, officials have elected to shut down the mines until railroad track can be repaired and the transportation of coal can resume.

The Albright Power Station in nearby Preston County, W.Va., is temporarily inoperable due to conditions left by the flooding in that town, and two major generators at the power plant are now down, and out of operation. Albright is a major buyer of Mettiki coal, and thousands of tons of steamed coal are purchased by the power station each month.

Of the 225 workers affected by the layoff, the shutdown includes those working on the new long-wall operation at the mines.

Reports indicate Mettiki will continue medical benefits to those now laid off. Those affected by the layoff should be eligible for unemployment insurance.

The replacement of the tracks is expected to take no less than three weeks. At the present time, some portions of the destroyed track cannot be reached because of the continuing high water and wreckage caused by the flood.

McCoole Man Arrested, Held In Local Jail

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department arrested a McCoole man on Monday when he turned himself in.

Russel P. Hoopengarner, 22, was charged with first degree rape, child abuse, and battery, and is being held in the Garrett County Jail.

Detective D.W. Tucker reported that the charges stemmed from an incident which occurred near Kitzmiller last month.

The department reported a theft which occurred sometime between Saturday and Monday near Gorman.

According to Tucker, a CB radio was removed from a vehicle which was parked at the residence of Glenville A. Moreland.

The radio was valued at $150.

Reuben Niner, Friendsville, reported a destruction of property incident on the Bear Creek Road, Friendsville.

According to reports, Niner's mailbox was damaged with a round object.

Parents Concerned, Dissatsfied With Board Proposals

Parents expressed concerns and dissatisfaction with the proposals presented by the Garrett County Board of Education for the re-districting of schools at the public meeting held Tuesday night at Garrett Community College.

Approximately 40 people were present to discuss the proposals with members of the board. However, because Michael Sines, county supervisor of transportation, was not present at the meeting, several parents were angered because their questions could not be answered completely.

Dr. Ryscavage, county superintendent of schools, said a second meeting will be scheduled between now and the December board meeting, with Sines in attendance to answer questions.

Some concerns expressed by parents were for safety of bus turn-arounds if routes were changed, and for quality education for their children. There was some discussion about open class rooms versus closed, and several parents of Yoder School children questioned the board

Correction Noted

Due to a mistake on reports filed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, it was falsely reported last week that both James David Parrish, 48, and Jerry Ralph Parrish, 41, were jailed after being arrested for driving while intoxicated.

In fact, only Jerry Parrish was arrested, while James Parrish was simply the owner of the vehicle.

We regret the error, and any inconvenience it may have caused.

One Flood-Related Fatality Occurs As Result Of Train Derailment

One fatality occurred in the county as a result of the flood early this week. Davis S. Ake, 36, Cumberland was killed Monday night when a diesel unit of a coal train in which he was riding fell over a bank and into the flood-swollen Savage River near Bloomington.

Milt Dolinger, a spokesman for the Chessie System, said the accident occurred about 8:30 p.m. Monday, one mile west of Stricker. State Police said Ake's body was not recovered until 11 a.m. Tuesday. The body was found in the locomotive by members of the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department.

Dolinger said Ake was in one of the four diesel units pulling a coal train of 135 empty hopper cars westbound from Cumberland to Grafton, W. Va.

The rainfall of the previous few days had caused a mudslide and washout and after the four diesel units had passed, the tracks gave way, causing the second and third units to fall over the bank and into the flood waters.

Ake, a fireman, was trapped in the third unit and drowned, according to Dolinger. The head engineer was identified as Gary Durst, Cumberland.

It was reported that 17 cars derailed but did not fall over the bank.

Chessie officials said repairs had begun on the tracks in the Spring Lick-Savage River area, but could not confirm when they would reopen.

Another Chessie spokesman said Monday's washout was just one of many that had occurred in the region.

Due to the steepness and flooding of the wreckage area, emergency crews reportedly had a difficult time reaching the scene. Bulldozers were dispatched to assist in the rescue efforts. It was reported that at least one firetruck was stranded in the mud.

Firemen from Bittinger, Southern Rescue Squad and Tri-Towns Rescue Squad were also dispatched to the scene.

Ake had been employed by the Chessie System since February of 1980.

The deceased was born August 19, 1949 in Marion, N.C. He was a son of David S. Ake Sr., Hillsdale, Pa., and Mrs. Virginia (Daniel) Scaglione, Dundalk. He was reared in Dundalk.

He was an engineer/fireman for the Chessie System; a U.S. Army veteran of the Vietnam War; a graduate of Dundalk Community College and Coppin State College, Baltimore, with a degree in secondary education. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Lisa (Sheally) Ake; a son, David Alexander Ake, at home; a stepdaughter, Lauren Beth Storer, at home; and his stepfather, Steve Scaglione, Dundalk.

Friends will be received at the Scarpelli Funeral Home tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. where a service will be conducted Friday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Stanley Weese officiating. Interment will be in Rest Lawn Memorial Gardens.

Pleasant Valley Man Loses Hand

A Pleasant Valley man was transported to the West Virginia University Medical Center in Morgantown Monday after severing his left hand in an industrial accident.

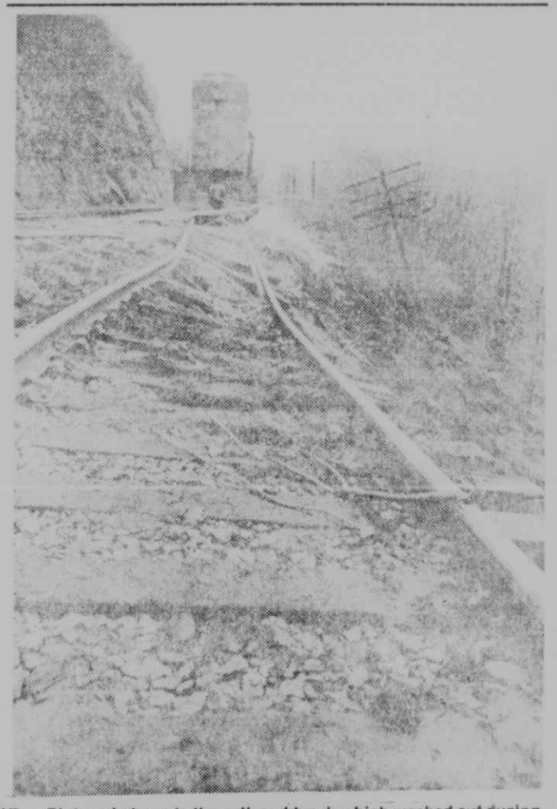
Joseph R. Kauffman, Paul Friend Road, was reportedly using a radial arm saw when the accident occurred. His hand was almost completely amputated, according to informed sources.

Kauffman was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad, and then transferred to the WVU Medical Center, where he reportedly underwent over 11 hours of surgery.

According to one spokesman, the physicians are confident that the hand will survive and are hopeful it will also be functional again.

Kauffman, reportedly in his late 20s, is the father of five children. A member of the family could not be reached this morning for further information.

Drives To Aid Flood Victims Now Underway



Drives for aiding flood victims have begun in Garrett County and neighboring West Virginia.

Bottled water, baby food, bedding supplies, food and cash donations are being accepted at Bayard, Gorman, Aurora and Mt. Grove fire departments. Gregg's Pharmacy in Terra Alta, W. Va. is also accepting donations.

The Red Cross has also set up a donation center at Southern Rescue Squad hall on Oak Street in Oakland. Those who are unable to get their donations to the squad hall are asked to contact Brad Stewart at 334-2166 and donations will be picked up.

Brad Frantz, Garrett County Emergency Management director, said this morning that the Pennsylvania Red Cross Chapter is expected in Kitzmiller today to determine their needs.

Frantz also said his office loaned emergency radio equipment to Davis, W. Va. emergency management officials yesterday. Many West Virginia towns are still without power, putting hardships on communications in that state. Some telephone service is still interrupted in that state also.

Town Parks Are Discussed By Accident Council

The Phase II development of the Accident town parks was discussed by Mayor Wayne Fratz and Councilmen Hobert Bowser, Richard Carlson, and Charles Strauss at the town's monthly meeting on November 4.

During both the October and November monthly meetings, the town council devoted a large portion of the meeting time toward working on an application to the state for Phase II development of the town parks. The application will request 75 percent funding from the state's Program Open Space.

At Monday night's meeting, Larry Brenneman, Tom Sines, and John Bray met with the council to discuss plans to further develop the Central Garrett Little League field on the old Accident Elementary School playground.

Extensive work has already been donated to prepare the playing field. The town will apply for Program Open Space funding to help finance the backstop, dugouts, and restroom facilities necessary to complete the development.

Other major projects at the planning stage to be included in Phase II parkland development will be enclosure of the picnic pavilion and installation of additional playground equipment.

Bicycle Safety

As a followup to the Bicycle Safety Program sponsored by the town this past summer, Trooper David Broadwater of the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment, has provided a supply of "A Safety Handbook for Bicycle and Moped Owners." Anyone wishing a copy of this booklet should contact the town clerk, Marjorie Fratz, at 826-8149.

Motor Vehicle Administration Site

A letter from the town of Accident was written to the Motor Vehicle Administration in Glen Burnie in October expressing the town's endorsement for the new full-service branch office at a Frostburg site. A letter was received from Senator John Bambacus informing the mayor and council members of his support of the selection of a site in Frostburg for the new MVA office complex.

A response was also received from Marshall Rickert, administrator of MVA, dated October 30 stating his office was currently focusing their search efforts in the LaVale area hoping to find a location close to the center of population and convenient to motorists from Garrett County. Mr. Rickert went on to say that he anticipated a final selection would be made in the next few weeks and he would review the proposed location with elected officials in Garrett and Allegany Counties.

Zoning Ordinance

A public hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. on December 2 at the Accident Town Hall. The purpose of the hearing is to present proposed changes to the town's zoning ordinance. The changes to the table of use regulations were recommended by the Accident Municipal Planning Commission.

Oakland Council Hears Review Of Sewer System

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council heard a report from Morgan France, engineer for the Oakland Treatment Plant, at their Monday night meeting.

France reviewed the design for the proposed sewage facility, and reported that the plans and specifications for the collector system and the treatment plant are ready to send to the state for review. Under the court order the town of Oakland is working under, December 9 is the deadline for sending those plans to the state. France said that the plans could have been sent to the state sooner, but he has experienced difficulty getting cost figures from suppliers.

He explained that the council must wait until after the state reviews the plans and gives the results of their findings before they can advertise the project for bid. He would like to see it advertised for bid by the end of January. He said that at times it takes the state six months to approve plans, therefore, it is important for the town to apply enough pressure to keep the state working on the review.

The town is required to advertise for bids for a period of 30 days. The bids accepted must be sent to the state to see if they are in line with funding. The state will then issue a letter to the town giving them the authority to award contracts for the bids.

"If we can stick to schedule, we'll have no trouble completing the project in the alloted time," said France.

Also present at the town council meeting were George Keller and John Milnor of the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. They discussed with the councilmen the possibility of adding Mitchell Manor to the town's sewage system. The council will meet with the Garrett County Commissioners in the near future to discuss this issue.

Garrett County Vacation Guide Being Compiled

Information and advertising are currently being compiled by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for the 1986-87 Garrett County Vacation Guide.

The Vacation Guide offers information on accommodations, restaurants, general services and businesses, historical sites, events and attractions. Seventy-five thousand 1985-86 guides were printed, and that supply is nearly exhausted, according to Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Promotion Council. The guide will again be printed in the 8½"x11" format.

"The Vacation Guides are distributed through the nine Maryland State Information Centers, travel shows, various magazine and newspaper ads, businesses and to the thousands of people who write or telephone the Promotion Council requesting information about Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County," Mrs. Wolfe said.

Any Garrett County business interested in advertising in the Guide or anyone wishing to list an event or historical site should contact the Promotion Council at 334-3888 no later than Monday, December 2.

Southern Band Finishes Third In Championships

The competitive marching season of the Southern Garrett Band of Southern High School came to a close Saturday afternoon at the Western Pennsylvania Marching Championships, held at Baldwin, Pa. The band placed third in the Class A division, however won Best Silks, Best Rifles, and Best Percussion.

The competition was halted at the conclusion of the preliminary round because of inclement weather and the preliminary scores were used to determine final placings. Members of several bands, as well as many spectators, were reportedly disappointed that the finals were not rescheduled, stating that the results would probably have been quite different if the final round was held.

According to one Southern Band Booster, the members of the band decided on the way home that they would give their performance one more time, regardless of the torrential rainfall, for the benefit of the senior members of the band. So, in the parking lot of a Bonanza steak house, the band performed its entire show.

The final public field show of the season will be this Friday evening during halftime of the Southern-Northern football game at Northern.

"Although there were only 44 pints of blood given of the 75 we hoped to receive, we were very pleased to have 19 first-time donors at the Johnstown Unit of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile visit at Garrett Community College on Monday," said Lucy Burnett, a registered nurse who helped coordinate the bloodmobile.

Student Government Association President Kim Martin was responsible for obtaining student volunteers for the bloodmobile visit. They include: Melissa Ann Johnson, Kim Bevan, Matt Moore, Rita Jackson, Lillie Jeffries, Lisa Roberts, Amy Tate and Jackie Sarra.

Medical technicians who assisted were Beth Friend, Deanna Parsons and Mary May Herring.

Nurses serving that day were Wilma Minor, Dot Rudy and Lucy Burnett.

Orange juice and doughnuts were supplied by the college.

Women who hold a four-year college degree and are interested in learning more about AAUW or becoming a member of the local chapter are welcome to attend the meeting on November 12, according to Mrs. Joanne Rebele, president.

National Hospice Month Designated For November

November, 1985, has been designated National Hospice Month by the Congress of the United States. Hospice provides support and care for people in the final phase of any incurable disease so they may live as fully and comfortable as possible.

Hospice serves patients with any incurable disease and also aids the family by the use of volunteers trained in listening skills, communication skills, physical therapy, home care skills, in-hospital skills, what happens at the funeral home and grief counseling.

According to Wayne Johnson, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, the family is not abandoned or forgotten by Hospice after the loss of a loved one. there continues to be contact if necessary for as long as two years to help the family with the grief process, he said.

"Hospice: A Special Kind of Caring" is the theme for National Hospice Month and, according to the National Hospice Organization, cities and towns across the country will be commemorating this special month with a variety of activities. Hospice of Garrett County will be recognizing the event by a series of articles, information circulation and by programs presented to various service organizations. "Hospice would be glad to present a program to requesting groups who may call 334-8111 or 895-3111, extension 46," Johnson said.

"Hospice care has proven to be an excellent way for patients and their families to cope with the stress of a terminal illness," he continued. Hospice of Garrett County served 33 patients and over 100 family members during 1984-85 fiscal year. This non-profit group depends on memorials, donations and fundraisers for its financial existence. "All contributions are greatly appreciated and are tax deductible," Johnson concluded.

Kitzmiller Woman Treated, Released Following Mishap

A Kitzmiller woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a single vehicle accident late Saturday afternoon on Route 38.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Sandra K. Guy, 38, was traveling north in a 1986 Renault Encore when the vehicle began to skid on the wet pavement while rounding a right curve. Police said Guy lost control of the vehicle, causing it to strike an embankment.

The mishap was investigated by Tfc. C.R. Smith.

An accident occurred October 28 in a yard adjacent to the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

According to the police, Judy Reams, 16, Oakland, was operating a 1983 Honda 200M when she applied the front brake, causing the vehicle to flip over.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the incident, and reported that Reams sustained a minor sprain to the right hand and foot.

A single vehicle accident occurred Friday evening on Route 39.

Police said Gary W. Wilson, Aurora, was driving a 1976 Ford Mustang when he lost control of the vehicle when going into a turn, causing it to cross the center line and overturn.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated the incident, charging Wilson with crossing the center line.

Halloween Parade

Chief John K. Sines of the Oakland City Police Department reported that the annual Halloween parade held in downtown Oakland was termed a success by the Mayor and Town Council.

Sines said that due to the inclement weather only 500 treats were given this year. "We had 700 to distribute, so several council members took the leftovers to the local nursing homes for the patients," he said.

The chief of police also said he was very pleased with the small number of pranks played on Halloween this year. There were no reports of tainted or unsafe treats given this year in any areas of the county.

FLOOD DRAIN? Pictured above is a large flood drain hurled into the yard of a Shalimar resident by the raging flood waters of the North Branch of the Potomac River. The drain pipe sections cost the county $6,000 a piece when they were recently installed to curb flooding in the area. Unfortunately, nothing could stop the North Branch on Monday night. The morbid scene, pictured below, left, revealed the devastation the swollen waters produced. The life jacket wrapped around the tree belonged to Bill Ferry, a resident of Shalimar. Ferry said his boat remained intact but outbuildings in his yard were tossed about like feathers by the fast water. He and his wife were responsible for aiding in the evacuation and rescue of many Shalimar residents. Pictured below, right, is a Kitzmiller resident inspecting a gas valve for damage. He stands on shaky ground; the sidewalk that once lined Main Street, now torn away by the wild river water.

Former Oakland Car Dealership Fined $1,500

Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs announced last week that Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Frederick A. Thayer has signed a Consent Order in which a Garrett County car dealership has agreed to pay $1,500 in fines and costs in a case involving the sale of a structurally defective used car that later broke in half while the buyer was driving it.

Ralph Pritts and Sons, Inc. and Christopher Karl David Pritts, the seller of the car, signed the Consent Order in which they admitted that the structural defect in the vehicle was disguised by tin-plating and undercoating before it was sold for $900.00 to Michael and Connie Madigan, a Deer Park couple, in December, 1983.

When Msdigan later drove the car to Ohio, he noticed that it "seemed to wobble and when Mr. Madigan applied the brakes, the rear end of the car separated from the front end," according to the Consent Order, which also was signed by Assistant Attorneys General William Leibovici and Carolyn J. Rodis of the Consumer Protection Division.

After the State notified the dealership it would file suit in July, 1984, Ralph Pritt & Sons paid $900 in restitution to the consumers. Under today's Order, the dealership has agreed to pay another $500 in civil fines to the State plus $1,000 to the Consumer Protection Division to cover the costs of its investigation.

The Attorney General sued the dealership and Christopher Karl David Pritts in August, 1984 alleging that they violated Maryland's Consumer Protection Act by covering up the serious defect in the car, by saying it had passed the State's inspection procedure even though they knew it was unsafe, and by failing to disclose the known defects to the buyers.

Although the Pritts dealership is no longer in operation, the Defendants promised to inspect all cars they may later offer for sale to determine if the vehicles are safe and will undertake no steps to prevent State inspectors or consumers from discovering defects in a car. They also agree to disclose in advance and make available all repair orders they may have for any vehicles they may sell to consumers in the future.

Home Taping Bill Introduced By Senator Mathias

Citing the harmful effects of unauthorized home taping on the American music industry, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced legislation that would compensate the owners of copyrights in recorded music and, at the same time, legalize taping of copyrighted music at home.

This proposal differs from Mathias-sponsored home taping bills in the 97th and 98th Congresses because it applies solely to audio tapes, and not video tapes.
